His Pigs Go to War

Farm Youth of U. S. Looks to Tomorrow

TOMORROW'S farmers and farm homemakers are second to no school group in their enthusiasm for investing in War Bonds and Stamps to make sure their future is secure. Through the Schools At War program they are investing what they save and earn in War Stamps and Bonds.

First evidence of this is the amount the 4-H Club boys and girls and the FFA boys invested in war savings in 1942 from "Victory Pig" and other projects. A million and a half 4-H Club members put $6,000,000 of their own savings in War Bonds and Stamps and sold $2,500,000 worth of War Savings to their neighbors. Nearly a quarter million members of Future Farmers of America invested more than $1,500,000.

Spurred by the realization that the financial welfare of farm families the next 20 years depends on how wisely they use today's higher incomes from increased food and other wartime production, both groups have set their goals still higher for 1943.

These farm youths are building financial reserves, and urging their parents to do the same, for after-the-war necessities, to meet financial emergencies and to help them get started in college.

They're building reserves today for tomorrow's farm buildings and for the other things they will need when they're tomorrow's farmers and homemakers.

ANOTHER SOLDIER WRITES HIS MOTHER

Feb. 24, 1943

Dear Mother:

Have received a couple letters from you in the last two days, so will answer right away while I have a little time. Had last night off, half of us get every other night off and it sure is a relief. Was quite tiresome working every night until around or after midnight. You should be here and really see something if you wanted to see a lot of snow.

I am getting along a lot better in my bowling and still am playing a lot of basket ball, probably will be playing the year around. You know what a guy I am for that game. Some of the boys are learning fast but I still classify them as rookies. Glad you received my pillow top, will try to send you various items for souvenirs. Things like that are hard to get where we are so just have to wait until another shipment comes.

Received a letter from Richard Freeburn the other day. It took almost a month for it to get here. Guess most of my buddies are now in some branch of the service. The months are going by fast here and it won't be many months before I will be coming back to the States. There are two or three ahead of me to go, but I can wait awhile longer as I like it very much where I am.

As you probably have noticed on my envelope I have a change of address. Don't worry too much about it or me, I am alright and hope to reach home in one piece. Have gained around 30 or 35 pounds since last year at this time.

This is about all I can think of for this time so will close and say good bye for now. Give my regards to all the folks at home. Will write again soon. Your loving son,

Burl Rude, U. S. Navy, U. S. Naval Oper. Base., Argentia, Nfld., % Fleet Post Office, New York, N. Y.

Americans Everywhere Prepare for Lent

That religion is a source of comfort to millions of American men and boys in the armed services of their country is proven eloquently by minister, priest and rabbi alike. Ever-increasing numbers attend the divine services conducted by chaplains of all faiths. The beginning of the Lenten season, on March 10, will see even more soldiers, sailors and marines turn to Heaven for spiritual guidance. Above: a platoon of marines enters the new chapel at the Parris Island, S. C., marine base. The chapel has a seating capacity of 700 and is used by both Protestant and Catholic faiths.

In behalf of the Loyal Women's Sunday School Class of the Spencerville Lutheran Church, and to all The Mothers who have Sons in The Service, we wish to dedicate this poem.

"To Your Sons"

When you were just a little boy
On many a night we crept,
Unto your cot and watched o'er you
And all the time you slept:
We tucked the covers round your form,
And smoothed your pillow, too.
And sometimes stooped and kissed your cheek
But that you never knew.
Just as we came to you back then,
Through many a night and day
Our spirits now shall come to you
To kiss, and watch, and pray.

Whenever you shall look away,
Into God's patch of sky;
To think about the folks at home,
We shall be standing by.
And as we prayed and watched o'er you
When you were wrapped in sleep,
So through your Soldier danger now,
The old-time watch we'll keep.
You will not know that we are there,
You will not see or hear,
But all the time in prayer and thought,
We shall be very near.

The world has made of you a man:
The work of man you do,
But unto us you still remain,
The Baby that we knew.
And we shall come, as once we did,
On wondrous wings of prayer,
And you will never know how oft
In spirit we are there.
We'll stand beside your bed at night,
In silence bending low,
And all the love we gave you then,
Shall follow where you go.

Oh, we were proud of you back then,
But we are prouder now:
We see the stamp of splendor,
God has placed upon your brow.
And we who are the folks at home,
Shall pray the old-time prayer,
And ask the God of mercy,
To protect you with his care.
And as we came to you of old,
Although you never knew,
The hearts of us each day and night,
Shall come with love to you. Amen.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVIII (58 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, MAR. 11, 1943 NUMBER 10

From Boys IN THE U.S.Army

A change in address: Pvt. Stanley H. Lake, A. R. S.—2 S. G., M. F. A. W. C., Camp Kearney, M. C. A. B., San Diego, California.

A new address: Stu. A-C Claude L. Laub, A. A. F. Detachment 25th Sq., 501 Ockley Drive, Centenery Collegt, Shreveport, Louisiana.

Three more young men from this section of DeKalb County, will leave today for Camp Perry, Ohio. They are Harold V. Nelson and John E. Harter of Newville township and Calvin F. Mansfield, of Concord.

Charles Lee Sharp, a teacher of St. Joe High School last year, received his commission as 2nd. Lieutenant March 3 at Miami Beach, Fla. Charles ranked high in his class of 3169. He was in the upper One Third Rank. He ranks high physically, mentally and morally. He is the son of Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Sharp of Spencerville, Ind.

Mrs. Sharp attended the Commission Service. The address was delivered by a high official in the Armed Forces. His subject was "Character, and Honesty, the basis for true Americanism."

Harry Dale Hurni, deferred for civilian activity; Jas. F. Sechler, St. Joe, Robert E. McCann, Butler, Dewey E. White and Marion A. Harris of St. Joe, found unavailable after examination; Lee Roy Rickerd, St. Joe, Virgil Koch, Spencerville, Desmond W. Yeiser, St. Joe and Paul Carpenter, Ft. Wayne, formerly of St. Joe, past the age of 38.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Draggoo and Mrs. M. Morr and son, Jerry, of South Bend, spent Thursday and Friday at Chanute Field, with James Draggo, who will soon be leaving there as he completes his course and receives his diploma, today, March 11.

Dear Editor:

Well, I thought I should drop you a few lines again. Nothing has really happened here lately that's new. I saw in this week's paper that Merle Epler is in the hospital. Gee, I feel sorry for him, because I know what these army hospitals are. I have had some of my old trouble again. I have very poor eyes and have very bad headaches, well they did everything they could at the Barnes Hospital in Van Couver, Wash., last October, so today they changed medicines. The first thing I received was 40 shots in my right fore arm, to top it off they gave me 16 more in my right shoulder, four hours later 16 more in my left shoulder. All total I had 72 shots today, and I get 32 shots a day for the next three days. If they help me O. K, but if not, I think I'll be a bit disappointed.

Well, how is every one back in St. Joe? I hope they are all in good health. I think I will have a surprise for the home town folks in a short time, can't say anything now for as far as I know it may be a military secret, and again maybe not. Spring is here in Seattle, the grass is green, the trees are in full bud, the flowers in bloom, and really we are having swell weather now in Washington.

Well, I must close for now, it's my bed time (ha, ha.) Can you imagine Bob Burns going to bed at 8:00 o'clock? Well I have for the last four months. I have to be a good boy now for Uncle Sam needs good boys and I'll try to be an A-1 soldier.

Keep them High Flying,
And I mean High.
Your Pal and Everyone's Pal
Bobbie Burns.

Pfc. Charles W. Coburn, No. 35344492, 19th Co., Tng. Gp. A. F. S., Ft. Knox, Ky., U. S. Army.

Paul D. Crothers, U. S. N. A. T. T. C., Barrack 13, Sec. 40, Memphis, Tennessee.

Staff Sergeant Geo. F. Ryan, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ryan, west of town, arrived home Thursday for a 10-day furlough. He is located at Camp George, Lawrenceville, Illinois.

PLEASE BE READY TO MEET THEM

The American Red Cross is making a plea for funds for our sick and disabled soldiers in the hospitals and battle fronts of the world. A cause that cannot be lightly disregarded by anyone. We as citizens of St. Joe cannot afford to let our boys down. Many of whom are either our relatives or friends.

They are fighting to protect you, your homes, your families, to preserve liberty and religious freedom throughout this great land of ours.

The Nationl call is for 125 million dollars. Town of St. Joe quota is $200.00. We are asking you to give liberally as we must raise this amount.

The town is divided into five sections: Mrs. Clifford Billow has the block from 1st to 2nd Street on Washington, also the north part of town; Mrs. Lester Pugsley has Widney Avenue, also from 1st St. to 2nd St. to Jefferson; Derwood Ridgway has from 2nd St. to 3rd St. on Washington, all business houses, all residences on 3rd St.; Mrs. Glen Wineland has all residences from 3rd St. to Spencerville St., also all residences on Fourth St.; and Miss Leila Hurni will have from Spencerville St. the west side of town.

Every individual and business house will be called upon to donate. Folks let's give till it hurts. Let's stand by our boys at the front.

The LIONS CLUB

The Lions Club met at the Akins Tea Room Monday evening for their regular meeting, fifteen members were present.

At the next regular meeting the members, with their coaches, of the St. Joe and Spencerville basketball clubs will be entertained.

Lions Robinson and Sechler gave their report on the rationing program which the Lions Club spohsored, Spencerville put out 809 Ration Cards while St. Joe issued 1190.

The address of the evening was given by Mr. Wilmer Monroe, who spent five years as a Missionary in India. The difference of opinion among the people of India is of a religious nature rather than political. This seems to be the reason for their troubles.

Mahatma Gandhi belongs to the highest cast and yields a mighty influence among the people of India. This country is largely engaged in a very crude agriculture.

Since being controlled by the British Empre, only minor laws effecting the people have been enacted which interferes with their heathen practices, such as mothers offering her baby to appease the gods, by throwing them into the river for the aligators to devour, and other modes of death. Only the ruling empire has the right to take the life of any person for crimes. Thus one can see that these people live pretty much in their original state, and progress has been slow.

Where missionaries have had a chance to teach the Christian religion the Indians have made progress, but since the war has disrupted the world most of the work has been hindered and many missionaries have been compelled to return to America.

Mr. Monroe won the thanks of every Lion for his splendid talk, and all expressed a desire that he return to enjoy the fellowship of the Lions and to again talk on the important news of the day.

Maurice Hollabaugh was responsible for the fish served, having caught more than enough for the meal. He promised to again show the club that he could catch fish and at an early date, be able to give them another fish supper.

The club voted $16 for Red Cross to be divided four ways, to St. Joe and Spencerville and the two township chairmen in equal amounts.

"THE DRAGON"

Once a Warrior,—small but mighty,—
Went out on the field of battle;
Proud was he of his equipment;
How he loved to hear it rattle!
He was seeking for the Dragon;
'Twas a menace to his Nation;
And he sought this filthy Monster
Without fear or hesitation!

Suddenly he heard it coming;
Saw it, as with angr bellow,
It dashed out upon this noble
And audacious little fellow!
Did he stand in fear and tremble?
Did he merely watch it come?
Did he,—overcome with terror—
Fear to even try and run?

No! he strode right out to meet it!
Picked a spot both clear and level;
Happy at the thought of battle,
How he longed to meet this Devil!
Then they clashed,—two mighty fighters!
But the Dragon quick did rue it!
For the Warrior,—dodging, feinting,—
Ran his keen edged weapon thro' it!

There are Dragons all around us
Worse than ever was this other;
Bringing sorrow to our Country,
Threatening our younger Brother.
Shall we stand in awe and wonder?
Shall we meekly let it come,—
Throwing off its poison venom,—
Wine and whiskey, beer and rum?

Let us buckle on our armor,—
Make our bright equipment rattle!
Let us seek these filthy Dragons
And prepare to give them battle!
Do not pause in fear, and tremble,—
Fight 'em! 'Tis not even risky!
Let's invite in one grand Army
And drive out this booze and whiskey!

Sometime ask a "kind" bar-tender:
"Let me take a dollar, Jack;
I must get some bread for supper;
Pay-day I will give it back."
Will he say: "Why, sure thing, Brother!
One is not enough, take two!"
NO! He'll say, "Get out, you beggar!
I don't loan to guys like you!"

But, go in and spend your money!
He will shake you by the hand,
And he'll sell you rotten liquor
Just as long as you can stand!
Then, when you are down and helpless,
He will jerk you to your feet,—
Drag you to the open door-way,—
Kick you out into the street!

Yet some men will stop and enter,
Just to get a little drink,
Which is followed by another, till,—
Much sooner than you'd think,—
With good resolutions broken,
All their hard-earned money's gone!
And the Dragon grins and chuckles
As it rushes madly on!

Let us buckle on our armor,—
Make our bright equipment rattle!
Let's drive out these filthy Dragons
In a last and final battle!
Come and join our mighty Army!
Show no fear or hesitation!
Thus we'll save our Homes and loved ones,—
Thus we'll serve our God and Nation.

PHILIP F. SMITH, Saint Joe, Indiana.

O. E. S. CELEBRATES THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY

The Spencerville Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of its Installation in its Chapter Room Thursday evening, Marcht the fourth. It was in March, 1913, that the chapter was organized with twenty-eight Charter members, and during the first few years the membership increased steadily, and the Chapter took its place among active and progressive organizations of the state. There are twelve charter members on the Chapter's roll call today.

The Worthy Matron, Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner, reviewed the early history of the Chapter, emphasizing the facts and events of most interest and importance.

Mrs. Josephine Baltz expressed briefly her appreciation, duties, and pleasures in serving the Chapter as its first Worthy Matron. She paid special tribute to the loyalty and cooperation of Mrs. Mable Erick, who served as the first Associate Matron. As honor guest of the evening, Mrs. Baltz was presented with a beautiful bouquet of cut flowers.

Worthy Patron Clyde G. Rectenwall, who was the Chapter's first Worthy Patron, gave an interesting talk, stressing in an impressive manner the importance of practicing in every day life the beneficent teaching of the Order, especially that of Charity in words, thoughts and deeds—not only fraternally but to every neighbor, friend—and even enemy.

The Mesdames Audrey Wade, Minnie Tyndall, Winnifred Shook and Jennie Walter, all of whom were charter members, spoke briefly of their appreciation of and benefits from their long association with the Eastern Star.

Coincidently, another birthday was observed during the evening. It was Mr. Fred High, to whom the Chapter expressed appreciation of his long faithful services, performed in various capacities.

The contests and entertainment were cleverly arranged so that Mr. High was surprised, in an unsuspecting moment, with a shower of gifts, some practical, and others mirth provoking, and as a climax, he was presented with a diminutive birthday cake holding one candle.

As additional entertainment, a laughable Spanish playlet was presented in pantomime.

Refreshments were served from a table attractively appointed with a lace covering, silver and crystal, and dainty green napkins, candles and cut flowers completed the decorations. Refreshments consisted of a large birthday cake embellished with thirty green candles, nutmeats, mints and coffee. Mrs. Josephine Baltz served ,and Mrs. Minnie Tyndall poured.

The committee on arrangements was the Mesdames Ruth Baker, Madge Shook, Ethelyn Miller, and Jane Robinson. They were assisted by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Baumgartner.

During the regular business of the year, officers for the coming year were elected. They are, Worthy Matron, Mrs. Florence Baker; Worthy Patron, Mr. Everett Paschen; Associate Matron, Miss Ida Reed; Assistant Patron, Maurice Hollabaugh; secretary, Mrs. Zelpha Steward; treasurer, Mrs. Winnifred Shook; conductress, Mrs. Catherine Dean; Assistant conductress, Mrs. Edith McGrafth.

The Worthy Matron closed the Chapter after expressing her heartfelt gratitude to the officers and members or a most successful and enjoyable year.

Mr. and Mrs. Tell Elson were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Draggoo.

SURE! your auto license plates, operator's license, titles, transfers of titles or plates can all be taken car of at News office. 7tf.

The Happy Hustlers will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Llye McMaken Friday evening, March 12. Everyone welcome.

Stream pollution regulation is provided in a bill which has passed both houses after receiving amendments that it is thought will prevent undue hardship on factories, burdened by war needs and material shortages. Conservation enthusiasts had urged its passage.

Both houses of the state legislature have added to the burden of drunk drivers, by making a mandatory revoking of licenses from 6 months to a year. Also a bill passed to increase the pay of advisory board members from $5 to $25 a year, and to raise the minimum amount of pay to school teachers to $1,000 a year, between Aug. 1 this year and the end of school 1945. The house has passed a bill providing the state pay 80% of the average teachers salaries.

Store license administration will be transferred to the state auditor to increase efficiency and save costs by a bill passed by both houses, last week. The auditor's office is already doing the office work, and the field work will be taken by the auditor's field force in addition to their present studies. The state has 69,000 store licenses. To handle these, the auditor plans reduction in employees from 23 to 14 or less and will abolish the $3,600 director's job. Total saving will be about $20,000 a year. Governor Schricker refused to sign the bill.

The March meeting of the Home Builders class of Coburn Corners Sunday School was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jarrett and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Trostel at the Jarrett home on Tuesday evening, March the second. Upon arrival each lady was given a green bow to wear in her hair and each gent a shamrock for his lapel. The members answered roll call by telling what they first remembered about the church at Coburn's Corners. During the devotional period Mr. Trostel read the scripture and Mrs. Trostel gave an inspiring talk. Following the business meeting, games and contests were enjoyed and a Saint Patrick luncheon was served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Olen Waltz had as guests Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hilbert of Hicksville.

The Culture Club will meet Wednesday evening at the home of Pluma Hamilton with Mrs. Olen Waltz as leader and the lesson will be taken from the March Reader's Digest.

J. S. Hollabaugh, Wabash ticket agent at Spencerville, is in the St. Joseph Hospital in Fort Wayne, having undergone an operation last week. This is the second operation in the last year.

Mrs. Olen Waltz spent Sunday attending the 26th anniversary of the Church of Christ at Garrett and also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Newman. Mr. W. Newman, father of Mrs. Waltz, who also spent the day at Garrett, returned home wih her to remain until Monday noon.

Mrs. Oma Coyle Fifer of Pleasant Lake, sister of Mrs. Fred Elson of near Concord, and Artus Coyle of Auburn, died at her home Monday evening at 8 o'clock after a long illness. Funeral services will be held at the Klink funeral home in Angola, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Charles Wayne Trostel of northwest of Garrett, who was placed in the DeKalb County jail recently for safekeeping, was committed to the Richmond state hospital Tuesday by Judge Endicott. The court acted upon application of his wife, Edna Trostel, and recommendation of Drs. D. M. Hines, C. R. Clark, and J. A. Sanders.

Jackie Woodcox of Fort Wayne, has come to St. Joe to be with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Woodcox for the next few months. The granddaughter is also expected this week. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Woodcox, and as the parents are both working, the grandparents will care for them for the time being.

Senators voted at Indianapolis Friday to provide religious education for children in public schools. After lengthy debate during which Sen. Thurman Crook of South Bend, asserted "you can't legislate piety," the senate passed a house bill permitting children to attend a religious school for two hours each week during the regular school year. The bill provided that time spent is to be counted as regular public school attendance.

A note from Mabelle Thornton under date of March 4, is as follows: "I am planning to go to Washington, D. C. to see my new grandson on March 11th and will stay about two weeks to get acquainted with him. The weather is quite cold again. In fact, it has been a cold winter but as I live near good transportation from home to office, I haven't minded it too much. Best wishes to you, Mabelle Thornton, 1175 Madison Ave., New York City."

Readers of The News will do us a great favor if they will look on the label opposite their name, to ascertain the expiration of their subscription and then remit for the arrearage at the rate of $1.00 per year. The first figure indicates the month and the second the year in which the paper was paid to. Should you fail to do this, and the production of news print is curtailed, only those paid in advance will be continued on our mailing list. We want to continue you as a News reader so please take this item seriously.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson of St. Joe had as their guests on Sunday: Dr. and Mrs. Morr and daughter, Mrs. Blanch Mason of Albion, Mr. and Mrs. John Draggoo and children, Mary and Bob of Ft. Wayne. Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Posenberry and children, Carol, Bob and Charles of St. Joe, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Miller and daughter, Judith Ann of Spencerville, Mrs. Reuben Koch of St. Joe, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baker and son, Billy, of Spencerville. This turned out to be a pot luck dinner as a surprise on Mrs. Morr for her 61st birthday. Mrs. Morr had another surprise awaiting her on her return home in the evening. Mrs. Morr will be remembered as Amandy Koch, sister of Mrs. Johnson.

PLANNING A St. Patrick's Day Party?

Don't Fail to Use a Bit of Blarney in Your Invitations. A Little Ingenuity Will Mean a Lot of Fun.

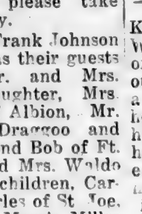
Come the seventeenth of March, how about inviting your friends for an Irish evenin'. With a little ingenuity you can weave a spell of music and fun that will rival the magic of the leprechauns.

Invitations, decorations and refreshments should give you little trouble. Don't forget to put blarney in the invitations, shamrocks in the decorations, and potatoes in the menu (a salad is a good idea here)!

Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly? As each guest arrives pin on his or her back an Irish name, such as Kelly, O'Reilly, O'Connell, Moore, etc., and then give him a sheet of paper on which to get the autographs of other guests as they arrive. The autograph must include the first name of the guest and his adopted Irish name. The first one to get every autograph wins.

A Trip to Limerick. As his passport to this famous Irish city, each guest must present a limerick stanza. Ask each one to choose a name from his list of autographs and write the poetry about that name. Let guests vote for the best one.

Irish Stew. Pass a large bowl of uncooked vegetables down the line of guests, giving each one a short time to study the contents. Then have them write from memory the names of the vegetables in the "stew." The guest with the longest list wins. This game may also be played by blindfolding the guests and letting them handle the vegetables—one by one.

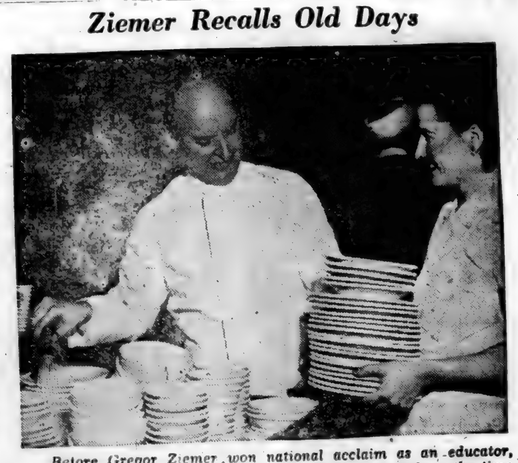


Erin Go Bragh. Many of the cities, lakes, and historical scenes in Ireland are famed in song and story. Check your guests' knowledge of Irish geography by giving them a list of familiar places and asking them to write a phrase or song title containing the word. Thus:

Blarney—The . . . Stone
Kilkenny—The cats of . . .
Tara—The hall of . . .
Tralee—The rose of . . .
Shannon—Where the River . . . Flows
Kildare—The round tower of . . .
Dublin—The rocky road to . . .
Killarney—The lakes of . . .
Erin—Come back to . . .
Tipperary—It's a long, long way to . . .

Irish Music. Give the guests a list of familiar phrases from well-known Irish songs, such as "The sweetest flower that grows" from "My Wild Irish Rose." After the game is over, you won't have to urge the guests to start singing!

Ziemer Recalls Old Days



Before Gregor Ziemer won national acclaim as an educator, author and news analyst there were tough knocks such as the time he was stranded in New York in 1923 and washed dishes at Stewart's Cafeteria 6 East 23rd Street, to make ends meet. When in New York recently for the premiere there of "Hitler's Children" he returned to Stewart's, tried his hand at dishwashing again. Apparently they were coming too fast when this picture was taken. Mrs. Ziemer was assistant.

RHETORICAL CONTEST

Pat Carpenter was awarded third place medal last Thursday in Ft. Wayne in the District Oratorical Contest sponsored annually by the American Legion.

In the local elimination held Feb. 6 at the high school Pat won out in a field of four entrants: Maxine Converse, Jim Kees, and Mary Louise Woodcox. Since there were no other schools in the county which entered the contest, the St. Joe entrant automatically became the DeKalb County representative in the district meet held last Thursday in the American Legion Home at the corner of Lewis and Hanna St. The district is composed of six northeast Indiana counties.

First place was won by a boy from South Side High School representing Allen County, and second place by a Bluffton High School student, Wells Co. The winner represents the district in the zone contest to be held later this month.

Pat will give her oration in competition with Spencerville and Harlan students at the meeting when the 8th grade arship awards are made.

Basketball Tourney

Five senior boys made their final appearance with a St. Joe High School basketball team in their second game of the sectional tournament held at Angola. By a win over Salem Center High, St. Joe went into their second game against Ashley. Playing against the third game jinx the Tigers lost to an Ashley squad that made the most of every scoring opportunity.

In spite of the break in routine caused by changing coaches in the middle of the season, the Tigers have had a successful season, winning 7 games, and losing 6. For the first time in many years they succeeded in counting two wins over their traditional rivals, Spencerville.

Moth Is Sneak Thief

For a big, husky man to let a frail little moth steal the overcoat right off his back seems pretty silly until we learn mama moth doesn't just walk up and snatch the coat. Instead, she sneaks quietly under coat lapels, deep into pockets, or up under the lining to concealed seams. Utterly unaware he's harboring a thief in the dark, the poor man hangs his coat in a far corner of the closet and, more than likely, forgets it until the chill of autumn jogs his memory. Too late, he then discovers mama moth's young have fed on his overcoat all summer. All of which could have been prevented by having the coat thoroughly cleaned and then stored in that attractive cedar chest the little woman has been hinting for ever since she discovered modern cedar chests are handsome pieces of functional furniture, styled and veneered to fit into any room in the house.

'Only Congress Has Power'

"If the laboring man is to be required to join an organized group in order to work, because of some over-riding social policy, the compulsion must take the form of new legislation . . . It can be brought into existence only by Congress; it cannot be created by executive or administrative fiat."—From an Inland Steel Company brief questioning the power of the War Labor Board to impose the closed shop on war industry.

RATIONING AT A GLANCE

Sugar: Stamp 11 good for 3 pounds through March 15.

Gasoline: No. 4 stamps in A-book good for 4 gallons through March 21, B— and C—book stamps good as noted on book, but renewal applications should be mailed 30 days before expiration.

Fuel Oil: Coupon 4 good for 11 gallons through April 12 in Zone B; April 17 in Zone A; good for 10 gallons through April 6 in Zone C.

Our 1943 Victory Gardens and our Volunteer U. S. Crop Corps will bolster food production from two directions—the small scale private or community garden and large-scale crops. In both cases, however, several million amateurs will need advice and training. If the Victory Gardener expects to get bountiful crops containing health-protecting vitamins and needed minerals, he'll have to be sure that the soil for his plot is adapted to cultivation, and that it gets plenty of sunshine. Gardening in distant spots which involve the use of the family car should be avoided, for saving rubber is no less essential than growing food.

Rubber Director Jeffers has estimated that the most critical period in rubber is expected to be from October, 1943 ,to March, 1944—a forecast subject to change during the next six months, depending on the stage of production reached by synthetic rubber plants. The critical period may be lengthened but it can hardly be escaped. That is why the relaxation of tire recapping rules to permit unrestricted recapping with reclaimed rubber for passenger cars and light truck does not call for any relaxation whatever in mileage-saving and tire care. Our present tires, therefore, must be made to last as long as possible.

Simplification of types, sizes, and patterns of articles manufactured is saving critical materials, time and labor. Just now, the program is being applied to a range of items including wood furniture, paint, varnish, and decorating brushes, grocers' and variety paper bags, wax paper rolls for household use, men's, women's anl children's knit underwear, and a number of construction and industrial items.

War workers who must cross state lines in going from one war project to another, as in certain construction jobs, often find they must get new licenses before they can operate their cars. State governments have again been asked to recognize the validity of current auto licenses issued by the state of the worker's residence.

A general 48-hour week is being established in 32 critical labor shortage areas, affecting all employers of 8 or more persons, but local and regional people will be responsible for carrying out the regulations.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Now is the time to make a garden on paper, before you start in to plant your victory garden, suggests Mary Lenore Moore, DeKalb County Home Demonstration Agent. The plan should show the kinds of vegetables to be planted, their exact location, the length of row allotted to each kind, the direction the rows are to run, the distance between rows and hills, and the approximate date of planting.

In the first drawing of the garden plan, make use of all the space available. Starting on one side, locate all the crops which require early planting and cool temperatures. This will include vegetables such as leaf and head lettuce, radishes, spinach, mustard, turnips, beets, onion sets for early green onions early cabbage, peas, onion sets or plants for the mature dry onions to store, and perhaps a few early Triumph and Cobbler potatoes.

All the above list of vegetables should be planted between April 1 and 15. Following these by about two weeks will come the first planting of beans, carrots, and sweet corn, and then the rest of the space may be divided among the crops that will be expected to occupy the ground during the entire Summer, such as tomatoes, peppers, eggplant, parsnips, Swiss chard, New Zealand spinach, late sweet corn, lima beans, salsify, and the vine crops, such as melons, pumpkins, squash, and sweet potatoes.

All of the early crops mentioned will be matured by the middle of July to the middle of August. The second plan should show how this space is to be occupied during the remainder of the season. In this area, locate all the crops for Fall and Winter storage, such as late cabbage, late plantings of beans for canning, cucumbers, beets, Fall spinach, turnips, mustard, lettuce, endive, Winter radishes, brocolli, and kale. If space is available for late potatoes such as Rurals, Chippewas, or Katahdins, they should be planted about June 10 to 20.

MORTUARY

SAMUEL SHILLING DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Funeral services for Samuel Henry Shilling, a Jackson township farmer, were held at the home of Mrs. Hattie Stafford Davis, a sister-in-law at 1428 South Wayne Street in Auburn Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Joseph Ferguson of near Auburn, officiated and burial was made in Woodlawn cemetery.

Mr. Shilling passed away at his home one and one-half miles west of Concord on the Shilling Road at 7:25 o'clock Saturday evening. He had been in poor heaelth for the past seven years from a chronic heart ailment. He died of coronary occlusion.

The deceased was born on a farm in Jackson township and resided in that community all of his life. The date of his birth was October 16, 1878 and he was 64 years of age. He was married on February 22, 1899, to Maude Stafford and the latter survives. Other survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Bonnie Mitchener, who resides on a farm in Jackson township near the home of her parents, and four grandchildren, Juanita, Joan, Donna and Clayton Mitchener.

WARD

Mrs. Jessie C. Ward, died Wednesday, February 24, 4:30 P. M. at Sanders Hospital, Auburn, Indiana, after an illness of three months.

She was born October 8, 1879 in Livingston County, Chatsworth, Illinois, the only daughter of Marthias and Anna Reams Huttenberg. She was united in marriage December 5, 1901 to Albert B. Ward of Muncie, Indiana.

Surviving besides the husband are two sons, Robert at home, Corp. Dale of Camp Livingston, La.; four daughters, Audra, at home, Mrs. Donna Wilmot of Pontiac, Mich., Mrs. Esther Wyncoop of Auburn, and Mrs. Anna Myers of near Leo; three grandchildren, Helen and Carl Wyncoop and Paul Myers; five brothers, Elmer of Chatsworth, Ill., Jake of Hately, Wis., John and Martin of Tulare, California, and Earl of Taft, California.

Funeral services were held Saturday, February 27, 1:30 P. M. at the family residence in Springfield Township. Rev. Wallace of the Lutheran Church at Harlan, officiating, with burial in the Scipio cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We take this means of expressing our heartfelt thanks and gratitude to the neighbors and friends who extended sympathy and helped in any way during the illness and passing of our dear wife and mother.

We thank the doners of the beautiful flowers, Mrs. Zeno Brandon, Mrs. Perl Laurence for their appropriate songs, Rev. Wallace for his comforting words, and all who were so kind in any way. —Mr. Albert B. Ward and Family.

Red Cross Needs $125,000,000 To Finance Wartime Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Faced with the greatest wartime program in history, the American Red Cross will launch its 1943 War Fund appeal for $125,000,000 on March 1, Chairman Norman H. Davis has announced.

Pointing out that the bulk of the fund will be used to expand Red Cross services to the men of the armed forces and their families, Chairman Davis urged every American man and woman to contribute to the fund.

With the approval of President Roosevelt, who also is President of the American Red Cross, the month of March is being observed as Red Cross Month. Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, is chairman of the Red Cross 1943 War Fund.

"Red Cross services to our armed forces and to the needs of distressed civilians on the battle and home fronts can be supplied only by great expenditures and sacrifices," Chairman Davis said. "We are exerting our utmost efforts to accomplish these tasks with the least possible drain upon the resources of the people in funds, time and energy. We must never falter in our determination to meet these definite obligations. The Red Cross is confident that all our people will be generous in their support of the 1943 War Fund."

More than 65 percent of the fund received by the national organization will be devoted to meeting Red Cross responsibilities to the armed forces. These include the Red Cross overseas club program, recreation and hospital program, the stationing of field directors at all foreign and domestic military camps and bases, the huge surgical dressing production program, and the blood plasma project which recently was expanded to a total of 4,000,000 pints at the request of the Army and Navy.

Chairman Davis pointed out that the 1943 program will be vastly greater than the accomplishments of last year, in which the Red Cross aided millions of war victims through its foreign war relief program; gave aid to thousands of prisoners of war; collected 1,500,000 pints of blood for the armed forces; produced 520,000,000 surgical dressings, and aided more than 1,500,000 servicemen and their families.

The $125,000,000 quota, he said, will finance the local, national and international work of the Red Cross for the entire year, barring unforeseen emergencies.

TRAINED MEN with WIDE VISION

TO the men who drive tanks—to airplane pilots—the all-important sense is sight. They must undergo long periods of training before they fight so that they may react instantly, but above all they must have wide vision.

The illustration shows a tank driver undergoing a "field of vision" test. Ordinary eyes may see objects on both sides through a fairly wide angle. A tank driver must have wider vision—must almost have "eyes in the back of his head."

Training and vision are essential in industry as well, particularly under the pressure of wartime needs. The field of vision around a fixed point for anyone's eyes is subject to definite limitations, but the business man's "vision" in the development of his art soars with his imagination and is limited only by good judgment.

In the electrical industry it has always been necessary to look far ahead so as to anticipate customer demands, for it takes many months to build electric plants and they must be ready when the call for service comes. With the first declaration of war in Europe, trained men with wide vision foresaw the need to give this country the best electrical service in the world.

This vision found us ready for any emergency, even that suddenly thrust upon our powers of production by War . . . cruel and barbarously treacherous as a knife in the back, yet we had reserves to call upon and a total electric power production far beyond all of the Axis countries put together—five times as much as we had in the last war!

American business management was ready for the big task imposed by the Axis . . . The free people of America, men and women, demonstrated for all time that the American way is the way to Victory.

RATION BOOK 2 AVAILABLE WEEK MAR. 15-20

As previously announced, persons who failed to secure their War Ration Book No. 2, during the last week of February, will have the opportunity to secure such books during the week of March 15 to 20 inclusive.

As this Ration Book No. 2 includes the stamps which will be necessary to use, in the purchasing of meat products, and as the rationing of meat products is expected to be started, in the near future, it is very important that every person, who is enitled to have a Ration Book, should get one at the earliest possible date.

Owing to the excessive amount of work for the Rationing Board, at this time with the items of gasoline, tires, etc., no Ration Books No. 1 or No. 2 can be issued until March 14 and a special temporary board of volunteer workers is being arranged for to make distribution of Ration Books No's 1 and 2, to persons entitled to them, during the week of March 15 to 20 inclusive.

This special Board will work in the assembly room of the court house at Auburn on the days stated during forenoon 9:00 to 11.00 A. M. and afternoon 1:30 to 5:00 P. M.

Persons desiring these ration Books may secure them by applying for them, one person for the family or they can have some other person act as their agent and apply for them. All persons shall bring with them all the Books No. 1 of the persons who wish a Book No. 2 and also a written memoranda of the number of pounds of coffee and of the number of commercially processed cans and bottles of fruits, vegetables, juices and chili sauce, and catsup which they have on hand. This report can be made on the "Consumer Declaration" blank, or if they do not have a regular blank, a written memoranda will be all right and a regular blank will be furnished. Each person must be prepared to give the complete and correct information.

If any member of the family does not as yet have the book No. 1 and are entitled to one, it will be issued, at the same time. Every person is cautioned to give attention to this matter as the special arrangement is made, at this time, to aid all persons in securing their Ration Books promptly.

The work of the ffice is congested and those who fail to cooperate with this special arrangement will experience delay in securing books at a later date.

Any person who cannot, for any reason, apply personally may have some one else apply for them. This notice is only for persons who have not as yet secured Ration Book No. 2 which is necessary to have to purchase commercially processed fruits and vegetables and meat products.

ATTEMPTED HOLD-UP OF NEWVILLE TWP. LADY

A search made last Wednesday for a youth who attempted to hold up Mrs. Joseph Newton, residing five miles south of Newville near the Allen-DeKalb County Line, has so far been futile.

Mrs. Newton's husband was working some distance from the house in a corn field when a Ford ton and a half truck was driven into the lane about 3:30 Wednesday afternoon. The driver knocked on the back door of the house. When Mrs. Newton opened the door, the stranger asked where a family named Jones lived Mrs. Newton told him she did not know such a family in the neighborhood, but the youth walked into the house.

Placing his hand in a coat pocket to indicate he had a gun, the intruder said, "This is a stick-up." Mrs. Newton backed away, saying, "The men are in the smoke house and I'll see them." She hurried out the door and commenced to ring the dinner bell. The stranger ran from the house, backed his truck out the lane and left on Road No. 37 in the direction of Fort Wayne.

A neighbor, Mr. Tustison and his son saw the truck leave and went to the Newton home. Marshal McCurdy at Hicksille was notified by telephone and he in turn called Sheriff Paul Miller in Auburn. The sheriff was given some description of the thug and this was broadcast over the state police radio. The sheriff then went to the Newton home, accompanied by State Policeman Jack Nye.

Mrs. Newton said the man was between 20 and 25 years old, was 5 feet, 6 or 7 inches in height, weighted about 135 pounds and wore light overalls.

Lutheran Church Announce Lenten Services

A Pastoral for the Lenten Season 1943

"Beloved in the Lord! Let us draw near with a true heart, and confess our sins unto God our Father, beseeching Him, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, to grant us forgiveness."

Inasmuch as we normally walk in the direction we are looking, it is imperative that we Christians have our eyes fixed on Christ, the Son of God, our Lord and Saviour. The year-round footprints of a Christian vary from a straight line like the tracks of a steel-tired wagon on a gravel road—the slower the motion, the greater the wavering from side to side. It is the purpose of our Lenten observance to accelerate the tempo of our spiritual life from a loitering walk to a spirited run, by re-focusing our drifting attention on Him who "being lifted up" draws us unto Himself.

The faithful and intensive study of our Lord's Passion should not only re-assure us of our eternal salvation but also should arouse in us a compelling compassion for all who are yet in need of succor for body and soul. It will be impossible for us to draw near to God our Father without coming closer to all for whom Christ His Son died. Come beloved in the Lord, let us draw near with a true heart to God and man. Amen.

FRANK STEVENSON,
By the will of God your Pastor.

Schools Open Drive To Buy 10,000 Jeeps

THE little jeep which is serving so nobly from Guadalcanal to Africa has become the symbol of the gigantic efforts of millions of American school children in their War Savings program.

Thousands of public, private and parochial schools soon will be displaying a certificate of honor from Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., signifying that they have paid for at least one jeep by buying $900 in War Stamps and Bonds.

Countless others will be flying the Schools At War banner awarded to schools with 90 percent pupil participation in War Savings.

Ten thousand jeeps and a hundred bombers! This is the new goal of America's schools as 30,000,000 children continue their Schools At War program under the auspices of the Treasury Department and the U. S. Office of Education.

Results so far in the program reported by Dr. Homer W. Anderson, Associate Field Director in charge of the education section of the War Savings Staff, are:

More than 7,000,000 elementary and high school students from 30,000 schools have prepared special Schools At War scrapbooks for state and local exhibits.

War Stamp and War Bond purchases may reach a grand total of $300,000,000 for the school year.

Pvt. Paul Keller now has his permanent address which is as follows: Pvt. Paul Keller, 419 Tng. Center (S. P.) Flight P. P. A. A. F. T. T. C. Base No. 4, Miami Beach, Florida

Dear Editor:

Will have a change of address after Monday of this week, I will send it to you as soon as I find out just what it is. I have written a short poem, if that is what you would like to call it and am sending it to you, entitled

Don't know whether you will like my lines or not, but I feel that it is a pretty good pastime. I hope to be hearing from some of the people back home pretty soon. I don't get much mail out here any more. Perhaps I should write more often then I might receive more mail. Well, so long, Mr. Editor, hope to see you all soon again.

Yours truly,

March 6, 1943

Dear Fred:

I have been getting the news from the paper and see what the other boys in the service are doing so thought that I would write a letter to you. My address is now changed to the medical department.

I enjoy reading the other boys letters. Saw Homer Stemen yesterday and he is a first class private now.

I sure like the army and have met a lot of very nice fellows. Yours truly,

Pvt. Morris J. Woodcox, Det. Med. Dept., Station Hosp., Camp Blanding, Florida.

A card from Ivan E. Harter of Newville says: "Dear Fred: Just a line to tell you I have been thinking of you and thought I would write. Mom has been sending me the paper when she gets it and I think it has a lot of good news in it. Always glad to get any news from home." My address: Pvt. Ivan E. Harter 35347627, Co. L. 300th Qmt., Fort Benning, Georgia.

Word has been received from Pvt. Charles Washler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lew Washler of east of Spencerville, that he was selected this week to take a course in radio communication. He is fine and in good spirits. His address will be: Pvt. Chas. H. Washler, Hq. Co., 3rd Chem. Bn., A. S. N., 35341787, Fort Bliss, Texas.

Gerald Miller who is stationed at Camp Grant, Ill., was home over Saturday and Sunday. He is getting along fine in his training.

Two more Spencerville boys are reported overseas: Ralph Beams and Harold Hudson. Relatives were notified recently.

KEEP HER FLYING

There she moves all ragged and torn,
Old Glory her colors sail high.
Behind the lines our guns still roar,
Keep her sailing and clear that sky.

Old Glory, she stands for Freedom.
For her Americans must fight.
Stand fast ye Stars and Stripes, the battle has just begun,
Your colors yet wave the Red, Blue and the White..

Our Flag, 'tis Old Glory,
Freedom for her we all must fight.
She cries to you, she's sorry,
Wake up, America, and see that free glittering sight!

Roy Collins returned to his home at Fort Wayne last week, after receiving an honorable discharge from the army. He is 44 and essential work at home were claims for his discharge.

Mrs. Oral Hughes has had word from her brother, Pvt. Lynn Shilling, who is now on one of the South Pacific Islands, that he is enjoying good health, has a wonderful sun tan, is gaining in weight and is getting along fine.

To Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Krabil!

Dear Grandma and Grandpa:

Well I am feeling fine and like it here. I was shipped from Miami Beach, Florida, to this place, Atlantic City, N. J. I am going to school here, learning the cooking trade. Am supposed to be a good cook when I leave here. I sure like to cook, and I am getting a lot of it too. Some one has to do it so it might as well be me. A soldier can't fight with an empty stomach. It's my job to keep them full.

Well I am doing my best and will probably be home on a furlough when I finish school which will be about two months from now. I'll come up and see you if I get that furlough then. Here is hoping and praying I get it. I want to come home. But think if I don't get it, I'll have to make the best of it, which is not hard to do for I sure like it here. So don't worry too much, I am going to surprise all of you when I do come. I'll just drift in so you can look for me most any time after April.

So long and be good as ever.
Your grandson,
Pvt. Paul K. Cook 566th T. S. S. (Prov.) Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Heavy rains on Monday night caused much damage to the highways, causing washouts, and in many places the sewers were washed out. A number of cellars had surface water and the lowlands are like lakes.

MILADY'S

Spring Wardrobe

With spring making its annual debut on March 21, feminine interest turns naturally to clothing. This year, however, the wardrobe is far from complete without a good supply of attractive wear for Victory Garden work.

This "flapjack" coverall of striped bird's-eye cotton pique is one of the brightest of the farmerette modes.

With a plain red cotton chambray apron, pocketed all around, this red and white striped chambray dirndl is the ideal costume for kitchen or garden.

Dogs are still committing depredations about town. Last week the Bowser store lost a plate of city chicken, when a dog entered their back room and helped itself. A package of meat was taken out of the meat truck when the driver was serving the store. The police has captured five in the past week and Saturday night all were freed by some owner breaking into the barn and letting them all out. The town board still says this order will stand. Dogs must be kept tied or else.

REV. W. T. ARNOLD DIES AT MARION

The death of Rev. Wm. T. Arnold, pastor of the Garrett Methodist Church for three years, took place Sunday morning at 3 o'clock at Marion, Ind., where he resided.

Because of a heart ailment, Dr. Arnold announced his retirement in 1940 while residing in Garretet. Later he improved and was made pastor of Home Park Church in Marion.

A graduate of the law department of Indiana University and also of DePauw University, Dr. Arnold entered the ministry in 1899. He served various charges and was superintendent of the Marion District. He was prominent in the North Indiana Conference for many years and was also prominent in the county organization of Sunday School work.

The widow survives, as well as one son, Willard, of Elmhurst, Illinois.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at 2 o'clock from the First Methodist Church in Marion.

SCRAP METALS ARE DESPERATELY NEEDED TODAY

"The War Production Board has asked Indiana for a collection of 542,000 tons of scrap metal during this six months' period ending June 30, and 83,000 tons of this amount is to come from the farms," said Clarence A. Jackson, chairman of the State Salvage Committee today. "This means," he continued, "that we will need an average of 1,000 pounds per farm to reach this goal.

"This farm scrap drive is being held early in the year, so that farmers can have time to scour their farms thoroughly before the plowing and planting season begins. Every farmer or farm owner is being asked to collect all unusable scrap metal from the fence rows, ditches and barnlots and place it near the road, so that trucks may pick it up without delay.

"In some counties this scrap material is being donated to the Red Cross Chapter, which is a worthy cause. However," Mr. Jackson said, "each farmer has the privilege of selling his metal to the local scrap dealer if he so chooses.

"Hitler's European fortress is still intact—Hirohito's is even tougher. Our boys have just started their offensives—we have just begin to fight—they need a continuous flow of ammunition and other war supplies to support them.

"Indiana still has a few piles of 'Reserve Scrap', but we must keep those piles growing. It is becoming more evident that we may have a long fight to down our enemies, and in order to do so we may require more implements of war than seemed evident not even a few months ago. We must not let down for one moment in any phase of the salvage program.

"This state did a wonderfully fine job in its salvage collection last Fall. Let's do an even better one this Spring. Let's make it possible to write our boys and girls at the front that Indiana has done her part.

"The Indiana State Salvage Committee urges your wholehearted support to your local committee and workers who are donating their time and trucks to make this drive a success.

"Every pound will help, and it is desperately needed. It may save the life of a boy; it will hasten the day when they will all come back to their families. If snow and bad weather has kept you from making this collection, please do it at the earliest possible moment."

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. Ralph Keeler, Mar. 10. Due to the absence of the president and vice president the meeting was called to order by the secretary, Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser. The Collect was read in unison.

Mrs. O. K. Shull, assisted by Mrs. Ed. Storer, gave the lesson on the Islands of Puerto Rico, Haiti, and the Dominican Republic. The election of officers was postponed until the next meeting.

Two dollars was voted by the club for the Red Cross. The club was also asked to donate books for the soldiers, these to be taken to the library in Auburn by any one who has books they wish to donate.

The hostess served fruit salad, wafers and coffee.

The next meeting is with Mrs. Carl Prkins, March 24.

CULTURE CLUB

The regular meeting of the Culture Club was held last Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Pluma Hamilton. Mrs. Olen Waltz had charge of the lesson, which was very interesting. The club voted to give a contribution to the Red Cross.

The hostess served Ritz crackers with cheese spread, grapefruit, cookies and nuts. Next meeting with Mrs. Reign Schondelmayer.

Mrs. Belle Miser, a sister of F. M. Monroe and Mrs. Jennie Andress, deceased, was buried from the Methodist Church at Auburn last Wednesday and interment was made in Rose-lawn Cemetery. She died at her home in Plymouth, Ind. Mrs. Clayton Wyatt and daughter of Fort Wayne, Mrs. David Furnish of Detroit and M. H. Andress of this place attended the funeral service. Stanley Monroe of Wabash, called at the Andress home in the evening.

Our Weekly Amateur Contribution. Send in Your Lines

The following poem was sent The News by Mrs. Claude Laub, of Rt. 1, St. Joe, and she said: "My son, Loren, who will receive his Wings of Gold some time in April sent me the enclosed poem, written by his roommate's mother. I think it is especially good and thought you might like it for your paper."

"WHEELS"

When you were tiny, Oh, dear heart,
I took you riding in your cart,
And I was proud as I could be
To have you out where folks could see.
My son, on four strong wheels you went;
My little child, by heaven sent.

So many wheels you've known since then;
A kiddie car you rode, and then
A wagon, and a two wheeled bike,
To take you and your pack on hike.
Then came the day, not back too far
You got a license for the car.

And when the fog as thick as down
Had settled deep all over town,
I listened for you through the night
'Till I heard wheels and saw a light
In the garage, but for your sake,
You never once found me awake.

So now your wheels have found them wings,
And fuselage and guns and things
That go to make an airplane,
To make all people free again;
And you fly high o'er waters deep,
And in the sky your vigil keep.

And if some time you fly too high,
Or dive too deep—I shall not cry.
I'll know that somewhere in the blue
You looked at God as you flew through,
You dipped your wings to another shore
And your wheels rest on Heaven's floor.

At the present writing Spring is on the fence.

With automobile travel reduced even a detour sign would sort of look good to many of us.

With things becoming so reduced and rationed, a Spencerville man says it looks to him like we might take a friendly attitude toward nudist camps.

Some folks are so enthused about gardening that they are apt to go 'whole hog' and plant the seed catalogue.

Those men who used to crab about women wearing such short skirts and low waists are now speaking their piece about women running around in slacks.

A local man says he is just itching to get his hands on some of these bureaucrats. Most of us in St. Joe have been scratching along for years.

Japan has done pretty well by us with those thousands of tons of scrap iron she bought from us before the war.

One thing about Spring, according to a News reader, is that the days are longer in which to think and pray for peace.

THE POINT SYSTEM

Well, it hit and even hit harder than most of us imagined. We allude to the rationing of canned and frozen fruits and vegetables and of some dried ones as well. We expected to be cut down in our purchases since that is the purpose of rationing, but most of us didn't figure it would be quite as strict and binding. What of it! The buyer is sitting down to list her needs, checking with the slip which shows how many points per can, seeing that her daily menus and her ration book co-operate. She will alter her past methods a bit, letting the points influence her in making out the shopping list. The plan will cause difficulty at first and meals will be hard to line up in order to stay within the bounds but just give her time! The dining table will carry as fine a meal, as nourishing a dinner with enough to satisfy the appetite, as ever. Of course we have lived too much out of cans. Now we are going to change tactics with the family appetite at stake and please with more fresh vegetables. Heretofore the tomatoes, peas, corn and beans were put up for our convenience by famous brands in shining tins and opened by a turn of the wrist and can opener, removed to heat and in double-quick time. Now it will take more time to clean carrots, string beans, shell peas. We'll raise our corn and tomatoes in the back yard. Since commercial growers are sticking to the essentials if we favor cauliflower, asparagus and iceberg lettuce, we'll have to grow our own. But we are going to be sure to plant food for canning. Wives of St. Joe and Spencerville insist on this. So although we may seem hard hit by the point system we are going to recover and no doubt improve our characters by being more resourceful and certainly more appreciative.

AMERICAN RED CROSS

The American Red Cross is asking for funds with which to continue its good work. It shouldn't take an editorial to awaken anyone to the worthiness of the American Red Cross, it doesn't need our words of praise for your unanimous approval of its benefits. It shouldn't need printer's ink to put down in black and white what keeps the Red Cross able to pour its blessings on the sick and dying, hungry and forlorn, homeless and destitute. What it is doing for our fighting boys today it did yesterday and will do so tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow—IF you will help by contributing to the organization. They ask for so little in comparison to the universal good they create. Your dollars become food for starving children and milk for a motherless babe, a sweater for a chilled old man and a shawl for an aged woman, blood for a weak marine and a bandage for the wounds of a soldier, a robe for a convalescing aviator, a letter home and a light is each dollar you give.

There are constant drains on the purse, times when we all say 'what next' and mean it. But of all calls, never, no NEVER, disregard the plea of the American Red Cross. No need to stress its works in war and peacetime where nature deals in floods and fires. You are aware of the deeds of its organization. Ask your soldiers if you aren't convinced of its needs today, ask a neighbor who has received help, ask a friend, who has worked hours in a production room. But that is unnecessary—just ask YOURSELF for you know the answer. Give to the American Red Cross so it can minister to the world's wounds. Be a part with your heart and your dollars.

FREEDOM FROM FEAR

There are a few biblical words from David which come as a source of help to those who need solace. "I will fear no evil" is a strong statement and needs clinging to with determination when the daily going is rugged. Worry is one of our worst headaches today and surely today there is much we might worry about. One can't get away from shadows of planes and ships, troops, death and privation. People have worried before us, generations ago they feared evil, need reassuring that darkness would pass and that with courage and confidence they would come through to light and goodness. There is no talk in St. Joe that society will never regain its stand in education, science, industry and so on, as before the war. Most cititzens have faith that we will move on and come out better for the burning lessons. We need to practice less of worry and concentrate more on courage.

HOARDING HELPS HITLER

Stocking up with larger quantities of food, clothing, and other things, than you need for normal and ordinary use is HOARDING!

Such a practice is harmful to everybody.

Hoarding aids the enemy.

Hoarding hampers the war effort.

Hoarding hurts the hoarder.

Hoarding is unfair to neighbors.

Buying more than you ordinarily need promotes inflationary tendencies, higher prices and shortages.

Our government is trying to guard againts these things—Buying more than needed quantities in any merchandise undermines those efforts.

YOU can help by buying only what you need, as you need it.

DON'T HELP HITLER!

SPEAKING OF SHOES

Take the case of the two hardware dealers who wanted more horseshoes and contacted three government agencies finally getting a reply to their demand. They received official instructions regarding ways to reduce wear and tear on those horseshoes at hand, which mentioned resets as practical. Now resets to us who drive cars means to switch tires and on horses this means switching shoes from foot to foot, since evidently the horse doesn't tread the same either. Another suggestion is to go without unessential styles of horseshoes and to some folks this will come as a surprise since they didn't know there was style trends in horseshoes. To save shoes they should be removed immediately after a period of necessary road work which indicates that some horses won't have to sleep in their shoes at night. How much easier for the farmer if he could have a buttoned or zipped horseshoe that could be removed at the end of the day. Nope, it's just another rural problem to be talked over in St. Joe.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

County salvage directors in Indiana have been urged by state salvage leaders to push the Farm Clean-up Scrap drive until "every farm in every county has been cleaned-up." Originally scheduled to end March 6, the drive is being continued indefinitely because of bad weather which slowed up operations in most areas. The quota for Indiana calls for the collection of approximately 1,000 pounds of scrap metal from each farm.

The drive to collect kitchen fats and all types of greases is now being stepped up in Indiana because of the vital need for them. Representatives of rendering companies, meat packers, grocery and meat retail and wholesale organizations and defense workers met in Indianapolis this week and mapped out detailed plans for an effective and sustaining program of education, collection and processing.

Indiana OPA officials have advised Hoosier motorists who have been unable to purchase Grade III tires on certificates issued by their local rationing boards to be patient. Grade III tires are expected to be released from warehouses of the Defense Supplies Corporation by the end of the month and placed in the hands of tire dealers. OPA officials declared that local rationing board officials are blameless for the current situation. The boards issued certificates within their quota limits but the supply of Grade III tires in the hands of dealers in many rural communities was exhausted.

County school superintendents in Indiana have been advised by the Office of Defense Transportation that failure to return applications for revised certificates of war necessity probably would result in insufficient gasoline allowances for the affected school bus operators in the second quarter of 1943. Unless the applications are returned in time to handle revisions by April 1, outstanding certificates will be revised by ODT field representatives on the basis of their own information.

The legal staff of Indiana OPA has ruled that the OPA has no authority to prevent merchants from refusing to sell commodities to any one but their regular customers. Numerous calls had been received from buyers, particularly those shopping for meat, that they were being turned down in their efforts to maks purchases.

Important rationing dates for Hoosiers:

SHOES—Stamp 17 in War Ration Book One valid for one pair of shoes through June 15.

SUGAR—Stamp No. 12 valid on March 16 for five pounds, which must last from March 16 through the end of May, a period of 11 weeks.

COFFEE—Stamp No. 25 valid for one pound of coffee, may be redeemed any time through March 21.

The Office of War Information has announced distribution through the War Activities Committee of the Motion Picture Industry of a 41-minute technicolor motion picture, "At THE FRONT," a combat report of American action in North Africa filmed by cameramen from the United States armed forces. The film will be released for public showing in theatres throughout Indiana after March 18. "AT THE FRONT" was produced by the United States Army Signal Corps. Forty-two cameramen photographed the scenes in North Africa in November and December, 1942. "AT THE FRONT" is an official combat report; no scenes are staged, rehearsed or dramatized.

Electrical appliances do much to make this possible and while we cannot give you "Service as Usual," we are doing our best to hold up our end. Gas rationing, manpower shortage, rubber scarcity, all these factors hinder us and impair service. Customers are cooperating marvelously with patient understanding when our response is necessarily slow, by making minor repairs of appliances at home, by keeping fuses on hand, and even, in rural districts, by reading their own meters.

Resume of Legislative Activities for Benefit of News Readers

Few Indiana state legislatures have met under more adverse conditions, and few have a better record for passing needed legislation (refraining from) unnecessary changes in state law, than the recent 83rd General Assembly.

The session just completed in Indianapolis was unusual in many ways, not the least of which were its economics, its realistic approach to the difficult war problems, the fulfilment of its majority platform pledges, conservatism, its cooperation between opposite political views within the membership and with the executive, and its fair approach to controversial matters in which opposing pressures were brought.

Were it not for leadership which kept many non-essential laws from being written, it is estimated that an all-time high of 1200 bills might have been allowed to gum the gears of the Assmbly hopelessly.

Despite the threatened flood of bills, the total introduced was only 714, as compared to 992 in the preceding session. Efficient operation resulted in the fina lpassage by both houses of a total of 314 laws, 76 more than in he previous biennial meeting. Many of these corrected measures passed in previous years. Indicative of the desirable wartime cooperation is the fact that during the session only two completed bills were vetoed by the gover-the final passage by both housnor, whereas in the previous session vetoes numbered 44. Both bills which met the governor's displeasure were re-passed over the veto. They were measures granting the attorney general power to appoint his own deputies, and giving Fort Wayne and Anderson the requested right to raise salaries of their executive officers.

Later a mayor's fee bill affecting two other cities was vetoed.

Of a total of 222 bills introduced which would have increased state or local taxes, only 99 were given to the governor to sign, and many of these bore an automatic two-year limitation to cover the probable period of war prices, or until the next session.

Now laws directly affecting the war total 41, and an even larger number were necessitated by the fact that war has upset established routine.

A total of 34 bills carrying appropriations were offered, and careful balancing of the many emergencies against the need for economy resulted in the passage of but 14. The enactment of the war emergency defense bill carrying $310,000 was one of these.

The Republican platform measures were considered mandates because they were the pledges under which the majority party was given responsibilities of leadership. They were carefully enacted into law with the exception of one, the free text book bill. In this case the seeming mandate was overcomt by statewide opposition, which made itself felt after the subject was written and offered in bill form.

The bill appropriating for expenses of government in the next two years drew little heat and passed in record time due to the manner of its preparation. Usually it is presented to the legislature by the budget committee in a form requiring considerable trimming. In the previous session requests of departments totalled close to 111 million dollars, which was trimmed to 106 million by the committee and suffered a further cut to $82,320,632 before passage. This year requests totalled 120 millions and the committee itself trimmed them down to 80 millions, close to the final form of the bill. Emergency needs including the large defense item and the cost of re-building a state hospital damaged by fire brought the final figure to $82,-808,701, only slightly larger than the previous budget in the face of vastly increased price levels and emergency conditions.

With no loss in principles involved in legislaton, the two political parties struck few jarring notes in their cooperative job, as shown by the number of unanimous votes. The Senate voted unanimously on the final passage of 221 bills, the House on 209. Many other votes were close to being unanimous.

Existence of a state reserve fund of many thousands of dollars, substantially increased in the past two years, was an invitation to a flood of special interests with demands for spending, but the reserve was protested against the early day when it may be even more sorely needed. This was done without addition to the tax structure.

The members were told at the session's opening, that one of their duties would be to guard against mis-use of wartime fervor to create innovations that would add to the disquiet already created by drastic federal wartime regulations. Some of the suggested changes which failed of passage were the free textbook bill, attacks on the tax structure, extension of milk control, alteration in the 4-year-old alcoholic beverages law, property lien against welfare recipients, reorganization of the high school athletic association, additional regulation of election expenses, direct state primary, removal of the state employees merit system, measures to tighten state control, an effort to tie the state more firmly to federal supervision, and many others.

The flood of bills to raise the pay of practically every type of public employee in Indiana was sagely met. Some few ridiculously low pay scales were upped. In most cases of pay raise based on today's price scale, the raise is temporary and terminates when the war ends or when the next legislature meets. One new cost item is the $5 daily expense for each legislator, culmination in this session of a movement encouraged by other states for several years. Rapid increase in the expense of being a legislator, in cost of travel, and living in hotels, were quoted by members who successfully sold their colleagues the idea. An amendment was added, which eliminates future need for such impromptu expense items by establishing a monthly pay scale, becoming effective four years from now. This visions the new concept of legislatures as bodies whose members on special between-session study and working commissions.

Several such commissions were established in resolutions passed by the Assembly in addition to the laws. A few of these are the investigation of welfare abuses, codification of election laws, and of transportation laws, survey of county officials' salaries with a view to getting them in line thru out the state, and a study of the intangibles tax laws.

Among the several other resolutions were those joining other states to memorialize Congress for a Constitutional amendment limiting federal tax to no more than 25 per cent of income, suggesting the use of old text-books in Indiana schools as much as possible, and seeking to allocate radio batteries to farms which have no electricity. The resolution suggesting a two-term limit for presidents was withdrawn. The governor and budget committee were left with authority to take up a bargain offer to purchase a governor's mansion replacing the rented home which is becoming inadequate.

A few of the 314 laws passed by the recent Assembly, selected at random, have the following effects:

Provides central vote counts in all cities, 35,000 or over.

Prepares to rewrite Indiana election laws.

Raises maximum workmen's compensation, unemployment benefits.

Raises minimum teachers salaries to $1,000.

Red Cross Field Directors Solve Soldiers' Problems

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The soldier stormed into the Red Cross office at a southern Army camp. His mouth was set in a hard, straight line; his eyes were cold, determined. His wife trailed him as he strode across the reception room; her face was red and swollen from crying. They were not over 22.

The Red Cross field director smiled, but the soldier did not return it. "All right, soldier, let's see what's the trouble."

"If I don't get help I'm going over the hill," he blurted. "I'm on alert now—due to move out almost any minute. But I'm not going—and leave my wife with no place to stay."

Further conversation developed that the young bride was an expectant mother. She was unable to go home because of her stepfather. Her husband had no relatives with whom she could stay. And the allotment he had made to his wife had not yet come through.

Two hours later—after much conversation and planning — the soldier was shaking the hand of the Red Cross field director.

The Red Cross man had arranged that the soldier's wife spend the night at the Army camp guest house. Preparations had been completed with a nearby Red Cross chapter for her transportation back home. The Red Cross chapter in the girl's home town had agreed to see that she had proper care until the baby was born. By that time the allotment would be coming through.

In every United States military establishment, at home and abroad, the American Red Cross maintains a field director and staff to help Uncle Sam's fighting men work out such personal problems. More than 1,000,000 servicemen passed through the offices of the Red Cross field directors last year. Their problems covered all phases of life — families needing financial aid, allotments, illnesses, deaths, loss of contact with the home folks. These and other problems are unfolded in a never-ending panorama before Red Cross field directors. Almost always they are solved.

The Red Cross field director is ready to furnish information, counsel, and assistance as needed to men of the armed forces. Reaching into every county in the United States through local Red Cross chapters, these workers and local home service chairmen act on behalf of the men of the armed forces and their families in matters affecting the welfare of either or both.

In addition to the servicemen aided by field directors, more than 500,000 families of men in the service received help through Red Cross chapters and branches.

Contributions of the American people to the Red Cross during the $125,-000,000 War Fund appeal now in progress will help to keep and expand these services to the nation's fighting men.

Varied and often unusual are the other demands made of Red Cross field directors. Field Director William Fluharty, stationed in a remote Australian area, traveled down to a railroad junction to bring back 6,000 pounds of American magazines for troops to which he was assigned. Returning on a train, he was asked to help deliver a baby for a native woman, belatedly en route to a hospital.

Whatever the welfare and personal problems of American fighters at home or abroad, the field director, backed up by 3,755 Red Cross chapters and 6,000 branches, is the serviceman's best friend in time of need.

Frank E. Hart, one of five officials of the Anaconda Wire company's Marion plant under indictment for defrauding the federal government, Monday filed a separate motion for a bill of particulars at the office of the clerk of the federal court at Fort Wayne. Hart asks that the charges against him be particularized, calling the indictment as it now stands "vague and general" and saying that it places an undue burden on the defendants. He asks the court to require District Attorney Alexander M. Campbell to specify what type of wire or cable was alleged to be defective and in what respect. Clyde E. Hart and Ralph Sechler of St. Joe were members of the jury which returned the indictment against the company.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Staman, Mrs. Mary Sechler and Mrs. Nan Lysher called on Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reichelderfer of near Harlan, Monday afternoon. Mr. Staman is improving steadily and his friends are glad he is able to be out some again.

It has been announced that there are 20,000 rubber trees ready to be tapped in the Southern Solomon Islands. These trees give the United Nations their first new source of badly needed rubber in areas recaptured from the Japanese. The trees were planted experimentally 25 years ago by plantation owners.

Mr. B. E. Widney was in Ashley, Sunday.

THEY ARE CALLING

The WAACS, WAVES, SPARS and Marines are busily enlisting women and girls in their service and throughout the nation the feminine word is "go." These women in service carry their natty uniforms well and are justly proud of their appearance. Their training in various branches to make them eligible for defense plans for the government gives them added reason for pride. Through them men are released for active duty which means that these feminine forces play a major role in providing the country with fighting men. In many of the branches of labor studied and performed women are proving more skillful and dexterous than men formerly used here. These recruits are having opportunity to study in fields never opened to women before. Just ask them how they like it! More power to every one of them and our blessings.

ON THEIR HONOR

On the East Coast they are substituting an "honor system" for curbing pleasure driving in place of the police enforcement previously enacted. This is going to show whether folks are willing to forego pleasure driving because of what it stands for, or because of fear of the law they refrained from it before. The idea of checking and questioning by the police was not in favor in these restricted states, we understand, because citizens didn't feel it was the "American way" to do business. This new effort appeals to reason, patriotism, and honor. The dog races, movies, golf courses, night clubs, ocean beaches are still there and are still considered pleasures under the ordinance. They have not changed this, and have the motorists changed? There is no sectionalism in honor, so we may all search our consciences.

If commercial launderies would have to close because of lack of fuel, look at all the time saved in sewing on buttons.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVIII (58 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, MAR. 25, 1943 NUMBER 12

From Boys IN THE U.S. Army

New addresses of the week:

Max Markle, son of Mrs. Rally Markle of Spencerville has a new address which is: Pvt. Max L. Markle, 1st Prov. Co., 1st Prov. Bn., Atlanta Ordnance Base, Atlanta, Georgia. Bks. No. 448.

Pvt. Robert E. Davis, Anti Aircraft Group, 6 Def. Bat. %Fleet P. O., San Francisco, California. Box 19.

Pvt. Gerald D. Gee, 28th General Hosp., Swannanoa, N. C.

Corp. Bernard D. Kimes, of Spencerville, left on Sunday for Fort Bliss, Texas, after completing his schooling at Camp Davis, N. C. He made a three weeks visit here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kimes, Sr., and with other relatives and friends.

Pvt. Dayton Travis D. Webb Jr., Spencerville, is home on a ten-day furlough. He is now stationed at the Oklahoma City Air Depot, Lakes Field, Okla., having graduated from the Missouri Aviation Institute and is now an airplane mechanic.

Raymond Quance, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Quance of Ensley Avenue, Auburn, returned from Chicago Friday night where he was accepted as a V-5 apprentice seaman in the United States naval reserve. He was one of four of the group of fifteen which went to Chicago last Tuesday who were accepted for service in this branch of the service. Raymond was found physically and psychologically qualified for actual control of aircraft by the Naval Aviation cadet selection board. He will enter the service after his eighteenth birthday the last of August. Raymond is a senior in the Auburn high school and will graduate this spring. He was a member of the Auburn high school basketball team.

Pvt. Robert Quance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance of Auburn now has the following address: Pvt. Robert B. Quance, Post Exchange, Camp Elliott, San Diego, California.

James Maxwell and Charles Hart, two St. Joe boys in the armed service, were home the past week.

Courtland, Ala.
March 21, 1943.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Leighty:

Seeing I am settled for awhile, it is safe to write a few letters. This is a new Air Base and so far is not nearly completed. I am going to Link Trainers School and like it very much. It is to train Cadets for instrument flying when weather conditions make it unsafe for contact flying.

It is rather cold today but you can't tell what the weather will be like tomorrow. It rains quite often, with plenty of wind.

I've been keeping up with the rest of the boys by means of The News, and hope they are getting along O. K.

Seeing it is about time for mess call, I'll close until later.

Sincerely,
Pvt. Frank Curie, Jr.,

TRUCK OPERATORS TAKE NOTICE

O. D. T. quarterly report of fleet (three or more trucks) operators should be filed in their district offices immediately after the end of first quarter which ends March 27th.

Gasolene "T" rations for first quarter expire March 31st and cannot be carried over into second quarter if not all used. Second quarter allotment will be valid from April 1st to June 30th and in no event should second quarter coupons be used in first quarter. Relief can only be granted on appeal. Farmers should file through their farm transportation committee.

Anyone purchasing a new or used truck should file a new application because a new owner is not permitted to operate on Certificate of War Necessity issued to previous owner. When possible advise name and address of previous owner and certificate number.

Boyd Mansfield will leave this week for Savanna, Illinois, where he will continue his work as foreman for Deckert & McDowell, contractors of Chicago. He has just finished nine months work at the New Haven Ordnance Depot.

Mrs. Constance Maurer and Irvin Fackler, of Fort Wayne, spent the week-end here with Mr. and Mrs. Don Burley and Mrs. Millie Wilson.

The Desert Soldiers

I am sitting here and thinking of
The things I left behind.
I would hate to put in writing
Just what is on my mind.

We have dug a million ditches
And cleared acres of ground,
But there is one consolation
Gathers round me while I tell,
When we die we'll go to heaven
For we've done our stretch in hell.

We have built a million kitchens
For the cooks to burn our beans.
We have stood a million guard mounts
And we've cleaned the camp latrines.

We have slept at night with scorpions,
And peeled a million spuds
And killed a million snakes and ants
That tried to steal our grub.

When our work on earth is over
Then our friends behind will tell
When they died they went to Heaven,
For they've done their stretch in hell.

When the final taps are sounded
And we lay aside life's cares,
And we stand our last inspection
On those shining, golden stairs

The angels they will welcome us,
Their golden harps will play.
It is here we'll hear St. Peter
Tell us loudly with a yell
"Come in, boys, from the desert,
For you have done your stretch in hell."

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH!

"You watch the road, Fe—I'll shift the gears."

"How can I paste all these stickers on my windshield and still see where I'm going?"

Many a wartime motorist has uttered that wail as sticker after sticker, of all sizes and descriptions, has been handed him—each with the stern injunction that it be displayed prominently on his windshield.

It is a situation that has provided radio comedians and cartoonists with many a gag. But the driver is beginning to wander if it's really funny. For one thing, he's running out of windshield. For another, there is a definite accident hazard involved.

The National Safety Council, therefore, has turned its attention to the problem, and its Committee on Special Enforcement Problems has come up with a set of suggestions as to how the bewildered driver can obey the law and still get where he's going in one piece.

The Committee, composed of leading traffic enforcement officials from state and city police throughout the country, is headed by Don F. Stiver, Superintendent of the Indiana State police.

It points out in its report that, while federal, state and city officials are vitally interested in preventing traffic accidents and thereby expediting war traffic, these same agencies nevertheless are steadily adding to the number of identifying stickers that must be displayed on windshields of cars and trucks.

To begin with, drivers are required to reserve windshield space for a Federal Vehicle Use Stamp, a Mileage Rationing Identification Stamp and for official inspection stickers required by states and cities.

In addition, many states and cities are solving the war-time metal problem by issuing stickers instead of license plates for 1943.

Also, many Army bases, Navy yards and war production plants require the display of a sticker as a pass to permit the vehicle to enter or leave a guarded area. Still other stickers are being distributed to indicate membership in the 10 per cent payroll reduction plan, participation in car pools and for admission to industrial parking lots.

Put all these together and you have a display that a pre-war souvenir-minded tourist would have envied.

The council committee realizes that under wartime conditions most of these stickers are necessary. But it does believe that definite limitation should be imposed as to the number, size and place of display. It believes, too, that the average motorist doesn't give enough thought to displaying the stickers so that they obscure the minimum amount of vision.

It offers the following suggestions:

1. Utilize the space at the top center of the windshield, direcly in front of the rear vision mirror, for attachment of the Federal Vehicle Use Stamp. One other small-sized sticker may be placed in the adjoining position without causing additional vison obscurement, since this space is already covered by the mirror. It is suggested also that this second space be reserved for the sticker which serves as an identification pass for Army bases, Navy yards, war plants, etc. Such a sticker, however, should be limited in size to two inches square.

2. Stickers used to indicate payment of vehicle fees to states and cities and to show compliance with motor vehicle inspection regulations, should be placed on the bottom edge of the windshield, starting at the extreme lower right corner. The maximum size suggested for any sticker is three inches square.

4. Eliminate all stickers not actually required to be displayed on the motor vehicle.

5. No sticker of any type should be displayed on the windshield or windows of any motor vehicle without approval as to need, size and placement by the state department in which the authority for for such approval is vested.

By following these suggestions the Committee on Special Enforcement Problems believes the driving war worker, whose safety is so necessary to the all-out war effort, can eliminate a definite driving hazard.

THREE UNITS EXCEED THEIR RED CROSS QUOTA

Only three units in DeKalb County have exceeded the quota in the Red Cross War Relief Campaign and two of these are St. Joe and Spencerville towns. Willard Hurni, local chairman, and Mrs. Winifred Shook, Spencerville chairman, were elated over their success and express their thanks to contributors and solicitors alike.

St. Joe raised $201.55 with a goal of $200, and Spencerville made a slight gain over St. Joe by subscribing $3.40 over the goal, $200, which was assigned them.

Auburn residence, $1,282.90
Auburn schools, $126.05.
Auburn business, $1,741.75.
Auburn factories, $3,790.50.
Auburn organizations, $280.56.
Total Auburn contributions, $7,222.76.
Garrett, $1,618.21.
Corunna, $71.20.
Waterloo, $408.07.
Spencerville, $203.40.
St. Joe, $201.55.
Richland township, $184.80.
Fairfield township, $15.50.
Grant township, $67.00.
Union township, $102.00.
Jackson township, $218.80.
Concord township, $3.00.
Wilmington Twp., $10.00.
Total, $10,326.29.

CONCORD TOWNSHIP ECONOMICS CLUB REPORT

The Concord Township Home Economics Club met Friday, March 18th at the home of Mrs. Millie Shull. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Shull. Opening songs, "America the Beautiful" and "All Through the Night," were led by Catherine Haller. The Club Creed was read by all followd by the Club Prayer.

Secretary's report was read and roll call was responded to with jokes by twenty members also two guests. Mrs. Cora Curie was appointed Out Look Leader. Mary L. Moore, home demonstration agent gave a very interesting lesson on cooking for the sick in the home.

Doris Yeiser and Jennie Hamman each conducted a contest. The hostess, with her committee, Mrs. Laura Burley and Mrs. Anna Hursey, served hot chocolate with marshmallow and butter cookies.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Georgia McMaken, April 16.

The LIONS CLUB

L. W. Yeiser, Publicity

The Lions Club met at the Akins Tea Room for dinner Monday evening, and had as their guests the basket ball teams from the Spencerville and St. Joe schools. The Lions introduced the guest to their right and each was given a hearty welcome.

Lion Fred Stemen reported that the honor roll bearing the names of the boys in Uncle Sam's service from Spencer and the south half of Newville Township had been erected on the Lutheran Church lawn and at present bears 56 names. St. Joe will soon have a like list for the north half of Newville and Concord Townships.

President Leighty recognized the presence of Capt. Chas. Hart, a St. Joe boy who has been in the army for four years and is receiving proper recognition by his government for his devoted service. Capt. Hart, who is an instructor in the officer's training school at Camp Davis, N. C., gave a very interesting talk to the young guests and of course the Lions also enjoyed his remarks. He recounted some of the amusing things that happen in a soldier's life.

Lion Ridgway here took charge and called upon Lion Paschen, who introduced Rev. L. B. Sharp of the Spencerville Methodist Church, the speaker of the evening. His advice to the basket ball boys was wholesome and proper. He stressed the positive things in life as against the negative or less useful pursuits. His remarks were instructive as well as entertaining and the boys and their hosts thank Rev. Sharp for a very worth while twenty minutes.

Carl Simth, of Hicksville, who substituted as coach for the St. Joe team since January first, was introduced and made a short talk.

Several of the basket ball boys made fitting remarks and expressed their appreciation for the wonderful feed and for the loyalty of the fans.

SPENCER TOWNSHIP HOME ECONOMICS CLUB MEETS

On March the tenth the Home Economics Club was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Ruth Baker. The touching sentiments of the songs, "Let the Lower Lights be Burning" and "All Through the Night," were sung as the opening numbers. Mrs. Metta Sharp gave the history of the song of the month.

Responses to roll call were interesting statements of current events. The secretary Mrs. Grace Laub, read the report of the February meeting, and it was accepted as read.

Mrs. Audra Brown of Hamilton, who was a guest, gave a very helpful and encouraging talk, emphasizing the manner in which the club ladies can help to the fullest extent in the war effort. Mrs. Lehr Wilder followed with a health report. Also, a poultry report was presented by Mrs. Winifred Hart.

The club, by a free will offering gave a total of thirteen dollars to the Red Cross Funds of the Town and Township. In the like manner, the usual flower collection was taken. The president appointed the Mesdames Gladys DePew, Hazel Washler and Berneice Wilder as a committee to cooperate in the plans for the county picnic.

Guests of the club besides Mrs. Brown, were Mrs. Grant Chilcote and Mrs. Ross Oberlin, of Hamilton. The meeting was closed with "Auld Lang Syne," followed with prayer by Mrs. Dora Wilder.

Mrs. Hazel Washler was in charge of a fruit contest, enjoyed by all. She then called on Mrs. Metta Sharp to relate to the club her experience and pleasure of a recent trip to Miami, Florida, where she attended the Military Commencement of her son, Charles Sharp, at which time he was commissioned Second Lieutenant. Mrs. Sharp also delighted the ladies with many pictures of this most beautiful Southern Army Camp. The hostess and her assistant, Mrs. Washler, served a very appetizing lunch of sandwiches, cookies and tea. The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Winnifred Hart, with Mrs. Gladys Hart serving as assistant hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wasson and son, Jimmy, and Mr. and Mrs. George Baron and son, Larry, spent the week-end with their mother, Mrs. Eva Wasson. They all took supper Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wasson of near Auburn. Sunday afternoon callers in the Wasson home were Maxine Nicholls and Helen Rickett.

Many a farmer has planted a seed called hope along with his regular spring crops, and prays it develops.

A News reader remarked the other day, that he has noticed that bad habits are usually more expensive than good habits.

In spite of just paying his income tax, many a ball fan is all pepped up over the prospects for this season.

Maybe the reason Mussolini called the Italians home was because he is preparing to make another balcony speech.

Another one of our freedoms, you can put whatever color of curtains you want to next to the street and no decorator can stop you.

MAPLE SUGAR

When the sap begins to come from the sugar maples, spring can't be far behind, though there is still the possibility of the 'sap snow' to cover the ground under the buckets of syrup before the freezing days are dead. One can't help wonder, when they see the snow in the air, if spring has decided to postpone this year's appearance. The temperature drops and nights are cold. But morning finds the thaw and dripping eaves to encourage the dripping sap to produce for man's sweet tooth. Typical maple sugar weather! Certainly nothing is more outstandingly American than this industry. It was handed to us from the early settlers and they found the good from the indian, this procedure of hard work, neighborliness, fun and fragrance. This old world needs some sweetening and now better than with maple sugar.

WE'RE OFF AGAIN!

There we go again. Rationing of meats, edible fats and oils, including butter, cheese and canned fish starts the first of April. It may be April Fool's Day but there is no fooling about rationing. Ask any St. Joe or Spencerville wife! We have expected this limitation for some time and believe it will work out that there will be more people who will have their meat meals than during the days when there was no limit—and no meat. Rationing is supposed to slow down and perhaps stop entirely the black market trade. Those consumers who would pay the high prices won't be able to buy such quantities now. The meat allotment will supply us with enough of the food to keep us up to par in health. Our boys in many of the theatres of war, aren't getting as much and they are holding their own, and more! We wouldn't enjoy a roast much if we felt that by paying a black market price we are keeping tinned beef from a neighbor's boy in the Solomons. The black market affected the camps and their supply of meat for the soldiers, here at home. No T-bone steak is worth it, is it? We are being given more coffee, points reduced in certain dried foods, which shows that as a supply increases we will benefit from it. Sure we'll manage and though it is going to cause the local cooks to scratch their heads for varied meals and new and tasty dishes, our women are as resourceful as those of any country and our men will help by ceasing to be so "finicky" and give encouragement to the lady with the ladle.

Thunder and Lightening

What we heard in St. Joe last week, come April showers, wasn't a dive bomber attacking the local post office or a 16 mm. gun firing on a schoolhouse. It was Mother Nature giving you her spring weather barrage with a first class electrical storm. Perhaps you felt from the force that trees and barns and gardens would be washed out. A spring thunderstorm can do damage we know. Nature reminds you of your snug, comfortable home, that you lie in an easy bed protected by a sturdy roof over your head. She suggests you are a fortunate individual since this doesn't turn out to be an air raid, that the security won't be interrupted by an incendiary bomb plopped down your chimney. She is prodding your gratitude a bit as she turns on the spring song in crescendo and staccato!

SOUNDS GOOD

The Office of Defense Transportation is urging state legislatures to adopt a uniform set of traffic laws, which has long been the idea of many a traveler. It will eliminate many state barriers with regard to loads and lengths of vehicles, make speed laws uniform and free movement of vital war materials at borderlines, reduce and regulate traffic all necessary in time of war. They are making a drive to prevent accidents in factories too, which sounds necessary and sensible. Accidents last year totaled enough time lost in manhours to build a fleet of more than twenty thousand four-engined bombers! Much at home needs attention and all our time can't be spared for foreign affairs.

For your spring cleaning take a tip from a subscriber who suggests making your own upholstery cleanser. Dissolve one cup mild soap shavings or a mild soap powder in four cups of boiling water. Cool and beat with egg beater until fluffy. Dip a small clean brush into the foam and scrub a small area at a time. Wipe suds off quickly with a clean cloth. Rinse thoroughly with another cloth frequently wrung out in clean water, being sure to change this water often! Wipe upholstery as dry as possible with soft cloth.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

The long-term Department of Agriculture campaign for farm kitchen gardens, which were urgently needed even befor the present emergency, has been given new impetus because of shortages of some store-bought foods. Hundreds of thousands of farm families from Maine to California have enlisted in the nation-wide "live-at-home" or home food supply program. The great expansion of farm gardening will insure greater nutritional values for the farm family diet and hence better health for the country's growers of wartime foods.

A recent provision of rationing regulations, requiring purchasers of dry peas, beans and lentils for garden planting to secure special ration certificates from these vegetable seeds, has been dropped. These products, if intended solely for seed purposes, are exempt from rationing, and farmers and Victory Gardeners need not lose time now by going to rationing boards for seed purchase certificates.

The great majority of Indiana's farms are geared to war food production and their operators are familiar with the national food requirements for energy-building foods. The farm labor shortage will be relieved as far as possible by the U. S. Crop Corps, now in process of organization and training. But food growers will have to keep in mind that in any conversion of their crops to wartime demands, the energy-giving foods recommended by the Department of Agriculture must take precedence over all others. By a great effort we will have enough labor for handling and processing this year's primary crops, but there'll be none to spare for less essential farm operations.

Indiana farmers who hire temporary labor during the planting and harvesting season, and other seasonal employers who hire workmen for periods of less than 30 days may obtain rationed foods needed to feed them by applying to their local rationing boards. Growers of perishable products may experience a shortage of refrigerator cars at the height of the season, because of the general shift from canned goods to fresh products and the resulting demand for refrigerated space.

With the approach of warm weather the consumption of gasoline for essential civilian and for agricultural purposes will rise sharply. At the same time our fighters overseas will be needing ever larger supplies of gasoline and fuel oil, which can best be shipped from east coast ports. This means that although pleasure driving has been placed on a vountary basis, every driver should see that no unnecessary driving is done. Another obligation of the auto owner is to watch his tires, have them inspected regularly, and above all, see that they are recappd when the tire is worn smooth.

The War Production Board has asked Indiana for a collection of 542,000 tons of scrap metal during the six months' period ending June 30 and 83,000 tons of this amount is to come from farms. This means that an average of 1000 pounds per farm is needed to reach the goal.

Substituting products, developed because of shortages of critical materials, are doing much to keep "main floor" merchandise of department stores attractive and plentiful. Among oher changes in these products are simpler packaging for beauty aids, plastics widely used in costume jewelry, umbrellas with wooden frames, and the like.

Cotton fabric supplies for civilians this year are fairly substantial in spite of military and lend-lease requirements, since cotton fabric production last year reached an all-time high of more than 11 billion linear yards. And horsehide leather is still available for work gloves, garments for heavy duty workers, certain footwear and a few other civilian items.

The daughter of a grocer, Josephine was born in wind-swept

JOSEPHINE ANTOINE

Boulder, Colorado. She was crazy about rodeos, graduated from the State University, and thinks she is not "unusual". Except for her voice, of course, which has been acclaimed for its tone, flexibiltiy and warmth.

Her climb to success up the ladder of American radio, beginning with an Atwater Kent award in 1929, landed her in the Metropolitan Opera House at 21, where she enjoyed the distinction of being the first coloratura in 25 years. The date of that debut, January, 1936, marked the first time an opera was heard and broadcast at the same time.

Now featured soloist of the "Contented Hour" Monday programs and a member of the Metropolitan, Chicago, and San Francisco Opera Companies, she is the personification of the new type opera star — possessing a coloratura voice, acting ability, a radiant personality, and a generous helping of "it".

Mrs. Millie Wilson spent over Monday night and Tuesday in Fort Wayne with her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Rosenberry and little son in the Lutheran Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. George Berry, of Richmond, Ind., were Sunday guests in the Mrs. Mary Betz home. Miss Jeanne Hatch, of Fort Wayne, was a Saturday night and Sunday visitor also.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bachellor of Payne, Ohio, and their son, Private Reinard Bachellor, of Moody Field, Ga., and Mrs. James Butt, of Woodburn, were Sunday afternoon guests in the home of Mrs. W. R. Bachellor and daughter, Thelna.

Taxpayers should be especially considerate of the local assessors this year. The law does not require the assessors to call upon a taxpayer more than once and additional calls are merely accomodation. Because of gasoline and tire rationing, the assessor should be given complete cooperation so that one visit will be sufficient.

James Dove, 86, retired Jackson township farmer, died at Souder's Hospital Saturday night of old age and bronchial pneumonia. Joseph Ferguson conducted the funeral Monday afternoon and burial was made in Roselawn Cemetery. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Minnie Armstrong, of Auburn, and Mrs. Laura Higgins, of Jackson township. His wife passed away in 1920.

Cannery tomatoes is one of the "must" crops for 1943. Every tomato grower who can is urged to grow a bumper crop, for this fruit will plan an important part in keeping our forces on every front in fighting trim. Government, lease-lend, and home requirements must all be filled. Indiana is the national leader in the production of tomatoes for canning purposes, and that makes the obligation of fulfilling the 1943 goals, more than ever important.

Each independent retailer of pork and pork products in DeKalb county who does less than $250,000 of business annually must go to the local war price and rationing board before March 31 to pick up his OPA pork price list and explanatory OPA bulletins, John P. Hoff, board chairman announces. Failure by any retailer of pork to post the official price list in his establishment on and after April 1, effective date of the new regulation setting dollars-and-cents retail prices for most pork products, will constitute a violation of the law, Mr. Hoff said.

A reduction of 65 per cent in the number of fatalities and a reduction of 48 per cent in the number of motor vehicle accidents on the state highway system during February, as compared with the same month in 1942, has been announced. During February a total of 14 fatalities in motor vehicle accidents on the state highway system were reported with a total of 748 accidents listed. For February, 1942, there were 41 fatalities in motor vehicle accidents on the state highway system, with a toal of 1407 accidens reported.

WATCH YOUR STEPS

The shoe limitation won't be such a hardship with most of us here in St. Joe, since a great many perhaps don't average three new pairs of shoes a year in normal times. But with small children scuffing about, outgrowing shoes in no time at all, then it's another matter. Due to the fact that our government needs heavy sole leathers for our fighting forces, there was a reduced supply and the market was threatened since many folks who are making more money than ever before, were spending it on those things that were available, taxing the supply consequently. They did it with groceries, you recall. We are going to have to take care of our old shoes, keep them in repair and watch our steps! Our shoe production this year will be cut one hundred and fifty million pairs, so somebody will have to go barefooted this summer if they don't watch out.

Uncle Sam's Newest Tank Team

Here's a team that should give General Rommel many sleepless nights in North Africa. Pictured at the left is an M-4 tank of welded construction, the Army's standard 30-ton land battle wagon. At the right is an entirely new weapon known as a "tank destroyer." It is faster than a tank and carries terrific fire power. The new destroyer, which is known as an M-10 now is being produced on a volume basis at the tank arsenal of the Fisher Body Division of General Motors.

GANGWAY FOR TANKS..

LOOK up at the transmission lines that crisscross America — then close your eyes and think of them as highways of power that are the very arteries of our industry. Traveling over them is the energy that makes tanks and guns and planes.

The mechanization of warfare has brought about enormous demands for power to build the war machine. Today, in this country, we have five times the power that was available in the last war — it is the greatest power-devouring war in history. During the past year, this Company delivered 370 million horse-power hours to large industries.

As a horse can do the work of ten men, multiply that figure by ten to find the number of man hours that it represents. The power was available because experienced business management had provided wide margins of security in planning its facilities for public service in peace and in war.

Lt. James R. Maxwell, who spent a leave of several days with his father, Roy Maxwell, and his sister, Patricia Maxwell, of east of St. Joe, is now stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. He has completed his duties at Camp Robinson, Ark., and on completion of his leave reported to his new assignment. His new address will be:

Lt. James R. Maxwell, Co. B., 290th Inf. Reg., A. P. O. No. 451, Ft. Leonard Wood, Missouri.

P. F. C. Max L. Markle, of Spencerville, has been promoted to above rank and has entered school at Atlanta Ordnance Base, for three months schooling as Auto Mechanic. Max says the school is very interesting and he likes it very much. His new address is: P. F. C. Max L. Markle, 1st. Prov. Co. 1st. Prov. Bn., Atlanta Ordnance Base, Atlanta, Georgia, Bks. No. 448.

Corp. James Draggoo has been sent to Kansas City, Mo., from Las Vegas, New Mexico, and now is in advanced training sponsored by the T. W. A. Airlines. His new address is: Corp. James Draggoo, T. W. A. Advanced Training Flight A, Class 11-43, 2605 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.

Geo. T. Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hart, formerly of Coburntown vicinity, but now of Jonesville, Mich., was recently promoted to P. F. C., in recognition of his combined abilities as a soldier and mechanic.

Junior Bowser, son of Mrs. Estella B. Bowser, of St. Joe, who is located at Ft. Riley, Kansas, has his Corporal stripes and in a couple of weeks will receive his Sergeant stripes. He is training new recruits. His wife, Christine, left for Fort Riley, Monday of this week and will remain with her husband as long as he is stationed at this place.

More local men are made available for military service according to action of selective service board last week. They are Weldon W. Reas, Carleton R. Wilmot. Walter S. Ervin, Howard N. Thimlar, of Rt. 1, and Dallas Zimmerman of Spencerville.

Edgar Lysher and Harold Yeiser leave for Toledo today (Thursday) for their examination for the Army.

Mrs. Anna Hursey reports that official notice from the government has been received stating that Woodrow Boggess, who is in North Africa, has been reported missing since Feb. 17. Her last letter from him was January 26th.

Hearsel S. Shockley, of Spencerville, has been enlisted for Navy Air Force pilot training under the current program which admits 17-year-olds, it was announced today by the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board in Chicago.

Cadet Shockley, who is the first man in this area to be enlisted under the new program, participates in basketball and softball at Spencerville High School from which he graduates this spring.

The program under which future fliers of the fleet are now accepted requires that 17-year-olds will be graduated from high school by June 30, 1943 or already have been graduated and that they rank in the upper half of their class. A recommendation also must be received from their high school principal before they will be permitted to take the regular Naval aviation cadet examination. Seventeen year-olds in college must maintain a scholastic average in the upper two-thirds of their class and be recommended by their college head.

Men enlisted now will not be called for training until they are 18 years old and have been graduated from high school. On completion of pilot training they will receive a commission as Ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve or as Second Lieutenant in U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, with a minimum salary of $246 a month, and be awarded the cherished Navy Wings of Gold.

Difficult examinations, especially physical, must be passed to qualify as a Naval cadet trainee. The training period commences after the waiting list is exhausted and the cadet is graduated from school. Pay while a trainee starts at $78, and opportunities for officer advancement are numerous under this V-5 classification.

Prospective students for the Army Specialized Training Program will take qualifying examinations in Room 3 of Spencerville High School at 9 A. M. on Friday, April 2, Mr. Everett Paschen Principal announced today.

"Most boys accepted for either the Army Specialized Training Program or the Navy College Training Program will eventually become commissioned officers in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard," Mr. Paschen said. "The Army and the Navy will pay all expenses at the colleges of students selected on the basis of the tests on April 2. Since there will be no further tests for some months, all high school students or recent graduates will have to take the April 2 examinations to qualify for this training. This is an excellent opportunity for every ambitious boy, especially for those who are likely to be drafted within the next year."

The purpose of the tests is to aid in the selection of prospective officer material for the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard. The examinations are designed to test the aptitude and general knowledge of the candidates who will express a choice for the Army or Navy at the time of the examinations. Those who are selected for either the Army Specialized Training Program or the Navy College Training Program will attend college with all expenses paid by the respective services.

Hello Everyone:

Here I am in snow, and cold Tennessee. It's been snowing all morning, but melts about as fast as it falls. It isn't real cold out but we are sleeping in pup tents. Night before last we had a cloud burst and it drowned us out of our tents. We had our tent dammed up with mud but there was too much water it came over the top. Imagine sleeping on the ground and having six inches of water pour in on you. The heck of it was to have to put on wet clothes and no place to dry them off.

The Hill Billies around here want to know when we are going to bring "them thar big tanks in here."

This is Sunday but we work just as if it was any other day. We are about one and a half miles from the Warren and Coffee County Line. About a mile out of Morrison, Tenn. The population is 278 and I believe 200 of them are women and girls. The boys call it "Soldiers Paradise."

Glad to hear that everyone back home is O. K. Tell them all I said Hello.

Our snow is turning to rain now. First day of spring and we have seen about everything except the sun. It may be slow like the people that live down here and come out later just give it a littl more time.

Well it's so long for now, I'll write more later.

Love to all,

Sgt. Wayne W. Bowser, Hq. Co., 81st A. R., A. P. O. No. 255, Camp Forrest, Tenn. U. S. Army.

Ft. Benning, Ga.—Dale Deloss Collins, of St. Joe, Ind., was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army of the United States March 23, 1943, upon completion of the Officer Candidate Course at the Infantry School at Fort Benning. Lt. Collins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Collins of St. Joe, Indiana.

The new lieutenant was inducted into the army on April 15, 1941 and served with the 152nd Inf. 38th Div., 798th MP Bn., before going to Officer Candidate School three months ago. He held the ranx of Staff Sergeant before being commissioned.

The new officer is a graduate of St. Joe High School at St. Joe, Indiana, where he was prominent in high school athletics.

At the Infantry School, world's largest institution of its kind, the local officer took a three months course to fit him for his new responsibilties. The course covers the technique of handling all the varied modern infantry weapons and the tactics of leading small infantry units in combat. It also includes study of many varied subjects which future officers must know along the lines of administration, military law, etc.

The men who attend the Officer Candidate School are the best privates, corporals and sergeants from the entire army selected by their superiors for outstanding intelligence and qualities of leadership. During the course even the mildly incapable are weeded out, so that men who graduate with commissions are America's finest soldiers, fully qualified to be the leaders in our new army.

ST. JOE ELECTS OFFICIALS THIS FALL

A large proportion of the 431 incorporated towns in Indiana will hold their regular elections in November to select new town trustees and clerk-treasurers, and St. Joe will be one of them.

Inasmuch as the general elections do not govern voting in the towns special instructions are being sent to the various localities by the Republican and Democratic state central committees. Qualifications of voters in town elections are the same as required in general elections with the exception that voter registration is not mandatory. On the other hand, residents of the town are permitted to vote by the absentee method.

Nominations for town offices are made by the party precinct committeemen living within the town limits, assembled in convention. Each town committee shall consist of a chairman, a vice chairman, of opposite sex, a secretary and a treasurer. Organization of town committees must be completed before the last Saturday in September, which also is the last date for nominations. All party adherents who will be qualified to vote in November are permitted to participate in the selection of tickets at the town convention or caucus.

In many towns of the state the matter of party adherence is forgotten to advance fusion, independent and citizens' tickets.

TELLS COMPLAINERS TO BOW IN PRAYER

Several residents of Miami Beach, Florida, filed written complaints recently about the early morning singing of the troops in training.

Said Col. Parker in an open letter:

"The singing will continue.

"Moreover—please arise at the first sound of military activity each morning and get down on your knees with all the members of your household who are disturbed thereby, and offer thanks to God Almighty with me and all the rest of us, that those are Americans singing American songs, and not Germans and Japanese singing victory songs in American streets."

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. Carl Perkins, March 24th. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Leslie Wilbern and the collect read by Mrs. Ed. Storer.

The lesson on Uruguay was given by Mrs. C. C. Woodcox and on Paraguay by Mrs. Carl Carpenter. The critic's review was given by Mrs. Fred B. Leighty.

Election of officers was held with the following results:

President, Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser; vice president, Mrs. Allen Haller; recording secretary, Mrs. Maurice Kline; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Carl Carpenter; treasurer, Mrs. C. C. Woodcox; critic, Mrs. Fred Leighty; parliamentarian, Mrs. C. O. Krise.

Each year the club sells articles made by the blind and this year $13.17 worth were sold. A fund is also asked for a Memorial for the Blind and one dollar was voted for this fund. One dollar was also voted out for the county club dues. The book committee reported that the Good Housekeeping magazine was to be used for study during the next club year.

Meeting was adjourned to meet with Mrs. Glen Cole April 7 for our annual Bible evening. The hostess served fruit salad, cookies and coffee.

FARM RESIDENCE IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

The farm residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stemen, of Jackson township, was completely destroyed by fire last Thursday afternoon. The blaze is believed to have started from a defective flue as the top of the two story structure was in flames when the fire was discovered.

The Auburn fire deparment was called but the fire had gained big headway when the firemen reached the scene which is five and a half miles southeast of Auburn. No water supply was available but the firemen used supply from the booster tank on the truck to save a two-car garage which was located near the house.

Mr. Stemen was not at home at the time but Mrs. Stemen summoned neighbors and many of the household furnishings were saved. It is estimated that 500 cans of home canned fruit and vegetables in the basement were lost.

The wind, fortunately, was in the right direction to carry sparks away from the barn and this building was not endangered.

Insurance in the amount of $1,400 on the house and $400 on the contents was carried by Mr. Stemen in the DeKalb County Farmers Mutual Insurance Co.

"Even though it's a Victory garden, says Frank Sellers, "many a St. Joe man is going to be tempted when he spades and finds fishing worm."

eyes wide open. Knowledge of its presence can lead to a cure, for cancer can be cured! It has been successfully routed when the cancer is caught in the early stages. This is definite and also encouraging.

The reason for April being set aside to stress the importance of cancer is because medical science has been handicapped by the public in its work to curb the increasing growth of cancer cases. Knowledge is power and only through cooperation can medicine do the patient any good. Therefore the public must be educated. Cancer clinics have been established through the country, but people will still say as a lump forms or grows, "it'll go away!" They still overlook the sore that fails to heal, the wart or mole that increases in size, indigestion that persists and they become only slightly upset over an irregular bleeding or discharge from a body opening. These signals are danger signs, hammering home the facts. Knowing the facts may help to save lives, and perhaps to finally give science the cause of cancer.

TIN AGAIN

We are at it again! No home can say they do not know the importance of tin today. The whole country knows it and every one is asked to CONTINUE to save the tin cans used in the kitchens of St. Joe and Spencerville, and deliver to their Grocer. Some cities have asked their block wardens or leaders to keep housewives informed of the necessity, all of the time. They are to remind the people that there has been no substitute found for tin and that one can is 1 per cent tin and 99 per cent steel. One can yields enough tin for that amount of tin to make SIX hand grenades, four cans make enough for a bomb. One ton of tin goes into a light tank and three tons produce a bomber. The first enthusiasm for tincan collection has died down, but this war isn't won yet, housewives!

MORE THAN THEIR PART

American farmers deliberately refusing to plant until guaranteed help doesn't hold true about farmers around St. Joe and Spencerville. They too have their problems but haven't ceased to do more than their share in co-operating until help is forthcoming. They will do all in their power to stick to the guns, which is going about their daily work in the best way they can as they have done for years in the past. They, many of them, haven't forgotten the aftermath of the first World War and how we fed a starving Europe. Out of the twenty million tons of food sent there in 1919, sixteen million came from the United States! This amounted to over three billions of dollars in cost. At the end of this war there will be three times as many people who could starve if we fail to look ahead. There is more than a year's harvest of wheat filling the bins in our country now yet we must store more wheat from the 1943 crop for the grim future. All of this our farmers know, that we must have reserve stores, saving and growing always thinking of tomorrow. They feel that in some way their produce will reach storage bins, canning factories, consumer's tables. They believe that men will DO SOMETHING in legislation to prevent anarchy among starving nations—for always remember that a hungry, starving people are a desperate people. Should we want to know how these countries are going to pay for this food before we will plant and reap? Do we refuse to garner crops until foreign markets, trade agreements, prices is ironed out satisfactorily? Hunger might not wait. No, our farmers will toil in their fields, plant acreage in vegetables, tend the fruit and berries, care for their live stock and poultry, doing more than their part with what they have to work with. With them it's a "business as usual."

The song of the calliope will be heard again in the land this year the government having decided that circus trains may roll once more. But the war is still the greatest show on earth, and the office of Defense Transportation hedged its permission with a ringmaster-like announcement that circus-train travel will bave to be an aftershow to "all other train movements whether freight, passenger or mixed freigh and passenger movements.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Turkey growers plan to raise about 37 million turkeys this year, according to February 1 returns from over 5,000 farmers throughout the United States. This would be the largest crop of turkeys ever produced in this country—12 per cent larger than the 1942 crop. In Indiana there was an estimated 45,000 turkey hens on farms on January 1, 1942. This number had grown to 52,000 last January 1—an increase of nearly 15 per cent. During 1942 Hoosier farmers raised an estimated 394,000 turkeys. Plans call for raising 512,000 during 1943—an increase of 30 per cent.

A developing black market in white seed potatoes, which were being sold for human consumption at fancy prices, has been nipped by government action. Their sale is now prohibited except for planting, and a fixed price carries them 75 cents a bushel above table stock prices.

High protein feeds, needed to secure production of high protein foods, such as milk, eggs, and meats, are so much in demand that supplies of high-protein concentrates must be fairly distributed, with no waste whatever, if they are to meet minimum feed requirements this year. There are sufficient amounts of these feeds available, providing that farmers, feed distributors, and feed manufacturers co-operate in adopting conservation measures.

Farmers are assured enough gasoline for their basic needs for running trucks as well as for fueling tractors or stationary engines, but applications for extra amounts should go to the county war boards, to be forwarded to the rationing board, or they may be mailed directly to the local ration board. Tractor and implement tires that need recapping will be capped with material made almost entirely of reclaimed rubber, and no new tires will be allotted if the old ones can be recapped....Only limited quantities of stove pipes and elbows will be obtainable next winter, so all the pipes now in use should be thoroughly cleaned, painted with heat-resisting paint, and wrapped in heavy paper before they are stored for the summer.

Living costs of city workers were up 0.2 per cent in the month ending February 15, bringing the cost of living to a level 22.6 per cent above August 15, 1939. The cost of goods and services under price control remained unchanged, but there were rises in uncontrolled foods, goods, services, some kinds of house furnishings and living room suites. Were it not for rigid price controls over hundreds of items and services all prices governing the cost of living would have skyrocketed long ago.

Extension of point rationing on March 29 to cover meats, cheese, butter, fats and oils will raise several problems for the farmer, especially if he slaughters any animals for selling off the farm.

CANCER MONTH

April has been set aside as Cancer Control Month and well might we put up a defense against its lawlessness on the human body. Medical science still continues its war on cancer through constant research, fighting it with its weapons of radium, X-ray, surgery, and will go on to save lives in spite of the common belief that cancer cannot be controlled. There is one decided fact about the disease which is acknowledged by the medical profession and which is also known to most of St. Joe. To delay in stopping its growth, after cancer is present, is courting disaster with your

This Is the Army, Mr. Jones

When, on April 6, the nation observes Army day, it will be the first such observance since the point system of food rationing was inaugurated for the civilian population. The above picture does much to show why rationing was necessary. This mountain of food is what it takes to train a bombardier cadet for 12 weeks at the San Angelo army air field in West Texas, where bombardiers leave by the hundreds for the fighting fronts.

A "farm slaughterer" is defined as a resident farm operator who in 1941 delivered meat having a total live weight of not more than 10,000 pounds. If he is engaged in selling meat in 1943, he must—

(a) Secure a slaughter permit from his county war board by March 31. To qualify for a permit he must be operating under federal, state, county or city inspection, or must certify that he has adequae sanitary and other facilities for slaughtering.

(b) Furnish with his application the information called for as to the amount of meat he slaughtered in 1941; If he is unable to do so he may either (1) accept a quota for 1943 of 300 pounds of meat to be sold or (2) sell the meat from three animals, including not more than one head of cattle.

Each farm slaughterer is required to collect ration points, according to the official schedule of point values for each ration period, and he must make complete reports on all meat sold or transferred by him. Price ceilings apply to all meats sold, and beef, veal, lamb and mutton must be graded according to U. S. Department of Agriculture standards.

SPRING ANGLERS HAVE MONTH OF SPORT

Local anglers have the month of April in which to enjoy spring fishing in Indiana lakes and streams before the season closes on April 30th to protect fish during the breeding period.

Fishing has taken on a new importance throughout Indiana this year as a result of the rationing of beef and pork. It is anticipated that there will be an increased number of anglers this year, seeking fish to supplement the family menu. Figures compiled for 1942 show that approximately four million pounds of game fish were taken from Indiana waters that year, with nearly as large a catch of the non-game species such as carp, buffalo, suckers, etc.

Under Indiana laws the open season for the taking of bass, bluegills and other designated game species will end on April 30 to reopen on June 16. This closed season does not mean a suspension of activity for the angler as there is no closed season for the taking of the non-game species of fish. In addition the open season for taking trout in Indiana begins on May 1 and continues until August 31.

There has been no change in the Indiana law requiring that all persons eighteen years of age and over must have a license to fish in the waters of this state. Only exceptions are the resident landowner and tenant of farmlands who can fish without licenses on such land only. Neither has there been any change in the laws regarding open seasons, bag and possession limits, or prohibiting the sale and purchase of fish and the game species.

The music world today mourns the loss of one of its most distinguished figures. Sergi Rachmaninoff, the noted pianist, composer and conductor, is dead. He passed away Sunday after two weeks illness at his Beverly Hills home in California, as a result of pneumonia and complications which developed. This noted musician was known to millions of Americans, having toured the country many times since establishing permanent residence in the United States in 1917 after leaving Russia.

Farmers who make butter or lard wlil not be required to secure a permit from the Department of Agriculture. However, they will be required to collect points for the sale of any butter or lard, and such points are to be turned in to the local board, along with a simple monthly report to check the butter and lard sold with the points received. As in meat, farmers who supply their own butter or lard are requested to set aside stamps from the individual War Ration Book No. 2 in the household during the time they consumed their own products.

In the future motorists in Indiana will be unable to buy new automobile license plates until the first week in February under a new legislative enactment. Previously new license plates could be bought in January. Operators and chauffeurs licenses expire the last day of February following the year of issuance and they too now go on sale February 1 so that all licenses expire on the same date.

Claiming that the defendant was at fault for a collision that took place at the intersection of the Wallen Road and State Road No. 1 in Allen County July 4, 1941, Edward R. Deventer Saturday filed a suit in the DeKalb Circuit Court against Lester Coburn for $400 damage to a Ford coach. The accident occurred at 1 A. M., with the plaintiff driving north and the defendant west. The plaintiff says the defendant failed to yield the right of way.

The Home Nursing Class which has been in progress at St. Joe, has completed a twenty hour course taught by Mrs. Erthenia Quance, DeKalb County Red Cross Nurse. APRIL DESIGNATED AS HOME SAFETY MONTH

Block leaders of the State Civilian Defense organization, the U. S. Citizens Service Corps, and Neighborhood Leaders of the Agricultural Extension Service, will make a house-to-house canvass thru out Indiana to ask Hoosier housewives to make their homes safe, Clarence A. Jackson, State Director of Civilian Defense, said today.

The canvass will implement the proclamation issued by Governor Henry F. Schricker last Wednesday, designating the month of April as "Indiana Home Safety Mobilization Month," for the purpose of curtailing loss of manpower and time needed in the war effort, through preventable accidents.

Block Leaders, and rural neighborhood Leaders, who are now undergoing intensive training in home safety, will present each housewife with a safety inspection check list bearing a pledge to remedy unsafe conditions and practices in her home, Mr. Jackson said. The canvass is to begin on or before April 10th.

In a joint statement issued today, Mr. Jackson and Col. John Stillwell, President of the National Safety Council, pointed out that Indiana's home accident death rate is 24 per cent higher than the national home accident rate.

"This year more than ever before," Mr. Jackson said, "this appalling figure must be sharply reduced. Indiana cannot have a clear conscience about its war activity unless it reduces the number of home accidents which threaten to cripple production for victory."

"Home accidents," said Col. Stillwell, "do not happen; they are caused. And their causes are easily eliminated or corrected. This is the purpose of the Statewide canvass, which was outlined by the National Safety Council and will be carried through by the Indiana State Defense Council, Agricultural Extension Service, the Indiana Farm Bureau and other interested organizations."

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVIII (58 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, APRIL 8, 1943 NUMBER 14

New addresses of the week: Pvt. Glen Freeburn, Co. "I" 511 Parachute Inf., A. P. O. No. 468, Camp Mackall, Hoffman, N. Carolina.

Pvt. Robert G. Kimes, son of Mrs. Minnie Kimes of Fort Wayne, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kimes of Spencerville, is now stationed at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Illinois. He was formerly employed at the General Electric Co., in Ft. Wayne.

Pvt. Louis Schaefer only son Herman and Nellie Schaefer of southeast of Spencerville now has the following address: Pvt. Louis Schaefer 35548241, Co. F, 387 Infantry, A. P. O., 445 Camp Swift, Texas.

Louis Bleeks is home on a ten day furlough from Greenville, North Carolina, arriving here Thursday. Max Dressel was also home from Camp Phillips, Kansas. Both fellows are looking fine and like the army life SO FAR.

Mrs. Pluma Hamilton received a card from the U. S. O. at Kansas City, Mo., last week and we reproduce the message as follows: "Your son, Jimmie, is a visitor at the Club tonight. We hope that our cup of coffee will be a 'pepper upper' for him. We feel that it is a privilege to serve the men in uniform. We hope to help keep them fit for Uncle Sam and for the Mothers of the U. S. A. until Victory. We pray that the boys will all soon be home again. With many good wishes I am, Mrs. J. Cowman."

The following letter was received by Cecil Shilling from his son Lynn:

March 7, 1943

Dear Dad:

"I am going to write you a few lines today to let you know that I am in good health. I have never felt better than I do now. Have been in the South Pacific for about two months. Can't tell you just where but it is a long way from home.

If I remember right this is the only letter I have ever written to you, have been thinking of writing to you for some time. I think I am the only one that is overseas. I look for Ed to go over pretty soon. Haven't heard from any of them for three or four months. Ed and Roy are both in the Army.

We have a pretty good time out here. We have a few fruits such as bananas, pineapples and a few others. Have a few bananas hanging out back now should be getting ripe soon.

There are a lot of native villages around us. The other night we had a native dance. Had a swell time. A couple of native girls did the hula. Boy were they good. The only white women on the Island are nurses and only a few of them. The others are all black. The natives speak the English language a little and are all very friendly.

Think this is about all I can say. Maybe I have said too much, are not supposed to say much about the Island.

I hope this letter finds you in as good health as I am, and also Grandmother. I am expecting an answer to this letter just as soon as you get it.

Your loving son,,

P. F. C. Lynn L. Shilling, VMF 441, MAG 13 U. S. M. C., % Fleet Post Master, San Francisco, California.

Overseas
March 29, 1943

Dearest Mother and Sister:

Well, seeing that things are so quiet here tonight I will sit down and write you a few lines to let you know that everything is just fine and as well as can be expected in this country.

I haven't gone bowling for quite awhile. About all I have been doing is going to the movies and keeping up on my office work for the officer. There sure is a lot of typing to be done when one is a yoeman. About all I do is sit around and pound this machine all day long. I have lost some of my speed but eventually it will come back to me. The boys here in the Postoffice say that I am the best typist they have seen for some time. I just can't get over the habit I learned in school of fast typing that Mr. Wilbern taught me.

How is everything going back home by now? Well, it is just about two months or a little better before I will be starting back Indiana way. I will not be able to spend much time at home because most of it will be taken up by traveling across the country. Sure would like to see some of my Buddies that are in the Service.

Well, Mother, this is about all I can think of tonight so will bring this to a close now with all my love and best regards to the folks back home.

Here's hoping that tomorrow brings me a letter or two from you and any one else that remembers me. I will try to write again tomorrow night providing that a carload of mail doesn't come in. Until that time comes I remain your loving Son and Brother,

Burl Rude, Jr.

BOYS WHO LEAVE COUNTY THURSDAY

Melvin E. Bartels, R. 1, Garrett.
Wilbur E. Hose, R. 3, Butler.

Hose was appointed acting corporal in command.

NEW PLEA TO SAVE WASTE FATS MADE

A new appeal is made by Mrs. Blanche South, of Auburn, chairman of the women's salvage program in DeKalb county, to housewives to save waste fats. In emphasizing the need of this wartime activity she said:

"Our government needs great quantities of glycerine for the manufacture of munitions and explosives. Glycerine is obtained from fats, greases and oils formerly imported. With imports cut off by the war, the supply must come from the kitchens of America.

"Indiana has been given a quota of 556,000 pounds each month. This means that every household should save one pound per month, or one tablespoon full per day. This really seems like an easy thing to do and if it is done we shall meet our quota in Indiana.

"More than a billion pounds of waste fats and greases, it is estimated, go down the drains and into garbage cans of American kitchens each year. Since fats are 10% glycerine, this would mean 100 million pounds of glycerine a year, or five times what is needed to keep us out of the red. You will do your part, won't you?

"No one is asked to make unnecessary sacrifices if they choose not to do so. I do, however, urge that after cooking fats and greases have served their purpose, every housewife should save and sell them to her favorite meat market or grocery store. This will start them on their way to help win this war.

"The reserve stock of fats in the United States is rapidly dwindling because our people are not fully aware of the fact that we should save every ounce of fats, greases and drippings. The successful operation of this war will be definitely hindered unless this reserve stock pile is kept up.

"I am especially asking all farmers and stock men to please call their nearest renderer when they have dead stock—if you bury or burn them you are wasting great quantities of valuable fats. All fats which are usually thrown away at butchering time should also be carefully rendered and turned in if not usable.

"Please remember that approximately 100 pounds of fats and greases produce 12 pounds of glycerine. Twelve pounds of glycerine produces 25 pounds of nitro-glycerine. Twenty-five pounds of nitro-glycerine produces 66 pounds of ballistic, the base for all munitions.

"Two pounds of waste fats and greases will produce enough glycerine to make five anti-tank shells.

"Indiana is producing less than one-fourth of its quota now—we have done such a fine job in all other war efforts that we can't afford to fall down now—make up your mind today that we can count on you.

"Remember, only one tablespoon full saved each day will do the job. Let's not wait until tomorrow. Let's begin today."

Harry Randall is improving from his heart attack last week. Helen is here taking care of him being called from Ohio where she is helping her relatives.

EXCESS SPEED MAY BRING RESTRICTIONS

Drivers who "high ball" may expect to find themselves behind their rationing board "eight ball," Indiana state police said today in warning Hoosier motorists that the arrival of spring weather is no excuse for exceeding the 35 mile an hour wartime speed limit.

In enforcing the emergency speed order, state police troopers are citing violators to the state rationing board in addition to court prosecution in cases where arrests are made. A total of 440 motorists were arrested between the first of the year and March 15, records show, and in the same period 1,112 warning tickets were issued.

"While an effort has been made to relax tire rationing restrictions, the purpose is to maintain motor transportation and is no indication that fast driving and pleasure riding can be resumed," said Don F. Stiver, state police superintendent. Excessive driving and speeding may bring further gasoline restrictions to the midwest, he asserted.

State troopers report widest disobedience to the speed edict among holders of "B" and "C" gasoline rationing stickers.

Warning tickets, marked "tire rationing board," are given to drivers observed violating the wartime speed limit, and copies of the ticket are sent to the state OPA tire rationing board office. Truck violations are reported to ODT office. Motorists arrested for speeding in posted zones, driving recklessly at excessive speeds or who otherwise abuse their tires are reportd to rationing boards, the state police official said.

—LOCAL SCHOOL NOTES—

St. Joe Wins Commercial Honors

For the third consecutive year, the students of the commercial department won first place in the annual Northeast Corner Commercial Conference, held last week at Hamilton. This entitles the school to permanent possession of the large floating trophy. The contest this year was part of the state contest usually held at Central Normal at Danville, and the papers will be sent to Danville to be scored and rated in state competition.

While there were no outstanding individual winners in the St. Joe group, the team rankings were consistantly high. Advanced typing and bookkeeping teams placed second, and beginning typing and shorthand teams placed third. Beverly Wade won third place individual honors in beginning typing and Mary Louise Woodcox third in shorthand. Frances Reidenbach and Patricia Maxwell won fourth and sixth places in advanced typing, Patricia also winning fourth in shorthand. Jim Kees won sixth place in bookkeeping.

Members of the team are:

Bookkeeping: James Kees, Maxine Converse, Bessie Baughman.

Besides St. Joe, other schools participating in the contest were Flint, Scott Center, Fremont, Waterloo, Hamilton, and Pleasant Lake.

Senior Play

Imagine having to live five years in a house which seems to be infested with ghosts and phantoms and crazy professors, in order to inherit five million dollars. That is the setting for the opening scene of the mystery-farce, Shadow of Terror, to be presented by the Senior Class at the High School Auditorium, Friday evening, April 16.

The cast is as follows:

Helen McArthur, Peggy's other self, Frances Reidenbach.

Sigmund Van DerWert, Julia's son, Harold Wilmot.

Jewel Pennington, Helen's friend, Patricia Maxwelll

Steve Wellington, Peggy's fiance, Roger Hadley.

Topaz, Peggy's personal maid, Candace Loftus.

Pringle, the butler, Harold Keller.

Emma, the house-maid, Mary Ellen Rude.

Mr. Leslie Wilbern with the other principals of the county, and Mr. Stallman, attended a meeting of school executives from this district, at Columbia City, Tuesday. The meeting had to do with the high school physical fitness program.

Lieutenant Charles Sharp, who before his induction into the army, was teacher in St. Joe, visited the school Monday.

FARM BUREAU

The Tri-Township Farm Bureau met April 6th at 8:30 P. M. for their regular monthly meeting with 25 in attendance. Meeting was called to order by chairman Brooks Trenary. The scripture Luke 2nd chapter was read and the Easter story. This followed with prayer.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved. This followed with roll call, response being "My favorite crop." Mr. C. E. Baker, county agent, then gave a talk on co-operation marketing also on how to increase the attendance and membership. Our field woman, Mrs. Brown, favored us with a few remarks as well. Mr. Baker then showed motion pictures in connection with the farm program for this year. The pictures were enjoyed by all. A lunch of cookies and candy brought the meeting to a close.

So it's the overhead that makes running the government so expensive. It's been over our heads here in St. Joe for a long time.

THIS MUST STOP

J. Edgar Hoover reports that there is alarming sweep upwards in crime and delinquency among women and girls, during 1942. And this is indeed a call to arms right here in our own country! They blame numerous factors for this condition and of course the war is the foundation on which they build their complaints. There is a lot of 'easy money' in the hands of our youth, there are a lot of homes too busy to attend to the children there. Laws have been enacted in many cities to try and cover juvenile crimes and to hope to put a stop to young girls running foot-loose until all hours, especially with the soldiers in the military districts. A time of war finds laws necessary if we want to curb youth and to safe-guard them. No home in St. Joe or Spencerville should be so occupied with outside work that they neglect the children there. It is up to all of us to provide clean, wholesome entertainment to hold their interest and put a stop to this criminal and delinquency charge.

KANSAS HINTS

The press tries to give both sides of a controversial subject if the paper is published for the people and not just for the sake of politics. The rights and wrongs of the labor situation have been covered by various organs for some time and in the process each of us has formed certain opinions on the subject. A recent enactment in Kansas has struck a warning note to labor that might well be heeded in other states where labor dissension has disrupted defense work and caused bitterness among various groups. Kansas passes a labor law that requires locals to obtain licenses to operate, unions must file annual financial reports with the state secretary which includes a detailed list of wages, and fees paid union officials, salaries, make reports and dues and assessments collected from members. The labor unions in that state will not take this without carrying it to a court, probably, but even so, it strikes a warning note.

TAKE TIME TO PRAY

During Lent we perhaps turn more frequently to those things religious, devoting more of our thinking to spiritual subjects. As we so often hear, during seiges of trouble religion gains more attention. When we find life flowing sweetly along, with us riding the crest of the wave, we are apt to put our faith in material things and let the fundamental things remain tucked away unheeded and untended until sorrow and trouble faces us. But the fact that the country's best-seller in books for the past 3 months has been a religious story, that the moving picture industry announces plans for leading screen productions of the year to be of a religious nature, all makes us feel that people here in St. Joe and Spencerville and elsewhere are taking more time for prayer.

DIFFICULT TO SAY

You too have no doubt understood from instructors of foreign languages, that the most difficult language to learn is English. Consequently, it is the most difficult to teach. The various spelling of words pronounced the same stumps a stranger of the tongue. Of course we do the best we can to simplify it by offering slang as an outlet to confusion and to make up for effort expended in learning vowels and consonants. Our soldiers in foreign countries could not have more difficulty in understanding than in being uderstood. But there are always certain expressions that one picks up in any foreign language which can be used to convey all sorts of meanings. We are reminded of the time, as a child, listening intently to a group of foreigners mumbling unintelligent sounds as they were busily digging a ditch for a water main. Almost every sentence would contain "I betcha" whatever else the jargon proclaimed. Every man used it and often. No schoolroom could impress on that childish mind the force of English at that time as did the ditch diggers and their "I betcha." We believe that the American soldiers will just as ably get across what they want to convey and they probably will intersperse their "I betchas" with sign language, to boot! They'll get by, and get it across, these lads of ours.

Thomas Jefferson

April 13, two hundred years ago, a man so-named Thomas Jefferson, was born. The most famous one of ten children, he rose to prominence to father three important documents that imbibe the living principles of our democracy today. There passes with each great name certain truths that his time found fitting, that in his day were facts and in fashion. Much is outmoded by time. But certain outstanding principles, fundamental ideals, are never out of style. Jefferson was the author of the Declaration of Independence, the statute for Virginia drawn up for religious freedom and he founded the University of Virginia to further education. If you analyze these three principles you will see how important they are in our time. The years have only strengthened them and years to come will prove their worth.

TAXATION BLUES

Some of us in St. Joe and Spencerville haven't recovered from our income tax headache as yet, and to mention the subject may not be exactly an aspirin tablet, but it is perhaps a relief to suffering to know that we might be worse off. Take one of those so severely taxed European countries where Hitler has placed his order for production. In occupied countries the economic picture is so black that there seems scarcely to be any system of economics at all. The loss of life has been terrific and now with this forced to labor for Germany edict, living is a continuous tax in those countries. Croatia, Hungary, Slovakia probably felt they were on the winning side when they 'took up' with Hitler, felt they would be tasting the sweets of victory. Under German influence the living costs in Croatia have been raised 400 per cent. taxes trinled in Hungary and a 100 per cent levy put on any luxury in Slovakia. This just gives us an idea that our national taxation headache might cause more pain and throbbing in other countries where the effect will be more keenly felt. That family who has a son fighting for us, probably met the income tax willingly, praying that the money needed to wage a war would speedily be collected to put an end to this dirty business and bring that boy back to his home again. We paid our income tax hopefully, that these revenues will successfully and finally be the cure for our illness.

CLEAN UP TIME

No citizen in St. Joe is too occupied with relief work business and household tasks, to overlook the annual spring clean-up month. Since you paid the tax on that property, keep it up, as a credit to your pocketbook! Look to your house as that precious holding, owned or rented, which is your responsibility and know that the dwelling represents to the outside the character of its inhabitants. War does not lower one's pride in his town or his home, war increases it. We aren't too busy to keep clean, exert energy to tidy and brush up around the yards, remove rubbish from the alleys, reduce fire hazards by disposing of waste in garages. We enjoy living in pretty surroundings, to see streets kept up, lawns and gardens picturesquely stretched out to the side. Spring clean-up is observed in towns like ours all over this land, folks have pride in their spot in the sun. Property and equipment need care, and though it is pretty difficult right now to get certain parts and pieces for such work, still we must keep the home front in ship-shape order. There are trees to trim, bushes to clip, fences to repair, all right under our nose. Let us clean-up, fix-up, paint-up, as we have done each year. We want things in order, our homes, our churches, schools, barn, yards, so we'll make Johnny proud when he comes marching back again.

RIVER IN NEW GUINEA—Fording streams in New Guinea is an everyday occurence among American soldiers. Men in uniform with packs seek shallow water. Native helpers are heedless of deep pools.

FLIGHT NURSES HAVE EXTENSIVE WARDROBE—Training for service in the newest and perhaps the most spectacular war activity open to the women of the United States is the Evacuation Group of flight nurses, Army Nurse Corps, Kentucky. They minister to wounded soldiers being carried by air ambulance from active theaters to hospitals far behind the lines. Their arms loaded with heavy winter flying suits, these flying nurses of the Army Nurse Corps, march to their plane for a training flight. They are, left to right: Anna G. Ranahan, Buchanan, Michigan; Patricia E. Corrigan, Chicago, Illinois; Ruth V. Finnio, Youngstown, Ohio; Geraldine L. Curtis, Warika, Oklahoma, and Irene McMullan, Macon, Georgia; all are second lieutenants.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Everybody knows now that civilians may expect less meat this year than they ate last year. Rationing has been instituted to assure that each American gets what he needs out of our reduced civilian supplies but it will be hard to guarantee adequate diets unless black markets are suppressed. For black markets not only deprive the average citizen of his fair share, they cut sharply into the utilization of extremely valuable parts of carcasses since black market operators are likely to use only the most easily marketable cuts and throw the rest away.

The provision that all dealers in live animals must have a permit to buy and sell will do much to stop the black market mischief. If a farmer get an offer from a dealer he does not know well, and if the offer is above the going level of legiti mate dealers, there is a good chance that he is talking with a man connected with the black market. So the wise and patriotic thing to do is to ask the dealer to show his permit.

In Indiana localities where there have been shortages of meat, it may take some time before markets will have a complete assortment, but while housewives may not be able to get every kind and cut of meat, they can, according to the OPA, be sure of finding as much rationed food as they have points to spend.

Farmers are not required to tag, invoice, and report their sales of certified and selected seed potatoes unless they act as country shippers or sell directly to commercial, industrial, or institutional users, the OPA has announced.

While the volunteer farm workers enlisted in the United States Crop Corps are expected to ease the labor shortage by supplying manpower on a part-time and seasonal basis, a great need exists for full-time skilled farm workers.

In part, this demand is being met through the farm recruiting and training program of the Farm Security Administration which is now in operation at Purdue University. Workers who have been on farms but have not had to handle modern machines or the more complicated operations of scientific farming are being taught to run tractors, operate milking machines, and the like. Their transportation and living expenses are paid while in training, and after completing the course they are sent to areas where there is a shortage of farm labor.

To meet the farm equipment situation, the last remaining items of farm machinery needed for spring work on farms have been released for sale. Since no farm machinery repair and replacement parts and supplies were affected by the "freeze" and rationing program for machinery, these can be obtained from any dealer without any formalities. Nevertheless, new farm machinery will still be scarce enough to require pooling of machines wherever possible.

Drying oils and linseed oils are getting scarce for civilian use, chiefly because of military demands, so that painting of homes and farm buildings with paints using these materials may have to be curtailed.

Maternity care for the wives of service men below the grade of commissioned officers is assured through a recent congressional appropriation.... operation of circus trains during the coming season has been authorized by the Office of Defense Transportation, but passenger, freight or mixed trains have right-of-way for wartime movements.

There will be more can openers on the market this year, restrictions on production having been eased....Arbor Day, falling on April 22, will remind us of the immense value of trees in our national economy, and of the perpetual need to guard against forest fires.

Must Show Tax Receipt

Persons applying for any kind of state license, including automobile and driver's licenses, are now required to show a blank signed by the county or local assessor as to why they are exempt from personal and poll taxes, it was pointed out Friday by automobile license officials. This is provided in an act by the 1943 legislature which has gone into effect under an emergency clause.

STILL UNSOLVED

The critical food problem in this country continues to occupy the front page of our newspapers, the topic of conversations around St. Joe, and the subject of radio discussions. It has recently added importance in the naming of a new head of production, distribution of food and recruiting of farm labor. The approval of this selection by the President finds the Senate leaders of both parties in accord, which is encouraging to all who are interested in the food question, and who isn't! A recent Town Meeting of the Air program was devoted to this all-important topic and brought up the issue of taking the skilled, able-bodied young farmers off the land and hoping to substitute some of them with unskilled men, women and children. There are certain instances they warn us, when unskilled labor can be of use in harvesting and planting, but according to those who are versed in the complete picture of farm management, certain inexperienced hands, unskilled labor, can wreck machinery that will cause disruption for days, they can destroy productivity of a dairy herd in three weeks time, can inflict harmful results to hens by improper feeding and so on. They must be trained. Routine tasks that seem simple enough to an outsider but that calls for certain talent in farm administration, is where the recruiting of emergency workers could be harmful. This must be taken into consideration by the new food head. We each day realize more fully the fact there is a scarcity of food and there is apt to be more of it if steps aren't taken to improve prevailing conditions on our farms It appears that if we are to feed Europe after the war as we are trying to help feed her now, to supply our own soldiers, to keep this nation from going hungry, we need to do some tall stepping and less talking, talking, talking. We need to have some quick, deep, concentrated planning on the subject of farm labor and before the crops are spoiled!

Electric equipment of many kinds serves the modern hospital. Busy doctors and nurses use it every day for diagnosis and treatment, without even pausing to think of the electricity that runs it.

But electric power isn't automatic. The hard-working men and women of America's electric companies are the folks who have made it dependable.

They've made it plentiful, too—so that America's war plants have far more power than those of any other nation. And they've made it cheap—so that the average American home enjoys about twice as much electricity for the same money it paid 15 years ago.

These are the results of practical business management under public regulation—part of the system of business freedom in which millions of Americans have put their faith and their savings.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

TH FARM LABOR SITUATION SERIOUS

The farm labor situation in DeKalb County is becoming increasingly acute. With the weather being settled and the season well advanced so that spring crops should be planted, and yet with the large acreage of corn and soy beans still in the field from last year, farmers are becoming discouraged and despondent over the situation. County Agent C. E. Baker made an appeal for volunteers to assist in harvesting these crops so that they would be out of the way for spring planting, but he had practically no response.

It is true, Baker states, that the harvesting of these crops means dollars in the farmers' pockets but he points out that it means more than this to the army and our civilian population. The soy beans must be harvested to save the vital oil and the soy bean oil meal by-product. The oil is needed for war purposes and the soy bean meal for livestock feed. The corn needs to be harvested so that we will have ample feed supplies so that we can take care of our increased pork production. This, too, is needed to supply the army as well as the civilian population. People complain of meat shortages and yet when there is an opportunity for them to help save the feed necessary to produce more pork, for some reason they have failed to respond.

Farmers are urged by County Agent Baker to make every attempt possible to harvest these last year's crops because they are vitally needed and we should save every bushel possible. These crops are already produced and they should not be plowed down merely to raise another crop. Our townspeople can help harvest these crops and they should do so without further delay. Delaying the harvesting of this crop means later planting of spring crops which means decreased yields of them.

People who can spare a few hours or a few days to help harvest these crops should register immediately at the county agent's office and he will refer them to farmers needing this assistance. Immediate action is urged.

B. R. LAKIN POPULAR SUCCESSOR TO CADLE

Dr. Bascom Ray Lakin, formerly associate pastor of the Cadle Tabernacle in Indianapolis, has succeeded the late Rev. E. Howard Cadle as pastor of the nationally famous evangelistic center.

DR. LAKIN

A native of West Virginia Dr. Lakin has been much in demand as an evangelist since completion of his studies at Moody Bible Institute in Chicago. He also held pastorates in Virginia prior to joining the Cadle staff in 1935.

A nation-wide radio audience follows Dr. Lakin's Cadle Choir program and brief sermon at noon, central war time, each Sunday over radio station WLW, Cincinnati. His choice as successor to the mid-west evangelistic leader's pulpit has proven highly successful.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVIII (58 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, APR 15, 1943. NUMBER 15

New addresses of the week:

Burl Rude, U. S. Navy, Navy 103, % Fleet Post Office, New York, N. Y.

Pfc. Roy Shilling, Bat. A. 304 C. A. B. B. Bn., Seattle, Washington.

Sgt. T. and Mrs. W. W. Zonker, Jr., 830½ N. Milpas Street, Santa Barbara, Calif., Apt. B.

Corporal George D. Snyder has been promoted to Sergeant it was announced today by his commanding officer Colonel Leo B. Conner. Sergeant Snyder is a member of Maintenance Company, 42nd Armored Regiment, 11th Armored Div. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Snyder, R. R. 1, St. Joe, Indiana.

After 8 months service in the armed forces, Wm. Brandon was given his honorable discharge on April 3rd, from Fort Lawton, Washington, where he was serving in the medical corps. He was given his discharge due to age, and in a few days he will seek employment in some industry doing defense work.

Corp. Ray Moore, of Camp Hale, Colorado, spent Tuesday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Enos Moore. Wednesday he left for Detroit, Mich., before returning to Colorado Thursday.

Edgar Lysher and Paul Tustison, of St. Joe, and Richard L. Kimes, of Spencerville, have been placed in Class 4-F as found unavailable after examination, for military service; Earl F. Hodges was given Class 3-C, as having dependents and engaged in agriculture; Huber Bleeks, Walter Fetters and Raymond J. Foltz were found necessary in agriculture; Wm. D. Erick, Portsmouth, Va., formerly of Spencerville, Class 2-B, necessary in war production; Roscoe W. Moore, Donald Pierman and Harold Yoder, Class 2-A, as necessary in civilian activity. These are men in our immediate community and known to News readers.

NEWVILLE CHAUTAUQUA GIVES $46.51 TO RED CROSS

The officers and others interested in the Newville Rural Chautauqua, at a recent meeting, decided that since the annual meetings have been suspended for the duration, the proper and patriotic thing to do was to donate the treasury balance, $46.51 to the DeKalb County Unit of the American Red Cross. This has now been done and the money is on its way to work for our service men.

The Newville Chautauqua came into existance about 30 years ago and continued its annual meetings until 1942, excepting the omission of two years during the first World War. While the chautauqua meetings were held in the U. B. Church, it was a community affair and during the years some of the best talent in the country were brought to the appreciative and progressive people of this community. At times the cost of one of the eight day sessions, was about $500. The money was raised by free-will offerings and it is very fitting that at this time the balance in the treasury will help in the war emergency.

The final officers of the association were:

President, Marion Webb.
Vice Pres., Guy Platter.
Secretary, Laura Washler.
Treasurer, Blen Moore.

WILLIAMS—SHARP

In a pretty wedding ceremony at 4:30 Tuesday afternoon, Miss Virginia Williams, of Butler, became the bride of Lieutenant Charles Sharp in the Spencerville Methodist Church.

Rev. Lee Sharp, father of the groom, read the vows against a background of ferns, baskets of white snapdragons and candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony a fifteen minute musicale was presented by Miss Frances Reidenbach, of St. Joe, and Mrs. Frank Stage, of Butler, accompanied by Mrs. Henry Funk, sang "Because" and "O Promise Me." The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was used as the Processional and Mendelsohn's Wedding March as the Recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by Dr. Clayton B. Hathaway, of Butler, wore a tailored suit of yellow wool with navy accessories. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and bronze snapdragons.

The best man was Mr. Delbert Harp, of LaGrange.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Clayton B. Hathaway of Butler. The living room was decorated with vases of spring flowers. A lovely bouquet of daffodils and white sweet peas adorned the buffet in the dining room. The refreshment table was centered by a wedding cake. During the reception Mrs. Henry Funk furnished the music at the piano.

Mrs. Sharp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Williams, of Detroit, is a graduate of the Butler High School and has recently been employed in a Mortgage and Insurance Office in Detroit.

Lieutenant Sharp is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Lee Sharp of Spencerville, and is a graduate of North Manchester College. He taught in the St. Joe School before entering the Army in May, 1942.

RUTH ANN DOLL GIVEN LEGION AWARD

The second American Legion award given high school pupils for public speaking, was won last Friday night by Miss Ruth Ann Doll, of Spencerville, over contestants from St. Joe and Harlan, in a close contest held at the high school gym.

Second place was given to David Dix, of Harlan, and third place to Miss Patricia Carpenter, of St. Joe high school.

The subject assigned for discussion was "The American Constitution, what we are fighting for." The three taking a part did a splendid job in discussing this subject, and the arguments were presented in a most convincing manner.

The judges were: Rev. Erby Messimer, St. Joe; Rev. L. B. Sharp, Spencerville; and Mrs. Chas. Fuelling, Harlan.

The eighth grade awards were based upon the personality, conduct of the individual and interest in school work in general over the school year, and the selection being made by the teacher. The award consisted of a medal and certificate for the outstanding pupil selected for first place and the runner up was given a certificate of recognition.

The schools represented were as follows:

Spencer — Marion Baker, first, Myrtle Bry, runner upper. Springfield, Harlan — Nellie Harter, first, Marion Davis runner upper.

Ralph Sechler gave a short talk an education and its necessity for civilian life.

Special numbers on the program were: Musical prelude, St. Joe Ensemble; saxophone quartet, Harlan; Girls Chorus, Spencerville; Junior Band, St. Joe; vocal solo, Harlan, and instrumental duet, Spencerville.

Herman Zuber made the awards to those in oratorical contest.

Miss Sally Shaffer, of Fort Wayne, spent the week-end with Miss Marcelle Harper and Miss Naomi White. The girls really had a swell week-end together. The News will visit the Shaffer home each week for the next year.

The State Highway Commission will receive bids next Tuesday, April 20, for the surface treatment of 470 miles of state roads where such improvement is necessary to protect the road and mainain traffic. The maintenance program will require three and one-half million gallons of bituminous materials and more than one hundred and fifty thousand tons of aggregates.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith and three children, who have been in the West for the past year, came last Wednesday and remained until Monday with Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Smith north of St. Joe. They were enroute to Vandalia, Ohio, where Mr. Smith will be located indefinitely. He is a government employe. On Sunday other guests for dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Smith and two daughters from Bryan, and Mr. and Mrs. Omer Smith and two daughters from Farmer Center, Ohio.

BOND QUOTA IN THIS COUNTY IS $550,000

Plans have been completed in DeKalb County for the second war bond campaign which started on April 12, and will continue through May 1. DeKalb County has been assigned a quota of $550,000, its share of a $13,000,000,000 goal in the nation.

The quota for DeKalb County was fixed by the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago on the basis of banking resources.

J. D. Haggerty, of Auburn, has been named chairman of the DeKalb County victory fund committee and this group will unite with Fisher West, of Auburn, chairman of the war savings staff in DeKalb County, in the drive to meet the goal.

Other members of the victory fund committee include the following: H. M. Brown and C. H. Heinzerling, of Garrett; W. K. Schaab, V. E. Buchanan, C. E. Baker and H. E. Hart, of Auburn; Otis Fisher and L. E. Harding, of Butler; Earl Leas and Eugene Kelly, of Waterloo; D. B. Ridgway, of St. Joe, and Arthur Lautzenhiser, of Franklin township.

Four new issues of bonds will be offered in this campaign in addition to the E F and G bonds which have been on sale from the first.

The first of the four new bonds is a treasury tax savings note, serries C, issued at par in sums of $1,000 and up, and yielding about 1.7% interest, due in three years from issue.

The second of the new issue is a certificate of indebtedness, series B-1944, also issued at par in sums of $1,000 and up, yielding ⅞% interest, due April 1, 1944. This is recognized as an inviting place for a temporary investment for ready money.

The third of the new bonds is a straight 2% treasury bond, due in 1952, issued at par in sums of $500 and up, with interest payable semi-annually.

The fourth of the new issue is a straight 2½% treasury bond, due in 1969, issued at par in denominations of $500 and up, with interest payable semi-annually.

Attention is also called to the great sacrifice that is being made by the soldiers in the service on various fronts, and and that the conversion of money into loans to the government will add to the striking power of these men as well as to their comfort, safety and indeed their very lives. It is urged and expected that every person in DeKalb County will consider this an opportunity and a great duty to come to the support of the government in this great crisis and to the relief of the men in service by making purchases of federal securities and urging others to do likewise. "They gave their lives—you lend your money."

United States war bonds are not only the world's safest investment but by buying them now DeKalb County people can help finance the war to a successful conclusion and help win the peace.

Spring Patriotism

(AFTER SNOWSTORM)

A red, red robin
And the white, white snow!
A blue, blue songster—
The "harbinger," you know.

The combination thrilled me—
RED, WHITE and BLUE!
Loyal April patriots,
Flashing colors, true.

RED—a sad reminder
Of grim and gruesome war.
WHITE—serene, uplifting—
Like Hope's unwavering star.

BLUE—a bit of heaven
O'er soldiers offering life,
To wrest our peace from chaos—
Of fiery foreign strife.

Hail! All soldier laddies!
May Patriotism, true—
Waft prayers, from loyal homelands,
On Victory Wings to you!

The LIONS CLUB

Fifteen members and four guests enjoyed the Lions Club dinner Monday evening, and the program at Akins Tea Room.

Roll call responses were jingles on the "swap ride" program.

Talk on Safety was given by Lion Lynn Fisher. He gave some fine illustrations of what might happen as the result of a single train-automobile collision. Figures Lion Fisher gave on train wrecks alone revealed that 38 trains were laid out of activity for 22 hours each. All traffic accidents in the United States alone in 1942 resulted in more than twice as many fatalities as were killed in England as a result of two years of warfare.

Charles T. Miser, State Representative form this region, now of Garrett, but a former graduate of the St. Joe High School in the class of 1923, gave an enlightening report on what happened at the recent session of the Legislature. Some high lights on bills passed concerned the raising of salaries of underpaid employees, chiefly employees of some state institutions, and of the public school teachers.

A water survey was established through the Conservation Department in order to prevent the further lowering of the water table. It was established that the water table had receded ninety feet under Indianapolis since air conditioning requires such a large amount of water. Block's store, alone, uses 5,000,000 gallons of water daily for just this purpose. This is ten times the amount Auburn uses.

Many other bills were discussed, resulting in general discussion on needed legislation.

Phil Smith, local saw artist, entertained with two numbers on his musical saw.

Mr. H. L. Conant, manager of sales of the Ind. & Mich. Electric Co., from Elkhart, gave an interesting talk on patriotism.

Mr. Frank H. Korsmeyer, president of the Rotary Club from Butler, also spoke on the relationships of Rotarians and Lions as service clubs and expressed his delight in the fellowship of the evening, and that he felt perfectly safe, even though he was practically lone handed in a den of Lions.

Maurice Hollabaugh, the only fisherman of note in the club, displayed his latest catch in the St. Joe River last week, which has baffled most fishermen in naming. Upon examining books at News office a complete description of the animal was found. Lamprey, an eel like aquatic vertebrate having a suctional mouth and numerous small horny teeth, it attaches to fish upon which it feeds. It was about 12 to 18 inches long.

The board of directors met following the session and transacted some important business for the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gee, of Dayton, were over Saturday night guests of relatives here. On Sunday they called on his mother Mrs. Flora Gee at the convalescent home in Butler.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. Glen Cole April 7, for the Annual Bible Evening.

The meeting was called to order by the president Mrs. Leslie Wilbern and Collect read by Mrs. Ralph Keeler. The meeting was then turned over to the committee and the following program was given:

A paper on "Each in His Own Tongue" was read by Mrs. Inez Hadsell and a paper was also read by Mrs. Don Burley entitled "Renting a Bible for an Hour a Day."

Mr. Joe Scholes was then introduced and gave a short talk on the Bible. Secretary's report was read and appoved Fourteen members responded to roll call with a Bible verse.

The president announced the County Convention to be held April 15 in the Church of Christ, Auburn, at 1:30.

A Bible quiz was conducted by Mrs. Ralph Keeler. The meeting was then adjourned to meet in two weeks on April 21 with Mrs. Maurice Kline.

Fifty young people will graduate from the Spencerville and St. Joe high schools. The Spencerville graduation ceremony will be held on April 23, with 27 graduates and St. Joe on April 28, with 23 graduating.

KINDER TO ANIMALS

Many states have set aside a certain day each year, usually in April, to pay tribute to our birds. There is, in this month, an appeal with "Be Kind To Animals Week." This year, with Easter coming in April, we might emphasize the importance of birds and beasts in our daily lives and use the method of coloring baby chicks as one of the examples of a less kindly way to treat animals. Chickens have assumed an important role in the household ranking of meats and so this alone might halt the usual Eastertide habit of dying the chicks to delight the children. We surely owe enougt to the dumb creatures to protect them, for they offer us much in return. Food, clothing, transportation, are three items we might consider as important, if we want to list our indebtedness to the animals, birds and fish. This doesn't consider the fact that we derive a joy from their beauty, kindness and affection. This accounts for a gain which isn't material but without which this would be a sorrier place in which to live.

NICE WORK!

There is an interesting bit of news tucked into a column, concerning the way one manufacturing plant undertakes to solve the food shortage for its employes and families. Labor problems and trials find their way readily enough into print and so when one comes across such an encouraging item as this one, it makes us happy to pass it along. A company that manufactures those bantam cars we term "jeeps," has leased a hundred-acre farm on which to grow vegetables for the folks who are working there. Six hundred and fifty families will benefit. Produce will be sold to the employes at cost, and if cost exceeds the market price the employes pay market cost and the company absorbs the loss. Men will be hired at factory rates, to run this farm, but if this doesn't work out the company officials plan to use plant employes with farm experience and work the farm in shifts. No farmer war worker will be absent from the factory more than two days at a time and his place in the factory will be taken by his fellow workers who will double up during his absence. It sounds like good sense to us!

OUR BOYS EAT

Take a look at the best fed fighting man in the world, our American boys! In case you didn't know—he eats around 5½ pounds of food a day and this is twice the amount that he ate as a civilian. That he needs it, goes without saying. He is better fed than over sixty per cent of the civilian population and gets two to three times the number of calories a day than the average civilian. This makes every parent happy, even if they haven't a boy of their own in the forces. The individual company mess ration includes usually the following: about one pound of meat, fish or poultry; one egg, one pint of milk, three ounces of fats including butter; twelve ounces of Irish potatoes, four ounces tomatoes and citrus fruits, seven ounces of leafy, green and yellow vegetables, two ounces of fruits and vegetables. Also, each meal carries in addition, bread, beverage and desserts. The War Department gives us this information to pass on to anxious parents who wondered!

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

The Treasury Drive for the second war loan, which opened Monday (April 12,) has two distinct purposes, both of vital importance in our conduct of the war program. One is to provide 13 billions of additional dollars — "fighting dollars"—to support our fighting men with all they need in war weapons and war materials. These dollars, taken directly from our pocketbooks and pay checks, will be a tangible evidence of our personal "state" in the war for freedom.

The other purpose of the loan is less visible but not less essential. It has to do with checking inflation. It is estimated that the national income this year may reach the gigantic figure of about 135 billion dollars. In times of peace a constantly growing income calls for increasing expenditures for all kinds of goods and services. Under wartime conditions—especially those of a "total" war when all resources must be mobilized for war purposes—we are faced with a steadily shrinking volume of goods and services available to civilians.

With many of these goods we are rapidly exhausting reserve stocks and replacements will be on much smaller scale than when they were accumulated. In addition, a great number of fairly expensive machines and gadgets are not to be had at all, or only in very small quantities. Furthermore, "luxury" travel and vacations, which used up a good part of our surplus income, are out for the duration.

Altogether we have vastly more money to spend than we have means of spending it—a surplus spending power, it is believed, of around 40 billion dollars. Uncheckd by price controls, rationing and stabilization of wages and prices of farm products, this surplus as it competes for scarce goods would soon result in that dangerous and swift rise in all living costs which goes by the name of inflation.

Since the "back to the farm" movement is especially necessary for dairy farming, which is suffering from a lack of skilled workers, several plans are being put into effect for returning qualified dairy hands to their former jobs. County war boards are cooperating with the Department of Agriculture in persuading men in Class IV F—physically unfit for military service—between the ages of 18 and 45 to go back to dairy production, if they are not now engaged in essential war work.

Dairymen have long pointed out that dairy work calls for special skills that are generally developed by long experience, and for that reason it is highly desirable for all dairy workers, not now employed as such, to use their experience where it counts most—in the production of foods vitally needed by soldiers and civilians alike.

The rules governing the rationing of dry beans, peas and lentils have been revised so that growers of these items need not deal in points when they deliver rationed dry legumes to the first purchaser, known as the "country shipper." Transfers may also be made point-free from one country shipper to another, but when the items pass on to wholesalers and retailers they will be point-free only if used for seed purposes, otherwise they come under point rationing.

LENTEN THEME, "THE HERITAGE OF ALL CHURCHES"

The Thursday evening lectures at the Lutheran Lenten services are proving quite popular as Pastor Stevenson talks on some phase of the general theme, "The Heritage of all Churches." One of tht recent lectures seemed to cause some special comment, henct we reproduce the message in full for our News readers.

Great Hymns, the Bonds of Christendom.

"Second only to the Bible in point of influence on the life of the Church, and in recognition as part of the heritage of all Churches stand the hymns of the Christian Church.

"A thorough study of the heritage of all Churches would include a study of all the fine arts for the Church was the sponsor of the arts and the arts were the handmaidens of the Church. Architecture, sculpture, painting, stained glass windows are all closely associated with the Church in the past, but greater yet than any of these in lasting importance was the art of universal expression, music. Buildings crumble and architectural styles change; sculpture, paintings and stained glass are likewise perishable. These things are limited by time and distance in their value to the Church but the expression the Church found in music is a living heritage unto all generations, and the particular musical expression of the Church is the hymn.

" 'A hymn is a sacred song embodying religious truth and expressing praise to God. It may also be a prayer set to music.'

"The great hymns of the Church today are the results of both an evolution and a revolution. The word content of Christian hymns has generally changed from objective and didactic in the early centuries to subjective and exhortative to holy living, today. The early hymns were doctrinal to combat false teaching and to deepen faith. Modern hymns are personal expressions of faith, hope and love as the responses of receptive hearts to God's message in Christ.

"The years in between, producing hymns which blend with the objective truths, as was at the case of the Reformation, gave us some of our truly great hymns.

"Not only was there this evolution in the content of hymns but an even greater one in respect to the music. The predecessor of our hymns can be traced to ancient Egypt and it is likely that all ancient people had similar hymns. In Moses' day Egyptian hymns were chanted four times daily to the gods. Moses absorbed some of this practice and encouraged the singing of praise to God among the fleeing children.

"David was a great lover of music and composed and collected many sacred songs for the people to sing while at worship and at work. Some of these are preserved to us as Psalms. Solomon had great choirs trained to sing these in the temple, but Hebrew singing was more like the Egyptian chant than like our four part arrangement or melody. Even in Jesus' day singing a hymn meant chanting a song.

"The early Christians soon began to supplement the Psalms with hymns embodying Christian truths and employed the Greek four note scale of the Jewish monatone (Saint Ambrose 384 A. D.) About 600 A. D. Gregory the Great introduced the plain song (a simple melody without four part harmony.) Gradually more notes were added to the scale and as the music became more complicated only the choirs sang the hymns. It was not until after the year 1000 that the modern scale with different length notes came into use. (Musical Scale—1024 A. D.—Guido Arentino; different length notes —1175 A. D.—Franco of Cologne) and not until shortly before the Reformation were four part arrangements introduced in the singing of hymns. (Giovanni Pieriugi—known as 'Palestrina'—1514.) But while forbidden to sing in the churches, the people were singing, nevertheless, and especially in Germany where there was a deep love for music, secular festivals were born to give excuse for song.

"Thus the way was prepared both as to the medium for singing and the desire to sing, so that when Luther re-introduced congregational singing, revising old hymns, giving sacred words to secular tunes and writing several new hymns, Germany sang the Reformation into its hearts and unto victory. It was not the confession nor the lectures, nor the preachers which caused the Reformation to succeed where other attempts had failed—humanly speaking, it was the hymn singing by congregations and in homes. 'The Reformation restored the hymn to the worshippers and gave the Church congregational singing.'

"As the early Christians had first adopted the Hebrew Psalm for their hymn singing, so with the revival of Congregational singing, the Psalms were revived and set to the more developd style of music. The most famous collection of such hymns was the Geneva Psalter published in 1543. The first book published in the American Colonies was the Bay Psalter, a reprint of a Psalter brought from Holland.

"By the beginning of the 18th century Germany's music was turning from hymns to great music for organs and choirs—cantatas, chorales, etc. It is this period which gave us the music of Bach and Handel —the latter being known for 'The Messiah.'

"In England hymnody was having a rebirth. Isaac Watts and Charles Wesley gave England her music for a great religious awakening and many of their hymns hold a permanent place among the hymns of all churches.

Will Americans Be More Tender With Their Money Than Lives of Their Sons

Washington, D. C. — A blunt challenge—whether Americans will be more tender with their money than with the lives of their sons — confronts U. S. citizens as they prepare to meet the appeal of the government to put an additional 13 billion dollars into the fight in the next three weeks.

American dollars which run off to some cozy shelter to hide while American boys are dying to defend our cities and towns from destruction and invasion will face a rising demand from all classes of patriotic citizens to come out and fight.

Millions of workers who now are buying War Bonds regularly out of current income must lend extra money to their government during the Second War Loan campaign (which started April 12).

In recognition of the spirit of sacrifice which is sweeping over the land as our troops swing into offensive action in Africa and await the signal for a landing in Europe, the Treasury Department is offering a series of government bonds to fit every pocketbook.

No matter whether Americans buy the familiar Series E Bonds or 2½ per cent bonds or 2 per cent bonds or tax certificates, they will be doing their part to make the Second War Loan drive a success.

Consumer Spending Too High.

Consumer spending in 1942 was much too high to meet the war situation of 1943. Last year more than 82 billion dollars of our soaring national income went to feed the desires of Americans for clothes, recreation, foods and luxuries. As these items grow scarcer, more of our income must be diverted from such expenses into government bonds.

During 1942 millions of our fathers, sons, relatives and friends were in training here and abroad. Some were already in action. Casualties were beginning to bite into every community. War Bonds became a vital link between the home and fighting fronts.

Today sacrifice has become a way of life for America's fighting men. Civilian spending on the 1942 scale must go out the window if the home folks are to attempt to match the heroism of our boys at the front.

Not every American can take his place in a bomber or in a foxhole or on a fighting ship but he can fire away at the enemy by lending money to the government.

Balance Your Meals Against Your Budget with LOW-COST MENUS & RECIPES

THINKING that we could be of some help to housewives in the vexing problems that confront them under rationing, we are now publishing periodically a folder entitled "Health for Victory." This folder contains low-cost menus and recipes for breakfast, lunch, and evening meals and for lunch boxes as well.

By following the suggestions in the folder, your family will be assured of receiving economical as well as nutritious, healthful meals. Interesting and exciting new recipes are also included, along with other suggestions for wartime economy.

Our suggested wartime menus can be followed in other cooking methods to advantage . . . however, the many thousands of our customers who now cook electrically are assured that Electric Cookery retains a high proportion of valuable minerals and vitamins.

We are endeavoring to supply all of our customers with this folder, but if you fail to receive your copy, it is available at our cashier's desk.

CULTURE CLUB

The Culture Club held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Herman Zuber Wednesday evening, April 7th. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, and a short business session was held. Mrs. Olen Waltz gave a very interesting review of the article on "Being a Real Person" taken from the Reader's Digest, the club's study book for the year.

Tom Sellers and Earl Kinsey then rendered several classical duets on the piano which were greatly appreciated and enjoyed. Mr. Herman Zuber then gave an interesting talk on his hobby, which is Nature, telling of the habits and life of many insects, butterflies, and animals not found in these parts. He also showed a portion of his insects and butterfly collection which was of interest to see.

The hostess served a lovely lunch of ice cream topped with pineapple and marachino cherry, wafers and tea. We were favored with piano solos from both Tom Sellers and Earl Kinsey while lunch was being served and during the remainder of the evening. This brot the meeting to a close and the next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Erby Messimer, April 21st, with a pot luck supper and election of officers. Each member is urged to be present.

THE 2nd WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON

Start punching from your pocket!

WAR FINANCE COMMITTEE

America's war machine is growing—growing!

It's getting ready to deliver a tremendous, irresistible wallop that will smash the Axis flat—once and for all.

But brother—that punch has got to start from your pocket! And now's the time to let it go!

Uncle Sam is asking us to lend him 13 billion dollars this month. 13 billions of extra dollars — over and above any War Bond buying that you'd be doing anyway! Money to buy ships and planes, money to feed and clothe and arm and train the millions of your fellow Americans who will deliver this punch — who are ready to work and sweat and die to keep the place you live in safe.

Uncle Sam is asking you to back them up. He's asking you to lend the money they need by investing in War Bonds.

In the next few weeks, you may be visited by one of the thousands of volunteers who are giving their time and effort to this Drive.

But don't wait for him. Today—now—go to your nearest bank or Post Office or place where they sell War Bonds. And for your Country's sake—for your own sake—invest all you can!

There are 7 different types of U. S. Government securities — choose the ones best suited for you!

THEY GIVE THEIR LIVES . . .
YOU LEND YOUR MONEY!

His mother, Mrs. George Walter, and Carol Rosenberry, visited him in camp from April 10 to 14, and found him well and making rapid progress in radio operation. He thinks it will only be a short time until he is sent overseas.

Kenneth Ridgway, arrived home late Monday night for a 15 day furlough, from Alaska, where he has been stationed for several months. While we have not seen him, we are sure he will enjoy his Easter vacation among his many relatives here, and with his parents, who have been waiting for this happy reunion once again.

Floyd Weikel has received a letter from Clarence Payton, and he is in Alaska, where he is in the service, stating that he is O. K.

James Crothers and William Brace, seniors in the Spencerville High School, received notice to appear at the Office of Naval Officer Procurement in Indianapolis next week for further examination in connection with their application for enlistment in the V-12 Naval Program. This is a result of tests given recently in the schools all over the country for the purpose of selecting qualified candidates for the Navy College Training Program.

Punchboards, baseball tickets, fish bowls and similar gambling devices were removed from all public places at Fort Wayne on Friday night in accordance with a police order. A previous ban several weeks ago required the removal of all manner of slot machines from clubs, organizations and public places. The ban, according to officials, will be effective for an indefinite period. Candy and peanut boards were included in the removal order. Some merchants reported they had laid in large supplies of candy and peanuts for punchboard disposal.

HOME EC. CLUB

The Concord Township Economics Club met with Mrs. Georgia McMaken Apr. 16. The meeting was brought to order by our president after which two songs were sung, "America" and "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes." History of the latter was given by Mrs. McMaken. After secretary's report, seventeen members answered to roll call with the response "Something New in the Garden." The project lesson, Getting material ready for use was given by Mrs. Iva Yeiser which was followed by the story of aluminum by Mrs. Catherine Haller. Our county president, Mrs. Sadie Krise, then gave a short talk which was enjoyed by all. There were three guests, Mrs. Frank Hamilton, Mrs. Marjorie Ramsey and Mrs. Sadie Krise. After the entertainment a delicious lunch was served by the hostess and her committee. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Katie Storer.

He Is Risen

Now upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them.

And they entered in, and found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, behold two men stood by them in shining garments.

And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living among the dead?

He is not here, but is risen: remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee.

Saying, The Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.

And they remembered his words,

And returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto the eleven, and to all the rest.

It was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women that were with them, which told these things unto the apostles.

And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not.

Then arose Peter, and ran unto the sepulchre; and stooping down, he beheld the linen clothes laid by themselves, and departed, wondering in himself at that which was come to pass.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO HOLD EARLY EASTER SERVICE AT HOPEWELL CHURCH

A special Easter program, at 7:00 A. M., conducted by the young people, with the Rev. Ralph Ringenberger, pastor of Churubusco Missionary Church and student at Fort Wayne Bible Institute, bringing the Easter message is being prepared, and to which all are invited to attend.

Following the service the young people will go to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dosch for breakfast.

The juniors and intermediates of the Sunday School will furnish special numbers for the Worship Service at 10:00 A. M.

At 7:30 P. M. the Christian Endeavor, under the direction of Mrs. Carl Wilcoxin, will give another special program in keeping with the Easter commemoration.

An invitation is extended to all to attend these special services.

TO UNVEIL COMMUNITY SERVICE FLAG

A special service at Rehoboth Church in Jackson township will be held Sunday evening April 25, at which time a community service flag will be unveiled containing 18 stars. This service will be combined with a candle light service with the same number of candles in a V for Victory formation. The public is invited to attend.

McCLURE

Mrs. Lucinde McClure, near 91, mother of Mrs. L. R. Zimmerman, of St. Joe, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Kimmel in Chicago, on Sunday evening. Funeral was held at Cedar Chapel Church, Wednesday afternoon, where she was buried. Mrs. McClure was only sick two weeks. The third daughter, Mrs. Hattie Worman, resides in South Dakota. Three children preceded her in death.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

Walter Whitehurst American Legion Post Auxiliary No. 283, St. Joe, Ind.

Regular meetings each 4th Tuesday of each month.

Make a special effort to attend at the Post's Headquarters at eight o'clock, April 27, 1943.

Poppy Day is just ahead.

More than ever before we need to carry the message of the "Poppy" to the public. The fact many men have died that America might live and be free. And now that thought steals us to the fact that many more of our men must die before our country can again be free and be secure.

The disabled soldiers, a total of 206 non-compensated patients at the Marion, Ind., government hospital this year fashioned 543,000 poppies in their workshop. The smallest amount earned by a disabled man was 50 cents; and the largest paid to an individual worker was $50.00. Small sums you may think, but mighty welcome to disabled soldiers who have little if any other income.

There were three World War II veterans who helped to make the Auxiliary poppy.

The poppy is to be worn as a memorial flower of our war dead.

It was the one touch of beauty amid the hideous destruction of World War I, and should be worn in memory of the heroic American Youth.

Buy a poppy when an Auxiliary member asks you in the month of May on Poppy Day.

THE LIFE STORY OF AN OLD DISC!

"I'm getting pretty old, but I've seen a lot of living. I was born in a farm machinery manufacturing plant 10 years ago —maybe is was fifteen years ago—I just can't seem to remember very well. My boss, Mr. Farmer, realized a few years ago that I had seen my best day and left me lying out here by the fence on the back forty. I know that I can't be of any further use to him, but I could do a lot of good if I were slapping a Jap in the face. I hope he turns me in to the scrap drive, so that I might be used to help win this war.

"Old Jim Crow lit on the fence here by me yesterday and razzed me about being unpatriotic. He told that an old hay rake on a neighbor's farm had been sent to the front to do its bit for the army. Jim said that the last he heard of the old rake it was a part of a tank destroyer division chasing the dirty rats out of Tunisia. Boy, wouldn't that be a grand and glorious feeling for me!

"Of course, I know that the hay rake's boss has a son in the army, and that makes a family feel a whole lot more patriotic. But it does look like my boss could let somebody's son use me. I'm made of good, heavy iron, and that is just what Uncle Sam is begging for. I know I'm old and rusty, but Uncle Sam says that doesn't matter. I know he would be glad to have me, if only someone would help me get to a scrap pile.

"Now please don't get me wrong—my boss isn't lazy. He's a good farmer and is doing everything he can to help our country reach its food production goal. But it does seem that he could find enough time to take me to a scrap pile or call a scrap metal dealer—I've helped him put in many a crop, but it seems he doesn't realize that there is still a big job I can do.

"Will someone please tell him that I want to go to North Africa or Australia?"

Do you, Mr. Farmer, have an old disc, tractor or implement of any kind that should go to war? Do you have small pieces of iron and steel that could be doing their bit in Africa? If so, why not junk them today—don't wait until tomorrow. Our boys on the fronts can't wait until tomorrow for their attacks—if they do they may lose.

You may feel that you have done your bit, but have you really done your best?

The fellow who sits and bemoans his run of bad luck is often too lazy to avail himself of good luck when it does come along.

Men have certain work to do for their bread, and that is to be done strenuously; others work for their delight, and that is to be done heartily; neither is to be done by halves or shifts, but with a will, and what is not worth that effort is not to be done at all.

If it were not tragic it would be humorous to see how all at once the powers-that-be in Washington have awakened to the fact that farming is an essential industry. Those who are writing the regulations for farmers should have more practical knowledge of the sources of food supplies than is furnished by Washington restaurants. Leading dairy organizations have long pointed out what was going to happen to our milk, cheese and butter supply. Maybe if a few of the white-collar boys in Washington had to shovel manure and milk cows for three months as training for their regulatory jobs, there would be more dairy products today.

The individual citizen can help relieve the wartime medical problem. Here are suggestions: Choose your physician carefully and stick to him. Make appointments for visits as early as possible. Whenever advisable visit the physician's office instead of expecting him to call at your home. Write down all important facts you want to tell him. Tell him all symptoms which have any bearing on your physical welfare. Have confidence in him. Write down his orders and make sure you understand them. Public cooperation can go far toward eliminating the "doctor shortage."

HORSE SENSE

The Portland, Oregon, Journal says editorially, "If John L. Lewis wins $2 a day pay increase for his miners, he will lose it. He will start an inflationary spiral in which the increased wage will be worth less in buying power than the present wage. He will release a torrent capable of sweeping wage floors and price ceilings into chaos. He may cause the loss of the war. Collapse of internal economy would leave no possible way to strike blows heavy enough to crush the Axis."

The Lewis miners get a base pay of from $6.00 to $8.60 a day for a 35-hour week, says the Journal, and the way for them to get more income "is to work more and produce more."

THE EASTER STORY

Pages of print, columns of ink, news gathered for our edification by scores of reporters, brought to the press from all points of the world that we may keep abreast of passing events. There are hundreds of reporters, famous names among them, giving us wordy pictures of vivid occurrences good reporters with a talent for making us see the chaotic condition of a people at war, all through the medium of words. Words are mighty swords to shape opinion, words are headlines to keep us in tune with an issue propounded or to instill rebellion against an incident. Headlines make us at peace or at war.

At this season there comes to mind the particular names of four famous reporters of many years ago, ages before the first printing press spoke of things to come, four who covered their assignment with such remarkable ability, with such a gift for words that their work has become traditional and their effect has formulated the pattern by which we weave our individual lives. Who in St. Joe does not know of those reporters, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John? Inspired by their faith in the message which they were to deliver, was one of the reasons for their story to be everlasting. What a recitation it was, one to inspire hope for the soul, peace for the mind, healing for the sore at heart, tranquillity for the spirit. Those men appealed to all mankind for understanding and trust in this anecdote of profound truth. Think of the leading events, the throbbing notes of adventure which occurred to give them their material! Read of the disbelief of doubting Thomas, the depicting of mental suffering in the garden, the vision of the rugged cross born thru the streets of the town to be silhouetted on a hill top on the outskirt, the political mockery of a trial packed with emotion and dire foreboding that tried not a man but a world of men. All of this and much more was reported and compiled into a human interest story by four who knew well the tenderness and compassion of their subject and were guided through love to give to people to come, the inspiration to look upward.

We were given our Easter scene, the message of the resurrection and the hope of a rebirth, a phrase spoken in suffering from haloed lips that became the rock to which we cling, for which we pray and why we die. "Peace be unto you," so they quoted him and so we believe. So we still believe on this Easter, in those years to come when skies might even be darker than today. No better faith could be professed from any reporter, than this one of peace! A visionary perhaps you say, he who looks for a world that is at rest with itself? Not a dreamer, but an advocate of a principle that should Christianity be worked out on a scale for which it was planned, completely, based on hope, in faith, with love and kindness midst justice and freedom, the victory of Easter would be complete, the unity of mankind a fact. We cry "Peace" and are warring, we call "Blessed" and forget Him, we say "Faith, Hope and Love" and turn and writhe in distrust, despair and indecision. How can a theory work out on such grounds? The tale of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John is a crying need for civilization.

WEAK IN HISTORY

Most of us oldsters in St. Joe can be caught napping if questioned about elementary phases of early American history, using as an excuse that it has been long since we were in school. But how can you account for the college freshmen who know little of the vitally important facts dealing with this country's development. It isn't that the 7,000 students answering the questionnaire in the 36 universities in this survey, didn't know lots of dates of obscure historical events or national matters of not much importance to the country's growth. BUT 26 per cent of them didn't know that Woodrow Wilson was president during the First World War. 21 per cent didn't know that Lincoln was president during the Civil War and only 84 per cent failed to list two things that could be connected with Thomas Jefferson as his contributions to our history books. Does this not point to a startling amount of ignorance of American college students on an important subject? Don't think that the students who answered these questions had not previously studied American history, government, social subjects in high school, because they had. Few of them had taken it in college, this course in American history. Geographically the survey showed the students, in many cases, were "off the bean," as they placed Portland, Oregon on water such as the Hudson River, the Great Lakes, and the Atlantic Ocean. Illinois, California, Texas and North Dakota were even named as Eastern seaboard states. With all of the stress laid today on our fight to preserve freedom of speech, assembly, religion and of the press, you would think they all could list the four points of the Bill of Rights. Last June the New York Times made a survey and found that 82 per cent of the nation's colleges didn't require American History for an undergraduate degree since the college educators felt students had taken this as a high school course and it was below the level of college subjects. The recent survey shows that somebody had better start to stress the importance of requiring a concise, intelligent, interesting course to further interest in knowing America.

SPRING ALL OVER

Spring doesn't put on a special showing just for the pleasure of our residents, but is even putting in an appearance in lands where bombs and shells tear at her coevering and play havoc with her planting arrangements. Regardless, she continues to offer pink peach and almond blossoms, yellow daffodils and forsythia, here at home and over there in England, just as pink and just as yellow there as here. Small green shoots pop out on bushes and trees in France and Michigan. China gave us our first forsythia so she too blooms in yellow glory. Tulips still find space in spots on the Dutch countryside. We are perhaps freer to head our clean-up campaigns and go to the back lot and pull rhubarb for the first delicious rhubarb pie. Man's ears hear the spring song of birds in junbles or peaceful trout streams in New Jersey. Birds and spring survive in far outposts, signs of hope over there and over here, of greener grass, bluer skies, more warmth and foliage. Both places we hum our favorite spring melodies and maybe even fly a kite.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

More skilled labor is assured for farm production this year through the new Selective Service regulations, which include two classifications specifically covering agricultural occupations — Class II-C, a "man deferred by reason of his agricultural endeavor," and Class III-C, a "man with dependents who is regularly engaged in agricultural occupations or endeavor." Selective Service eliminated Class III-B, men with bona fide dependents and also engaged in essential war work, because men with dependents now constitute the bulk of physically-fit registrants. Married men without children face induction unless they hold key jobs or in cases where induction would cause extreme hardship.

The shortage of trailers for handling farm produce has led to the consideration of types of trailers that may not involve the use of a quantity of critical materials. Where farmers cannot secure new trailers, they may be able to reconstruct vehicles and turn them into trailers. Steel wheels on tractors that must be moved on paved highways have proved such a problem that a program has been started for exchanging steel wheels on these machines for rubber tires and tubes for converting about 20,000 tractors sold to farmers since May 1, 1942.

Pressure cookers should be used for canning such non-acid vegetables as beans, peas, corn, spinach and other greens, and asparagus, as well as meats, for the purpose of destroying the deadly botulinum spores according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In acid products such as fruits and tomatoes, rhubarb and pickled beets, on the other hand, these spores are rendered harmless by boiling temperatures without using pressure cookers.

A farmer who sells butter, lard or any other rationed food to a retailer must now collect ration points for the sale, just as he has been collecting ration points for sales to consumers, and these stamps or other ration currency collected by the farmer must be turned in to local rationing boards once each month or report period in which a sale is made, along with a simple report on OPA Form R-1609, which is available through the local boards.

In the first period of meat rationing it was found that some perishable meat products, including sausage, scrapple, chitterlings, and pork neck and back bones, were moving so slowly that there was a danger of spoilage. The point values of these products, therefore, have been cut from one to two points in order to encourage consumer buying. One great advantage of the point system of rationing is its flexibiliy in adjustment to any temporary situation created by the market for products.

The slaughter of horses for dog food and more recently for human consumption is fast becoming an important food industry. Most sources of Government inspected horsemeat are from herds of wild horses in the Western mountain ranges. Captured animals are fattened before being killed. After April 20 all horsemeat will be under price control at prices ranging from 14 to 19 cents a pound.

Bus and street car service to amusement parks will be permissible this summer only if there is no interference with the transportation of war workers.

1943 A. PAPERLESS "PAPER ANNIVERSARY" YEAR

Despite an all-time marriage record in the United States, appropriate first anniversary gifts may fall to a new low!

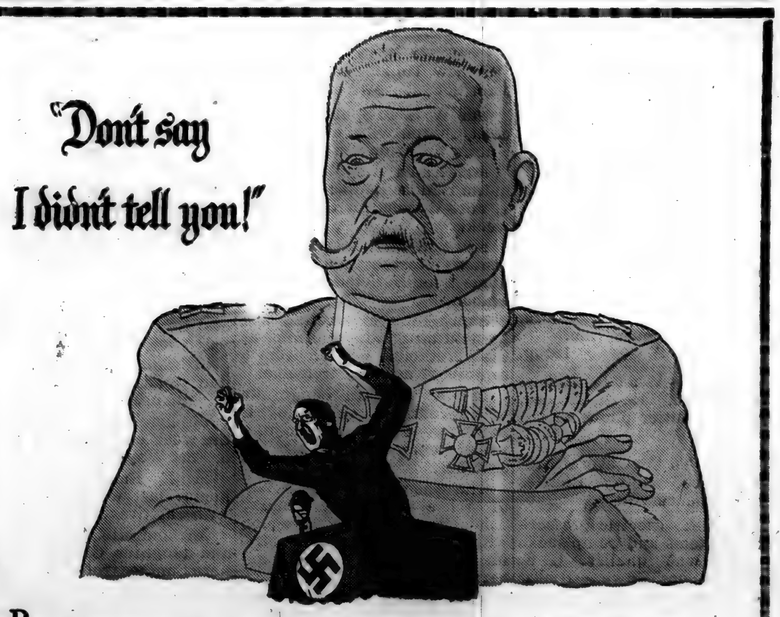
The reason? Couples celebrating the First Anniversary —universally known as the "Paper Anniversary"—traditionally receive complete table sets in paper, tender anniversary parties and dinners in paper — featuring paper cups, containers, dishes, napkins and table cloths.

Because paper cups are so essential to the War Effort, on both fighting fronts, many types are virtually unobtainable for First Anniversary purposes.

More than 1,800,000 marriages were solemnized in this country in 1942, topping the previous high of 1,679,000 marriages during 1941.

CANNING GALORE

One can scarcely say that canning has been a lost art here in St. Joe and Spencerville, but in some vicinities it has been just that. Many house wives of the new school of cooks would let her grocery take care of this matter and the manufacturer of the can opener finish the job. But more attention is being given the ritual of canning this year than for many years past. The experienced canner knows how to care for surplus crops during the height of the growing season and has probably planned the vegetable outlay so that there is replanting done frequently enough to keep the various crops producing all the time. With all of the literature being published about garden care, rotation of crops, guides on the use of sprays and fertilizers, analysis of the soil, methods of canning and recipes to offer variety for your shelves, it all points to a successful season and a prosperous crop for the home canners of our land.



PAUL VON HINDENBURG was a professional soldier with little taste for politics — and little love for the upstart paperhanger, Hitler, whom he had to accept as Chancellor.

After the last war, the shrewd old Prussian put his finger on one prime reason for Germany's defeat: "America's brilliant war industry had entered the service of patriotism. . . . They understood war."

Now history is repeating itself for Hindenburg's successor!

America's war industry again is pouring out planes, tanks and guns—meeting production goals that seemed fantastic at first.

Back of this fast-growing military power is electric power —far more power than Hitler and all his henchmen have— turning the machines that turn out everything from bullets to battleships.

Behind the great bulk of this power are the electric companies under experienced business management—doing their job and delivering electric power in ever-increasing quantities!

And back of it all, of course, is the American way of life at work—where free men are encouraged to invent, invest, produce, and everybody benefits.

With the coming of these balmy spring days a lot of prospective victory gardeners have been out poking in their vegetable plots.

With food rationing coming along here's a good bet for your garden. Our friends at Kansas State College have called our attention to a new soybean, the Bansei. Soybeans have been an important food item in several countries for a long time, and can be used for flavor and cooking quality.

If you get a chance look into the Bansei. It's a dry bean which can be used in much the same way as navy beans. Its food value is much higher than the navy beans too, with a high comparative fat and protein content.

Another thing victory gardeners might think about is this: why not try to add a few new vegetables to the list of standbys this year. Many of my friends seem to think that the one-crop garden is out for the duration. Here's a tip in planning a garden. Vegetables such as tomatoes, chard, and others which occupy the ground all season should be placed together with perennial vegetables along one side of the garden. Vegetables that occupy the ground only part of the season can be followed by other quick-maturing kinds such as lettuce, radishes, or set onions which should be placed in a block by themselves. I am sure that this arrangement will make your victory-gardening easier.

In case any of you have collected some seeds from last year's garden, make sure that you go through them to remove weed seeds and dirt. You might not remove all weed seeds, but it will help your garden as well as save a lot of back-breaking weed-pulling.

Until you hear from me next time, here's a lot of good luck on your back yard farming.

The S. Joe News is coming to you with time rapidly passing in the new year. We are both pleased and grateful for the subscriptions that have been paid before and in this new year and for many new names added to our list, for it has been many until now our weekly visit is made to nearly 800 homes. If you are getting The News and you are in arrears on your date, come in or send in your subscription so as to advance that date at least to 1943. You will find this date nformation with your name stamped either on the paper or wrapper, and the figures for example (9-41) indicates you are paid to September, 1941, and the price per year is still $1.00. Your attention to this will greatly reduce our expense. The News is your home paper bringing you the news that otherwise you might not learn. Help us carry on as every dollar paid on subscription plays a part in getting the paper printed. Let us say Thank You in advance for your attention and remittance.

Dr. Fabien Sevitsky, conductor of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra and Musical Director of the Limberlost Music Camp, announces the 1943 Camp season from June 20 to August 15. Located at Oliver and Olin Lakes, six miles south of LaGrange, the Camp is on the northeast corner of Indiana where the climate is ideal for work or play. For those who like to work, there are daily rehearsals of orchestra, band, and chorus; private instruction in all instruments and voice; master classes in piano; beginning and advanced classes in ballet; operatic training; and tutoring in academic courses with high school credit. The orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Sevitzky, and the band, conducted by J. W. Wainright, give concerts each Sunday in Wagner Grove, where there is a specially constructed shell with the best possible accoustics. These concerts, which entertain hundreds of listeners each week, are composed of music from the standard symphonic repertoire, and have faculty members and noted guest artists as soloists. One of the major projects of the summer will be the presentation of an opera, in costume, fully staged, and with orchestral accompaniment. Many from this section visit this Camp regularly for the Sunday afternoon concert.

THE 2ND WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON!

Come on, Let's WIN this war!

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ WAR FINANCE COMMITTEE ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

If we should lose the war, life would not be worth living.

"But we won't lose it," you may say.

This month it's up to us here at home to do our part, and then some, to make Victory surer—and quicker! To do it, we've got to lend Uncle Sam 13 billion extra dollars.

It isn't easy—but war isn't easy and Victory isn't cheap. It takes money—and more money—to buy planes, ships, tanks, guns and a million other things our boys must have to deliver that final, paralyzing knockout punch.

And it's a whale of a lot easier for us at home to lend our money than for our boys to fight through the hardships and dangers of deserts, swamps, jungles, ice-fields and sub-infested seas!

Just think! Every extra bond you buy will help provide the weapons to save the lives of many American boys! Isn't that alone worth every effort, every economy you can make? You bet it is!

There are 7 types of U. S. Government securities to meet the needs of every purse. They offer the finest investment in the world—liberal interest, plus securities guaranteed by Uncle Sam himself.

A volunteer worker for the 2nd War Loan Drive may visit you soon. Welcome this unselfish patroit—and buy all the bonds you can. But don't wait for that call. Go—today—to your bank, investment dealer, broker, post office or bond booth and invest to your uttermost limit. Even if it hurts, it's nothing compared to the agonizing impact of a bayonet thrust, a flesh-tearing torpedo fragment or a bone-crushing bullet.

So dig deep, brother, and do it NOW!

There are 7 different types of U. S. Government securities—choose the ones best suited for you!

THEY GIVE THEIR LIVES...YOU LEND YOUR MONEY!

Del Monte, Calif., Glenn Leland Likes of Butler, Indiana, is included in the group of aviation cadets that reported at the Navy Pre-Flight School here last week for 3 months of rigorous physical training as their first step toward becoming pilots.

In addition to a strenuous sports program the cadets will receive instruction by the military department in precision drill, gunnery, first aid and become cognizant of the duties and responsibilities of a Naval officer. In addition, the academic department gives the future fliers courses in Essentials o f Naval Service, mathematics, and nomenclature and recognition of Allied and Axis planes and ships.

After successful completion to a primary training base for additional ground school work and flight training.

The Pre-Flight School here, commissioned February 13, 1943, and under the command of Caytain G. W. Steele, USN (Ret.,) is the fifth such school now in operation. Others are located at St. Mary's College, Calif., and at the universities of Georgia, Iowa and North Carolina.

Dear Editor:

Hello Friend, well this is Wednesday night and I will soon be headed for the sea, as you know I am a machine gunner and may never come back, the odds are against me. So here is what I want to say, and I w a n t everyone to know this. Once quite a few years ago I made a mistake a mistake that almost ruined my whole life. Well last November 23, I made the same mistake, that's why I'm a machine gunner today. I want the person that made this brag (if Bob Burns gets killed I'll get $10,000) to know that I have made my will giving my entire estate to the Red Cross.

I am sure proud that I am able to do my share to win this war. I know this much about it where I'm going I'll see plenty of Japs and plenty of action, and I'll never take a Jap prisoner. We knew last week we were going so I gave my mother a long distance call to say good bye, wanted to hear my folks all talk again, it would have made me feel better to hear their voices again, for as I said I may never get to talk to them again. If anything should happen I am prepared. I'm not afraid.

Will close and if I ever get back I will drop you a line.

Your Pal and every one's Pal,
Keep 'em Flying,
Pvt. Bob Burns, Small Boot 786 B. S. P., A. P. O. 942, Seattle, Washington.

Men placed in Class 1-A and no wavailable for military service are Lynn Howey, Spencerville; Arthur C. Lyon, Huntington, formerly of St. Joe; Walter L. Loucks,, Hicksville, formerly of St. Joe; Henry J. Engle, Auburn; and Lloyd E. Schrader of north of Concord. Five young men were accepted last week for U. S. Navy service and among them was Orville R. Coburn, of St. Joe.

The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Krabill of north of St. Joe, from their grandson.

Dear Grandparents:

Well, I'm feeling good now and hope you are too. Just came from breakfast and had a good meal, too, of two eggs fried, and pancakes and coffee. It sure was good. Don't think the army food is as bad as they claim it is. I weighed 147 pounds when I came in and I've increaesd now to 172 pounds. Not bad is it.

Also I've got a promotion in ranks too. I'm now a P. F. C., one stripe on my arm. I think DeWayne will like the army when he gets used to it, I like it alright now, it's not bad.

Well, I've been in this field since April 1st. I'm at Chanute Field, Illinois, about a hundred miles from Chicago. So I'm close home yet can't get there. Want to come home soon. Finished my cooking course here the 24th and I hope I pass out of the class as a First Cook. My grades so far are 100%, but time will tell.

Want you to know I am getting along fine and hope you are better. Will close now for I have to go to the kitchen in a few minutes and work. So goodbye for now and I'll write again soon. Your grandson,
Pfc. Paul K. Cook.

Stanley Baker, of Concord, has closed out his stock of goods and has purshased the 80-acre farm of R. W. Murray on Road 8.

Easter guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sellers were: Herbert Jesse and family, of Poe, Ind., and Mrs. Hilda Travis and two children, of Fort Wayne.

"MY DESTINY"

Though time has marked my destiny
In this world so filled with hate;
This war of sin and blood, the world is Doomed, there seems to be no fate.
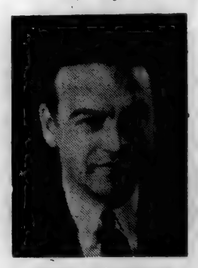
There is no fear of death, my feeling, I feel none.

When it's my turn to kill, God have mercy it must be done.
When riddled with bullets my blood spills upon the dirt,
I pray to God to forgive, to forget,
Only a life, My Destiny, it has come.

—By C. Robert Burns.

To High School Graduates:



ROBERT M. HUTCHINS

Your generation is taking its place in the world in much the same circumstances as mine did. Our elders gave us a world at war; we are passing on to you a world engaged in a conflict of even greater dimensions which will have even more drastic repercussions on your lives. If civilization is not to move blindly from one catastrophe to another your generation must succeed where mine has failed. Not the least of your handicaps will be the interruption of your education by the war. Most of the young men, and many of the young women, will enter the armed forces. These exist to win a war, and the education they provide, even for those they send to training programs in the colleges and the universities, is intended to produce effective fighters. But the education which will be needed after the war to preserve and keep the freedom which you have defended is liberal education. You cannot preserve your freedom, you cannot use it well, unless you know what freedom is and what to do with it. Only liberal education can so enlighten you. Without it you cannot replace our concern with materialism with the moral and spiritual reformation which alone can create a world concerned with the highest good of man and society. Your part in winning the war is only the beginning of what you must undertake. After the war you must see to it that you get a liberal education.

Robert M. Hutchins, President
The University of Chicago

Commencement Season Opens.

Spencerville School Graduates 27 Young People Last Friday Evening Before Large Audience.

Spencerville High School graduated its largest class in the history of the school with 27 members receiving diplomas. The former high mark was in 1939 when 24 members were graduated.

Russell F. Handy, of Angola, delivered the main address on the topic of "The Three R's" before a capacity audience. The three "R's" as depicted by Mr. Handy are Reliance, Radiance, and Realization. He urged the graduating members to rely on self and companions in the light of an ever changing universe, to radiate their personalities to t h e point where they will be a positive influence on others, and to fully Realize and appreciate their inheritance handed down through the ages.

The valedictory was ably given by Miss Marian Myers, and Miss Joy Gerig represented the class in welcoming its vast audience of friends and well wishes.

Carl F. Stallman gave an informative talk on the need of literature and the social studies in the public schools in order to create a more understandable post-war world.

The local Lions Club presented a Bible to each member of the graduating class. In making the presentaion, Fred Leighty, president of the club, made a plea for habitual Bible reading, turning to its pages in times of joy as well as in times of trouble and sorrow.

Everett Paschen, principal, presented the diplomas, and Georgia Rugman expressed appreciation for the class to the members of the faculty and all teachers who had assisted its members in making it possible for them to merit the cherished high school diploma.

To me, tonight, comes the rare and deeply appreciated privilege of being the spokesman for my group. The Seniors extend to you, parents and friends, a hearty welcome to the Commencement exercises of the class of '48.

For us of this class, this occasion is the one on which we have kept our eye for 12 years. When we were 6, it was fairly a glimmer on the horizon, scarcely discernible in fact; but as the years went on, it loomed large and larger. Now that we have actually arrived, the importance and solemnity of the day is almost more than we can compass. We begin to sense, only dimly to be sure, something of what the poet had in mind when he said:

"You have each been given a bag of tools,
A formless rock and a book of rules;
And each must make, ere life
has flown,
A stumbling-block or a stepping-stone."

We of this class have no desire to be a stumbling-block, a hindrance, in any way, and we have vowed the solemn resolution to use these tools and this book of rules To Build the Ladder by Which We Climb. Surely there is much need of serious building today. As we look about us, the whole world seems to have slipped or sunk i n t o the "slough of Despond." We must work, we must build for a better tomorrow. In spite of the dark and dismal outlook, we, the youth of today, still believe that

"Life is what we make it;
strange as it may seem
When the clouds are darkest, still the edges gleam."

It is our hope, our resolution that this gleam shall lead us ever onward and upward. We know that many sacrifices are called for—from the merest of our vanities to our very life itself—and yet this dedication of our best, this sacrifice of our very selves, we now stand ready to make.

You, who have already endured, have sacrificed so much, and have climbed so far become our help, our inspiration, and our ever present insurance that in the end, effort for the right does pay and does pay well. May we never fail you who have never failed us. And with our tools and our book of rules will you help us to build the ladder by which we climb from this cloudy earth to a sunnier clime and to mount to its summit round by round?

Thus, and only thus, will we, the seniors of 1943, justify the efforts of our parents, our teachers, and our friends expended in our behalf.

Welcome, then, to this our most unforgettable evening.

We who are about to step forth from high school into a war torn world are forced to consider our parts in the battle now raging. The past has been fairly happy and secure; the future looks unpromising and insecure. We can realize now that we shall have many complex adjustments to undergo all of which will be somewhat easier met because of our preparation in high school days.

We are citizens of the greatest republic and the grandest nation in all the world. In school we studied a great deal about patriotism; out of school we shall put into practice these ideals of civic duty. Heretofore every individual seemed to define the word in his own way and to practice it according to his own ideals; today it is we who must give the word a new meaning. Our thoughts and acts must be deeper, broader, higher, and more pure. Of course, conceptions of the highest patriotism vary as the history and institutions of a nation vary; but for us of this country, the spirit of American institutions is that of a true democracy, which always seeks to cultivate the best and to eliminate the vicious; to stand for the cause of liberty, freedom, and truth at whatever cost of property or even of human life itself.

We who are passing out of a democratic high school life into more active citizenship have no choice other than to lend our help to the great cause now under way. Destruction of property, lives, and ideals is wide spread. Daily the reports of hideous atrocities shock us, but resonstruction will come all over this whole world and in this too, we must have our part.

Whatever helps to make our nation better, whatever helps to lift the people to a higher plane of thought and life, whatever in any way makes America—or any portion of it better worth the living in and for—is helping on the great work of much needed reconstruction for the whole world.

We feel confident that our preparation in high school days will enable us to bear with credit, our portion of this world burden. Our teachers have certainly put forth their efforts to give each raw recruit his chart and compass. Our parents have added their faith and loyalty. So we go forth to meet problems, some of the most baffling this old world has ever known. But with loyalty for our watchword and faith in the cause for which we battle, let us show the world that we are good citizens and true patriots carrying still in our hearts that spirit of courage, resolution, and high-minded integrity which will in the end win. It now becomes our privilege and at the same time our duty to shift from high school life to do what we can for the cause of Our Country! Make her always right! help us to Keep her standards clear and white!

GRADUATING ACTIVITIES OF ST. JOE GRADUATES

Senior activities began with the presentation of the class play, "Shadow of Terror" on Friday, April 16. The play was given in a commendable manner before an unusually large audience. Frances Reidenbach enacted the part of Helen McArthur who was the double of Peggy Powers, the heiress, p l a y e d by Alice Strong. Stella Hart cleverly portrayed the part of Aunt Julia who with her son, Sigmund, Harold Wilmot, schemed to get the $5,000,000. Mike Beaty, as the lawyer, Horald Keller, butler, in conspiracy with Aunt Julia, added to the horror scenes while Candace Mae Loftus as Topaz, a colored maid and Mary Ellen Rude as the housekeeper furnished comedy relief. Jewel Pennington, a friend of Helen McArthur, played by Pat Maxwell, complicated the plot in her efforts to help Peggy.

Jr.—Sr. Banquet

Members of the Senior class and faculty were guests at the annual Junior-Senior banquet held Friday evening at the Ft. Wayne Y. W. C. A.

After the dinner, consisting of tomato juice cocktail, baked fish, potatoes, peas, salad, rolls, pie and coffee, Allen Haller acting as toastmaster presented Virginia George, who welcomed the Seniors. Roger Hadley, president of the class, responded for the Seniors. The class prophecy was read by Lee Bragg, and the Last Will and Testament by Frances Reidenbach.

The attractive dining tables were set with individual place mats. Programs in the form of

YOUR SCRAP AND OUR BOY

Once upon a time there was a boy, a grand boy who lived in our neighborhood. He was full of the love of life—that fullness of life that has only been offered to the youth of America. Then came the call to arms. Our country, which had always been able to offer our boys and girls the countless advantages of our great resources, was called upon to retrench so that our armed forces could be adequately maintained.

This boy, perhaps your own boy or your neighbor's boy, made a promise to his God, his country and his family to fight, if need be to die, that this selfish intrusion in our way of life might be forever stifled. As we all know, he has kept his promise with all the courage and cunning at his command. He will continue to give that which is expected of him.... many times over. But he can't do it with bare hands and courage.

This boy may be lying in an advanced foxhole position in the Solomon Islands, half submerged in much, tortured by insects, bugs, and reptiles, where he waits for his chance to strike a blow for our security. To strike this blow he has to have courage, a gun, ammunition, grenades; to protect his movement in position, he must have smoke bombs; to protect his battalion, his communication set must receive the information on the disposition and strength of the enemy's troops. If and when he is detected and wounded, he must have tubes of sulfanilamide ointment to protect him from infection. Then, if by the grace of God he is returned to a field hospital for first aid, he will be given blood plasma in the hope that his life may be spared.

It could have been the tin can you prepared that supplied the neccessary tin to make the hand grenade; it requires only one properly prepared tin can for this.

It could have been the scrap iron that you collected that supplied the necessary metal for a machine gun; it requires only 50 pounds of scrap to build a heavy one.

It could have been the waste fats that you saved that supplied the necessary glycerine for his ammunitions; 2 pounds of waste fats will produce enough glycerine to make five anti-tank shells.

It could have been the discarded hosiery, scrap brass and copper, or reclaimed rubber that has saved the lives of many of our boys.

"Let's get behind the men behind the guns and ships and tanks,
And all those daring flyers in our Axis-bombing ranks,
And the farmer and the townsman and the preacher and the press,
Schools and clubs will all combine to make our scrap drive a success.
Junk that's sold should be invested in those vital bonds and stamps,
Make the Stars and Stripes respected by those Jap and German tramps.
So let's all keep on a diggin', pile the salvage high and wide,
Keep it rollin' to the steel mills for the fight on Freedom's side."

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Many DeKalb County families will find this year's supply of their home produced foods taking on a new importance if they will evaluate it in terms of rationing points, states Miss Mary Lenore Moore home demonstration agent.

By planning wisely some families can produce not only vegetables, but also a large part of all the eight classes of foods needed in the daily diet. Some DeKalb County farm families supply not only their own vegetables, milk ,eggs, and meat, but also fruit, fats, such sweets as honey or sorghum, and whole grain cereal ground from their own wheat.

To plan either the family food supply or family meals, the homemaker must know the food needs of her family. The homemaker must not only prepare essential foods to save food value, but should study the eating habits of each member of the family to see that each person actually eats all of the foods needed for abundant health and energy.

Old and young alike need certain foods in each day's meals. Miss Moore suggests that homemakers check these daily food needs with a copy of the New Purdue University nutrition yardstick, "Scoring Above the Safety Line." This scorecard, printed in red, white, and blue, and punched to be hung conveniently in the kitchen, is available at the county extension office.

AGRICULTURAL 4-H CLUBS

Boys and Girls Agricultural 4-H Club meetings will be held the first Wednesday night of each month at Spencerville and the first Tuesday night of each month at St. Joe. The meetings will be called to order at 8:00 C. W. T. and will be adjourned at 10:00 C. W. T. each night.

Any boy or girl between 10 and 20 years old inclusive, may enroll. Those having desirable projects and wish to enroll for this summer's work should come to St. Joe High School Building Tuesday night, May 4 at 8:00 C. W. T. or to Spencerville High School Building Wednesday night, May 5, at 8 C. W. T. for the enrollment and organization meeting.

GET-TOGETHER 4-H CLUB

The Get-Together 4-H Club of Concord Township met in the Home Economics room of the school house Wednesday, April 21. The meeting was called to order by Miss Helen Carey, our local adult leader. She explained to the younger members what the 4-H club means now. After her explanation, Miss Carey called for nominations. The officers elected are as follows: President, Doris Trenary; vice president, Janice Bragg; secretary, Maxine Converse; treasurer, Jean Billow; song leader, Jane Bragg; recreation leader, Pat Carpenter; news reporter, Maxine Converse.

There is a great increase in membership over last year. The number of members present at the meeting was 40.

There is a new project open to 4-H-ers this year, which is the "Farm and Home 4-H Victory Club." Its objective is to render less acute the farm and home labor shortage. The minimum achievement goal as suggested is:

1. 100 hours of farm, home, or community service.
2. Attend not less than two regular 4-H Victory Club meetings.
3. Complete record of work, production and community service.

At the suggestion of Miss Carey the club decided to hold its meetings every two weeks. The next meeting of the club will be Wednesday, May 5, at 2:00 P. M. at the school house in St. Joe.

Miss Carey will be in St. Joe for two months during the first part of the summer in order to help the members of the 4-H Club. She will remain here during May and June, and will be at the Home Economics room from 9:00 to 12:00 A. M and from 2:00 to 4:00 P. M. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week.

This year we have a new kind of membership button. At the top of this button which is one-half inch in diameter, is a small 4-leaf clover. There is a large red V for Victory which reaches from the top of the pin to the bottom. At the bottom of the pin on each side of the apex of the V is 4-H Club.

MAY NOW USE G, H AND J RATIONING STAMPS

Saturday was the first day for using G, H, and J stamps for buying canned and processed foods, the office of price administration reminded housewives. OPA has issued these reminders to housekeepers shopping with war ration book two:

Blue stamps D, E, F, which have been in use since March 25, continue good through April 30.

Blue G, H, and J stamps may be used through the end of May.

All red stamps from A thru D are now good for buying meat, cheese, butter and other fats and oils, as well as canned fish. They expire April 30. Red E stamps are now valid.

Easter dinner guests in the L. W. Yeiser home were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Potter and son, of near Albion, Mrs. R. W. Kain and daughters, of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Baker and son, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser and son of St. Joe. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Yeiser and son, of Fort Wayne, were supper guests.

VOL. LVIII (58 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, ARR. 29, 1943 NUMBER 17

SCHOOL DAYS

Salutatorian 1943

Today we have reached the goal toward which we have been striving for 12 long years. But as we look back, it seems but yesterday that 25 tiny tots meekly entered the portals of this school for the first time. Of those 25, nine have dropped out, or moved away. There are, in our graduating class of today, 16 of those who entered in the fall of 1930; as well as 7 others who have joined our class in the intervening years.

We must now enter upon the greater field of life which lies stretched out before us.

We welcome you to this our last meeting, to show our appreciation for all the kindly advice, helpful guidance, and friendship which you have given us.

Especially in the last four years have we learned to know and value one another, we have formed the unrivaled friendships of school life; we have shared our pleasures beneath this roof, and together we have read to the end the long chapter of opportunities. And now there remain but the last brief word of farewell, the words we have heard so often here, the words we have seen spoken through tears. This joy and sadness of parting we want to share with you our parents, teachers and friends.

No amount of experience can make parting painless, nor yet give us words for what we feel. How much of memory and how much of hope is bound up in those two syllables "fare-well!" We are drawn together now as we have never been before, and the last handshake has a new thrill in it.

During the exercises of tonight, I bid you listen to our chosen speakers as they draw pictures of our past school life; and as they lift the veil of the far-distant future and also as we pay tribute to a dear classmate who was suddenly called from our midst. We must not and cannot forget these memories that we cherish so deeply. To such scenes the class of 1943 bids its friends welcome.

PATRICIA MAXWELL.

VALEDICTORY

Today, we are fighting to preserve everything democratic in our American Way of Life. There is nothing in life more democratic than the stairway to success.

Tonight, we the class of '43 are celebrating our arrival on another landing of that stairs—the completion of our High School Education. We are glad you could join us in our celebration and we want to share with you some of our beliefs as expressed in the motto chosen by our class—"The elevator to success isn't running; please take the stairs."

The stairway to success was built for us by you, but each of us must climb it for himself or else it has been built in vain. You know far better than we know or here can say at what great cost the stairs on which we climb were framed, and, if we've been too careless to say it heretofore, please take this straight from us, "We thank you all" and we will try to prove our gratitude by climbing higher still.

The stairs are here for us to climb. They are accessible for all with special privileges for none. How fast we climb, how high we rise, is finally up to us. There are no buttons we can push, no elevators to wait for, but only the succession of steps on an ascending stairs, which each can take in his own stride. Some may prefer the cautious creeping of a little child, and some will choose the deer-like leaps of bounding boys as they come sprinting in from play in vain attempts to beat the bell; but most of us will find a steady, even pace more suited to our hearts, our balance and our goals.

Each step is, in itself, a small success, but joined to others, is a build-up for the happy landings such as this tonight. This far up the steps are hollowed out by the tread of many feet, thanks to our high standards of compulsory education, but on from here, each new riser is an added test of our endurance, and many never will go higher than the law requires. Thus far they have been helped along, pressed forward by the crowd, but, above this landing, each must rely upon his own inherent powers. Those who wait here for the elevator just won't arrive—It isn't working—Take the Stairs.

Success is not the prize of competition nor yet the luck bestowed by any school. It is, in any degree, the "favorable termination of whatever is attempted as an individual goal;" so, while the fruits, of success, such as the stairs we climb, have been inherited from others, success itself is exclusively an achievement gained and measured by our individual zeal.

No student here became an expert typist by watching the instructor click the keys; and no athlete or prospective soldier, sailor, or marine can get into victory condition by lounging on the bleachers while others train—nor will success in any line come except in response to great personal endeavor.

"The heights of great men reached and kept
Were not attained by sudden flight,
But they, while their companions slept,
Were toiling upward in the night.
We have not wings, we cannot soar;
But we have feet to scale and climb
Bu slow degrees, by more and more,
The cloudy summits of our time." H. W. Longfellow.

Succession, then, is the secret of success, and each to gain his goal must take the necessary steps—steps which some have called a ladder, but which we have called the stairs.

FRANCES REIDENBACH.

Last Will and Testament of The Class of 1943

We, The Senior Class of the City of St. Joe, State of Indiana, being of unsound mind and not considering the state of our life, do make, publish, and declare this to be our next to the last Will and Testament; and hereby regardless of all the other foolish things said by us on previous occasions, do hereby seriously will the following:

First: That all of our debts (honest or otherwise) be paid out of the pocket of someone, other than ours.

Second: We will all of the trouble we have caused to the Junior class, though doubtless they have enough of their own.

Third: To our friends and others of this school, we will our interest in activities and especally basketball. Long may they shine.

Fourth: We make the following individual bequests:

I, Eugene Baker will myself to Jean Hurni. May she always treat me kindly.

I, Chalmer Beaty, will my ability to stay out of school to Harold Ryan.

I, Hubert Bleeks, will my manly form to Jim Kees.

I, Walter Fetters, will my beautiful blond hair and adorable permanent to Bessie Baughman.

I, Roger Hadley, will my good grades to Max Likens.

I, Estella Hart, do will the right to wear an engagement ring to Joan Diederich.

I, Loren Inlow, will my ability to work on old cars to Ned Keller.

I, Jud Keeler, will my BIG English notebook to Gerald Means. If around long enough, he might add a little art work and make it a masterpiece.

I, Donald Kinesy, will my ability to stay out late and still make the first period in the morning to Ned Keller.

I, Candace Loftus, will my loud laugh, scream, and voice at basketball games, to Beverly Wade in the hope that she will keep the old spirit going.

I, Patricia Maxwell, do will my cute little giggle to Beverly Swander. I'm sure that Jim will like it a lot.

I, Eugene McBride, will my Chevy to Lee Bragg, so he won't have to walk out to see a certain girl.

I, Roscoe Moore, will some of my height to Beverly Wade.

I, Frances Reidenbach, will some of my good looks to Maxine Converse. She may also have some of my ability to keep calm under trying circumstances.

I, Harold Keller, will my nick name "Stub" to Lee Bragg.

I, Robert Ridgway, will my ability to think of good excuses to Ned Keller.

I, Alice Moore, will some of my excess avoirdupois to Jean Hurni.

I, Mary Ellen Rude, will some of my shyness to Maxine Converse.

I, Gladys Stewart, will some of my ability to talk in the Study Hall, to Mary Louise Woodcox.

I, Harry Strong, will some of my strength to Jim Kees.

I, Alice Strong, will some of my brightness to Harold Ryan.

I, Harold Wilmot, will my ability to sing to Pat Carpenter.

I, Marilyn Zonker, will my shyness to Virginia George.

In Witness Whereof, we have set our hand on this, the Twenty-eighth day of April, 1943.

Signed: Senior Class of '43.

GRADE THRIFT PROJECT

Third and Fourth Graders In Savings Campaign

The following is a report of the Victory Stamp and Bond drive which was carried on in the Third and Fourth Grade room of the Concord Twp. School for the 1942-43 term.

The drive lasted 23 weeks. During that time a total of $238.20 of stamps and $575 of bonds were purchased. Of the stamps, $225 were converted into bonds; thus leaving $350 of bonds which were purchased outright. There was a weekly average of 17 pupils participating over the 23 week period.

The pupils who were successful in completing one or more bonds during the period are as follows: Bernice Argerbright, Barbara Jo Oberlin, Gwynn Wade, Carol Billow, Dawn Keesler, Jean Perkins, Jo An Bowser, Carol Coburn, Carlton Curie, Juanita Likes, Marlene Leonhart.

The pupils and teacher feel proud of this record but hope to make a much better one another year.

This is a list of the boys and girls in the First and Second Grades who have purchased Bonds during this school year:
Ruth Ann Hart, 2—$25 bonds.
Janice Miller, . . 1—$25 bond
Burmell Walter, 1—$25 bond
Marilyn Dawn Washler, 1—$25 bond
Sammy Morr, . . . 1—$25 bond
Norman Morr, . . 1—$25 bond
Neil Wisler, ... 1—$25 bond

Mrs. Freida Guilford and Mrs. Harriett Oberlin as the teachers are to be congratulated upon the teaching of thrift to their pupils.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Fire damage now is disaster. Watch every outdoor fire as you would a Nazi with a loaded bomb.

The life of poor Fido is in jeopardy at Kendallville. An edict went out from police headquarters in that city Saturday that all dogs found running loose on the steets would be shot.

Cutworms can be kept from such plants as beans, cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, brussel sprouts and tomato plants, by scattering on the ground in a circle but not touching the plant stem, wood ashes. Then soak the ground well. This makes a ring of lye which is not favorable to cutworms.

Chas. Butler, who advertised for hogs in the classified column said: "Stop that ad, I'm getting more hogs than I can take care of." Another advertiser, Am Reinhart, of north of Newville stated his ad brought results the first forenoon. Customers came from many miles away. That's the history of News classified ads.

: : Prophecy of Class of 1943 : :

Eugene Baker is quite a man
He once sang for Dorsey's band
He sang the jive both new and old
But when it's opera he's out in the cold.

We found Chalmer Beaty dressed in white
It really gave us quite a fright
We found him on the seventeenth floor
Running the elevator in a second hand store.

He is a dancer that Hubert Bleeks
He's a gentleman but his shoe squeeks.
He lives by night and sleeps by day
But I know of no better dancer, the women say.

Fetters' talent runs to the wrecking service
The prices are reasonable but they make one nervous.
His cars never have a great deal of lustre
The reason is he's his own best customer.

There is a dishwasher at the camp at Des Moines
An apron girded about his loins.
This man has had an awful race
The WAAC's are Hadley's only place.

Estella Hart dressed in satin and lace
At the peace conference sang the Feuher's face.
She then stood up and took a bow
And with the high command she is a wow.

Reverend Inlow thrills the crowds
With words both wise and witty.
He has a very masterful voice
Heard in every town and city.

St. Joe has a math professor
He really is a wizzard.
Jud Keeler studies hard and long
With nothing in his gizzard.

Harold Keller ran for president
He gained a lot of votes.
He needn't worry about inflation
He's president of the Dog Catcher's Association.

There's a lawyer in a nearby city
Who's known both far and wide.
Don Kinsey wins the hardest cases
When the jury's on his side.

Gee, who do I see sitting by the fireside
Stroking that pretty black cat's hide?
It would be funny to most of us
But it's heaven to Miss Candace Loftus.

Pat graduated from St. Joe High
With Latin as her study.
And now she's in a University
Teaching Latin to everybody.

E. McBride is a classical man
He made money with a hot dog stand.
He ran it by day and he ran it by night
And when it comes to bills, he is in flight.

She knows the plan of government,
She thinks it should be free.
And fighting for women's rights,
Alice Moore you're sure to see.

My name is Roscoe Moore, and
I like chicken gravy.
I wished I had a pair of pants,
Like they wear in the Navy.

Frances is a wonderful girl,
Raising chickens for a hobby.
She has a farm with sixteen barns,
And a mansion with a three room lobby.

I had my hair cut the other day,
By Ridgway the barber.
He cut it short then trimmed it off,
It was a masterpiece of harbor.

The WAAC's go marching down the street,
But Captain Rude is in retreat;
For a hand is waving from the walk
And that's enough to make anyone balk.

Of all the girls in the Senior class,
Gladys Stewart is sure to pass.
She now earns her living
Painting signs "keep off the grass."

Alice Strong works at Lockheed from 7 until 3
Behind a riveting machine.
But when the good old whistle blows
She's no where to be seen.

As election time draws near,
There's a mighty voice you hear.
It's Harry Strong, the politician;
He slays all competition.

Wilmot, the high school fighter,
Has won himself many a bout.
His diet consists of wheaties and
Milk and also sour krout.

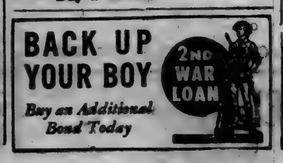
When it comes to big families, Zonker has them beat
She has a husband and sixteen kids, and do they ever eat.
She keeps them clean and well clothed, with shining noses,
And every day they walk the street with a bouquet of roses.

We have seen you boys and girls grow up. Now we see you graduate. It has been good to be here and witness the steady, sturdy growth, the constant forward march of all of you! But the time has come when can no longer stand in the sidelines as silent observers; we must express ourselves.

And we do so now, in a single word, CONGRATULATIONS. We are putting that word in capitals, for the occasion seems to demand it. Please count us among your most admiring friends.

St. Joe Filling Station

Workers in a Michigan refinery fixed up a very low, false door leading to the pay office. On it is inscribed, "You will learn to duck lower if you don't Buy a Bond."



A canning demonstration will be held at the high school gymnasium May 18 at 1:30. The pressure cooker, hot water bath and open kettle methods will be demonstrated. If possible an electric dehydrator and some dehydrated foods will be on display. This demonstration will be conducted by Miss Mary Lenore Moore, County Home Demonstration Agent. Everybody is welcome.

ST. JOE, INDIANA

MORTUARY

FRANKLIN A HORN

Franklin A. Horn, son of a pioneer family, was born Mar. 28, 1859, at the Horn Homestead, southeast of Spencerville, Indiana, in Allen County, and went to his eternal reward on Good Friday, April 23, 1943 at the age of 84 years and 25 days. He was a life-long resident of Springfield Township, having moved from the Homestead across the road to the present residence 53 years ago.

On March 29, 1885, he was united in marriage to Ella Dilley. To this union were born two children: a son, Kohler, who died at 15 months, and a daugther, Venus, who moved to the farm last fall to better care for her parents.

On January 31, 1886, he became a confirmed member of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Spencerville, from which membership he is now dismissed by death after a long life of loyalty and service. Although prevented by failing health from attending the services of the church during the past three years, he nevertheless kept in touch with its work in the community and at large. He was a constant reader of the Bible and held to a faith well grounded in God's Holy Word.

He was preceded in death by three brothers, one sister, and his infant son. He leaves to follow him, besides his wife, and daughter, two brothers, Ezra and George, who are 92 and 86 respectively.

In what way can we serve you? If there is any way please let us know, and we will do our level best to make our service better. For the best is none too good for the boy and girl graduates of 1943.

SERGEANT BRY WEDS AUBURN GIRL

Miss Iris Swain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alto Swain, of Auburn, was united in marriage Saturday night at 10 o'clock to Sergt. Charles Bry, son of Mrs. Henry Bry of one and three quarters mile south of St. Joe. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, with Rev. W. W. Brewster, pastor of the Auburn Church of God, officiating.

The wedding was an impressive double ring service in candlelight. The bride wore a white satin gown with a long train, a fingertip veil of tulle and white beaded crown. She also wore a string of pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, lilies and carnations with white ribbon streamers.

Miss Maxine Swain, a sister, served as bridesmaid. The best man was Sergt. Dale Taylor of Fort Wayne. Both the groom and best man were in military uniforms with white carnation boutonnieres.

The bride is a graduate of the Auburn high school of the class of 1941. Sergt. Bry has been in the service for two years and left Wednesday for Camp Livingston, La., where he is now stationed.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Swain home.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

The 18 million makers of Victory Gardens this year will be able to get the garden tools and fertilizer they need, but not all types of commercial fertilizer may be available, although stores are carrying plenty of Victory Garden fertilizer, prepared according to a special wartime formula.

New hand tools will be adequate but the styles of individual implements will be fewer and less fancy. For example, manufacturers of garden forks may now make only 76 types, instead of 324—rakes were cut from 55 to 8 styles and hoes from 362 to 39. Garden hose of reclaimed rubber is still being made.

Damage to Victory Gardens by animal pests should be kept to a minimum this year because of the value of all war foods. How to halt the depredations of wild rabbits, moles, woodchucks, pocket gophers and field mice is the subject of a leaflet, "Protecting Victory Gardens From Animal Pests," issued by the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of Interior and available for free distribution.

Petroleum is moving to the East Coast in ever-increasing volume, owing partly to more efficient operation of tank car trains and also to the opening of the new pipeline to the Middle West. A year from now deliveries of oil are expected to be greater than before Pearl Harbor, but that does not mean, necessarily, that the consumer of fuel oil will have unlimited fuel, for the military demands on fuel oil and other petroleum products shipped from the Atlantic ports are increasing month by month and will continue to do so as our offensive overseas mounts in intensity. For this reason, and because of the continued need to spin out the rubber on the wheels of our cars, there can be no relaxation now of gasoline and fuel oil conservation.

Farm real estate values on March 1, 1943 were sharply higher than a year earlier. The index figure for farm values, using the period 1912-14 as the standard, stood at 99 this year, compared with 91 in 1942 and a low of 73 in 1943. Land value increases were wide-spread, with some advance reportedl in every state ....Farm veterinarians are added to the list of those who may get new tires as replacements even when the casings of their tires are recappable.. The 1943 spinach pack has been brought under price ceilings...And war models of men's bib overalls, overall coats, and waistband overalls or dungarees will carry fixed prices in the stores selling them.

The LIONS CLUB

Judge Wm. P. Endicott, of Auburn, was the guest speaker at the Lions Club meeting Monday night. An attendance of 15 local men was had.

The Judge stated that he was unable to predict the length of the war, but that Representative May of Kentucky, chairman of Military Affairs, has made public a statement that by the end of 1943, the present struggle would be brought to a close, and that his statement was based on military information. As much as we all would like to see this slaughter of human life stopped, it does seem that the end is not yet in sight. But if we will remember, World War One, was predicted to be a long, drawn out conflict (and this prediction was made in October, 1918) and in less than a month, the white flag of surrender was hoisted by the German army and the conflict was ended.

Many are now predicting what will take place after the war, but Judge Endicott felt that winning the war was our first consideration at this time. The matter of whether we should police the world is a matter of opinion.

Should the people of America become saturated with the idea that our nation can keep them, when the war is over, because of the many extravagant means thrust upon them in the past few years, may become a dangerous thing, because all money to finance any part of government, must be raised through taxation. The government must return to the idea of self preservation, and instill habits of thrift, self-reliance, and dependence upon our initiative to grow a strong and viral race of people. Our nation, 150 years old, is the strongest nation, because tof the principles established by our forefathers, and we cannot afford to lay aside these things, for one of complete government control. We are fighting this war to save our people from the rule of a few men rather than the many.

Must Show Tax Receipt

Persons applying for any kind of state license, including automobile and driver's licenses, are now required to show a blank signed by the county or local assessor as to why they are exempt from personal and poll taxes, it was pointed out Friday by automobile license officials. This is provided in an act by the 1943 legislature which has gone into effect under an emergency clause.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club was held at the home of Mrs. Maurice Kline, April 28. Mrs. Don Burley read the Collect. This being the last lesson of the year a survey of the year's work was given by Mrs. Allen Haller and Mrs. Frank Curie. A survey of South America and a story of the Pan-American Union which made our study of South America possible was given by Mrs. Haller.

Defense of the Western Hemisphere was given by Mrs. Curie. A review of our lessons was given in the form of a quiz by the leaders. Critic's report was given by Mrs. Fred B. Leighty. Secretary's report was read and approved. Nine teen members responded to roll call.

Mrs. C. O. Krise gave a brief report of the county convention which was held at Auburn on April 15. Yearly reports were given by the secretary and treasurer. The program committee is to meet at the home of Mrs. Leslie Wilbern, June 3 to make out the programs for the coming year. The following committee was appointed to have charge of the Mid-Summer meeting Mrs. C. C. Woodcox, Mrs. Don Burley, Mrs. Fred Hart and Mrs. Carl Perkins. The meeting was adjourned and the hostess served vegetable salad, smacks, Easter candy and coffee.

THE average farmer works from sun to sun and then some. Last year, U. S. farmers brought in a bumper crop and now they are being asked to produce even more to feed our armies, our allies and the civilian population. It won't be easy, but, with any kind of luck with the weather, you farmers will do it in spite of labor and machinery shortages.

Benediction.

In his sermon Rev Messimer emphasized the need of planning our lives as if we were to hold an important place in the world. Very often people's true greatness goes unrecognized until years after their death. The speaker mentioned the fact that while we ourselves may never become great in a big way, yet often our ideals may influence the lives of those about us, and in that way we may become a greater influence than we know.

THE 2ND WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON!

The Command has Come—

"Attack!"

THE big push is on! This is the fateful summer that we have been waiting for. Hitler knows he must win before another winter rolls around, or face inevitable annihilation. And you can be sure that he will hurl everything he has—every gun, plane, soldier and tank—into the summer struggle that is even now rising in tempo on every front.

And when the command goes out to our fighting men to ATTACK—you can be sure they don't look for excuses. They don't hesitate. They strike fast and hard—as they did at Guadalcanal, in Tunisia and in the skies over Europe.

NOW the command has come on the home front to attack! To attack with the dollars that buy the weapons of war our boys must have to meet the last desperate assaults of Hitler. Your government asks you to lend it 13 billion dollars during this drive. And this historic 2nd War Loan Drive, which started April 12th, is the most urgent appeal America has ever made!

The time is short—act now!

When you attack with War Bonds you don't suffer pain or anguish—you don't risk your limbs or your life as millions of our boys are doing every day. All you do is make an investment—the safest in the world. You help to secure Victory now—and your own financial security.

During this drive if you are visited by a volunteer War Bond worker, welcome him. He will explain the 7 different types of U. S. Government obligations you may choose from. But don't wait for his call—go at once to your nearest bank or Post Office or place where they sell War Bonds. And answer the command to ATTACK by buying more War Bonds—and still more War Bonds!

THEY GIVE THEIR LIVES... YOU LEND YOUR MONEY!

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVIII (58 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, MAY 6, 1943 NUMBER 18

From Boys IN THE U.S. Army

New addresses of the week:
Pfc. Ellsworth Morr, Battery B—93 (A) F. A., Ft. Sill, Oklahoma.

Corp. George T. Hart, who graduated April 13 from mechanical school at Amarillo, Texas, has written a letter to his sister, Martha, which we print:

Dear Sis:

I owe you a letter so I'll kill two birds with one stone. Boy did we have a trip up here. We went through Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon and Washington. I have been in 22 states now and there is something different in each.

Wyoming was the most picturesque with its hills just like you see in pictures but can't quite imagine. Think of the hills you see in Western movies and you've got it. We went through Colorado Springs where Pike's Peak is located. It is a beautiful thing.

In Wyoming we saw corrals, horses, riders and we stopped in a little place of about 25 population. It had an old tavern with a false front and all. The inscription read: The Glug.

In Oregon we went through a valley about 100 miles long and 50 miles wide. In the valley were farms, level, fertile land and all around were hills. We rode on railroads cut thru mountains, down hills, around curves, through gorges with trees over 100 feet high. I wish you could have been along.

We are in a war zone out here on the coast. The field and surrounding territory is dotted with barrage balloons, gun emplacements, etc. We are stationed at the Boeing Test Field. You can look around the field any time and see several million dollars worth of airplanes.

Our course here is 28 days length but we will be here 34 days. School hours are from 7 to 4. We have four hours a week compulsory study in the study hall. We get Saturday from 6:30 until 11:00 P. M. Sunday. We are going fishing this week. Our instructors are civilians who have had ten years experience in the factory.

If I am one of the top 50 out of 180 in the class I will become crew chief and be assigned to a new B-17-F. I will be in charge of its service and repair and will fly it through modification depot and then be assigned to a bombardment squadron. When that ship goes across I will go to gunnery school, then back to the base and assignment to another ship. Then overseas.

We have it swell here. The only detail we can pull is guard duty. The mess halls are run by civilians. We are having the best meals since I've been in and everything is just like the real army. No boy scouts. We march and stay strictly on the beam.

Here is my address:
Corp George T. Hart,
T. E. A. A. F. T. T. C., Boeing Aircraft Factory, Flight 33-6-24, 6600 Ellis Ave., Seattle, Washington.

May 22, 1943.

Dear Mom:

Well, I suppose you think I have forgotten all about you, but I haven't. I moved from Wilmington to Colton, and from Colton, California to Yuma, Arizona, where I am now. I am operating the regulating station to see that supplies get to the men out in the desert. It is hot as heck here. It was 126 degrees when I arrived this afternoon. I like it tho. Am not with any of the other boys, just the Lieutenant and I are here. Have a responsible job. If I make a mistake someone out in the desert will go without something to eat, so I'm not making any mistakes, I'll do the best I can for them, too.

I'll probably not get home to see anyone until after the war is over, I would like to, but am almost positive that I will not be able to. Thanks a million for the package, Mom. Thank Mike for me. Give Fred my new address so I'll get the St. Joe News. Hope you are all feeling fine, I am well, but lonesome for Naomi. My mail will go to Colton where the rest of the men are, but they send it here by train.

Am pretty busy checking railroad cars so they can start for the desert so I will close now, more next time.

Bye Bye Mom.

My new address is:

FOR SALE!

Dear Mr. Leighty: Spring has come,
I sense it from the rhythmic hum
Of tractors being timed and tuned,
Of poets Spring songs being crooned.
I sense it while you bring the news,
That Old Man Winter's got the blues.
Your bubbling over through and through
With all your print in rosy hue,
And there's the ads'— alluring ads'
With Spring advise for Moms and Dads,
On how to plant an even row,
And make our Victory gardens grow.
So as I scanned these ads' I said:
"This Saint Joe News is widely read,
So I'll send in an ad today
Without a moment of delay."
Here 'tis— it really wracks my soul,
For SALE: AT ONCE, ONE SUGAR BOWL

Please put it where 'twill catch the eye,
Of anyone who wants to buy
A sugar bowl of crystal, clear,
A bowl I love and hold most dear.
But I'll not need it for awhile,
'Cause sugar's going out of style.
I hope a good home it will find,
With people who will treat it kind
And be most loving, for you see,
This bowl's been mighty sweet to me.
So where your readers may peruse,
Along with home and war time news,
Advise for when the going's rough,
A smile to cheer us when it's tough,
With fashions new and gardens gay,
Insert this ad for me today.
Then send the bill, I'll pay the toll—
For SALE: AT ONCE, ONE SUGAR BOWL.

OLD FRIENDS WRITE NEWS FROM MICHIGAN

Jonesville, Mich.
April 30, 1943.

Fred B. Leighty,
St. Joe, Indiana.

Dear Fred:

Am enclosing money to apply on my subscription to The News. I presume you can find some use for it. Since the opportunity to visit the home community is extremely rare, The News furnishes us the golden opportunity of keeping up on the activities of our friends and acquaintances.

We have been privileged to reside in two widely separated communities since leaving the environs of St. Joe, acquired new and interesting friends and observed how different localities function; each as characteristic of itself as are individuals themselves.

Incidently, we have near neighbors who are acquainted with you. Mrs. Charles Thomas whose husband was the son of Nelson Thomas, and her daughter and family. They reside just a half mile west of us.

With kindest regards to both you and Mrs. Lighty, we remain,

Most sincerely yours,
Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Hart.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Dr. Sherwood from the Irene Byron Sanatorium will have charge at the Free Clinic to be held by the DeKalb County Tuberculosis Ass'n., Wednesday, May 12, from 10:00 to 12:00 and from 1:00 to 3:00, in the office in the City Hall, Auburn, Indiana.

Mrs. Gertrude H. Carlin, 68-year-old wife of Judge C. Carlin, judge of the Steuben County Circuit Court for sixteen years and well known in Indiana law circles, died Saturday evening at her home of a heart ailment. The Carlins were close friends of Sen. Raymond E. Willis, of Angola. Judge Carlin also is a member of the Board of Trustees of Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Mich. In addition to the husband, she is survived by two sisters and a brother.

Mrs. Ruth Baker, of Spencerville, Mrs. Frank Johnson and Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick drove to Kendallville Wednesday of last week and spent the afternoon at Lakeside Hospital with Frank Johnson, who is a patient there. Mr. Johnson is improving nicely after having undergone a minor operation, a major operation will be necessary before he will be able to return to his home here. The ladies stopped long enough at the Grover Curie home to tell the Curies Hello.

PORTRAIT OF MOTHER

By ANNE CAMPBELL

Her voice has lost the melody
Of youth. It quavers and is weak,
But when her sons come home from sea,
How firmly she will speak!

Her hair is white, but in the sun,
Like a bright halo it will shine,
When to her arms tired children run,
Restoring home's design.

Her eyes are dim, but when her boys
Come marching home, they will be deep
With many long remembered joys.
For gladness she will weep.

Her step is slow, but when her tall
Boys lift the latch, with eager pace
She will run down the spacious hall,
A light upon her face!

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

Walter Whitehurst American Legion Post Auxiliary No. 283, St. Joe, Ind.

Regular meetings each 4th Tuesday of each month.

Poppy Day This Year

When you buy your poppy from the Ladies Auxiliary this year, pick up the poppy.

Look at it with your heart as well as your eyes. See how red are its petals, dyed afresh by the lifeblood of young Americans in World War II. See how it glistens—not from morning dew, but from freshly fallen tears of mothers' grief. See how straight it holds out its flashing head, waving a message of courage from those who have died so courageously.

That is our poppy this year, the little flower intrusted to our hands to carry to the people of America.

Do we have a greater trust? Will we be strong enough, our hearts devoted enough?

The fallen heroes of a thousand battles are listening—heroes who have slept beneath the poppies for twenty-five years; those heroes whose lifeless eyes still stare at the sky today.

On Poppy Day, we the American Legion of Auxiliary No. 283, will carry to all America the undying message of these dead—their last call to the living—the inspiring symbol of their heroism—the little red poppy, which says:

"If we break faith with those who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders Fields."

ORDER RE-CAPPING TO CONSERVE NEW RUBBER

Launching a campaign to promote the recapping of truck tires, rationing boards in the 17 northern Indiana counties of the South Bend OPA district have set a goal of at least two certificates for recaps to each new tire certificate issued by the War Price and Ration Boards.

Restrictions on recapped tires for passenger cars have been removed, but ration board certificates still are required to obtain recapping service for truck tires.

Operators of truck fleets have saved much rubber and operating costs by recapping tires before they become too badly worn, the South Bend OPA district office reports. However, many independents operating only one or two trucks continue to under-inflate and overload their tires and then fail to apply for recapping permits, requesting certificates for new tires, instead.

Local War Price and Rationing boards will, whenever possible, prevail upon applicants for new tires to consider a recap job. Tire inspectors, too, will check tires more closely, designating recapping necessary before the tires become too badly worn.

Present statistics for the district show that only 85.2 recapping jobs are being authorized for each 100 orders for new tires. It is hoped to bring this figure up to at least two or three recapping jobs for each new tire authorized.

CELEBRATE FIFTY YEARS NEXT SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Koch, of one-half mile west of Butler Center, will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary May 9th, with a family dinner and open house from two to five.

Mr. and Mrs. Koch were married at the home of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. C. Curie, south of S. Joe in 1893, by the late Rev. Harris Elson, of Mishawaka.

They are the parents of three children, Opal Joy, deceased, J. Stanley Koch, of 1201 Dodge Ave., Fort Wayne and Joseph C. Koch, of Auburn; one grandchild, James Douglas Koch, of Auburn.

For years Mr. Koch conducted a livery of horses and auto hire, later buying live stock.

They resided at St. Joe forty-seven years, purchased a farm west of Butler Center, where they will be pleased to greet their friends.

Letter tablets, envelopes and ink at News office.

Canning Demonstration to be Held at St. Joe Gym, May 18

In an effort to meet the request for help in home canning ten canning demonstrations have been scheduled in DeKalb County during the month of May announced Mary Lenore Moore, DeKalb County home demonstration agent. So that food products grown in the county this year will not go to waste it is important to plan home canning equipment and recommended methods for the most successful home canning.

On Thursday, May 6 Miss Moore will hold a canning demonstration in the Ashley high school building starting at 1:30.

The next demonstration will be given on May 10 in the Auburn court house assembly room at 1:30. Miss Margaret Murphy will give this demonstration and will also give a demonstration in Butler on May 11 at the Butler Methodist Church at 1:30. She is coming to DeKalb County under the auspices of the DeKalb County Farm Bureau and the extension service. Miss Murphy has had a wide range of experience as a demonstrator and comes to the county well recommended in giving new and improved methods of food preservation.

Other canning demonstrations to be given in the county during the month of May will be as follows: May 13, Union Township Home Economics meeting at the home of Mrs. Ida Williams, 1:30 P. M.; May 14, Garrett Presbyterian Church, 8:00 P. M.; May 17, Waterloo High School Building, 1:30 P. M.; May 18, St. Joe Gymnasium, 1:30 P. M.; May 19, Corunna, Church of Christ, 1:30 P. M.; May 28, Fairfield Township Home Economics Meeting at Fairfield Center, 1:30 P. M.

All home makers in DeKalb County interested in food preservation are extended a cordial invitation to attend one of these canning demonstrations scheduled.

It wouldn't surprise some of us but that John L. Lewis wins a lot of his arguments because he looks so fierce he scares the opponent half to death.

The worst problem some women have to solve, is which radio soap ad to follow.

"According to reports," avows Roy Koch, "with so many players missing and the new type baseball being a dud, it appears there are no contestants for the pennant so far."

What would happen if industrialists would stop work because they couldn't get along amongst themselves, like the laborers?

Architecture has changed in Italy, for it appears that balconies aren't as much in use as formally.

You can't be completely out of touch when you hear radio shaving cream advertising on islands of the South Pacific.

Fewer married people go insane than those not married, but some men would rather go mad—happily.

They had better find some way of making fur coats out of pussy willows, because some women may have to come to that next Winter.

Some American swing bands might give head-hunters of the Solomons the wrong impression of our civilization.

It takes courage to die, but with so much turmoil and confusion around us, it sometimes takes a mite of courage to go on living, a St. Joe man suggests.

There is a possibility that with the turn to rake and hoe we might even stage a return engagement of the old-fashioned slat bonnet grandma wore in the sun.

LO, THE POTATO!

A lowly food item, one taken pretty much for granted and certainly not listed among the finer dishes crowding the American dining table, that is now coming into its own, is the potato or earthy 'spud.' Today this vegetable has risen in rank to assume an important spot on the diet since many other vegetables have become scarce in many sections. Imagine the surprise and chagrin when a housewife must go from store to store trying to find that once plentiful and prolific vegetable, the potato. And in many parts of the country the housewife couldn't buy a potato in any store! In some cities the price has been exhorbitant and a black market thrived in the potato business, causing a shortage and a problem. The south has felt acutely for weeks past the dwindling supply and have changed menus accordingly. So it rises in importance and prominence, it enters as a topic into St. Joe conversation and has given rise to the idea of folks who have the space to convert a goodly share of their garden to potato growing.

WHERE THE QUINCE?

Overheard a Spencerville man mention the fact, that it looks as though the quince tree has almost disappeared from the country. In speaking of things that used to be we naturally recall this once popular hit on grandmother's canning schedule. Too few women today appreciate its delicious flavor, fooled by a puckered, wrinkled skin which belies its sweetness and different taste. Some of the folks used to put slices of quince in with their canned pears which they say 'did something to them'. So while women think in terms of peaches, apples, cherries, the quince goes unnoticed and slowly to its death, perhaps. Recall fresh bread, a dab of butter and a generous layer of quince honey? Search the neighborhood for a quince tree and keep it in mind for Fall canning and if the housewife will heed your plea, suggest some quince honey for the sake of old times.

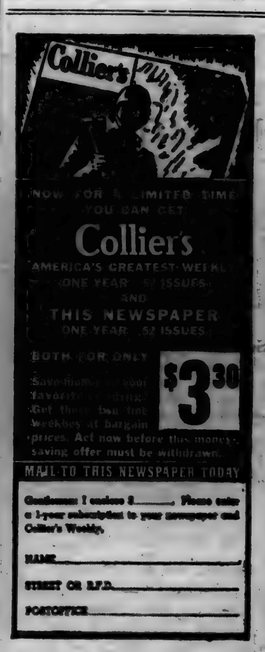
THAT IT MAY ENDURE

The festival of Mother's Day and the time to unite in appreciation for the benefits and blessings lavished upon all men by all mothers. In 1914 our Congress designated the second Sunday of May as Mother's Day and it remains one of our institutions. It is called sentimental but who so richly deserves the recognition of this observance and its sentiment? There has naturally developed, since its inauguration, a business profit through the tribute of gifts we pay to our mothers but this has become true of practically every such observance and it does not dim the real purpose for its observation.

As we pay tribute to the nation's mothers, the world's mothers, there should be stressed a certain practical purpose in the naming and honoring of Mother's Day one which needs some thought by those who care to preserve motherhood for generations ahead. There is a sentimental value in being practical is to care for health and in spite of our advance in medicine the maternal deaths in so great a country, leaves us astounded. Educators, heal t h authorities, leaders of women's organizations stress the importance of pre-natal care, thru education. They suggest there is no more fitting time than Mother's Day for the public to realize the importance of the job of being a mother. We take motherhood too much for granted, putting aside the practical and stressing the sentimental. It is vitally important for all communities like St. Joe to further child welfare programs and maternal welfare facilities. The price of neglect is too dear to disregard, for no dearer prize is there than mother love. We must protect it and guard it.

WE'LL NOT FORGET

The horrible part of war, atrocities, come to us in force with the disclosure of the Japanese executions of some of the American flyers who raided Tokio. And there will still be people who will say 'propaganda'. If the Japanese acknowledge these killings as a method of keeping America from raiding Tokio again, then the Japs aren't well acquainted with the American disposition for instead of frightening us it will have the opposite effect and we are apt to undertake some Spring cleaning over that way that will make the Nips more uncomfortable. This case does prove one thing to those who have not faced the war squarely in the path—that we are dealing with criminals, unprincipaled enemies with the Germans and their Polish, Russian and Jugoslav prisoners, the Japanese with our American fliers. Those who suggest we deal with the Japanese by treating our prisoners of war in the same manner, are placing us in a class with the butchers. What good to be as bestial and cruel as they to pawns, rather than to the ringleaders who committed the crimes? No, our way must be to work that much harder for victory, to buy more bonds, work at our lathes that much longer, build more strongly, in order to bring to trial those guilty ones that they may stand before a world court be judged and punished for their bloody acts. This is the civilized, democratic way. Our nation will not forget, and we warn against any further inhuman acts to our boys.



Thoughtful

Ann Shepherd appears w... pert and pensive as she ... the problems that confr... as Mabel Mason on the... serial "Just Plain Bill"... each Monday through F... 4:30 p. m., CWT.

FANTASTIC

The better brains of the country have been drawn into the war administration. Politics has to be forgotten when a burglar has a gun at your head.

Domestic problems h a v e been largely sidetracked in the public mind, as they have seemed superficial compared with the war.

Bureaucracy has run wild in Washington. The simplest acts in family life have been made complicated issues. One has but to read the requirements for cutting up a beef in order to comply with price ceilings, to see how confused a local butcher must be. Running a grocery or merchandise store has become a problem so complicated that stores are going out of business by the thousands. Instead of receiving cooperation from government bureaus, everyone is threatened with a $10,000 fine or ten years in jail, or both, as the penalty for every failure to comply.

The people are heart and soul for winning the war on the battlefront. Boys from every family are there. We are proud of the results they are accomplishing. The people are also heart and soul for winning the production and distribution problems on the home front to back up our whole war effort. But they are beginning to open their eyes to waste and confusion and politics-as-usual on the home front.

The situation has become fantastic and it is high time that thousands of bureaucrats who never raised a chicken, a hog, or a cow, and who never produced an article by manual labor, and who never maintained a payroll or sold a yard of goods, be replaced by men who know something of the actual problems of production and distribution.

Let brains come to the top in domestic affairs as they have in military affairs.

SCHOOLS AND FARMS

There can be some added cooperation by the schools in districts where the students have come from farms and rural neighborhoods, to give them an opportunity to spend more time at home to help. This is not to curtail education but rather to adjust hours and teaching schedules to s u i t planting and harvesting seasons. For instance, there could be shorter afternoon hours for releasing pupils for farm tasks, certain vacation periods in the early fall during the harvest, both ways of giving children of farmers added time to help out at home. There will be a number of schools working with this point in mind, to fit schedules of instruction for the benefit of the farm program and problem. By schools opening earlier in the fall, they can give that vacation period during harvesting without impairing the student's education. All over the counties in this land ideas for assistance along this line will be worked out, with the welfare of the majority in mind.

CIRCUS TIME

Last year the circus played up the pretty ladies to such an extent that one might have thought they were seeing a musical chorus under the canvas top rather than the old time circus performance. Now we wouldn't want these ladies taken off the bill, but do feel it would be a sad plight for the children to lose the thrill and fever of those points of interest which have always spelled (and smelled) circus to its fans. So we are glad to hear that this year they have reverted to the old-fashioned show, elephants, tigers, lions, monkeys, horses, all shivering perhaps as they head north into the chill air from their winter quarters in the sunny South. Soda pop and peanuts as scheduled, sawdust and spangles according to form, boys from six to sixty cheering the trapeze artists and laughing over the antics of the clowns. Dog and pony acts, feats of horsemanship and much more fanfare, points out the fact that the 'show must go on.'

"WHEN YOU COME BACK"

An advertising writer for Nash-Kelvinator Corporation, has recently turned in an excellent piece of writing in the form of a letter from an American soldier's wife to her husband in the military service of Uncle Sam.

It is well worth reading by everyone and far more eloquent than any of the second war loan drive appeals that appeared in daily newspapers. It is going to be the American Legion's job to head up the bond drive for the month of May, so read this beautiful impassioned letter, and it's a hundred to one shot you'll thank God for the glorious opportunity to buy bonds of a free country.

I KNOW you will come back to me. I've never doubted that, ever!

And when you do come back, you will find, just as you left them, everything your letters tell me you hold dear. I will be wearing the same blue dress I wore the day you went away. And on my arm the silver bracelet you gave me last April on our anniversary.

And, waiting for you, the children will be first to hear the sound of your step on the walk, and the quick way that you and only you open and shut the old white gate.

How they will run to greet you, far out-racing my own swift step, meeting you with shouts and laughter before I have even reached the door!

Inside, by the warm fire in the living room, you'll find your easy chair, your footstool and your slippers, just as they always were each night before you went to war.

When you come back to me, you will find nothing changed. Those at home promise that. Here in your town, your children are still free to sleep and laugh and play...still free to look to the sky, clear-eyed and unafraid.

Our house still stands, white and lovely as it always was, and down the street the maples march straight and tall, unwithered by the heat of war! And every Sunday, temple bells still ring and in our church we still sing hymns to God.

I've told the children, and I tell myself, this is what you're fighting for! These are the big and little things worth waiting for. The things that make our lives worth living, that make this war worth winning.

We are so proud of you.

Proud that you are making sure that hate and greed and tyranny will never rise to threaten us again.

And we are proud to make our own sacrifices, knowing that they will help to bring you back to us sooner.

Back home to the same town, to the same job you liked so much...to the same America you have always known and loved...where you can work and plan and build....where together we can do the things we've always dreamed of....where there are no limits on any man's, or any woman's, or any child's opportunity.

You've said, "That's the America I want when I come back...don't change that, ever...don't let anyone tamper with a way of living that works so well."

Never fear, darling—that's the way we ALL want it.

Everything will be here, just as you left it, just as you want it....when you come back to me!

MR. AND MRS. PUBLIC

The State Dept. of the American Legion has pledged itself to put over the May Bond and Stamp Drive, in the state of Indiana.

Your local Post of the American Legion is therefore obligated to do its part in its own locality, and your own boys of the American Legion will do everything to fulfill their part in this obligation.

Further details of their plan to promote the sale of Bonds and Stamps will appear in this paper.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

In appraising the mileage situation, from the standpoint of the availability of gasoline and tires, it is necessary to avoid an undue outburst of optimism because of relaxations in some items of the general conservation program.

Drivers with mileage over 240 monthly, for example, on May 1 because eligible for rationing certificates to buy any grade of tire, but they will be able to get their choice in tires only when need for replacement is shown. In the majority of cases this need cannot be shown by drivers whose casings can be made to give further service by recapping. The replacements available to motorists with a monthly mileage of 240 or less are used or recapped tires, but again even these less durable tires may go only to drivers whose tires cannot be recapped.

Absence from war work, which cuts deeply into our production to be taken with any complacency, has been traced by the U. S. Department of Labor to a large number of causes, a great many of them outside the workers' control. A survey has shown that illness, accidents, transportation difficulties, poor housing, bad nutrition, lack of child care facilities and other community and individual problems are responsible for most absenteeism, while wilful nonattendance on the job accounts for only a fraction of the absences.

Poor housing, for example, with lack of proper hygienic facilities leads to family illness. Lack of child care services in a neighborhood distracts the working mother. Shopping under food rationing may take longer and the necessary appearance before rationing boards also consumes time. Public transportation in many war industry communities is such that delays are almost inevitable, and private autos which lack insufficient mechanical care are always in danger of breaking down. Industrial accidents have shown a large increase, largely because of the millions of newly-trained workers who must operate machines with which they are not wholly familiar.

In meeting this variety of causes for absences, shop stewards, labor-management committees, and labor officials are cooperating to reduce the condition by a number of measures, some of them having to do with the even and continuous flow of work materials to avoid shortages and temporary shutdowns, shifting workers with several skills to avoid overstaffing of crews, preventive training to cut down work accidents, studies of industrial fatigue and programs of better feeding arrangements in plants.

In such matters as housing and transportation, however, the communities must take the lead in working out solutions, or partial solutions, of the difficulties besetting the war worker and his family.

The black markets in meats, which have recently extended to the live poultry field, will receive a check when the dollar-and-cents ceiling prices for beef, veal, lamb and mutton are put into effect on May 17. Originally scheduled for April 15, these ceilings were reviewed and reduced in the light of the President's "hold-the-line" order. The new ceilings will assure the housewife of getting these meats at prices substantially the same as those prevailing at the beginning of the year.

Setting price ceilings on poultry of all types, figured at the principal base points throughout the country, also serves to restrain black market operators. Under the new regulations, all buyers of fowl will pay the same price at the same point, established F. O. B. at every country shipping point. In general, these are marked reductions in prices of more expensive birds, and increases in prices of cheaper poultry.

I AM AN American Day

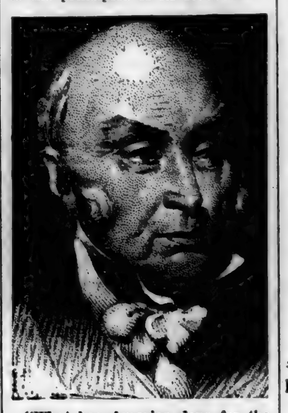
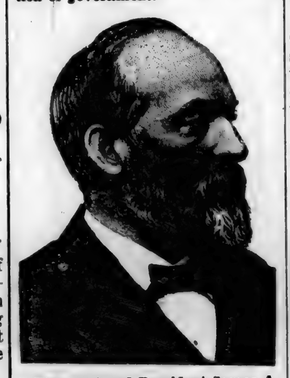
● Presidents of the past interpret meaning of national ideals for citizens of the present.

BEING an American means many things to many people. But to every citizen it represents a distinction obtainable nowhere else in the world. This is true today as never before in history. On May 16, when the nation observes "I Am an American Day," that fact will be forcefully brought home.

In past generations eminent Americans have interpreted the meaning of citizenship and national ideals in words that sound strangely familiar today. This fact is glowing proof that the present generation is true to the principles of its forebears.



"What has America done for the world?" someone asked John Quincy Adams, sixth President of the United States. He replied: "America has proclaimed to mankind the inextinguishable rights of human nature as the only lawful foundation of government."



The martyred President James A. Garfield epitomized the meaning of American citizenship when he said: "When our fathers announced as self-evident truths the declaration that all men are created equal and the only just power of government is derived from the consent of the governed, they uttered a doctrine that no other nation had ever adopted, that no one kingdom on earth then believed. Yet to our fathers it was so plain that they would not debate it. They announced it as a truth 'self evident.'"

Answering a query, "What is our country?" President Benjamin Harrison said: "Our country is the flag and what it stands for. It is its glorious history. Our country is the fireside and the home, the high thoughts that are in the heart that comes of the story of the fathers, the martyrs of liberty. In these things is that quality we love and call our country—rather than anything that can be touched or handled."

Self-feeding grain to pigs on pasture saves time and labor, and produces economical gains.

Science In The News

By ORSON D. MUNN, LIH.B., LL.B., Sc.D.
Editor, Scientific American

American housewives have a splendid opportunity to help in winning the war by salvaging the used kitchen fats they have been accustomed to throw away. These fats are now our chief sources for additional supplies of glycerine, which is an irreplaceable ingredient in the manufacture of munitions and medicinals for the armed forces.

Orson D. Munn

The fat salvage campaign conducted by the War Production Board and the Committee of the Glycerine and Associated Industries has been widely publicized in the newspapers and over the radio, but the seriousness of our country's need apparently is not yet fully understood by many housewives The war effort desperately needs fats—in huge quantities—and it needs them now.

Fats contain glycerine. The fats that are frequently thrown away in American homes will make glycerine which in turn is the basic ingredient of nitro-glycerine. Nitro-glycerine is used to produce smokeless powder, which hurls projectiles at the enemy. It is also employed in the manufacture of dynamite for demolition work, clearing obstructions and other military purposes.

Glycerine also is used for other war necessities. It plays an important part in manufacturing quick-drying paints and preservatives for rubber articles. It is employed in making surgical dressings, antiseptics, tannic acid burn jellies, and as a base for the new sulphonamide ointments which are proving so helpful in preventing infection, one of the deadly scourges of the battlefield.

This brief description of some of the most important uses of glycerine, recoverable from waste fats, makes clear the vital importance of saving and turning into the proper channels every ounce of fat that cannot supply further nutrition.

Remember, in saving your waste fats and greases, that every single drop counts. Keep a can handy for the purpose of fat storage, and store it in a cool place until full. When you have accumulated a can-ful, take it to your meat dealer, who will pay you for it. Don't waste a drop, for your country needs every bit of glycerine it possibly can obtain Start while preparing the next meal to get the habit of salvaging this vital war material!

In doing this, besides helping your country, you are doing your kitchen plumbing a definite favor, and possibly saving yourself considerable expense and trouble. Liquid fats poured into the drain eventually clog the pipes, sometimes necessitating an expensive visit from the plumber Turn these fats in to your meat dealer for the Government's salvage program instead, and save yourself the cost of this visit and, at the same time, help to knock out our country's enemies

The meat dealer who buys your waste fat turns it over to the renderers, who start it on its way to the battlefields

Mrs. American Housewife, this need for waste fats is indeed a serious business Save all your used cooking greases and oils and make turning them in a habit. That spoonful of fat you intended to throw away, for example, may be used to make the powder for a cartridge that will save the life of an American soldier—perhaps even some member of the armed forces who is near and dear to you

Mother's Day Observed Throughout World

Suppose, for instance, all such special days were abolished, except one. What would that day be? Unquestionably it would be Mother's day, for of all the special occasions we celebrate throughout the year, Mother's day has the most universal appeal.

Regardless of whether we be Protestant, Catholic or Jew, we honor our mother. Whether we are old or young, we pay homage to motherhood.

This custom of setting aside an occasion to express love and reverence for mothers is deep-seated in the human mind. It has been sanctioned and promoted by the great religions.

While the official observance of Mother's day in this country was first given attention by a resolution of congress 30 years ago, on May 10, 1913, the idea of such a celebration trails back into history's mists.

For centuries the Fourth Sunday in Lent—Mid-Lent—has been known in many parts of Great Britain as "Mothering Sunday." On this occasion young people away from home were expected to visit their parents and also to attend service at their parish church.

Gifts for mothers of past centuries took the form of a cake made of the finest wheat flour—called simmel cake. A century ago country people in some parts of England always made a rich baked batter pudding for dinner on Mothering Sunday. This was evidently a survival of the simmel cake.

They found him well, but just released from the hospital after having the mumps. He sends all his friends greetings and asks them to write.

Pvt. Paul Miller, of Camp Grant, spent Mother's Day at home. The following neighbors came in Saturday evening and surprised him: Mr. and Mrs. Ora Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schaefer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Keller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Delta McKinley and family and Mr. Marion Saylor.

A card was received from Cpl. Virgil Laux last week, stating that he was in Palm Beach on a flight at present. He sends the following change of address: Cpl. Virgil A. Laux 65th T. C. Sq. 403rd T. C. Gp., Pope Field, Ft. Bragg, N. C.

James McBride had a short leave of absence from the Great Lakes Training Station, Illinois, and spent Saturday night and Sunday here with friends.

Dale Trostel has been sent to a camp in South Dakota.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rediger, of near Spencerville, received word from their son, Gaylord, that he is suffering a fractured ankle and that his address is now: Ward 20, Station Hospital, Camp Edwards, Mass.

Orville R. Coburn, 27, husband of Mrs. Esther Coburn, St. Joe, Ind., is being moulded into a fighting Bluejacket at the U. S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, where he has reported for 12 weeks of "boot" training.

He will receive basic training in seamanship, Naval customs and procedure, and physical hardening. An important part of his program will be a series of aptitude tests and a personal interview which he will be given to aid in assigning him to the type of work for which he is best qualified in the Navy.

Upon graduation he will be given a nine-day leave, after which he will be assigned to one of the Navy's trade schools for special training, or be sent directly to sea, depending upon his score in the aptitude tests.

A recruit sufficiently skilled in a particular trade needed by the Navy may be given a petty officer rating upon completing recruit training and assigned directly to active duty.

A letter from Cpl. Melvin Zimmerman to his mother.

Dear Mom:

"Well, here it is Monday night, and I have been pretty busy, the reason for not writing sooner. I'm all O. K., only gete lonesome to see all the folks. How is the weather back there? I'll bet it is swell, isn't it. I sure miss the nice spring weather. It sure is hot here in the Desert. I just about roast. I'm as black as a Negro, almost.

"I killed a scorpion the other day. Gee, they are awful looking things. It was in our tent. There was a rattle snake crawled through out tent the other day too. They don't bother you unless you move. They are blind, yet this one could see the reflection of the tent flag move and it struck at it. I sure hate to sleep around these snakes and scorpions. Don't think they'll bother us much though. Hope not.

"Haven't heard from anyone since I left Colton. That was 8 days ago. Surely hope I get some mail soon. Don't know how long we will be here, but my Lieutenant thinks we will be here until August. I hope we are. We will not get any furlough. I sure have a swell Lieutenant. Just he and three other boys and myself are out here. He certainly treats us swell. Hope I always get to stay with him. Don't worry about me, please, I'll be O. K.

"Well think I'l sign off for now, more next time.

Answer real soon.

Cpl. Melvin T. Zimmerman, 35328818 7th Port Hq. Co., T. C., A. P. O. No. 437, % Postmaster, Los Angeles, Calif."

Another to Celebrate

Mr. and Mrs. Gusta Hankey will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at their country home, two and one-half miles south of Butler on Road 1, on Sunday, May 16, when they will entertain their family at dinner and welcome friends and relatives in the afternoon between 2 and 5 o'clock.

FREE PICTURES AT ST. JOE SATURDAY NIGHT

The open air picture show season has arrived, and plans are all completed for opening this week on Saturday night. The only possible hindrance now is a down pour of rain.

The schedule will continue until Oct. 1st. Why not plan to come to St. Joe every Saturday night and see your neighbors because they will be here. A popular subscription has been made by the merchants for the season and any citizen that feels that they would like to contribute to this cause may do so by calling at News office or Kinsey Hardware, where proper credit will be given doner.

CELEBRATE FIFTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Scores of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Koch, of west of Butler Center, gathered at their pleasant country home Sunday afternoon to help celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary.

On entering the home they were greeted with a friendly hand shake and soon made to feel at home.

The Alfred Warstler family, of east of Auburn, was present and rendered some appropriate

Mother's Day songs and instrumental music, which was enjoyed by all present.

Old school mates of Mr. and Mrs. Koch were present, and many happy events of early days were recalled. They received many greeting cards, flowers and lovely gifts from their friends.

The Kochs have resided at their present location less than three years and have made many new friends, who together with their old friends helped to spend a very pleasant anniversary.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my thanks and whole hearted appreciation to all of my friends who have so graciously remembered me with cards, letters, flowers, and other tokens of remembrance since I have been confined here at the Lutheran Hospital.

I wish I could thank each one individually, and until I am able to do so in person, through this medium I wish you to know how much I appreciate and will always remember your friendship.

Dr. C. R. Price.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Patricia Maxwell spent over Sunday with her brother, Lt. James R. Maxwell at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Squires and Mrs. Josh Eberly took dinner Sunday with a cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Reinhart, at Corunna.

Visitors in the Widney Orchard home on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Widney, of Columbia City and Ray Davis and daughter, Gloria, of Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pugsley, formerly of St. Joe, are the proud parents of a baby girl born May 11th at 9:30 P. M. at the Methodist Hospital in Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. John Skilling, Baltimore, Md., were in Garrett and spent Mother's Day with Mr. Skilling's mother. They have also been visiting relatives in this community.

George Beugnot, of Auburn, entered the Sanders hospital Monday afternoon. Mr. Beugnot has been confined to his bed for several weeks as a result of two strokes of paralysis.

Willard Hurni will buy cream after this week for Cloverleaf Creameries, due to the Freese Bros. closing their plant at Nappanee after sixty years in business. It is said they are losing money on butter as the reason for closing. Half of their output was taken by the government at a 46c price and the company was paying 53c for cream to the farmer.

Announcement was made in Auburn Tuesday of the appointment of Mrs. Helen B. Clark, of 331 Ensley Ave., wife of Dr. C. R. Clarke, as manager of the Auburn branch of the state automobile license bureau. Mrs. Clarke will take the place of Mrs. Mabel Lyons of 803 So. Main St., who has served as manager since Aug. 1, 1941. Mrs. Lyons has resigned to accept another position in Auburn.

Plans for the American Legion's war bond drive during the month of May were made at a meeting of county workers at the Legion home in Auburn Thursday evening. H. E. Hart, of Auburn, chairman for DeKalb County, presided. The county has been assigned a quota of $88,725, and only E bonds will count toward this quota. The St. Joe Post No. 283 has organized with the following committee: John Crothers, chairman, Leon Kees, Roy Reidenbach and Harvey Hull.

Due to the extremely heavy rains of the past few days, farmers will be unable to work on their ground for another week. Every low spot is flooded, ditches, small creeks and low lands are completely submerged by the overflow. Many of the highways are posted because of dangerous washouts. Nearly every cellar has been experiencing water this week, and everything is soaked. Carp are beginning to show up in the backwater of the river, and this will afford great sport to those who will be able to find time to hunt the finny tribe.

CLEAN-UP DAY

St. Joe Clean-Up Day has been set for Thursday, May 13. All trash to be moved by city truck must be set at curb in containers for easy handling. Please have ready early. 18t2.

WANT TO CLOSE B. & O. STATION HERE

An effort is now being made by the B. & O. to close the station here. This was made known a few days ago when company representatives were here checking up the business. A concerted effort will be made by the business men's organization and the town board, to fight this movement. Information is now being gathered to combat this attempt of the company. No date has been set for a public hearing.

GET-TOGETHER 4-H CLUB

The Get-Together 4-H Club held its meeting at the school house, St. Joe, May 5, at 2:00 P. M. The meeting was called to order by the president. The roll was called by the secretary, Maxine Converse. There were 33 members present.

The president then conducted the rest of the business meeting. After all old and new business had been handled, the business session was adjourned. Pat Carpenter opened the recreational portion of the meeting by directing the playing of the "Broken-Car Relay." She directed the club, too, in playing "Fetch and Carry Relay," "Poison," and a new version of "Drop the Handkerchief."

The work period was then opened. Each one worked on her project. Junior Leader, Doris Trenary, helped the Baking, Food Preparation, and Canning divisions with their problems. Miss Carey aided the 4-H-ers enrolled in Clothing. Refreshments were served by Jean Billow and Janice Bragg, which consisted of fruit punch, popcorn, and cookies.

The refreshment committee for next meeting is Gloria Warstler, Marjorie Bleeks, Pat Carpenter, and Maxine Converse. Two demonstrations are to be given at the next meeting. Nancy Monroe is going to give a demonstration in Food Preparation. Marilyn Wade will give a demonstration in Clothing. The meeting was adjourned at 4:00 P. M.

The next meeting of the Get-Together 4-H Club will be held May 19 at the St. Joe school house. All members please try to be present.

JOHNSON

Frank E. Johnson, one of Concord Township prominent farmers, passed away early Sunday morning at the Kendallville Hospital, of myocarditis following an operation, where he had been a patient for two weeks. He was born on March 24, 1875 and was 68 years, 1 month and 15 days old.

The funeral was held from the St. Joe Church of Christ, Tuesday afternoon conducted by the pastor, Erby Messimer, assisted by Elder Nice, of Butler, and burial was made in the cemetery at Spencerville by Roscoe Walter.

His death came as a shock to the relatives as he was feeling fine on Saturday night. He will be greeatly missed in the community as he was a man that took an active part in the church and was public spirited. We can say, "He was a good man."

He is survived by his widow, Della Koch Johnson, and a host of relatives.

The LIONS CLUB

Herbert Willis, of Waterloo, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Lions Club held at Akins' Tea Room on Monday night. Mr. Willis spoke of the Four Freedoms as stressed in our United States and what they could mean to the oppressed nations. He also spoke of Lionism and Democracy.

The speaker also served as installation officer, installing two new members, Frank Sellers and Otto Ginther. In the course of this part of the program the duty of Lions Clubs in service to others was stressed, mention was made in this connection that there are now 4,300 Lions Clubs in the U. S. A.

Miss Sally Draggoo celebrated her ninth birthday Monday afternoon, when 17 little friends came to her home to celebrate with her. A luncheon was served at the close of the party, and all had a very good time.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

Walter Whitehurst American Legion Post Auxiliary No. 283, St. Joe, Ind.

Regular meetings each 4th Tuesday of each month.

The May meeting will be held at the country home of Bernice Wilder, each Auxiliary member urged to attend as important business will need your presence.

Keep America Remembering—Buy Poppies. On May 29, 15,000,000 red crepe paper poppies will appear on the street corners in almost every city, town and village in the United States, because members of the American Legion Auxiliary have "caught the torch" and are determined that those who have died, sacrificed their health, shall not be forgotten nor their loved ones be neglected.

America must remember. The Auxiliary poppy offers universal opportunity to the public to share in providing comfort and happiness to the defenders of Democracy.

Remember to buy a poppy. An Auxiliary member of Post No. 283 will call on you May 29th.

Josephine Kees, Pres.

seems inevitable. They hope to adjust working conditions to take this in hand. But always remember that in all the absenteeism discussion there are those diligent, tireless, faithful workers, going about their tasks quietly and sacrificing silently as they do so.

SHORTER AND SHORTER

Maybe they got the idea from seeing some of our St. Joe and Spencerville boys wearing their shirts on the outside of their pants, this idea of shortening the tails and limiting shirt length to thirteen inches. Some men around here haven't felt the change tho it went into effect the middle of December. The cuffless trouser should have prepared us for this and we may expect there will be more curtailment to come. The fellow who heedlessly stretched his length in bed will find his stretch limited by the new regulation on sheets. Most of us won't do much worrying about the restricted length of caskets, we'll take it when it comes, but you can't blame us for being a bit upset about the shirt tail edict when we are faced with appearing in society with our shirts hanging in and out and up and down. We will have to confine our movements to slow motion, raising our arms less, twisting rarely and jerking never. Well, with a warm summer ahead the short sleeve and the short shirt will give us more air, come what may with next winter's winds.

LESS PAPER

There has been a reduction and will be more, in the paper consumed by magazines and newspapers. Retrenchment has been necessary and the facts faced squarely, but what brings on a complaint from the publishers in the country is the vast amount of unnecessary government printing that floods mails and appears on desks. They say there is too much paper wasted in Washington, more than actually needed for governmental purposes. The government contracted for 350,000,000 pounds of paper for 1943 and this is 60 per cent more than required in 1941. But in the first three weeks of this year the federal government used in Washington alone about one-third of their estimated consumption for the whole year. Let's all conserve, not just some of us.

UPON BEING AMERICAN

If you've read any of the many articles written on front line activities you are better acquainted this year than last on the meaning of "American." With tragedy and change offered for security and normalcy the man who fights or views it can picture best what America means. It embodies the three branches of government, covering protection by armed forces, including national treasury and the wealth of the land, maintaining organizations representing the working classes and protecting the interests of capital, education and all the other comforts of democratic government for the citizen's welfare. To him it means the home town paper is not governed by propaganda, that he can speak to his neighbors freely and openly without fear, that he can worship in any church of his choice, and his children will be given liberal educations in schools that will train them on the righs and principles of citizenship. The list is long, the privileges numerous, the products of the system who uphold its convictions, many. Yet there is often raised the question whether under the surface of the individual, those who are not fighting with fox holes and jungle-tangled swamps, if under the coating the man is an American first and a Republican or Democrat second, an American first or an isolationist second, an American first and a labor union advocate second, an American first and race prejudices second! If all of these factors which enter our lives and which affect us are major interests, if the interest is for these things to be purged, advocated, advertised, victorious, first, then are we Americans in the same sense as a Russian, a Chinese, an Englishman IS HIS COUNTRY? There is the appropriate 'first things first' to answer this.

To the boy out there fighting for America, it means praying for an end to this war, a victory that he might return to take up the baseball mask and put down the gas mask, to press an accelerator on the family bus, to yell "Mom, what's cooking," maybe mow some of the grass before supper, dash to the cleaner's for the Sunday suit to return home for the shower and shave for the Saturday night date. Seems not much when compared with words of freedom of assembly, of speech, of the press and of religion, but to those boys the sound of church bells on Sunday morning, the squeaky lawn mower next door, the plop of the newspaper as it hits the porch, the honk of a pal's auto horn, the smell of cooking as it hits the porch, the kiss of his youngster off to bed, the smile of a wife when you say "where in the heck did you put it," yells at a football game, to him that IS AMERICAN, it's what you mean by the pursuit of happiness and he is fighting to keep it. "I Am An American," May 16th this year, next year, and for as long as I live, thank God!

AND SOME SAY THIS

With more new hands doing rural chores this summer we might bring up the subject of that stint of milking for discussion and as a study for those who anticipate entering into the field. Many a St. Joe man has his idea of the right and wrong method of attack and you will find controversy over whether to stoop, squat or sit as you strip or squeeze. It is the same as the argument between dunkers, features to show whether you are an amateur or a professional at the game. Some farmers will tell you that stool sitting is a sissy way of milking and that the real hand squats on the ground with the pail on the ground, which gives the cow an advantage if she isn't pleased with the proceedings. But it seems the man who grips the pail between his knees, uses a one-legged stool—is it!

Just because something isn't worth talking about, doesn't mean that somebody won't make up a song and it will be sung about.

The trouble with taxing liquor, is that some folks might consider it their patriotic duty to stay drunk all the time.

That business about being darkest just before the dawn must have been used with dimouts in mind.

Some people should have the ether after the operation, to keep them from talking about it.

Money talks, and it appears to be able to speak all the languages.

Have you noticed how calmly the children take the reduction in chocoalte candy bars, gum and jelly beans?

A St. Joe man says they worried whether our soldier boys might not be 'too soft,' and it looks as though the soldiers could worry about the folks back home.

There will probably be much grown in beginner's Victory gardens that will resemble neither mineral nor vegetable. Maybe animal.

American boys are very apt to find conditions in China somewhat mixed up, but they must remember that China is a Confucius country.

Why cry when a daughter gets married today? She'll probably remain at home for the duration.

It is foolish to try and lead a double life today, for one costs enough.

ABSENTEEISM

There is talk here in St. Joe and elsewhere of the amount of absenteeism in defense plants and of how it aids the Axis. When such absenteeism is unwarranted, without good cause for it, then can it be called sabotage, but all absenteeism among school-age children is the bad habit that becomes absenteetism in industry, that bad social habits and attitudes among high school students follows them into the factory. Fortunately, unwarranted absence in defense work is on the decline, but remember there are people working at heavy, tiresome work who are not used to such labor and where fatigue is probable then illness

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

The primary use of coal is for industrial purposes. Coal for heating America's homes is only a small percentage of the total mined. On the average, about ten times as much bituminous coal is mined during the year as anthracite, and the bulk of the bituminous output goes to electric power utilities, by-product and beehive coke ovens, steel and rolling mills, railroads, goal gas retorts, cement mills and other industries.

When the production of coal is halted—even for a short period—a blow is struck at the nerve center of our entire war production. According to Solid Fuel Administrator Ickes, "the lack of coal to keep our war industries operative would have dire results as far as the war is concerned. We can't make and transport guns, tanks, planes, and ammunition, or even provide food and supplies for our military forces unless we have adequate coal. We have the home front to think about, too."

For some months the margin of bituminous production over consumption has been very narrow, allowing for only a limited accumulation of coal stocks. The safety of our entire war program depends in large measure on a safe margin of industrial coal inventories. It must not be menaced from any cause whatever.

The question of increased wages for coal miners has been stated by Price Administrator Prentiss Brown in terms of all current demands for higher pay—"a year of experience has shown us that increases in the cost of living beget increases in wages and that wage increases in their turn beget increases in the cost of living. It has shown us that we cannot hold the line anywhere unless we hold it everywhere."

In the year just past, the OPA was confronted with the enormous task of moving swiftly to control millions of prices. The rise of prices has been reasonably well stabilized. What is more important, the tools of control have been forged. Finally, experience in their use has provided the "know-how" so that we are assured that adequate price control will be maintained, provided that workers and farmers accept the limitations placed on the entire wage-and-price structure.

About one-third of all workers in the aircraft industry are women, and this proportion is expected to rise to at least 50 per cent by the end of the year. All of the war industries are placing increasing reliance on the employment of 1943, fully two-thirds will be needed in civilian trades and services, according to recent estimates. Food processing and canning plants, for example, will desperately need women workers during the canning season.

More than 100 every day civilian jobs, as vital to the war as work in a shipyard or munitions plant, are listed by the women's advisory committee of the War Manpower Commission. Among these varied and necessary occupations for women in wartime are jobs as baggage clerk, telegraph messenger, taxi drivers, conductor and motorman, garage mechanic, lumber worker, canning plant worker, recreation leader, mother's helper, dietitian, proof reader, chemist, engineer, cashier, plumber, carpenter, electrician, and bank teller.

A nation-wide program has been launched to encourage greater salvage and re-use of fresh fruit and vegetable containers, as it is impossible to produce all the containers that could be used... Production has been permitted to meet the expected demand for 900,000 baby carriages this year, and new baby scales may now be procured on a doctor's prescription.

4-H CLUB NEWS

The Victory Warriors 4-H Club, of Spencerville, met at the school house Wednesday evening, May 5. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Dale Wicoff, our adult leader. He explained to the younger members what the 4-H Club means. After his explanation Mr. Wicoff called for nominations. The officers were elected as follows:

President, Donald Friend.
Vice. Pres., Harold Murphy.
Secretary, Evelyn Kline.
Recreation Leaders, Evelyn Friend and Harold Murphy.
Song Leaders, Evelyn Kline and Lavon Kline.
News Reporter, Evelyn Kline.

There is a great increase in membership over last year. There were 21 membrs present at the last meeting. Our two Junior Leaders are Richard Strombeck and Robert Kelley.

Our next meeting will be held July 7, at the school house. There are three talks to be given as follows: "Care and Feeding Gilts" by Frank Laub; "Care and Feeding Lambs," by Robert Kelley; and "Care and Management of Garden," by Hazel Ankney.

Refreshments for the next meeting will be served by Donald Friend, Robert Kelley, and Donald Romine.

"Tommy" is a FAST TALKER!

The Jap-ants were charging as the paratrooper landed. He turned to his "Tommy" gun.

"Start talking, Tommy," he said, "and talk FAST!"

Tommy guns can "talk" as fast as 800 rounds of ammunition per minute!

When war began, it was a serious problem whether America could make cartridges faster than the "Tommies" and the machine guns and the Garands could blast them out.

Ingenuity and electric power provided the answer! Today, power-driven machines turn out 60 cartridges every minute—removing dents, inspecting, rejecting—keeping pace with the rat-a-tats that are shooting our way to Victory! Power passes the ammunition.

But electric power is doing far, far more! It's helping to produce those Tommy guns, too—and tanks, ships, planes!

That takes a lot of power—and America's got it! Five times more than in the last war—more than all the Axis countries combined have now!

And about seven-eighths of all this power is supplied by the electric companies under experienced business management.

BY EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, Heard Daily 6:15-6:45 am on WMAQ—670 on your dial

Since our last visit with you a lot of progress has been made in the victory garden campaign. If the present gardening tempo is maintained throughout the country, we will surely reach the quotas set for city and country gardens.

One danger has cropped up in the city where many of our over-enthusiastic friends neglected to heed the warnings sent out by the folks on the farm who know the results of premature spring planting. Here's just a word of caution. Don't plant your entire garden while the threat of a killing frost lingers in the air.

Tomatoes will appear as one of the principal crops in most of the victory gardens. They should not be set in too early, as they are easily injured by late spring frosts. If you are hesitant as to the variety and time of planting of the various vegetables in your territory, I urge you contact either your state agricultural college or your county farm adviser. Either will be glad to help you in your planting problems.

Many of my friends have written me requesting information on the scarcity of gardening tools and fertilizers. I am happy to report that there is an adequate supply of fertilizers. You may investigate the new victory garden fertilizer, prepared under a special formula by the Department of Agriculture, for use in vegetable production only. The prospect, however, for securing necessary tools and unnecessary gadgets is not too good. There is a definite shortage, and it looks as if we will have to resort to the good old American plan of the "haves" sharing their equipment with the "have nots" in our food for freedom campaign.

By the way, don't throw away any old garden tools, lying idle because of a broken handle, have your local hardware merchant repair them at once.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS ON THE DECREASE

Statewide traffic accidents dropped 31 per cent but traffic arrests by state troopers were down only 25 per cent the first quarter of 1943 compared with a similar period a year ago, Don F. Stiver, state police superintendent, announces. A total of 146 traffic fatalities were recorded for the period, he said.

State police, however, are "cracking down" on speeding, reckless drivers and are receiving support of state courts, Mr. Stiver said. Uniformed troopers increased by 28 per cent the number of warning tickets issued motorists, 7,400 written warnings having been issued the first three months of last year as against 9,490 this year. The increase was due largely to tickets given speed violators, which may result in their facing a rationing board questioning.

Mr. Stiver reported 3,410 arrests by state police the first quarter with 3,061 convictions obtained. Other cases are pending in court.

State police tabulated 5,916 motor vehicle accident reports during January, February and March as against 8,683 reports the first quarter of 1942. Urban accidents declined 19 per cent and rural accidents were off 50 per cent.

MANY GASOLINE CERTIFICATES TO EXPIRE JUNE 1

With a large number of gasoline ration certificates expiring June 1, the county OPA board in Auburn is preparing to do the necessary renewal work during May and is seeking the co-operation of the public.

The number of gasline books outstanding in this county is about 14,500, divided as follows: A books, 6,500; B and C books, 4,000; truck books, 1,000; and non-highway books, 3,000. It will be impossible for the board to interview this vast number of applicants personally and they are requested to fill out the renewal forms and mail them to the office or deliver them there at least ten days before the expiration date. Forms are available at all official tire inspection stations.

Form No. 543 is available at all official Tire Inspection Stations and this Renewal form, along with Tire Inspection sheet must be mailed to the Local Rationing Board at least 10 days before present book expires. If this is not done, the application will be held up as the Board must have at least 10 days to act on these applications.

Form No. 543 must be properly filled out to avoid delay and it must be carefully studied by the applicant before mailing to the Board.

The space on the form that asks for speedometer reading must be filled in showing the mileage on the speedometer as of the date that application is made.

A separate No. 543 form must be mailed for automobile and non-highway uses.

If applicant is a war worker, state number of Riders now hauling.

If applicant is farmer, state amount of acres now farming and if farming more than one farm, state distance between farms.

The more complete information given where application is made, the quicker the application will be processed.

Speeders

The Board has been very lenient on Violators of the 35 miles per hour speed law but they have been instructed by National Office of Price Administration that they must penalize the Violators from this date on.

The Board is asking that everyone please cooperate and save embarrassment for both —the applicant as well as the Board.

HONOR ROLL IS NOW POSTED

Plans were formulated several months ago by the Lions Club to have posted at Spencerville and St. Joe, proper outdoor honor rolls of the men in service, and last Saturday the job had been completed when St. Joe club erected their board on the Hursh lot down town.

Lions D. B. Ridgway and Clifford Billow were in charge of the local board and 57 names from Concord and north half of Newville townships are recorded. The Spencerville board contains the names of men from Spencer and south half of Newville townships.

There have been some names omitted from the board and the club is anxious for any person knowing names of boys omitted, to report to them at once, so they may be added before Memorial Day.

O. D. BAKER WILL END ROAD DUTIES MAY 18

The Bluffton News-Banner, of Thursday, May 13, carried the following news story of special interest to our readers:

"O. D. Baker, of 118 East South St., who tendered his resignation recently as Bluffton sub-district superintendent of the Indiana State Highway department, will terminate his duties in that position Tuesday, May 18, which date he designated his resignation was to become effective.

"His resignation will terminate slightly more than ten years of service in the superintendency of the highway subdistrict and the long period of his incumbency bespeaks his successful administration of the duties of the position and to the satisfaction of his supervisors in the department.

"Announcement of his successor was not authorized today.

"Mr. Baker expressed his appreciation of the cooperation he had received from employes of the department in his district and from the public generally and from the county highway departments and their employes throughout his district.

"The retiring road official stated that his resignation was made in order that he might actively aid his son, Lester Baker, in road construction operations in which the son has been engaged in Indiana and Ohio, which operations are to be extensively continued.

"Baker's son was awarded a contract recently on his competitive bid of approximately $100,000, for improvement of 54 miles of state highways in the Fort Wayne district, in the way of resurfacing construction. Included in this program are eight miles of State Road 1 south of Bluffton and nine miles of Road 218, west of Warren.

"Baker stated that he will continue to make Bluffton his home city, expressing the sentiment that he and Mrs. Baker enjoy their home and circle of friends in this city."

DOG MONEY FAILS TO PAY DAMAGES

A year ago County Auditor Burley Ensley remitted $1,490, a record amount, of surplus dog tax to the state treasury, but this year there is a deficit in the county fund of $210.

This reverse was largely due to $1,188 in losses of livestock killed by dogs in Richland township during the year that ended last March 1. After exhausting his own collections of $302, the trustee reported unpaid claims of $886 to the county auditor. Mr. Ensley paid $717.29 of the amount, but a deficit of $168.71 remains.

Franklin township also has a deficit of $13.14. The trustee turned over to the county $69 unpaid claims and of this sum $5.86 was liquidated. Newville township reported unpaid claims of $25, of which $16.58 was paid by the county, leaving a deficit of $8.42. Smithfield township had $76 in unpaid claims, of which $61.53 was paid by the county, the deficit being $14.74 Spencer township had $20 in unpaid claims, of which $14.74 was paid by the county, the deficit being $5.26.

Various other townships paid surplus dog tax into the county treasury, as follows: Butler, $85.87; Grant, $59; Keyser, $303; Stafford, $16; Troy, $31.53; Union, $284.50, and Wilmington, $86.10. The total of surplus delivered by the trustees was $866, but unpaid claims reported by other townships was $1,076, leaving a balance unpaid of $210.

How Fund is Handled

The law provides that the township trustee pay claims from dog tax receipts. If he has a balance, he may reserve $100 and remit the rest to the auditor, who uses it to help other trustees in meeting their deficits in this fund. If the county treasury contains a balance after all claims are paid, the auditor remits the money to the state. If a deficit exists, the state will make a remittance to the county in July.

The reports of the trustees, showing receipts and total of claims paid, follow:

Franklin, Receipts $132, expenditures same.

Newville, Receipts $98.52, expenditures $94.

Smithfield, Receipts $267, expenditures same.

Spencer, Receipts $206.29, expenditures $204.50.

Concord, Receipts $234, expenditures $167.50.

Richland, Receipts $302, expenditures same.

Fairfield, Receipts $373, expenditures $343.50.

Union, Receipts $655.50, expenditures $271.

Grant, Receipts $259, expenditures $100.

Jackson, Receipts $300, expenditures $288.

Keyser, Receipts 663, expenditures $260.

Wilmington, Receipts $314.20, expenditures $128.10.

Stafford, Receipts $116, expenditures $16.

Butler, Receipts $280, expenditures $180.

The largest claim filed was by George H. Deihl, of Richland township, in the sum of $625.

After livestock or poultry is killed by dogs, two farmers in the neighborhood are called in to appraise the dead stock and the owner files a claim accordingly with the trustee.

LOCAL HOG RAISER FLOODS MARKET

Claude Laub, prominent Spencer township farmer, disposed of his marketable hogs last Friday, and flooded the Ft. Wayne stock yards.

Seven trucks were required to transport his 138 head of finished porkers to market. When the weights were computed the hogs averaged 260 pounds and brought $14.15 per 100 pounds, or in other words $5,077.02.

At the Fort Wayne yards, many buyers and raisers of hogs made a thorough inspection of the Laub porkers as they were turned into the shipping pens, and everyone was very complimentary in their remarks as to the fine job done in maturing the animals for the market.

All the feed was raised by Mr. Laub with the exception of the supplement added to his home grown grains to make a balanced ration, which generally insures a well mature animal.

At the present, 130 baby pigs can be seen running about the barn lot and pens at the Laub farm and most of these are farrowed by the 15 tried sows kept on the farm at all times to insure a pig crop each year. The gilts which farrowed were not so successful this spring, and this seems to be a general complaint of most farmers who expected to have a much larger hog crop than formerly to turn onto the market, to insure an increased production of meat.

NEW SCHEDULE OF HOURS FOR OPA BOARD

A new schedule of office hours is announced by the county OPA board at the court house in Auburn, effective Monday, May 24.

Hours during which the offices will be open to the public follow:

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, 9:30 to 4:30, continuous through the noon hour.

Wednesday, 9:30 to 12:30.

Saturday, 8 to 12.

The board states that it is necessary to close during certain hours so that the vast amount of clerical work may be done promptly.

Applications will be accepted by mail or at the office counter. The board will meet at least twice and possibly three times a week to act on applications.

All applicants are requested to make the effort necessary to get renewal applications into the office at least ten days before their books expire; otherwise there may be delay in getting out new books.

The board is serving 25,000 people and included are many war workers whose applications take a considerable amount of time.

The co-operation of the public is asked in order to make the program successful.

MORTUARY

KOCH

A pioneer resident of Concord township, Reuben Koch, age 85, passed away at the DeKalb County Home, northwest of Auburn, at 1 o'clock Friday morning. He had been ill for a year and had been a patient at the infirmary for that period of time.

He was born Dec. 26, 1857, on the old Koch Homestead, one mile west of Saylor's school house. He started farming and owned what is now the L. G. Fetters farm.

He lived here many years, when he moved to Churubusco, where he lived 20 years. On returning to DeKalb County, he bought a small farm one and a half miles north of Concord, which he owned at the time of his death. He was a farmer by occupation.

Mr. Koch is survived by his widow, the former Mrs. Jane Cosper, of near Concord, mother of I. M. Cosper, of Auburn, and Paul Cosper, also of Auburn. A brother, Charles Koch, of Butler Center; and three sisters, Mrs. Frank Johnson, of near St. Joe, Mrs. John Moore, of Albion and Mrs. Sarah Geisinger, of Garrett; and two grandchildren, Frank Moudy, of Ossian, and Lloyd Moudy, of Fort Wayne, also survive.

The aged man was a member of the Church of Christ at St. Joe.

The body was taken to the Gerig funeral home where funeral services were held Monday afternoon. Erby Messimer, pastor of the St. Joe Church of Christ, officiated and burial was made in Woodlawn cemetery in Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Conoway and baby, of Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. Perry Jones and Mrs. Boss, of Indianapolis, were over Friday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole. Janalyce Rouls, of Angola, called at the Cole home Saturday afternoon.

EARLY ANTICIPATION OF AIR TRANSPORTATION

It has been said by many here in St. Joe that air transportation has been in the minds of people only a few years, and today we ran across some information given in a speech on America's Aviation Tomorrow, that proved interesting to us, so we reproduce a portion of it to let you know what our early fathers had in their minds as air transportation possibilities.

We quote from the original facts stated in letter now in the Library of Congress, as follows:

"In 1784 George Washington wrote to one of his friends in France commenting upon the balloon ascensions which were then the rage in Paris. He said that the tales of these ascensions 'lead us to expect that our friends in Paris, in a little time, will come flying through the air, instead of plowing the ocean to get to America.' In the same year Thomas Jefferson listed the probable uses which the invention of balloons might have in the future, and first among these uses, he placed 'transportaion of commodities under some circumstances.'

"Likewise in the same year Benjamin Franklin wrote: 'Five thousand balloons, capable of raising two men each, could not cost more than five ships of the line; and where is the prince who can afford so to cover his country with troops for its defense as that ten thousand men descending from the clouds might not in many places do an infinite deal of mischief before a force could be brought together to repel them.'

"These early observations bear witness to the fact that the development of aviation has been eagerly anticipated in America throughout our national life. Indeed, the first letter carried by air anywhere in the world was directed to Benjamin Franklin, transported in a balloon which crossed the English Channel in 1783 with an American as one of its occupants. And mail was carried by air in this country for the first time over a hndred years ago, in 1835. As a matter of fact in the 1860's a company was actually organized to conduct a regular air transportation business between Philadelphia and New York.

"Now, after many years of alternate discouragement and revival of hope, those who have dreamed so ardently of realizing the ultimate destiny of aviation as an established and commonly accepted means of transportation are about to see their dreams come true."

AN SOS FOR NURSES

Other years in May the National Hospital Associati o n named one week in honor of the nation's hospitals, in appreciation of the great service rendered and concerning their continued needs. There are hospitals in every size town today and if the village does not maintain one you can bet it isn't far from a center where there is a hospital! How busy, how crowded are these hospitals today and how richly they deserve praise for serving the home front though suffering from a shortage of doctors and nurses to keep their service going. This is a problem in most institutions and there is a continued call for help to relieve the strain. It is for the cause of nursing we write today. They make pleas by air, by the press, for nurses not employed, girls who have had training in this fine profession to come forward and help. Every man who bears a gun is sending out this SOS for nurses, don't forget.

MC CALLA

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah McCalla, age 71, the mother of Mrs. Joy Schlagel, of near Auburn, were held at the Perkins & Reeb funeral home at Hickeville, O., Wednesday afternoon, 2:30. Rev. S. E. Brewster, officiated and burial was made in the Forest Home Cemetery at Hicksville. The deceased, the widow of Thomas McCalla, died Monday at the Community Hospital in Hicksville following the amputation Saturday morning of her right leg. She had been a resident of the Hicksville community until ten years ago when she moved to the home of her daughter on the former Wm. Pepple farm on Road 8. She had been ill with diabetes for a number of years. Her husband died in 1931. One son, four daughters, a brother, 19 grandchildren and one great granddaughter survive.

WHO IS PUBLIC ENEMY NUMBER ONE?

The average drinking driver —what kind of person is he?

Don F. Stiver, superintendent of Indiana state police, today utilized department statistics to draw a word picture of the 1943 edition of the Hoosier highways' Public Enemy No. 1.

Usually he is a man (one in twenty persons apprehended driving under the influence are women.) He is 42 years of age, and at one time has served seven days in jail, paid an $18.50 fine together with $7.50 court costs.

He lives in an urban district. His occupation ranges from laborer to executive.

This average drinking driver, Mr. Stiver said, is most active in December, but in these unsettled days he may appear any month. He drinks and drives most on Saturday, and least on Tuesday. He is predominant between 11 P. M. and 2 A. M.; his "off" hour is 9 to 10 A. M.

Even though troopers are making 25 per cent more drunken driver arrests, this traffic menace is increasing, the state police official said. In 1940, 2.2 per cent of reported motor vehicle accidents involved drinking drivers, while last year the figure had risen to 6.25 per cent.

Battle of the Atlantic

A sinking smokestack, a great air bubble, an empty lifeboat, all that is visible of a torpedoed tanker, all that is evident of the hard work, the savings we put into War Bonds to build this tanker, to load it with 50,000 gallons of high octane gas.

Our money is still safe but the tanker is lost forever. Another and another and another must be built to take its place.

The men who sail the seas are giving their lives to win the Battle of the Atlantic. We are asked only to lend our money.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

The success of the complex and coordinated moves which the Government has made and will make to roll back the cost of living, depends on the public. While the Government must make the decisions it is up to the buyers and the sellers of the nation to see to it that these decisions are really observed. In the face of the manpower shortage, it would be impossible to hire enough investigators to check prices in all the retail stores in the country. But, even if such a step were possible, it would probably be less efficient than having shoppers and merchants constantly on the alert for price violations.

The latest Governmental moves in the field of price fixing will make it easier to secure intelligent and constant assistance in enforcing price rulings from shoppers and retailers. When ceilings were based on the price a retailer was getting for a particular commodity at a particular time the variations in prices from store to store made it difficult for the individual to know when he was being overcharged.

The new system of setting top prices for each of several classes of stores simplifies matters. The buyer has only to consult the list of fixed top prices published in his newspaper and refer to the type of store in which he is buying. The retail merchant can help enforce price orders by checking his own prices against those charged by stores in the same class.

The Government has declared that by June 1, close to 80 percent of the foods that go into the family market basket will carry price tags. The first step in achieving this goal was taken during the week when top prices on many important foods were fixed for small retail food dealers in 130 cities.

Because the health of those Americans who are maintaining the home front may be endangered by the growing shortage of trained nurses, several Government agencies have joined in a program to enroll qualified young women in the 1,300 nursing schools attached to the country's leading hospitals.

So that no qualified girl may be discouraged by lack of money, a number of scholarships have been made available. Most of these are from private funds but some part of the $3,000,000 appropriated for the Nurses Program of Public Health Service will be made available for defraying most essential expenses. The cost of becoming a graduate nurse is low enough. It averages $75 for the regular three-year course. This $75 covers tuition and expenses. Room and board are generally furnished free.

Young women interested in entering the nursing field may obtain necessary information by writing to Student Nurses, Box 88, New York City. Information and guidance can also be given by private physicians and by most large hospitals.

Reports that many allotment checks of soldiers' wives and relatives are being stolen from porchs, mail boxes and other places have prompted the U. S. Secret Service to outline precautions that must be taken by people who receive Government checks regularly. To stop thieves, the Secret Service suggested the following steps—

1. Be sure a member of the family is at home when the checks are due to be delivered.
2. Equip all mail boxes with a lock. The name of the individual should be printed clearly on the outside of the box.
3. Cash checks in the same place each month.
4. Endorse the check only in the presence of the person who is to cash it.

George Beugnot, of Auburn, a member of the firm of Schaab & Bro. Co., who is a patient at the Sanders hospital, is reported slightly improved. Mr. Beugnot is still unable to talk and is unable to move his right arm or leg as the result of paralysis.

The house, siding with President Roosevelt, Tuesday for the third time, refused to accept the Ruml skip-a-year tax plan. It rejected, 202 to 194, a motion to send the pay-as-you-go tax bill to conference with instructions for its spokesmen to accept the senate bill which embodies the Ruml plan. Had the motion carried, ratification—and final legislative approval-would have been a mere formality. The house twice before had refused to approve the Ruml plan in crucial floor tests, the last time by a 206 to 202 vote. Therefore the extent of the influenc of the president's open opposition to the plan could not be determined. The bill now will go to an uninstructed conference committee of the house and senate which will endeavor to compromise differences between the senate's total forgiveness plan and the partial forgiveness bill passed by the house.

There's no more important WAR WORK than FARM PRODUCTION

THE overalls of a farm worker are a uniform of which he can be proud . . . his hoe and rake are more powerful than guns. They and all of his implements are constructive, helping him to produce what it takes to make a fighter able "to take it" — Food — the body's ammunition. Without the farm worker, the whole structure of war plans would collapse. Come Axis War Lords and fire-spittin heavens, come the hell of hunger and famine, come destruction and desolation, men MUST BE FED . . . It's as simple as that.

Our hats are off to those who strive the long hours—through darkness, vil winds and burning suns. And we re humbly proud of the part electricity fills in helping the farmers to roduce desperately needed food.

WALTER WHITEHURST POST No. 283
Meeting Night: Second & Fourth Tuesday of the Month. - - - -

"Many of us in the American Legion know what it is to go through a battle—to be tired in every bone and muscle—and then to be sent back in to fight some more," said C. U. Gremelspacher, state commander, in urging every Legion Post to do its utmost to make the May war bond campaign a success.

"I believe that is why the Legion was chosen to sponsor this May campaign," said the state commander. "India n a and the nation finished the biggest war financing drive in history during April. But war bonds must be sold every month, because we in the Legion have learned that we must still fight after the big battle, and because we are the only group who knows that lesson of war, we have been asked to continue the fight. . . . to do all we can for final victory."

Nearly 350 Legion posts with some 40,000 members are in the midst of a campaign to sell $19,500,000 in war bonds, the month's quota. Legionnaires are also spear-heading the attack for increased investment in United States savings bonds (series F and G) through the Victory Fund committee.

"I don't believe there is any doubt that we will reach the $25,000,000 goal we have set for ourselves," said Commander Gremelspacher. "We are urging every Hoosier to buy at least one extra bond to keep faith with those who must keep on fighting until the war is won. . . to keep faith with those who have died both in World War I and in this war."

What You Buy With WAR BONDS
5 Ocean Navy

When Pearl Harbor burst upon us our great expanse of territory was protected by a one ocean navy of about 350 first line ships with an addition of an approximate number building.

Now we are in a five ocean war and we are required not only to pay for the building of enough ships of the line but also for hundreds of Liberty ships and auxiliary craft. The amount of money you invested in War Bonds when we had a one ocean navy was all right then, it isn't enough now. Buy more and more War Bonds.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCE ON SUNDAY

Gov. Henry F. Schreicker has called upon Hoosiers to observe Memorial Day on Sunday, May 30, instead of the next day in order that there will be no halt in war production.

Indiana law provides that legal holidays falling on Sunday are to be observed the following day.

"I am not trying to set aside the law, but I am appealing to the citizens of Indiana as a matter of patriotism," the Governor said. "I have thought about this for some time, and have the support of labor leaders and the American Legion in asking that Monday, May 31, be a day of work for the war effort, instead of an occasion for the observance of Memorial Day."

The Governor said he believed an appeal from his office would help to bring about general state-wide observance of the day on Sunday.

In addition to saving several million man-hours in industry, Governor Schricker said he believed Sunday was a more fitting day for the observance.

He said he was making the appeal because he had received a number of inquiries about the observance of Memorial Day.

The State House will be open on May 31, and Governor Schricker will be at work in his office. However, on Sunday he will observe Memorial Day at Knox, his former home, where he spent each Memorial Day for the last 35 years. The Governor said his custom had made it necessary to turn down a number of requests to speak on Sunday, May 30.

His appeal not only directed to workers in war industries, but to citizens in all types of work throughout the state.

The twenty-sixth annual reunion of the Ginder family will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Campbell, Hamilton, Ind., o n Saturday, June 5, 1943. Byron Ginder, president; Gertrude Ginder-Reinhart, secretary.

SPENCER TOWNSHIP CLUB

The May meeting of the Spencer Township Home Economics Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Flossie Rediger Thursday afternoon, May 13th. The opening song was "Annie Laurie." This was the song of the month, the history of which was given by Mrs. Metta Sharp. Eighteen members answered to roll call with "Some remembrance of my mother when I was a child." There were four guests present.

It was decided that the June meeting would be held in the town hall in Spencerville to better accommodate the demonstration of the Home Economics girls under the leadership of Mrs. Hudson. Miss Moore, of Auburn, will also have a place on the program during the afternoon. Bv vote the club decided to contribute to the fund of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

Mrs. Zona Abel, leader, passed literature on canning fruit and vegetables.

Mrs. Winifred Hart gave a poultry report. The closing song was "Home Sweet Home" and prayer was given by Mrs. Metta Sharp. A Mother's Day program was in charge of Mrs. Sharp, Jennie Walter, and Winifred Hart.

One new member, Mrs. Lois Fisher, was enrolled in the club. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Hazel Washler, served a very tasty lunch and an enjoyable time was had by all present.

COUNTY ROADS AND BRIDGES DAMAGED

Damage to DeKalb County highways because of excessive rains this month is estimated by County Surveyor Wayne T. Van Auken at $10,000 to $15,000.

Water overflowed the roads in many places, washing out numerous culverts and hundreds of yards of gravel. In Fairfield township a portion of a bridge was washed away. The Spencerville bridge and the bridge on the Morningstar Road were endangered, but were saved by the streams receding. Highways were impassable in some places.

The task of making repairs is under way and several weeks will be required for this work.

SCIPIO MEMORIAL

Memorial Day Services will be held at the North Scipio Church and Cemetery, 2:30 P. M., May 30, 1943. Rev. Frank Stevenson, of Spencerville, will deliver the address. Music will be furnished by the Harlan High School Band and Fife and Drum Corps. Services at the cemetery will be conducted by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Hicksville, Ohio.

MOORE—GINTHER

The marriage of Olive E. Moore, of Fort Wayne, to Otto E. Ginther, Spencerville, took place in the U. B. Church at Hicksville, Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Wright, the local pastor.

Following the ceremony the party proceeded to the Lanz restaurant where a dinner was served. The couple is spending this week in Indianapolis attending the Grand Lodge session of the Masonic Order.

Their Fort Wayne address is 2112 Lynn Street.

CLOSED FOR DURATION

On June 1st, the Keller Garage will close for the Duration, due to temporary business restrictions. We appreciate the business of the past years and when we are permitted to again open, we shall appreciate the opportunity of serving you.

IN MEMORIAM

TO TURN IN FRONT LICENSE PLATE

"No one will be in danger of arrest or of invalidating their insurance contracts by operating a motor vehicle with only one license plate," state officials pointed out today in a statement released through the State Defense Council.

The statement was impelled by reports from various sections of the state that some operators of automobiles and trucks had expressed a reluctance to turn in the front plate from their vehicles, fearful that they would face the possibility of being stopped or even arrested by police, or, that their collision, liability, fire and theft or other such insurance contracts would be invalidated.

The state-wide campaign to collect all front license plates from Indiana automobiles and trucks opened officially on Saturday, May 22 and will close May 29. During this period the state expects to obtain one million auto and truck plates through return of front plates and the salvaging of plates of preceding years which can be found. The collection of the plates is being undertaken by the Indiana Civilian Defense Volunteers, and are to be deposited at St. Joe Filling Station and Vendrely Service Station in Spencerville in this section of the county.

Clarence A. Jackson, State Director of Civilian Defense, advises that Don F. Stiver, Superintendent of State Police, has taken necessary action to see that all police officers throughout Indiana have been advised of the state action setting aside the former requirement of 2 license plates—one on each end—for all Indiana licensed motor vehicles.

State Officials, likewise, have notified law enforcement officers in other states. This action was taken to prevent operators of Indiana licensed automobiles and trucks from being stopped, detained and embarrassed during such time as might be required for officers of other states to investigate the question of whether or not Indiana vehicles are operated legally when carrying only one plate.

Frank J. Viehmann, Indiana Insurance Commissioner, has assured the State Director of Civilian Defense that no operator of a motor vehicle, who might be involved in an accident, or whose car may be otherwise damaged or stolen, need fear loss of his insurance coverage. An exhaustive study of insurance contracts permitted in Indiana, and the provisions and effect of the executive action eliminating the need for the front plate, was made before his opinion was issued.

There were issued in DeKalb County in 1942 15,600 auto license plates (2 to each car.) 2,400 truck license plates (2 to each truck.) Total 18,000. The quota (½) is 9,000.

We can make over 100% of our quota by clearing the garages, etc., of old plates issued prior to 1942.

OPEN HOUSE SUNDAY

Next Sunday, Mrs. Elnora Blue, will observe open house all day, honoring the 90th birthday of her mother, Mrs. Harriett Sechler. Friends may call at any hour convenient for them. Mrs. Sechler is enjoying extremely good health for one of her age.

The LIONS CLUB

L. W. YEISER, Publicity

KNOWING OUR ENEMIES

Fourty-six men, the members of the St. Joe Lions Club, invited guests and a number of Lions from Auburn, are much better informed about what we have to overcome in this war than they were before hearing Chas. L. DeVault, at a dinner meeting held at the Akins Tea Room, Monday evening.

The Lions were fortunate in being able to secure a man of the wide knowledge of world events as that possessed by Mr. DeVault. For nearly a quarter of a century he was in the consular service of our country, nine of these years being spent in Japan.

President Leighty turned the introduction of the speaker over to our farmer friend, Horation H. Squires. The DeVault and Squires families lived in the neighborhood of Churubusco during the boyhood of the men and Mr. Squires paid high compliment to his friend in introducing him to his audience. After having come in personal contact with Mr. DeVault we will venture the assertion that those present will not want to miss a single broadcast of Mr. DeVault. He is on WOWO each night at 10:15.

Chas. L. DeVault, LL. B.

Mr. DeVault's opening statement was: "I Fear the Peace About as Much as I do the War," explaining that we will eventually win the war, but that many troublesome and important issues will then remain to be solved—home issues, without trying to dictate to other countries as to their form of government. Our whole effort now should be directed toward winning the war.

The reason we do not know the Japanese better is because we have been too busy with our own affairs to study the aims and ambitions of the Japs. Japan proper is about 4½ times the size of Indiana and supports 74,000,000 people, and these with their possessions bring them up to 140,000,000 as against our 132,000,000 population.

The Jap's education for war began generations ago and every move they make has the conquering of the world as its objective. From infancy up they are trained in such a manner as to make them most efficient soldiers—tough and intelligent. Their skin is so tough that a mosquito that would greatly trouble a white man, has no effect on them and it is interesting to note that their literacy is 98 per cent, while ours is about 78 per cent.

In their temples and shrines are the likeness of animals and the Japanese people pray to their gods that they may be endowed with the instincts of these animals, all with one object in view: world domination. He is brought up to believe that his is a superior race and that his emperor is divine.

With all of this training it is only too apparent it makes of him a dangerous enemy and one which we should not underestimate.

The German carries the same idea of supremacy, but to a lesser degree and he has spent his time since the first World War preparing for the present conflict and he is willing to undergo hardship to gain his ends.

Mr. DeVault has some decided ideas as to the training our armed forces should be undergoing to combat enemy tough soldiers. His listeners were more than anxious to hear more from this man of wide experience, but it became necessary for him to leave to fulfill his broadcast engagement with WOWO.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my thanks and whole hearted appreciation to all my friends and neighbors who so graciously remembered me with cards, letters and flowers, since I have been ill.

I wish I could thank each one individually, and until I am able to do so in person, in this manner, I wish you to know I appreciate your friendship. —Mrs. E. W. Johnson.

PASTORS RECEPTION

A neighborhood get-together was held at the Coburntown Church Monday evening in honor of Rev. Walter Coburn and family and Rev. Richard Key and family, who are vacationing in the community. Rev. Coburn is leavng for the Armed Service as a Chaplain the sixteenth of June, and his wife is assuming the pastoral duties of his church at Rich Valley.

Short talks were made, and singing was enjoyed by the group and a general good time was had by all.

The party broke up with good wishes by all for the honor guests and prayers for their safe return at some time.

LETTER WRITING

Overheard a discussion in St. Joe of the revival of the art of letter writing, due to the increase in correspondence during the war. This may develop or it may be that the thing is temporary and that we will return to the telephone or telegraph afterwards. Altho we are not to stand in the way of progress, to speak against the auto, wireless or telephone as retarding history, still we do realize that the three agents have put a damper on letter writing and in some cases that means a loss to literature. There have been many notable letters handed down through the generations that influenced our behavior and that of our nation, famous letters of noble thoughts. Imagine them instead, being spoken over a phone and you will understand why we say literature would be the loser. Consider what would be left unsaid if the world's famous love letters were dotted and dashed over the air, and what a loss to literature. Yes, letter writing has often been accomplished by dashing off in the automobile to a meeting where the effect is lost since history won't be able to record it word by word. A return to the pen may be a by-product of battle.

AND HOW WE SAVE!

Thrifty housewives have no need to be told to utilize old paper, worn clothes and such. They have been doing it for years. The paper has served its first purpose of enlightening you in political, social and economic phases of conditions here and abroad, serving you as best it can in fairness and honesty. So you finish with your paper and the edition becomes passe. But not to be thrown out. It used to be that father would carry a few old papers under the seat of the auto in case he would get stuck in the mud. The rear wheels would spin and turn but not enough to get the car out of the rut. So out came the papers, rolled and slipped under each rear wheel and off he'd go. That was worth the year's subscription price right there. Housewives line shelvs with old newspapers, wrap them around jars of canned goods that are to be stored in too light cupboard space. Some people still polish windows with them, and since moths don't like newsprint many women wrap clothing and blankets for storage in newspapers. You have probably many uses of your own you housewives of St. Joe. Utilize paper, as saving the sacks from your stores which might be folded neatly and handed back to your grocer for instance. Economy won't hurt any of us and we have fallen a little short of this virtue through the years. It might do well to remember that Dr. George Washington Carver found 300 uses for the lowly peanut, 118 by-products from the sweet potato, all scientifically brought about by a man who never wasted anything.

MEMORIAL DAY

The Decoration Day of our yesterdays when for us the occasion meant a parade, band concert in the park, lots of flowers and much visiting. We didn't call it Memorial Day so much as they do today. The ceremony started early in the morning when the flag was fastened on the front porch with a lot of discussion of which way the field should face! A relative would come with flowers from her yard to add to the iris, peonies and syringa sprays that we had placed in buckets of water and placed in a cool place to keep them nice for decoration at the memorial service and later for the graves at the cemetery. Perhaps we remember most distinctly those mounds because we were impressed with the rows of metal standards that held the little flags. Usually the school children would go down the rows and place the small bouquets on each soldier's grave. That memory lives. We were dressed up pretty much on this day and sat on the front steps and watched the folks go by.

Friends gathered and made plans for the parade that was in the offing. And it was indeed a parade of flags and uniforms, bands and children. It was so slow getting under way you thought as you stood in the hot sun and impatiently shifted from foot to foot. But finally the groups joined together and off you went to sound of music and cheers. It was thrilling, but so was it to those who watched the figures of the veterans of the Mexican War ride by, the slow moving veterans of the Civil War, those who represented the Spanish-American War paced it off quickly and snappily. And then the children, the future veterans of the World War, though they didn't know as they kicked the dust from their shoes, clutched in hot hands the bunches of flowers for the soldier's graves. They only thought this an occasion, serious because it meant death in battle, fighting for one's country. But to children that is like the story of Crusaders and fascinating like building forts against the Indians. So they didn't know that they were walking in a parade of honor to themselves too, those heroes of war to come who would also die for their country. This year as we think back over those other Decoration Days and recall the line of children who didn't know, we pray that the school children today who observe in like manner the memory of heroes of wars past, who speak lovingly of their fathers, brothers, uncles, cousins who fight for them today, we pray that there will be no parade of the doomed youth of future wars in this year's service.

GOLDEN THOUGHTS

To Mr. and Mrs. Charles Koch, of near Butler Center, who celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary, Sunday, May 9, 1943.

There is gold in the light of the sun,
There is gold in the silence of night.
There is gold in innocent fun
And gold in a song that is right.

There is gold in the smile of a child,
There is gold in friends fraught with years.
There is gold on the plain or wild,
There is gold both in smiles and in tears.

But the gold that is yours came thru the years,
It has grown thru the days you've gone thru;
And your wedding vows, thru smiles and thru tears,
Have always and ever been true.

So kin and guests, with hearts full of love
Give greetings sincere, as they may,
And wish you all Blessings from the Father above,
On your Golden Wedding Day.

—By FRED W. KNOTT, Auburn, Indiana.

NO NEED FOR WORRY

Some time ago there was concern expressed for the fitness of our youth for battle, worry over their physical strength with emphasis placed upon their softness due to the protected kind of life most of them led through parents making the path easy for them. The folks here in St. Joe talked of morale and whether youth could 'take it,' could stand the test of war mentally, morally and physically. Of course we worried about them, that was natural for we felt our children weren't ready for war, not fit for it. Well neither were we oldsters! All of that was some time ago—before Pearl Harbor shall we say? We didn't feel the issue would reach such heights, or depths, with the most serious discussion still not measuring up to the seriousness of Wake Island. All of that worry about the morale of the army and from the way many have acted here on the home front it would be more probable that the army could do some fretting on our account. Surely folks don't expect the fighting forces to have to protest against the weakness and selfishness of the home front that 'can't do without!' It took bloody battles to get some of our boys straight with themselves, to get us straight about the valor and toughness, fitness and glory of our boys. But those lads have what their ancestors had before them at Gettysburg, the Argonne, on plains of frontier history when this country was pioneering. As we see this in our children, we are beginning to find within ourselves some of the strength needed to meet the situation. Perhaps it was buried pretty deep, maybe some of us are slow finding this quality, but it is there and strike gold within ourselves we must to make our boys over there proud of us.

BETTER HEALTH

The best argument for food rationing in England is that since it began the British have improved their public health level. They attribute the factor to plain nutrition. Those foods that we still take pretty much for granted are rarities in England. Eggs are a luxury and have been lost for some time to most British menus. Consider the words of Lord Woolton, head of food ministry in England as: "It isn't comfort we're after. It's winning this war—and using our food to keep us fit to win this war....It's a fighting standard, closely calculated. All we ask for is that we shall have enough of it and no more, to give us the sustaining spirit of battle, our daily bread to give us strength for our day's job. We may, indeed, have to have less than we are having now. We've maintained a fighting standard of fitness; we shall maintain it if we husband all our resources—all of them—with the utmost care, each taking only according to his need." And what is true in this case there can apply to us in St. Joe and we can meet it equally as well.

BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

Rest in peace might be spoken now, through June and until July 1, as the nation slowly buries the WPA. So passes an agency, this Works Projects Administration, which in its hey-day, spent more than ten million dollars for the relief of the nation's unemployed. All of the work's projects are liquidated and those which have not been completed will be finished by the local sponsors, the agencies busying themselves in winding up affairs. Thirty states have already completed the final ritual and so there passes from the mails those thousands of relief checks. At one time 3,000,000 people in one month received WPA checks and in most cases they came at an opportune time. With work now available, with wages filling the vacant envelopes, this project used as a means of relieving unemployed, dies. May the necessity of reviving it, not occur!

If the state of Indiana is to reclaim enough plates to manufacture 1944 automobile and truck plates for all cars that will be licensed next year, it is very important that the complete co-operation of the operators of all types of automobiles and trucks do their part. Already plates are coming in to St. Joe and Spencerville collection depots.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

In the last stage of the battle for Tunisia, our fighting and bombing planes were in the air almost continuously, raining destruction on an enemy who had begun to weaken. Immense quantities of gasoline to power these warplanes were shipped from Eastern terminals. If gasoline for civilian driving is now short in the East, we know the reason for the shortage and we cannot expect any lessening of the military demand for high octane motor fuel.

Nevertheless, there is every evidence that thoughtless civilians still indulge unnnecessary driving. Furthermore, road tests conducted in 11 states from Maine to Utah indicate that driving beyond the legal speed limit of 35 miles an hour is again a widespread practice. In one state trucks were found racing at 70 miles an hour.

Pleasure drivers and speedsters who misuse the driving privilege waste gasoline and burn up rubber which is a part of our national stockpile of war essentials. It should not be necessary, nor is it practical to leave such matters up to law enforcement officers, for there aren't enough police in the country to watch for every violation wartime regulations. The conscience and patriotism of every individual must be counted on to do the job of enforcement.

This country's war plant is practically completed. By that is meant, we have substantially all the machine tools and capital equipment needed to carry the war to a victorious conclusion. It is sometimes forgotten that for the past three years the United States has worked almost as hard on the construction of its war plant as on munitions. During that period we have not only turned out immense quantities of war materials, we have also had to build plants and tool them for production.

With the construction and machine-tool phase of the program virtually ended, no new facilities may be bought or made unless their need is conclusively proved. This means a shift in the general emphasis of war production and should result in speeding up the production rate as hundreds of thousands of skilled workers are released from the direct output of munitions, equipment and supplies.

An important but simple change will be made in the thermal zones in next year's fuel oil rationing plan to permit closer adjustments of rations to the fuel oil supply and to weather conditions. The change is a result of last winter's fuel rationing experience. It was found necessary at times to make adjustments because of a severe cold spell in a particular part of a zone and because of differences in the fuel supply situation in various regions. The new plan breaks up large areas into smaller units.

Householders should not put off considering their heating needs until next season's cold weather sets in. Summer months can be used advantageously to insure that the house is made cold-proof, especially by applying insulation wherever possible. An amendment to the meat rationing regulations provides that a farmer and his family may consume meat raised on any farm he owns or operates, and may transfer meat from one of his farms to another to provide food for members of the household, without giving up ration points.

Housewives who customarily sell a part of the fruits and vegetables they put up at home must dispose of them at a "point price" of eight points per quart....On the other hand, a family that grows its own fruits and vegetables and supplies all the necessary ingredients for canning, may have this food canned commercially and acquire 100 quarts for each person in the family without surrendering ration points.

Mrs. Caroline Chorpenning, past 87, is still in the Hicksville hospital where she is receiving medical attention, and remains quite poorly. Her husband, Frank Thomas, is at the Gablick convalescent home and is much improved in health.

The picture show Saturday night drew one of those record crowds. All of the seats were taken and the picture seemed to please most of the crowd. This week another pleasing show will be put on and its free. Your friends will be here and they would like to see you.

About thirty-five neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sechler last Tuesday evening, to meet with them once again before they leave their home which has been sold. A dlicious pot luck suppeer was served. Mr. and Mrs. Sechler will be missed in the community.

Cecil Ramsey returned a few days ago from Taswell, Tenn., where he visited a week with his parents. He reported the temperature there at 90 degrees in the shade, quite dry for crops, the wheat is headed out and corn about six inches high. The pasture is suffering from the heat and drought. Cecil has been here for about a year and is employed at New Haven Ordnance plant, and by the way, he likes Indiana.

Soldier addresses should always be mailed to The News written plainly, so no chance of error.

Mrs. Nina Kees has been on the sick list a few days and has been staying with her son, Leon Kees and family.

Mrs. Florence Baker and two little sons, Richard and Darwin, were callers in the Mary Betz home one day last week.

Wm. Smith, of Fort Wayne, spent Wednesday night with James Hatch at this place.

WHAT HAVE I DONE TO GAIN SUCH POPULARITY

MORE POULTRY MEAT IS ESSENTIAL

THE increased need for poultry meat—both turkey and chicken—calls for the best methods in getting birds ready for market, as quickly as possible. Good management, plus the efficient use of nutritionally correct rations, is the answer.

. . . and how's YOUR sense of balance?

• It looks like a carnival concession or an inventor's nightmare. But it's a balancing chair, used to test Army Air Corps candidates.

• Only a few Americans will ever try the balancing chair—but every one of us is having our sense of balance tested by war. It's a test of our ability to do our daily job, buy bonds, pay taxes, donate blood, spot planes, serve in Civilian Defense—and still keep an even keel. It's a test of individuals —and industries.

• We're rather proud of the way our industry—the electric power companies under business management—has met its greatest test. In the face of shortages in many fields, power production has been stepped up to take care of all war plants and all essential civilian needs!

• Service is still good, rates still low. The average American home still gets twice as much electricity for its money as it did about 15 years ago.

• These are the accomplishments of experienced men and well-balanced management under public regulation—the system that made America great.

ON ALERT IN NEW GUINEA—The highest degree of agility, coordination and teamwork is demanded of members of an antiaircraft gun crew. In addition, its members must have the kind of nerves that will stand the protracted periods when nothing happens. Once something does happen they must snap to the alert. Every man has his appointed task and it is timed to the split second with the tasks of his fellow crew members. The work is fast and furious until the last enemy plane is downed or routed. These pictures show a gun crew and installation in New Guinea where the combination of accurate antiaircraft fire and daring flyers have kept Japanese plane losses high.

Gun crew alerted and ready for action. Note precautions taken to camouflage the position. When the battery is inactive the netting with the concealing strips of colored material is pulled over the emplacement, effectively concealing it from prying aerial eyes.

HOME ECONOMIC CLUBS

The May meeting of the Concord Township Home Economics Club was held at the home of Mrs. Ed Storer in St. Joe. The meeting was called to order by the president, Millie Shull. The song of the month, Annie Laurie was led by the chorister, Katherine Haller. History of the song was read by Pluma Hamilton, this story reveals that the melody of this song was composed by Lady Jane Scott for a lyric poem written by William Douglas, an ancestor of Lady Scott's husband. Several communications from the State Home Economics office were read by Mrs. Shull, also a paper from the American Society for the Control of Cancer. The club voted to support this cause. Secretary's report was read and accepted as read.

Twenty-two members responded to roll call with "Mother's Favorite Remedy," this brought out a number of interesting and unique remedies, some of which we were glad we escaped, others which might prove superior to some of the more modern remedies.

The following chairman of committees gave reports: Garden, Clara Foltz; Nutrition, Doris Yeiser; Poultry, Minnie Ulm. Doris Yeiser also gave a report of the canning demonstration held recently in St. Joe. Entertaining features were in charge of Georgia McMaken and Maud Jenkins.

Mrs. Storer, assisted by her committee, Katherine Haller and Arline Koch, served appetizing refreshments consisting of open cheese sandwiches, sweet pickles, fruit jello, wafers and coffee. One guest, Mrs. Edna Jenkins was present.

Family night will be held June 18. Iva Yeiser, Doris Yeiser, Georgia McMaken, Cora Curie, and Laura Washler are in charge of arrangements for the night. No place for this meeting has been determined as yet. Members are asked to watch the paper for announcement of place.

GET-TOGETHER 4-H CLUB

The Get-Together 4-H Club of St. Joe, met at the school house, May 19, at 2:00 P. M. The meeting was called to order by the president, Doris Trenary. The roll was called by the secretary, Maxine Converse. There were 29 members present. The president asked for secretary's report. The report was read and approved.

Song leader, Jane Bragg, led us in singing "Church in the Wildwood," "Oh, Susanna," and "My Old Kentucky Home."

A motion was advanced for the approval of the club to appropriate some money from the treasury to buy the club some song books. The motion was carried. Since Marilyn Wade was not present, we had to substitute a demonstration. The substitute, dealing with measuring materials in preparation of food, was given by Joan Trenary. Nancy Monroe gave a demonstration in Food Preparation, "How to make an eggnogg."

Next meeting we will have three demonstrations. Jean Billow will give a demonstration dealing with "Patterns." A demonstration in "Food Preparation" will be given by Joan Trenary and a "Baking" demonstration will be given by Pat Carpenter.

Refreshments, consisting of fruit salad and cookies, were served by Marjorie Bleeks, Pat Carpenter, Gloria Warstler, and Maxine Converse. At the next meeting refreshments will be served by Doris Trenary, Leona Drake, Marilyn Wade, and Nancy Monroe.

The meeting was adjourned at 4:00 P. M. The next meeting will be held at the school house in St. Joe, June 2, 2:00 to 4:00 P. M. Please try to be there.

Club Reporter.

"OVER THE TOP" ON MAY BOND DRIVE

We are going over the top again. DeKalb County is now near its quota of war bond sales for the month of May. Sales during the week ending Saturday, May 22, amounted to $24,675 which brought the total of the month to $85,300.50. The county's quota is $88,725, so it is certain the goal will be reached by Saturday of this week or before the end of the month which is Monday.

MEAT POINT VALUE CHANGE IS NOTED

An upward jump in the point values of certain red meats was revealed in the new point values for meat, fats, fish and cheese announced today by the Office of Price Administration. The new values are effective June 6.

The change in meat values were due to a current scarcity of red meat, it was explained. Point values generally are increased when a commodity is scarce, and decreased when supplies are ample. A second factor in some of the revision is the perishability of certann meat products in the summer months.

Largest jumps were made in the values of certain beef cuts. Here is how some of the June values compare with those of May:

Porterhouse: May, 8; June, 11.

Sirloin, Boneless: May, 9; June, 12.

Chuck: May, 7; June, 8.

In the case of lamb stews and other cuts, a slight drop was evident; for example, breast and flank dropped from 3 points to 1; bone-in shank from 4 to 3; bone-in neck from 4 to 3.

Pork cuts remain substantially the same.

Anniversary Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie were pleasantly surprised last Thursday night when fifteen neighbors with well filled baskets came in to help them celebrate their 45th wedding anniversary which was May 28th. After a most enjoyable evening they dispersed wishing them many more pleasant anniversaries.

They presented the couple with a beautiful potted hydrangea.

On Sunday a family dinner was held and they received more gifts and had a most enjoyable day. There were 25 present.

PROGRAM BY DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

A program was given Sunday evening by members of the Daily Vacation Bible School held this year at Coburn Corners. It consisted of the order of the daily program carried out by each class and a demonstration of the things learned in class. A display of the hand work was shown in the basement. Richard Key, a former pastor, brought a message on "The Peace of Christ." A large crowd was in attendance.

Mrs. Xenia Cramer, of Chicago, spent Sunday night here with her sister, Mrs. H. C. Borthwick.

The Misses Jane and Janice Bragg are spending a month at Alexandria Ind., the guest of their grandmother, Mrs. Caroline Bragg.

Mr. and Mrs. William Friedley of Norwalk, Ohio, spent Sunday and Monday here in the Frank Sellers home. On Sunday they all went to Goshen to decorate graves and call on relatives.

Arnold Tustison and daughter, of Hicksville, were Saturday evening guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Scholes. Sunday evening callers were Dr. Myers, wife and two children of Fort Wayne.

"THESE FIVE YEARS IN BLACK AND WHITE"

will be the general theme of the day next Sunday when the congregations of the local Lutheran parish celebrate the completion of five years of ministry by the Reverend Frank Stevenson. The congregation in Saint Joe is sponsoring the special observance which includes besides the morning worship at 11 A. M., a carry-in dinner at noon, and an anniversary service in the afternoon at which the Reverend A. K. Trout, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Auburn, Indiana, will be the guest speaker. All members and friends of the parish and community are cordially invited to participate in these services.

Pastor Stevenson began his active ministry in this parish June 1, 1938, upon the completion of his seven years of college and seminary training, and his ordination by the Indiana Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America. While in the seminary he had served two years as supply pastor to a rural church east of Montpelier, Ohio, and for five months had supplied the local parish also.

With the beginning of Mr. Stevenson's partorate, St. Mark's congregation, Butler, Indiana, previously a separate parish, was made part of the Spencerville Parish, thus creating the present three-point circuit. (Spencerville — Saint Joe—Butler.)

In addition to the multitude of parish duties and the full schedule of services by which he contacts every congregation each Sunday, Rev. Stevenson has taken an active part in community projects and services, as leader, speaker, counsellor, and worker. Many homes outside the constituency of the parish have come to know him through his ministry during their bereavement.

Although he is one of the younger pastors of the Indiana Synod, the Northern Conference has elected him secretary three years in succession and the president of Synod regularly appoints him district chairman of financial drives. He served in this capacity two years ago when the supporting churches put on a campaign for $1,200,000 for Wittenberg College and again this year when the National Lutheran Council raised a million dollars for Lutheran Action. (The local congregations of the parish contributed over $1,000 to the former and nearly $200 for the latter, becoming a measuring stick for other parishes in this area.)

A little apart from ministerial acts but indicative of his community interest was the teaching of Physical Fitness in the Saint Joe High School under an emergency license. Though gnerally known for his calm and patience he revealed that he could be stern when the occasion demanded it.

Reared in the country, familiar with country life and philosophy, and alert to the needs and possibilities of the country folk, Reverend Stevenson has chosen to identify himself with the rural church and its vital ministry today. Whereas most young ministers envision themselves in large churches or in city missions where rapid growth and building expansion will be the normal experience, he is one of the increasing number who realize that the future of the church rests with the rural congregation. Last summer the president of Synod designated him as the recipient of the annual full scholarship to a five-week Rural Leaders Training School at Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Illinois.

A special anniversary booklet is being prepared to indicate in 'black and white' some of the more tangible fruits of these five years, but the greatest fruits are the immeasurable blessings experienced by individuals in the secrets of their hearts. This is a time for talking about these too, so plan now to be present. Your participation will be both a sign of appreciation and a source of encouragement. Come at eleven and stay 'til three for four hours of spiritual and physical feasting.

The schedule of services is as follows:

Morning Worship 11:00 A. M.

Carry-in Dinner 12:30 noon.

Afternoon service 2:00 P. M.

CHILDREN'S DAY PROGRAM JUNE 6 AT 8 P. M.

The annual Children's Day program consisting of songs, recitations and exercises by the Beginners, Primary and Junior groups of the Sunday School, with special musical selections by the choir and young people, will be given at Hopewell Church, June 6th.

A cordial invitation is extended to All!

The News force took Monday off, consequently reading material will be scarce in this issue, but will try to make it up later on.

Sgt. Virgil Laux arrived home Tuesday night for a few days furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Laux. He is stationed in North Carolina.

New Class 1-A registrants number 69, and among the local boys are Chalmer Beaty, Loren D. Inlow, Harold W. Ryan, of St. Joe, and Harold M. Laux, Wm. R. Brace, Ralph M. Howe and Lewis E. Webb, of Spencerville. Most of these boys had been deferred because of school. Harry L. Strong is a new 18 year old registrant.

RANDALL

Harry E. Randall was born in Waterloo, Indiana, on March 21, 1894 and died in St. Joe, Indiana, May 28, 1943 aged 49 years, 2 months, and 7 days.

He was the son of William and Jane Randall. His father preceded him in death nine years ago and the mother still survives. Besides the mother Harry leaves his wife, Helen, two sons, William and Waldo, both of Ft. Wayne, one daughter, Mrs. Marion Carlin, of Gary, Indiana, and four grandchildren. One other son, little Harry Junior, went to his Heavenly Father on March 19, 1928.

Mr. Randall spent most of his boy-hood in St. Joe. After reaching maturity he and his wife resided in Chicago where Harry established a successful business.

About three years ago he developed heart trouble and his physician advised him to dispose of his business and live quietly. So in due time Mr. and Mrs. Randall returned to the parental home here in St. Joe.

Harry was an active and loyal member of St. Joe K. of P. Lodge No. 400. He was recently Chancellor Commander of this lodge and at the time of his death he was honored with the office of District Deputy.

He possessed an ingenious mind and an interesting character. Purely original and different from ordinary personalities, he hated hypocrisy in every form. He had his own philosophy of living, and while he did not always receive understanding from even his nearest friends, yet his philosophy enabled him to recognize and criticise his own faults, to always be the friend in need and to courageously face both life and death.

His many friends will long remember his helpful acts and will miss his genial greetings.

Funeral services were held from the home on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Frank Stevenson, officiating. Burial was made in Riverside Cemetery, St. Joe.

K. of P. RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas it has pleased the Almighty God to remove from our midst and call to his eternal reward Brother Harry E. Randall,

Therefore, Be it resolved, That in the death of Brother Randall, the K. of P. Lodge, No. 400, has lost a valued member, this community a good citizen and the wife a devoted husband.

Therefore, Be it Resolved, that we be urged to a more faithful discharge of our duties in exemplification of his virtues.

Be it Further Resolved, as a mark of respect and esteem to our deceased brother that our charter be draped for a period of thirty days, that these resolutions be spread on record in the minutes of our Lodge, that a copy be sent to the St. Joe News for publication and a copy sent to the bereaved family, to whom we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

Committee:
Walter S. Erwin,
Donald J. Kinesy,
Roy Wade.

Pam North Looks Quizzical

That quizzical look in Alice Frost's blue eyes means she is wondering what kind of tangle she will be called upon to unravel in the next episode of NBC's "Mr. and Mrs. North." She plays the whimiscal Pam North who hides shrewd talent for deduction under a fluffy manner with which she fools suspects. WLW, Wednesdays, 7:00 P. M., CWT.

With rationing, kitchen work won't be so heavy for the wives during hot summer months.

Farmers better watch out, for if they get too prosperous some commitee is apt to start investigating them.

Some magazines publish better ads than they do stories.

There isn't any intelligence test on the radio, that can hold a candle to the test of matrimony for answers.

According to a News reader, we used to consider the Mediterranean as somewhat of a pond.

On thing about not having a vacation this summer, you won't go through the peeling process after the burn.

We can go through almost any kind of trouble here in St. Joe as long as we can look forward to corn-on-the-cob.

A News subscriber wonders how the natives of summer resorts are going to weather next winter if they haven't as many tourists this year.

They often say we were all born with equal chances, but one might add that along comes marriage and changes our status.

It may not be worth talking about but you can be sure some song writer will think it good material, if what the radio brings us is an indication.

Don't forget that the fly you fail to kill in your home now, is going to be the pappy of a mighty large family by next August.

NO STOPPING THEM

Daily we come into new fields for the women to conquer. We have a woman's unit of about 60,000 city and town women in the U. S. Crop Corps which has been set up as a migratory land army to meet the food crises. There will be jobs for short-time emergency work on farms and for all-year. In the latter case women will receive training in agriculture in collges. In England women have for many years studied in horticultural colleges and learned fully fruit, flower and vegetable culture, plowing, driving tractors, felling trees. The future in this is the same as some instances here in America, as editors of gardening publications, research workers in agricultural laboratories, but are also employed by their government as county agents or county advisers. Many schools of England have long had their gardens where classes experimented in farming, children taught to help on farms and to learn about flower gardening. After the war we will find many women pursuing this course of horticulture in its many branches.

CHILDREN FIRST

The subject of Children's Day brings up the thought of the different ways folks in St. Joe raise children. Some youngsters go unrestrained in order to let them develop character and assert their individuality, some parents explain. Surely though there still remains the necessary method some place along the line, of developing character and restraint. Developing their own resources and standing on their own feet is necessary, but childish feet slip and how splendid that when very young there are parents there to guide and steer. Later on when man's estate demands they work those problems for themselves, they will have had this early training for it. Children need to be shown and it doesn't kill initiative or detract from ambition but being impressionable they will be benefitted by the loving control.

MAD HATTERS?

Each year we think we have seen everything in the way of hats but again this season we are wordless in amazement. Men don't change their hats much from felt to straw and from plain hat band to faintly figured silk or maybe just a wee little feather. But look at what the women are doing with their headgear this spring if you want a change in scenery. There are those things they call snoods that hang to the shoulders and are like big nets, now they are fastening them full of flowers and bows. Look at the skull caps with enormous bunches of flowers or birds perched on the top to sway and nod and even almost chirp, behind the lady's pompadour. And the veils are loose and full and flowing or tied in big bows and caught tightly under the chin. But our ladies, God bless 'em, are still as pretty as a picture.

S. O. S. CLIPPER

Cast: Ralph Byrd, Carol Hughes, and others.

While awaiting the arrival at Puerto Nova of the Carribbean Cruiser to which he has been assigned as purser, Tony Bronson meets Ann Howard and Peggy Morton, stranded American show girls who are going back to the States on the Clipper plane. Tony escorts Ann about the tropical island and they soon fall in love. In addition to the two girls and Halsey, newspaper correspondent friend of Peggy, the passengers boarding the Clipper include Professor Carter, a bedridden invalid, his male nurse and a few companions. With the passengers bedded for the night, Carter steps out of his wheel-chair to become the leader of a band of hi-jackers who take over the plane. The crew is locked in the plane's anchor room with the exception of Tony who is kept with the passengers. Realizing that they cannot escape without a gun, Ann flirts with one of the gang. He tries to kiss her, and as the two are struggling, Tony removes the hinges from the door of his compartment and jumps on the man. Taking a desperate chance, Tony dives from the ship, which has been grounded off a small island to await the arrival of the gang's plane, and swims to a position abreast of the anchor room. He is able to gain entry and free the crew members. The situation well in hand, Tony resumes his romance with Ann and Peggy decides to end the courtship of over a year by marrying Halsey.

but that's what makes

BLACK MARKETS

Think hard.

Can you honestly say you never misused a single small ration stamp?

It's such a little thing to do — carelessly. It seems so unimportant.

Yet it takes only a single innocent offense, repeated by many others just like you, to mount up into a great national menace.

Black Markets can get their start in what seems the most innocent way—through honest, patriotic people like you who wouldn't do one thing to handicap the war effort.

—people who don't even realize they are misusing their rationing books, or violating the rationing rules.

The farmer who kills his own meat—as he is entitled to—and sends his extra red stamps to a relative in town.

The woman who has guests coming for dinner, finds herself short on stamps, and begs her grocer to help her out.

The man who returns the garageman's friendly services by handing him a few loose gas coupons.

Multiply one innocent violation by all the innocent, careless violators and we'll be a nation of cheaters—and starvers.

Take only a little that isn't yours . . . and, together, you take all!

—If you want to keep your skirts clean of any Black Market transactions, do these three things

1. Make no purchase of rationed goods without surrendering the correct amount of ration points.
2. Obtain no rationed goods, to which you are not entitled, on someone else's ration stamps.
3. Pay no more than ceiling prices.

FARMING FOR FREEDOM

THIS is a Battlefield.

Fantastic but true . . . this peaceful, inspiring scene with marching transmission poles and wires and the Farmer with the will to do, come hell or high water—this is where battles are won.

One of the main contributing factors in the collapse of Germany in World War I was the lack of food. People everywhere are coming swiftly to the realization that food production is as important as munitions production in our fight for freedom.

This Company—your Electric Company—is doing and will continue to do its utmost to aid the farmer in the stupendous task of feeding the united nations.

TODAY I want to warn you against carelessly leaving insecticides around the home. Gardeners should remember that these are poisons. Handle insecticide packages so that they cannot spill around foodstuffs or kitchenware. Keep them in a secure place where children or pets can't get at them.

Here's another important point to remember. All vegetables, on which poisons have been used, should be thoroughly washed before being used in the kitchen. Poisonous insecticides are safely used on a mass scale year after year by large commercial growers. But the beginner should never forget to respect them for what they are, poisons.

Here's a little note for you poultry raisers. Wettable sulfur has proved an effective control for mites and lice on chickens. You can dust it over fresh litter on the floor, and into the cracks and crevices around the nests, roosts and perches. In moving around, the birds get the dust into their feathers, killing the pests. Two pounds of wettable sulfur will take care of 100 square feet of floor space, so you can see this method is very cheap. Our friend, W. R. Whitfield, Iowa State College extension poultry specialist, says that ordinary flowers of sulfur is not suitable for the job.

Until next time, lots of good luck everybody.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

Walter Whitehurst American Legion Post Auxiliary No. 283, St. Joe, Ind.

Regular meetings each 4th Tuesday of each month.

There will be other Junes, but this year "June" is grim and determined.

Cabbages, not nasturtiums are planted in garden rows.

Landing barges, not pleasure yachts, are at the sea beaches.

There are those planes of death in clear, blue skies, not the wings of life-giving commerce.

Guns of war echoes from the foreign soils across the sea.

Our boys are over there. We shiver although it is June.

Our busy hands are developing ideals of patriotic service in minds and hearts. Our lessons so necessary in peace as well as war, lessons of secrifice for America.

June 14 is Flag Day. Let every home of the brave, display a flag June 14.

TARZAN'S REVENGE

Running Time: 70 minutes
Cast: Glenn Morris, Eleanor Holm, George Barbier, Henry Gordon, Hedda Hopper, Geo. Meeker, Corbet Meeker, Joseph Sawyer, John Lester Johnson.

TARZAN calls! And the jungle roars with new thrills, fierce tribes charge in battle, hundrds of wild animals fight for their king and a glamorous girl answers the call of love in Tarzan's Revenge. The story of how the mighty lord of the jungle is aroused by a simple primitive desire to protect an American hunting party from the perils of the African forests and how the very beasts they set out to trap are rallied to the rescue of the woman Tarzan loves.

As the story opens a safari of white travelers, bent on securing rare animal specimens, plunges into the depths of the jungle, and it is here that Miss Holm first becomes acquainted with Tarzan. Their friendship ripens as Tarzan stealthily follows in the tree tops to protect the safari from attacks by his wild companions of the jungle.

The story reaches a climax of thrilling activity when the girl is kidnapped by warriors of the native chieftain. When Eleanor Holm, famous swimming champion, swam to safety among a pool full of crocodiles, there was none who could swim faster or more capably under those conditions than Eleanor herself, when Glenn Morris, acclaimed as America's greatest athlete in the Olympics had to swing Eleanor under his arm and leap out of danger in the perfect Tarzan manner, Morris was the only one able to do it. Tarzan's Revenge sets new standards in the field of African adventure drama, and brings to the screen the perfect Tarzan and his perfect mate.

POINT CHANGES ARE ANNOUNCED

The Office of Price Administration announces the new point values effective last Sunday for canned and bottled processed foods, soups, frozen and dried fruits and vegetables.

Only a few changes appeared in the new list as compared with the list which it supercedes.

Among the changes in the processed food point values was the cutting in half of the values of tomato juices and vegetable juice combinations containing 70 per cent tomato juice. Old value of a No. 2 can, for example, was 6 points; new value is 3.

In another change, frozen corn-on-the-cob was placed at 1-point-an-ear rather than 4 points a 10 to 12-ounce package.

Changes indicate that an item has become scarcer if the value rises and more ample if it becomes less in point value. The minor changes this week, reflect a stability in the availability of most of the processed items.

ERROR IN FILING APPLICATION FOR SUGAR

H. L. Brown of the local O. P. A. office says that, the applications for canning sugar are now being filed with the board at the Court House and that forty percent of the applications can not be filled out because the applicant does not follow the instructions for filling out the application.

Mr. Brown says that if the application is mailed or left at the office it must have a self addressed and stamped envelope in order that the coupons may be mailed back to the applicant.

The application has a place for the name and address of the applicant and the serial numbers of the War Ration Book One of each member of the family. The questions numbered five, six and seven, should be answered and the application signed by the applicant. It is also necessary that the War Ration Books One be sent along with the application. These will be returned with the coupons issued to the applicant. A careful filling out of the application will save the applicant and the board extra time and trouble. Carelessness in filling out these applications and other applications as well, consumes the time of the board and the volunteer workers.

GET-TOGETHER 4-H CLUB

The Get-Together 4-H Club met at the school house in St. Joe, June 2, at 2:00 P. M. The meeting was called to order by the president, Doris Trenary. The president asked the secretary, Maxine Converse, to read the roll call. The roll call was read and responded to by giving your favorite color. There were 28 members present. The secretary's report was read and approved as read.

The president brought up the business of having our next club meeting a week early because 4-H Roundup is to be held on the date of our regular meeting. A motion was made and carried that our meeting be held on June 9.

Due to the absence of our song leader, Jane Bragg, the song session was led by our adult leader Miss Helen Carey. We sang several songs, "Seeing Nellie Home," "A Song of the Open Country," and "4-H Pep Song." At the close of the singing, our recreation leader, Pat Carpenter, took charge of the meeting. The recreational period was held out-of-doors on the school grounds.

Three demonstrations were given: Pat Carpenter, "Baking an Angel-Food Cake;" Jean Billow, "Patterns;" Joan Trenary, "Potato and Egg Salad."

Refreshments were served by Doris Trenary, Leona Drake Marilyn Wade, and Nancy Monroe, consisting of cold chokolate, sandwiches, and cookies. Demonstrations for next meeting are: Doris Trenary, "Canning;" Joan Curie, "Hems;" Jane Bragg, "Centerpieces."

Refreshments will be served at the next meeting by Joan Trenary, Jo Bowser, Sally Wade, and Betty Larowe.

ASKS FRIENDS TO HEAR SALUTE TO THE NEWS

A letter just received from Emmons C. Carlson, promotion manager of WMAQ, Chicago, has the following to say to your local editor, and we ask that our readers avail themselves of this broadcast. The letter follows:

"We enjoyed reading your publication in which you used our syndicated column, "Town and Farm" by Everett Mitchell and hope that this timely message is being read and enjoyed by your readers.

"Mr. Mitchell will be glad to salute you and the St. Joe News during the broadcasting of his program, "Town and Farm," 6:15-6:45 A. M. on Thursday, June 24th.

"No doubt your readers and friends would enjoy hearing this salute and that you are to be honored by the largest and most popular radio station in this area."

MORTUARY

Mrs. Eva Chandler, 61, of Hobart, died in the Methodist Hospital at Gary on Thursday evening of last week following a stroke in the morning, and after an illness of several years. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Belle Ridgway, of St. Joe, two sisters, Mrs. Deama Curie, of Kendallville, Ind., and Mrs. Olive Frye, of Hobart; three brothers, George Ridgway of Valparaiso, and Derwood Ridgway and Floyd Ridgway, of St. Joe. Her husband died in December last, following only a few days illness.

The funeral services were held Saturday at 3:30 from Pflughoeft's Chapel at Hobart, with her pastor, Rev. C. H. Hanson, officiating, and burial was made in Mosier Cemetery.

Mrs. Chandler was one of the first telephone operators in St. Joe, working for Sol and Merritt Barney, John May and John Reinoehl. She had lived at Hobart for thirty years, where she followed the same occupation for twenty years, and had been married for twenty-seven years.

St. Joe friends of the family all extend their sympathy.

AUTO USE STAMPS AVAILABLE THURSDAY

Collector of Internal Revenue, Will H. Smith, announced today that auto use tax stamps in the denomination of $5.00 will be placed on sale in all postoffices and at the Internal Revenue Offices in Indianapolis, Lawrenceburg, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Gary, Terre Haute and South Bend, on Thursday, June 10.

Mr. Smith said that, to guard against loss or theft, it has been suggested that, when affixing the stamps, the vehicle owner should dampen the windshield rather than the adhesive side of stamp. This method has been recommended to keep the stamp intact upon the windshield. As an additional precaution, it has also been suggested that each motor vehicle owner should make a record of the serial number which appears on the use tax stamp in order that there may be some means of identification in connection with gasoline rationing in the event the stamp should become lost.

Every owner of a motor vehicle which is used upon the highways should call at his local postoffice or at the office of the Internal Revenue Collector and secure a $5.00 use tax stamp and affix it to his vehicle on or before July 1, 1943, the Collector said. The various postoffices will sell the stamps over the counter for cash only and no mail order business with respect thereto will be conducted by the postoffices. Collctors of Internal Revenue are authorized to accept cash, postoffice money orders, and certified checks in payment of the use tax stamp. However, as revenue stamps have an intrinsic value, uncertified checks will not be acceptable in payment therefor.

The stamp must be placed in the lower corner of the windshield farthest removed from the driver's position.

NO LETTING UP

Our routing of the enemy in certain battle areas is heartening to every one in St. Joe, as it is the proof that after long months of preparation we are progressing in the fight with a definite advance. The indirect part we played in many branches of defense work was a warming up for the important role to come. We are actively participating in the actual business of war on each front, carrying the fury to the door of the enemy. We suffered reverses which taught us lessons not too late and which pointed out the danger that COULD happen here. We took our Pearl Harbor and Wake Island and through these sad experiences gained wisdom at the cost of precious lives. It was a sore challenge to strength of character and courage and national morale, but now we are on our way! North Africa paved the way. We do not intend to slow down we are planning for what is ahead. To taste of victory, remember, is not to participate in a full meal—we have had a taste. This must not make us overly confident and feel that the end is in sight, the war as good as won and victory at hand. Council has warned us otherwise and all of us know that we can't let up for one instant. To relax one minute in the united defense effort might lead to disaster. The idea is to keep production going with more determination and to press the fight the harder. Yes, we ARE gaining, we ARE moving forward, we ARE on the way.

JUNE BRIDES

In wartime all months of the calendar might be called months of brides which rather detracts from the fame of June, who has held this title as her right. June will still be chosen by young women in St. Joe and Spencerville as their choice for assuming this new responsibility of becoming a matron is quite a jump and especially for the very youthful but so has nature determined this step as she plans our destiny in its course. Spring and June, mating and blossoms, homemaking and economy, dreaming and goals, all facing a bride as she pronounces her vows. Life is asking more of a war bride than if her marriage bower were not clouded by stormy war skies, if the sun didn't shine so brightly on military brass buttons and strike high lights on swords and braid. But such is June that youthful hearts yearn and love reaches out to fulfill its instinctive need of home and family. May all our brides be blessed especially this June and may the time be not too far off when green leaves and fragrant blooms will delight love in peace.

FLAG DAY IN ST. JOE

June 14, 1777, Congress mads this flag, recently constructed in design by a lady named Betsy Ross, the official emblem of our country. Since that time we have observed June 14 as the nation's Flag Day. President Roosevelt has asked that this year we fly the Stars and Stripes with the flags of the United Nations, to make it a symbol of unity since today our flag flies over foreign lands beside the ones of friendly nations fighting with us. We regard Flag Day in the light of its reflection on lives of others, not just Americans. Though the flag has always stood for glory, power, freedom and honor, to each of us these words are more pronounced today as we thrill to the banner in the breeze. To enemies those stripes of red and white, that field of blue studded with white stars, does not reflect this meaning or earn us much other than hate, but to us it more deeply signifies strength and bravery. So do other countries, our allies, herald their flags which fly in the same cause today. These lead us forward in a common bond, with a single purpose, to free this earth from an enemy who would destroy us and our banners. So as Old Glory flies side by side on the battlefield with the flags of the United Nations, we are asked to display the banner at home with the ones of our allies. As Franklin K. Lane, a true American statesman, wrote of our stars and stripes, this message of his holds for every flag of every nation friend or foe. He spoke for his flag: "I am not the flag; not at all. I am but its shadow. It am whatever you make me, nothing more. I am your belief in yourself, your dream of what a People may become. I am the day's work of the weakest man, and the largest dream of the most daring. I am the clutch of an idea, and the reasoned purpose of resolution. I am no more than you believe me to be and I am all that you believe I can be. I am whatever you make me, nothing more."

STAYING HOME?

Are you one of those who will have no vacation this year? Many folks will not have much time away from work in defense and relief and any productive labor that is tied in with the war effort. But this does not mean there are not certain beauties of nature to be found here in the country, moments of pure relaxation to be had in your own yard, when the mosquitoes go away, simple pleasures to bring renewed interest in life inside your home. Snatch a few hours of peace along some stream, treasure a few hours in the shade of a tree with a calming book. Take advantage of leisure hours instead of moaning over the loss of leisure weeks or months that used to be.

CONSIDER HIM

In the trend of complaining of food cost, produce limitations, black markets, coupon difficulties, we sort of forget a person who needs consideration in all of his regimentation and who seldom gets anything but a sigh of impatience for all his troubles. That's the fellow in the neighborhood grocery store who stands back of the counter with more worries over coupons, supplies, markets and prices than you have. He will tell you that he is having his troubles and he is probably right when he says there are more to come. When we step to the counter and grumble because there isn't any of this, wondr why a shortage of that question price, seek point answers, remember that his headache is worse than yours and he isn't any happier because he can't carry on 'business as usual' than you are.

GARDENER'S NIGHTMARE

The victory gardener is in the process of de-weeding same, trying to separate radishs, onions, tomatoes from the vile green things that always do better in a vegetable bed than amidst flowers! In Ohio soil 968 kinds of weeds and weed seeds thrive, but maybe around St. Joe conditions won't be so conducive for luxurious growth to warrant a hardy crop of them. It is well for the innocent gardener to become acquainted with the more virile types of weeds and be prepared to attack as they defiantly poke their evil heads among the peas and beans. An unsuspecting gardener may be fooled by some of the innocent weeds and think his cucumbers and corn are beginning to take hold nicely. Since weeds cost this country three billion dollars a year, maybe he better get educated.

To God Almighty I give thanks for that guidance which has brought us to this success in our great crusade. His is the honor, the power and the glory forever. Amen.

Meet the unsung heroes who save America

IN England's first two years of war, the enemy destroyed $400,000,000 worth of property. In America—untouched by war—an equal amount was saved—only by the work of men whose names you never heard! By members of a civilian army maintained by America's Capital Stock fire insurance companies at their own expense!

Thousands of lives—family treasures money cannot replace—jobs and industries vital to victory—all are saved year after year by this army of fire prevention experts who devote their lives to stopping fire before it starts.

And the savings resulting from this constant work have been passed on to the nation and to you in lowered cost of fire insurance.

Let us give you the extra protection of this kind of insurance that not only pays fire losses, but helps keep fires from starting.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

The prices we pay for foods are more generally and forcibly brought to our attention than almost any other items in the cost of living. Even among farmers — the nation's food producers—there are very few who raise every bit of food their families consume, nor do they always consume what they raise in its final processed form. They must buy flour, sugar and salt, tea and coffee, spices, and many other items. Food prices, therefore, are of vital concern to almost everyone in the country.

In the program to hold the line in living costs, the prices of certain foods are being "rolled back" or lowered to the price levels prevailng some months ago. A roll-back averaging about 7 per cent in the ceiling prices of potatoes to consumers has been announced, and on June 10 the fixed retail price of butter will be reduced about 10 per cent. Prices for meats and coffee also are scheduled for reduction.

While it is not practical to apply this method of cutting back prices to all foods, community-wide ceilings for the principal foods in the housewife's market basket have been issued for shopping centers throughout the country through 138 community pricing orders. Although food prices of the major staple items are thus held to the reasonable levels, retailers and wholesalers will continue to enjoy the most favorable economic position on record.

By energetic price control we have done much better in keeping down living costs in this war than we did in the last one. Between August, 1939 and March, 1943, for example, the cost of living has risen 25 per cent, compared with 41 per cent during the same period of the last war. In this respect we have done better than Great Britain and not quite as well as our neighbor, Canada.

Consumers can assist the price control program by comparing store prices with the published ceiling prices for the area in which they live and reporting violations. Red or blue point ration stamps which have not been used during the ration period should never be given to storekeepers for any reason whatever. Such stamps may still be good for purchases and sales in trade channels and therefore can easily find their way into black market transactions. All unused ration stamps should be destroyed by the owner at the end of each ration period.

Victory gardeners in Indiana, whose gardens have been ruined by excessive rains, should replant their gardens in crops appropriate to the normal season of the year, such as tomatoes, snap beans, lima beans, swiss chard, summer squash, peppers, eggplant, sweet corn, and sweet potatoes. Cool weather crops, usually planted earlier in the spring, do well if planted now. Most of these crops may be planted later on for a fall crop.

COLORED BOY MOLESTS SPENCERVILLE GIRL

Pleading guilty to a charge to assault and battery with intent to commit a felony, LeRoy Johnson, 17, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., Wednesday of last week, was sentenced in the DeKalb Circuit Court to serve eight months at the Indiana state farm.

Johnson admitted that on the night of May 22 he and a 13-year-old St. Joe boy molested a 13-year-old girl. The latter and her little brother were on their way home when Johnson and the other boy seized her and threw her to the ground. She screamed and her assailants fled.

Johnson is part Indian and part Negro and had been working on the Wabash section at Spencerville, living in a railroad bunk car. He left after the incident with the girl, but returned and was arrested last Sunday by Deputy Sheriff Frank E. Carpenter.

The 13-year-old boy will have his case handled in juvenile court later, after investigation has been completed by the juvenile officer.

'. . . For Amber Waves of Grain'

As if joining in the observance of Flag day, these shocks of grain, country roads and wide-cut swaths form a replica of the American flag in this composite picture of a peaceful countryside. The flag symbolizes the patriotic efforts of American farmers to wage their own war against the Axis by increasing production in 1943. Their combined efforts to grow the biggest crop in the nation's history will have an overwhelming influence on the conduct of the war. Theirs is the doubly difficult task of feeding and clothing our own fighting forces and civilians and helping to care for our United Nations allies.

BY EVERETT MITCHELL
Farm Commentator, Heard Daily 6:15-6:45 am on WMAQ—670 on your dial

TODAY I would like to pass on a few tips on tomato gardening which came to my mind while working this morning in my garden setting in tomato plants.

As they grow, if you do not wish to stake your tomato plants, some nice clean mulching material like straw or dried grass, will keep the growing tomatoes off the soil and mean less spoiled fruit. But if you're saving ground area by using stakes, have them in by the time the plants begin to branch. Stakes can be made of anything that is sturdy. Each should be five or six feet long and drive each stake a foot or so into the ground.

Next on the tomato schedule will be the job of pruning the plant so it will develop a single main stem. Pinch out side shoots as they appear in the fork where the large leaves join the stem. Don't take off the leaves themselves, and don't pinch off the top of the plant. When you tie the plant to the stake, use cloth strips so as not to injure the stem. Be careful not to damage your plants by pulling the stems too close to the stake. As the plant continues to grow, make additional ties about every foot and a half, or even closer, if the top of the plant begins to topple.

By the way, several friends have found that the rabbits are helping themselves to the newly arrived vegetable shoots. I have found that sulfur, scattered along the rows and even on the favored plants, will repel the furry visitors. If the bunnies become too numerous ask the advice of your local game warden or conservation officer.

Until next time, remember, who backs and arms ache and the garden lug gets tough, keep your chin up—you'll be winter all summer!

READ the home towns of a typical bomber team, around the rim of the picture above. Here are United States in action. Here's a real All-American team!

Not just because of geography, either. You've got to be good to play on this team. Competition is tough. You're on your own. Pull won't help. Only brains, ability and energy can make you the boss of a bomber.

That's the way the Air Force works—and the way America works. That's one thing we're all fighting for—the right to live our own lives—the opportunity to work, save and get ahead.

That system made America strong. It encouraged invention and research. It built the big industries that are arming the United Nations for victory. It created the electric companies under business management that power most of America's war plants and produce for more electricity than any nation has ever known before!

Dear Mr. Leighty:

While I am at the job of sending my address to other papers and magazines, you all are at the head of the list.

Even though I have been in here for the past two weeks, I have gotten the papers sent on up here to me.

We came up here the twenty-sixth of May, and are here for about a period of three months. This is more or less the toughening up for the fall maneuvers.

The tent city which we are in is four miles out of Camp Forrest, and about eight miles from Tullahoma. Its location as far as being situated close to towns is the best I have seen.

We have been walking in three inches of dust, which is every place, until today when we were practically washed away with a downpour of rain. It surely was welcomed, but we are really walking now in Tennessee mud.

The bathing and conveniences of a camp are not to be found here. However, we all cope with the situation very good. We usually get down to the creek for a mud bath once a day.

The candle with which I am writing by, is about to burn out so that means time for taps. I must close for tonight.

Keep the papers rolling as the news from home helps to keep the spirits up in camp.

Sincerely

Pvt. R. E. Lanum—A. S. N. 35343076, Headquarters Co., 120th Inf. A. P. O. No. 30, % Postmaster, Nashville, Tenn. No. 2.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

Walter Whitehurst American Legion Post Auxiliary No. 283, St. Joe, Ind.

Regular meetings each 4th Tuesday of each month.

June 22 at 8:00 at the American Legion Post Headquarters, K. of P. Hall.

With another glorious "Poppy Day" to chalk up for history we are coming to the close of a successful year.

I personally can proudly say "a job well done, on Poppy Day."

Those who have not turned in their Poppy sales money—Please see that the treasurer, Louise Sechler, gets same or bring to above stated meeting.

Our local Auxiliary was called upon to make possible the monthly treat for our veterans and families who are in hospitals. In the month of June, twenty-four patients, veterans and families, who are patients at Irene Byron Sanitorium, were remembered by Auxiliary of St. Joe. For the month of July, St. Joe Auxiliary will send treats to Knightstown Home.

District meeting held in Fort Wayne, July 8, 1:30 P. M. Post No. 47. Plan to attend.

Josephine Kees, Pres.

The LIONS CLUB

The Lions Club held their regular meeting Monday evening at the Akins Tea Room. Lions Rectenwall, Laub and Ridgway made brief reports on the most absurd rumors they had heard about the war.

Business of the evening was mainly the election of officers for the coming year. Also plans were made for the meeting on June 28 to be held in the Lutheran Church basement at St. Joe. This meeting was designated as Ladies night at which the Lionesses will be present.

Mr. H. L. Conant, of Elkhart, representing the Sales Department of the Indiana and Michigan Electric Co., spoke to the group on the "Source of Electric Power." He reviewed briefly the development of the Indiana and Michigan Electric Company, which serves our community and has local branch at Butler.

The Company was first started in South Bend and vicinity by Chapin Bros., shortly after 1900. The Company was first made up of small municipal and private owned hydro and steam operated plants linked together by transmission lines to assure each community of continuous services in case of the failure of any one plant.

Under the management of Mr. Bryan in the early twenties, the Company bought the Benton Harbor plant, and built the new steam pressure plant at Mishawaka, introducing the new principle of steam electric generation. The latter being put in operation in 1925. The new plant at the time of its completion was considered the best plant in the entire country. The efficiency of the steam pressure generation is born out by the fact that in 1904 it took an average of 7½ pounds of coal to produce one K. W. Hr. while the Mishawaka plant produces one K. W. Hr. from 1¾ pounds of coal.

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Conant extended an invitation to the local Lions to visit the Mishawaka plant after the duration.

Pretty soon even a Philadelphia lawyer won't be able to figure his own income taxes, let alone aid his clients. Congress, its committees, and President Roosevelt seem determined that no simple plan of income tax should be enacted into law. The busier people are, the more time the government manages to snare from them in red tape figuring.

Final reports of the American Legion war bond compaign in DeKalb County for the month of May show sales of $161,625, nearly double the quota of $88,750 assigned. The campaign during the month was in charge of the American Legion Posts in DeKalb County Credit for "E" bond sales purchased by B. & O. employes during the month as a direct result of solicitation from members of the Legion has resulted in an increase of $42,625 in the previous announced total sales.

Asking a judgment for possession of real estate at St. Joe and damages of $100, Argyl Richmond and Winnifred Richmond filed suit Saturday in the DeKalb Circuit Court against James C. Collins and Dorothy M. Collins, charging that on April 24, a contract for sale of the property was made, the property to be delivered May 24. They said that the defendants had not given them possession of the real estate. The attorney for the plaintiffs is Henry C. Springer of Butler.

INTERNATIONAL SPY

International Spy (Federal Fugitives, 35mm name) tells the story of how a notorious and skillful foreign agent, believed to be dead, arises from his suppoesd grave to attempt to gain control of a new plastic fighter plane, which the officials, in the hurly-burly of feverish activity have rejected. But the foreign agent reckons not with the U. S. Army intelligence service, the secret service of the military forces, which, finally, after many exciting escapades, outwits the treacherous agent, who, for good this time is put out of the way. Mixing a dash of romance and a generous bit of comedy as the story unfolds Americans see a noteworthy attempt by the movie-makers to warn all of us to beware of those who would sell our sacred heritage. International Spy tells how the Intelligence Department of the Army copes with these traitors and besides instructing, proves to be entertainment of the highest order. International Spy is excellent drama and film-fare for the entire community. You won't forget it for a long tome to come.

AGRICULTURE 4-H CLUB

The Get-Together 4-H Club met at St. Joe, June 9, at 2:00 P. M. The meeting was called to order by the president, Doris Trenary. The entire club stood and repeated in unison the 4-H Pledge. The secretary then read the roll. There were 25 members present.

During the business meeting, we discussed having a 4-H picnic. Everyone was in favor of having a picnic, so the president appointed a committee to plan where we should have it. The committee appointed was Phyllis Mendenhall, Marjorie Bleeks, and Luella Washler. Songs, which were sung during the meeting were "4-H Pep Song," "Dreaming," and "Little Sir Echo."

Joan Curie presented a demonstration on "Hems." Two other demonstrations were to be given, but they were not prepared. Refreshments were served by Joan Trenary, Jo Bowser, Sally Wade, and Betty Larowe.

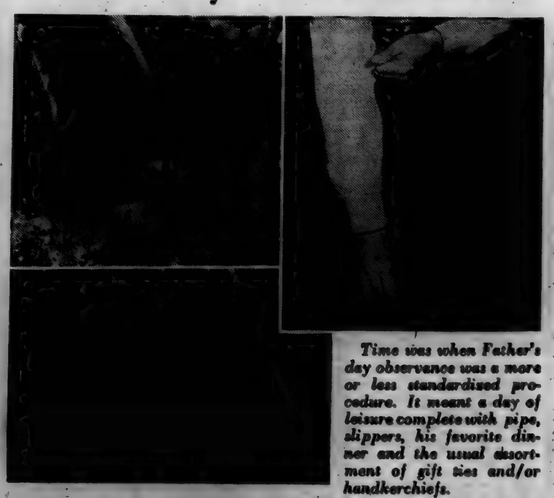
TO FATHER

He will act nonchalant and maybe a bit unappreciative when you remind him that next Sunday is HIS day. He'll probably mention that it is a lot of foolishness and the scheme of somebody to sell something. Let him suffer for in his heart he really likes the concern. Don't tell us that any Father would not cherish a note from a son or daughter away from home that reads, "Here is to you, Dad! Thanks for making it possible for me to be a member of this family, to have Mother, to know that you are for me and with me always." Sure he would love it. We joke a lot about Father's Day, not keeping the occasion as solemn and sentimental as Mother's. It isn't disrespect but because Fathers hate fuss and emotional display, as a rule. But no man is immune to heart-felt compliments and deeply rooted respect from his family and it sounds good to him when they tell him so. The name of Father alone withstands jests and ribs, wisecracks and general kidding. He may be the breadwinner, the fellow who pays the bills, the other half and so on, but over all of this he is distinguished for one reason if no other—he is Father. He started being your ideal when he built you boats and slingshots and kites. He worked at his business to provide for family needs, to save for educations and vacations that he didn't have at your age. When you link the name of Father with the one of Mother, you have a combination that is unbeatable. Here in St. Joe and Spencerville we gladly devote one day a year to reminding Fathers of our pride in them. We feel this way about them every day of the year.

SERVICE MAGAZINE HAS STRANGE ADMIRERS—A copy of "Yank", the American Army weekly, found its way to the distant Fiji Islands. Here a Fijian chief and his family view its pictures with interest ranging from the patriarch's critical study to outright amusement among the younger members of the group.

Father's Day—and Father's Job



Time was when Father's day observance was a more or less standardized procedure. It meant a day of leisure complete with pipe, slippers, his favorite dinner and the usual assortment of gift ties and/or handkerchiefs.

Times have changed. This year, when father has his annual day of homage on June 20, he probably will spend it following up on his early spring Victory Garden plantings. He will be getting healthful exercise combatting weeds and bugs in his Victory Garden. Too, those follow-up plantings of vegetables mean a continuous supply of garden fresh food. And father, with an eye on his pocketbook, is willing to exchange his day of rest for a few hours profitably spent in his garden.

A constitutional amendment to limit the Presidency to two elective terms is proposed in a resolution (S. J. Res. 65) introduced by Senator Josiah J. Bailey of North Carolina. The amendment would require ratification by three-fourths of the states within seven years.

If Uncle Sam were an individual instead of a symbol, he would say to the bureaucrats and their retinues of long-haired professors: "Who, ladies and gentlemen, gave you the authority to use that word 'directive' on my children? Haven't you yet learned that the United States is a government of the people, by the people, for the people? I'm warning you—if you don't stop using that word 'directive' my children will snatch it from your vocabulary and use it on you. Then you will see what directives really are.

Of all the directives that have come out of the bureaus, this one should be framed and placed in the Smithsonian Institute. To save lumber. the length of caskets is ordered cut to 6 ft. 3 in., the width 22 inches, and the depth 17 inches. This directive has the Congressmen worried. Some of them are 6 feet 4 inches, and others have an amazing girth. The bureaucrats have meddled with the lives of the American people for too long a time. Now they are reaching out and telling us how we shall be buried. Evidently they mean what they say about this cradle-to-the-grave business.

EVERYBODY'S HEADACHE

Weeds, dad-burn 'em! And that is what most Dads are busily doing at this season. We can neglect a number of things here around St. Joe but this weed business is not one of them, at least not without some unpleasant after effects. Overlook certain improvements around the property, around the town but where weeds are permitted to flourish we are issuing on invitation to discomfort and disease. Realize that weeds are breeding spots for flies and mosquitoes and that along with them generally you will find pools of stagnant water that breed fever in its surface. Busy with gardens this year the No. 1 back-breaking rule that accompanies the art of victorious gardening and which no enthusiast can ignore, is to take the weed problem into his reckoning. Get them early before they take the place.

FISHING FOR DEAR LIFE

That favorite sport, fishing, has gone to war! The Medical and Surgical Relief Committee of America makes an appeal for the salvaging of fishing tackle. Recall the crews of torpedoed ships that managed to survive by catching fish from their life rafts? Fish contain an amount of water which has been wrung from the meat and given drink to the shipwrecked men. This committee is enclosing a simple fishing kit with its outfit of necessary drugs and emergency surgical instruments. They are supplying Coast Guard patrol boats and Navy subchasers. You might look over your fishing tackle and sort lines, hooks, sinkers, prepared bait, wooden-handled knives. Some of that unused equipment might save some American boy's life, boys who aren't fishing just for fun.

A SORE SUBJECT

If there is one topic that causes temper from many a citizen, it is the one of strikes. This subject is almost unavoidable when a group starts in on current events. Conversation waxes warm over some group of employees who are stopping work until their demands are met. Sometimes these are imagined and uncalled for and you can't blame the public for doing some exclaiming since justifiable claims are often covered by the actions of some strikers over minor complaints which should be adjusted without fanfare. Matters should be peacefully settled and never allowed to reach the stage of stopping work and jeopardizing the lives of one or one thousand men on our fighting fronts. We heard a local man remark that we would be in a fine fix if "big brains" would call a halt. He mentioned the Rockefeller Foundation, Mayo Clinic, the Henry Fords, engineers, writers, surgeons, scientists, chemists. Many of them can show that as far as money is concerned they are underpaid. They spend long hours of research and are not named in the time and a half for overtime class. Certainly they can prove that having a talent for inventiveness, for genius in many cases, for superior intellect, does not mean labor is easy and their manner of living higher in standard than many other types of workers. They are not organized though perhaps your union member would remark that they would be more intelligent if they did! In most such cases the individual seems to be considering benefiting others than themselves with their skill and knowledge. As a rule they are spending their time and education trying to improve the living standard of their fellows.

GOING UP

In almost every section of the country farm land has shown an increase in sales during the past winter and spring. When the products from your farm increase in price, the value of farm land increases accordingly. Folks want to make hay. The last war taught some a sad lesson who had bought heavily in land and mortgaged farms to buy more acreage. There was that business of inflation and then the usual aftermath-depression. Of course there were some farmrs who held on and managed to clear the debt, raise crops, come clear again. But this was not the case of the majority and so well do some people remember the taste of those bitter fruits of boom farm land price. We are believed to be smarter today, that we have learned our lesson and won't be found caught short a second time. They say lightning doesn't strike twice in the same place, but they don't say that lightning doesn't strike.

"THEY'RE ALL IN THE ARMY NOW"

IN whatever branch of our Armed Forces our employees may be, on the land, on the sea and in the air, or if they are engaged in the essential war work of this War Industry they are serving their country well.

For this is truly a War Industry—Electricity is the "prime mover" of production in every field—in Industry where it turns the wheels—in Food, where it helps produce and conserve and process—in practically every phase of the American way.

We in this Company are equally proud of our associates now serving in various theaters of War and of those who patriotically give of their best and untiring efforts to the essential industry of producing and distributing electricity . . . the Power behind the Power to Produce.

This Company employs 1034 people, men and women. More than 140 of our employees are now in the Armed Forces.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Farmers will be assisted in their program of increased food production through a new plan put into effect by the Office of Civilian Requirements, which will assure a supply of 144 important farm items, most of them the smaller hand tools and hardware. Of the various items—ranging from augur bits and cold chisels to well casings and wagon hardware—66 are treated on an emergncy basis as things most urgently needed by farmers.

A farmer may buy up to $25 worth of any of the items on the list by presenting to a dealer a signed certificate which states that the applicant for the purchase is a bona fide farmer and needs the supplies for the operation of his farm. He may buy more if his application is approved by his county farm rationing committee. A dealer can use the farmers' certificates to get priority on orders for farm supplies up to 75 per cent of the dollar amount of his sales, and he does not have to order the same kind of supplies as those he has sold.

Three models of pressure canners have been placed under specific dollars-and-cents ceiling prices at all levels of distribution, with retail prices to consumers ranging from $13.90 to $16.50, depending on the make and the zone of shipment. The war-model canners carry a 90-d guarantee. Any canners not carrying the guarantee must apply for a specific maximum price. The war models use a limited amount of critical materials and are recommended by the Department of Agriculture for canning meats and such vegetables as beans, peas, corn, spinach and asparagus.

A total of 275,000 pressure canners are scheduled for production in the 1943 canning season. They are being rationed through county farm rationing committees.

Heavy demand for manufactured dairy products to meet military requirements has resulted in placing evaporated milk, condensed milk, cream cheese, neufchatel, and creamed cottage cheese with more than 5 per cent butter fat on the ration list. Industrial container sizes of frozen fruits and vegetables—formerly "ration free"—have been brought under the rationing program.

The point value of tomato juice and of vegetable juice combinations containing 70 per cent or more tomato juice, has been cut in half so as to bring these products to the same point levels as most fruit juices.

All these periodic shifts and alterations in the rationing program are a necessary part of the adjustment between supply and consumer demand. A different principle is involved in a ration plan designed to encourage processors to can every ounce of fruits and vegetables possible during the canning season.

About a half million board feet of lumber will be available to farmers for essential farm repairs and construction, exclusive of farm dwellings. Essential production needs are limited to the maintenance and repair of present equipment and new construction necessary to the food production program.

Only five simple questions are asked on the form which householders and others using oil for heating and hot water will soon fill out and in applying for the next season's basic ration. The entire renewal process will be done by mail.

APPLICATIONS FOR NEW BASIC A BOOKS

1. Applications will be in the hands of all official tire inspectors on or about June 21.
2. Applicant should carefully fill out application showing tire serial numbers and car information as asked for.
3. Applicant will mail to the Local Board the application properly filled out along with the back cover of present A book properly signed and also present tire inspection sheet.
4. Do not mail in any number 6 coupons as these are good until July 21st.
5. Make an effort to get these applications in as soon after June 21st., as possible, as a force of volunteers will be on hand to assist in processing of these.
6. All applications must be in this office not later than June 30th.
7. Applications can be secured at desk of Local Rationing Board and at the official tire stations on or after June 21st.
8. Be sure application is filled out properly so that it will not be necessary to return these for corrections.

PEANUTS TO THE FORE

Time was when goobers were grown in Southern states more by accident than through careful cultivation. The peanut crop wasn't considered in the same breath as growing cotton. Through the effort of scientists and chemists, with guidance for production thru skilled hands, the farmers of the South have given peanuts their chance. Thousands of acres of peanuts have been planted and produced and used by a peanut-appreciative public. Even as far back as the First World War peanuts were used to replace meat. Today they are more widely used as substitute for meat, are nourishing, cheap, plentiful and tasty. The South has willingly added more of the crop for the growing demand. Last year they harvested a record breaking crop of [illegible] million bushels of peanuts. The 1943 goal, set by the government, is the same as last year five million acres. Through additional information achieved by chemists studying the economic good of such as soybeans and peanuts, our national food output will be increased and beneficially, with these two crops. Peanuts grow on land that produced cotton can be crushed in mills already built to crush cotton-seed, which finds it a worthy partner on the Southern farmer's crop list. The oil is essential and it is pointed out that the peanut heads the whole vegetable list in certain vitamins, so take off your hat to the one-time lowly 'goober' and place it on your menu with the respected table produce.

LOCAL FARM LABOR PLACEMENT CENTERS

According to an announcement made by Jay Olinger, DeKalb County Labor Placement Supervisor, several local arm labor centers have been established in the county. The purpose of establishing these local labor placement headquarters are to render a better service to the farmers needing the help and to make it more convenient for those interested in working on the farm to register for this work.

At Butler John Paul Price, Superintendent of the Butler Schools, has agreed to make the school headquarters for the placement of farm help. Otto Shuman at Waterloo has agreed to make his filling station the headfuarters in that community. W. S. Painter, Superintendent of the Garrett Schools has offered to make the Garrett high school headquarters for the placement of farm labor. Clyde Rectenwall at Spencerville has also agreed to act in that capacity in his community and Fred B. Leighty editor of the St. Joe News, will take care of applications for St. Joe. Mr. Olinger states that he is expecting to have other placements in Corunna and Ashley in the near future.

These local farm labor placement centers will be supplied with forms for registering farmers' requests for help and also forms for adult and children who will be available for farm help.

The farm labor needs at present are for berry pickers, hay hands, and tractor operators. For the berry picking women are very good for this type of work and it has been suggested that many women will want to help harvest this perishable commodity in order to secure berries for canning.

Strawberries are being harvested at the present time and were in full swing Monday. Most of the berries are in the vicinity of St. Joe, Spencerville and Newville. Women and teen-age children who are available for berry picking are urged to contact one of the local labor centers or the county agent's office in Auburn for assignment.

Many farmers could use tractor operators at the present time to relieve them in the rush of putting out the rest of their corn and soybeans. Very few soybeans have been planted to day, while corn planting has been progressing rapidly this past week. Some hay will be made the week of June 14 while probably if weather permits the bulk of the hay will be made the following week or two.

While some teen-age boys can be used in the hay field a great deal of haying work is too heavy for this age children. Consequently farmers will need a good many men to help out with the heavy end of the haying. A special plea is being made to factory workers who are off in the afternoons to make application for helping out in this emergency.

Mr. J. K. P. Martindale, near 98, was a recent guest of Mrs. Ralph Sechler and family, making the drive of 135 miles from Greenfield and returning the next day. He stood the trip fine and was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Orr.

Alice Marie Moore, of Newville, and Doris Mae Trenary, of Concord Township, were among the 16 girls of the county to be awarded trips to the 4-H Round-up at Lafayette this week. Club leaders from this section attending were Miss Helen Carey, vocational teacher St. Joe, and Dale Wicoff agriculture teacher.

A heavy downpour of rain visited this section Monday afternoon and in spite of the electric disturbances, and much rain, it was welcomed by nearly every one. Some farmers wanted it to hold off until they finished planting, others were ready for it, so the rain came down in torrents. Electrical disturbances were plentiful all over the territory.

Hoosiers have been asked to begin saving their used brown paper bags, corrugated boxes and other brown paper containers. They're needed to insure an adequate supply of the material necessary for the manufacture of victory containers for our armed forces. This time just the brown paper bags and corrugated boxes are needed. And the collection program is to be restricted to areas that have consuming mills for the paper. Indiana, with ten paper mills strategically located, is one of the collection states.

A plan for the conservation of mileage in the procurement of dairy products from farms located in Adams, Allen, DeKalb, Huntington, Noble, Steuben, Wells, and Whitley Counties was announced by James A. Jouders, District Manager of the ODT Office in Fort Wayne. This plan will be on file at the County Agent's Office, 324 Federal Building, Ft. Wayne, Ind., and those affected by this plan are invited to review the plan and register their objections if any within ten days after the publishing of this notice. Upon expiration of the ten-day period the plan will be submitted to the ODT office at Washington for final approval. If approved those interested will be directed to put the plan into effect.

Rectenwall Writes Parents A Double-Decker

May 27, 1943.

Dear Mom and Dad:

Finally after a rather long time of nothing to write about and also of being so busy that I didn't have much time to do so, I now find that the restrictions have been lowered somewhat and so here goes. First I am writing this in two sections, both on V mail, note number (1) in the left hand corner.

I guess perhaps you know that I landed in Oran, after that we moved on up to Souk-el-Arba. It was enroute to there that I saw so much of North Africa of which I have already described, and it was here where we really went to work as far as the actual war effort on our part was concerned. From there, we moved to Tebessa and Fariana for some time and then cruised down to Gafsa. It was here that I told you about the swimming pool sitting out in an Oasis composed of beautiful palm trees, native huts and this modern structure. The water in the pool is extremely salty and cold because it comes right out of a range of mountains and across the salt flats.

This was one of the most disagreeable spots that we were in because it is right on the edge of the desert and the wind, sand, and dust were something terrific. However, we eventually left there; it was shortly after this that I went swimming in the Mediterranean at LaCalle. At that time the water was so cold that I could hardly stand it. but since it was just beginning to get quite warm it was plenty refreshing.

I forgot to mention that Tebessa is a very old Roman town with all of the original Roman wall still standing and with a couple of temples still pretty much intact. The big ruins that so awed me were at the town of Hiadra. There isn't anything left there except a few Arabs and all these magnificent ruins. Fariana is almost the same as Hiadra except there are a few French living there and it is a railroad terminal; too Gafsa is one of the outposts of the Roman civilization and it was there that I swam in the original Roman Spas, and also that I took the Turkish bath. One of the distinguishing features of the town is the picturesque Foreign Legion fort, a massive structure made of stones that the Romans had used in the construction of some of their buildings, and could easily vision hordes of Arabs assaulting futily the defenders in the garrison.

Later we were in Beja and then Mature; I don't know just how to describe them except to say that they are small towns in the heart of very rolling mountains but extremely fertile country. They connect directly with Bizerte and Tunis. I have seen and wandered thru both of these places, and have been out to Carthage. That probably was one of the biggest disappointments that I have yet received because all that is left of it are a few, and very few at that, crumbling stones to mark the once elegant city that stood there.

One occasion saw me swimming in the Gulf of Tunis across the bay from Carthage. Tunis is another place that combines a maximum of modern with a maximum of the ancient; here one finds modern buildings, utilities, and ideas, intermingling with the ancient buildings (in the native quarter which is in the heart of the city and surrounded by a stone wall) customs and habits of the semi-orientals that contrast to French and Italians who have the modern conception of living.

I shall continue in the second sheet.

Love, Warren.

May 27, 1943.

Dear Mom and Dad:

To continue my description of the country and the things that I have been in rather close contact with, I might mention something about the rural parts. Right now it is rather peaceful compared to a few weeks ago when there was plenty of action on and the next hill as an objective rather than a scene of nature at work. Even then the hills were covered with many pretty flowers and vines; the one that struck me the most was the poppy fields which grew by the acres; it reminded me of "In Flanders Field." I guess I shouldn't say anything about the gruesome part of this work.

There are some things that I shall never forget, and one was the surrender of all the prisoners. When the end came, it came with such swiftness that none of us could hardly believe it, and then to see the miles of German trucks and troops exoding from their final battle of the war is almost beyond description.

As I told you before, I talked with quite a few of them, but even in defeat they have quite a bit of Hitler ideals still in them. Of course, there are numerous exceptions such as the one when they were called Nazis; the spokesman for the group said "We are not Nazis, we are Germans." And then there were many like the one who told me that he wished he were back in the Alpine Mountains to live as he pleased, and that when the war was over I should come over and he would teach me to ski. It seems that they are happy that their fighting days are over and they don't much care just who wins anymore. I know from first hand experience that there is actual hate and disgust between the Italians and the Germans; the Germans despise the Wops because they are such poor soldiers and are many times more than glad to quit; the Italians hate the Germans because they believe that they are fighting the war entirely for the gain of the Germans, which I think is very nearly correct.

I shall leave this for now and say that it is now time for the Fall harvest here. The wheat is being cut and it won't be long before the oats are ready; the hay has been cut for the past three weeks and is now stacked in the field. Just as when the planting was going on; one is abounded on every side by the modern and the ancient. In one field, you can see the Arabs out cutting their grain by hand and tying it the same; while over in the next plot will be a big combine rolling along behind the most modern of deisel caterpillar tractors.

I don't know whether it is the weather which has reached the broiling point (it is very cool at night and one can sleep very well) and then we have had some of the hardest winds that I have ever seen, we just couldn't keep our tents up, but it rained a little and it has been pretty nice today.

Just in passing I might mention that I have seen Luthi numerous times and he is still right in there pitching after being in all the battles that you read about in the papers, he and a few more that I know were about the luckiest people that I have seen.

Well write soon and tell me all that you know. I received a letter from Aunt Jess and Aunt Mable. Otherwise mail has been extremely slow. I will write again soon. Say hello to everyone.

Love,—Warren.

Lt. Warren B. Rectenwall, O—1548294, 991 Ord. Co. (HM) (TK)—APO No. 302, % Postmaster, New York, New York.

NEWS FROM GEO. HART

June 16, 1943.

Received the card, the papers, and the hint so I thought I had better write you. I am beginning to get my mail on schedule now so I'll be all set for another six weeks.

Although it is ungodly hot here it is rather a nice place. We have nice officers and noncoms., so life is pretty easy. Because we are going to fly they feed us swell. High altitude flyers can not eat anything gassy and that takes in just about all the trash such as beans, hot dogs, cabbage and fibrous vegetables.

Our barracks are particularly nice. Air conditioning, varnished floors, and rooms for four fellows in each. Because nothing grows down here such as weeds, grass, etc., the camp is unusually clean. The machine gun ranges are about fifteen miles from camp and we are taken out and brought back in trucks. Our fifth week of training we go to Indian Springs, about fifty miles from here for a week of flying and shooting from planes to tow-targets. The last week we fly in bombers. All equipment is first class.

We have been issued sun glasses and when we graduate will be issued flying equipment, flying suits, parachutes, etc., so we will have quite a bit to carry with us.

The swimming pool is a boon to off duty hours and everyone is getting beautiful tans as burns are unauthorized by the War Department.

We are half done with our week of processing now. They have pressure chambers and I just finished a flight up to 38,000 feet in it, oxygen and all. You have to watch your ears on descent but it's fun in a way.

I would like to hear from some of my friends around St. Joe and Spencerville. I'll answer all letters as soon as I can. Suppose you heard of the Zoot Suit Wars in Los Angeles. We get Los Angeles papers here so we get first hand accounts of it. It's cooled off some this week. I tried to look up bob Burns while I was in Seattle from his address but they keep pretty close tab on them at Port of Embarkation. One of my pals from Jonesville was at Ft. Lewis and I saw him a couple of times.

There are two things that the fellows in service can't tolerate, strikes and people who do not put their money in war bonds. They don't mind fighting other people's wars for very little money but they like to see people do their best for them. I don't mind bragging a little. They are getting all the fellows who are physically deficient weeded out now. Glasses are almost never seen, some fellows have sinus or ear trouble, and then again some of them get air sick and wash out. Very few though and I hope I'm not one of them.

I think this is about all for the present I see everyone is getting settled for the Summer at home and have adjusted themselves to war conditions. Love, George.

Cpl. George T. Hart, Class 43-31, Stud. Sq. 3, LVAAF. Las Vegas, Nevada.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Good Grade Box Paper, 50c value at The News Office.

Mrs. Minnie Kagey, of Auburn is here for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. George B. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Strouse, of Camden, Mich., called on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tustison, Sunday.

Mrs. Earl Parker of Pleasant Lake, and Mrs. Glen Cole were Tuesday guests of Mrs. Jane Randall.

Mrs. F. A. Hamman and daughter, Susanne, of Butler, visited in the Donald Hart home Tuesday and called on other friends.

There are still a few readers of The News who have ignored our plea for renewing or their subscription before too late. If your date is past, look after it now.

Some petty thieving was committed in town Monday about noon, and in a very few minutes the offender was brought before the parental court and made to acknowledge the theft.

Mr. William Strouse is seriously ill in the Kendallville hospital, and on Sunday was unable to recognize his children. He had been at Albion for a few weeks, where he took ill.

The women's salvage division of DeKalb County makes the following report for the month of May: Kitchen waste fats collected in county, Auburn, 782 pounds; Ashley, 119 pounds; Waterloo, 262 lbs; St. Joe and Spencerville, 230 pounds; Butler, 274 pounds and Garrett, 673. Total 2,340. There were no hosiery or tin can shipments from the county in May.

Nurses' aides in DeKalb County during May attended and gave their services without remuneration to the patients of the three hospitals in Garrett and Auburn by giving 616 hours and five minutes of their time. Since the first graduation, which occurred Oct. 4, 1942, these women have happily given 3,275 hours and 15 minutes from then until the 31st of May, inclusive. Miss Louise Sechler is credited with having given a share of this service.

Mrs. Laney Gee returned Tuesday evening from a fifteen day visit with relatives and friends in Michigan. She visited Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Zimmerman and family of Casnovia, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kriger and family of Kent City, Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Playter and family of Muskegan Heights, Mrs. A. M. Gilbert and Mrs. A. L. Anderson of Onekama, Mrs Belle Mason and sister of Arcadia, Mrs. Verdi Hollinger and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hollinger and daughters of Grant, and Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Zimmerman of Bailey. Many of the farmers are planting beans in part of the fields intended for corn on account of the lateness of season and wet weather. All are fairly well.

Mrs. Fred Thoms and son, Lauren, of Dearborn, Mich., arrived Saturday night to spend a week with her mother, Mrs. Edna Jenkins.

Mrs. Estella Bowser entertained the following to dinner Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miller, Mrs. Hattie Archer, John Archer, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bowser and family, Harold Bowser and family, Mrs. Wayne Bowser, and some friends, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Walker and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Junior Bowser. The dinner was in honor of Junior Bowser, who is home from Camp Livingston, La.

Our Victory Prayer

Oh, victory, yes victory
For body, mind and soul;
That we may live again at peace,
With liberty our goal;
Forgive wherein we've gone astray,
And lead us in the right;
For home and country, this we pray,
And for this too we fight.

Oh, victory, true victory,
We long that day to rise,
When man to man shall brothers be,
And earth a paradise;
'Till then we'll strive as best we can,
To merit such reward;
God give us light to see aright,
Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

There seems to be no way of making the Fourth of July safe except by elliminating it and that wouldn't be sane.

According to some folks, times have changed since what poets wrote about June were true.

We have had a feeling all along that something was wrong with anybody who would wear a zoot suit.

According to a News reader the reason that soldiers prefer cake to pie is perhaps because you can eat cake on the run.

They strike at the Ford Bomber plant, the office girls, because they are ordered to wear slacks. Before you couldn't manufacture the slacks fast enough for the girls, now it looks too much like everybody else.

If you recall, reminds a St. Joe man, there is one thing certain about luck — it will change.

According to Maurice Kline, there is something as rare as a day in June, and that's a T-bone steak.

When it comes to eyeing a pretty girl, every soldier is listed in the observation corps.

And then you remember Arthurdale, Mrs. Roosevelt's pet subsistence venture at Reedsville, West Virginia. In this wild dream your government sank 2,646,000 of your tax dollars, and it was finally sold to private interests for a paltry $175,000.

One of The News office weekly visitors claims he did not take the AAA check for not raising wheat. He explained: "If they pin me right down to it, I couldn't tell them which field I didn't raise it in."

Will marvels never cease? With the new subsidy plan now beginning to operate, you can charge part of your pound of butter or your cut of beef to Mr. Morgenthau and the United States treasury. Of course, a lot of these fellows who are managing the planned economy of the New Deal are imaginative people who have nothing to lose but their sleep. They have decided to fight your economic battles for you—even if it takes every dollar you have.

INCOMPETENCE

New Deal incompetence has again been revealed by the fact that the Deshee farm project, Indiana's one example of Russian collectivism and relic of Tugwell's planning, is about to be sold at a great loss to the taxpayers. The recent flood near Vincennes has called attention to the condition of the 28 families who live on the 2,771 acre layout. The experiment, despite the fact that a paternal New Deal government has lavished money on it, has proved to be a dismal failure, and the land will probably be offered for sale to private individuals.

Tugwell has moved on to richer pastures, but his collective farm schemes are rapidly folding up. A House committee has recently investigated these numerous wild dreams and advised that they be sold and liquidated. It has cost you, Mr. Taxpayer, $20,000 to $30,000 per family to rehabilitate them a la Tugwell.

THE FOURTH TODAY

Perhaps it was a bit different how we celebrated the Fourth of July. A lot of messages were brought to the public from platforms of oratory, many campaign speeches were furthered from stands festooned with bunting, freedom cited in heroic epics from Concord through Cornwallis, school children squirming as the ceremony went past comfortable 'sitting time.' Whether the meaning of the Fourth dealt with our struggle for political independence, as it originally stood back in 1776, or whether the Fourth signified that the human race should be free and not slave, made the event enough for remembering. Then Independence Day was a firecracker holiday with all the trimmings. There will still be the speakers who will draw a number of listeners, still oratory regarding the necessity of unity for a united people in a United States among United Nations. True liberty-loving people will continue to pursue their right to happiness even though gas rationing may keep them from attending a July Fourth celebration. They may not be observing the holiday this year, sticking to their drills and lathes as the factories cry hurrah by turning out the weapons that are used to make independence a certainty. Maybe the yearly 4th of July picnic has been called off because the automobile has gone to war—and so have many of the drivers. But what of it, this curtailment of picnics, lack of public speech-making restriction of cars on the highway? In the hearts of all of us, stamped in letters of red, white and blue, sounding notes as loud as firecrackers, soaring in spirit as high as clouds over Bataan and Corregidor, floundering victorious through jungle mud, writing in blood, still beats the cry, throbs the urgent plea of liberty for all, unity and no substitutes. This is the way today we celebrate the glorious Fourth, and deeper imbedded in all of us is the reverence for what this day stands.

NEW SAFETY LAW

All new laws bring on discussions as to their merits and rarely is there unanimity of opinion as to worth and purpose. Frequently ulterior motives are attributed to lobbies which push certain acts thru Legislatures and Congress, and often the Legislators are accused of having selfish reasons for supporting measures assertedly introduced in the public interest, but which, thru their nature, can be twisted around to appear as though they are for somebody's private interest.

So it has been in the case of the new Indiana Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Law, soon to become effective. By and large, nearly every law that is passed redounds to the benefit of some individual or interest, but the larger interest served usually is that of the people. With the Safety Responsibility Law it seems to us that the benefits to the public at large far outweigh the financial gain that undoubtedly will accrue to the liability insurance companies, which some of the new law's critics, or those who have gained only a casual knowledge of its aims, think fostered and forced passage of the act by the last Legislature to compel car owners to take out such insurance.

We are not of that school, regardless of how much they profit by its enforcement. We have watched thru the years the terrible losses, public and private, that have been sustained, the many thousands of injured and killed due to reckless and careless driving, and the almost innumerable instances where the offending drivers carried no protection and did not possess property or cash of any kind or amount which could be seized to satisfy judgments against them.

Whatever means are necessary to correct this situation we believe to be definitely in the public interest, whatever it may mean to the insurance and bonding companies, and we believe that the new law will go far to bring about relief for the innocent victims of irresponsible owners and drivers of motor cars.

At least is worth a fair trial as a safety measure alone, even if its financial responsibility purpose is not wholly met by the law's provisions, but which we think will be also. Under certain well-defined circumstances no driver, after he has been convicted of certain violations of this law, will again be permitted to use the streets and highways of Indiana until he gives proof of his ability to pay when he maims or kills somebody, or causes serious property damage. This is not commensurate reparation for such acts, it is true, but it will go a long way toward meeting the cost of such occurrences.

Thus we endorse wholeheartedly the campaign now being waged by the Division of Public Safety, which will administer the new act, to educate the whole public on what the law really means to all—owners, drivers and just plain pedestrians.

FAULT FINDING

A St. Joe man says one good reason, if no other, for keeping busy, is that there isn't so much time for finding fault with folks and perhaps he has something there! No matter how sweet the disposition we are most apt to pass criticism upon the nature, bringing up, education, habits and purse of our fellow-men. With not so much spare time we have to curb our judgment and since fault finding is a trait found in most all of us, there is a heap of criticising going on around about. Few of us have a good answer for what business it is of ours what the other fellow does or has. What we find as closeness in one we are liable to criticise in another as being spendthrift, one person is selfish and biggeted and another is wasting himself on others and another is too free thinking. There is a long list of faults we have found. And we seem to be continually adding to it. Maybe keeping busy will help to make us more charitable and surely this is a blessing enough to keep idle hands and minds occupied.

JUNE

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Considering the tremendous demands that must be met by this country's food supplies this year, the crop prospects for the moment are far from encouraging. On June 1 crop prospects in the United States were lower than they were a month ago and a little less promising than at this season in May of the last three years. An abnormally rainy Spring in the midwest, with flood conditions in the central region, has retarded planting and in some areas has made replanting necessary.

In part of the West area a favorable break in the weather during late May and early June permitted the delayed planting to go forward with a rush, and farmers obviously are doing their best under handicaps. Severe drou g h t conditions, on the other hand, have greatly reduced crops in two Western areas, one centering in South Dakota and the other extending from southwestern Kansas into New Mexico, with lack of rain affecting other Western states.

Against this cloudy farm production picture is the fact that the crops are going in, labor is being found to harvest vegetables and other early crops, and in the flood area, especially, neighbors are pooling machinery and labor, and many tractors are going night and day.

It cannot be denied that the setback on our food front is serious. In military terms it corresponds to a "strategic withdrawal"—an event that can be saved from becoming a general retreat only by the determined efforts of millions of food raisers and farm volunteers. Fortunately, with farmers getting help locally from thousands of school children, businessmen, and some outside workers, the U. S. Crop Corps is fast becoming a working army on the farm and in the canning plants.

Prices to consumers of the 1943 pack of canned green peas, snap beans, sweet corn, canned tomatoes and other primary tomato products will be increased, according to present plans, even though wage adjustments granted to some workers in the canning industry raise production costs. The Commodity Credit Corporation will absorb these added costs so that the net returns to the processors from their 1943 operations will be in line with the average net returns during representative pre-war years.

Six additional types of canned fruits and vegetables from the 1943 pack—applesauce, blueberries or huckleberries, figs, beets, carrots, and pumpkin and squash—will be available to civilians. About 7½ million cases of these products, formerly reserved for government requirements, are expected to reach retail outlets.

Trips by any means of public transportation should be avoided if they are merely for the purpose of visiting friends in another city, trips home for the weekend, sightseeing trips, trips to places of amusement, any social travel or travel for pleasure—or travel just for the sake of going somewhere. Persons who feel they must get away for a vacation should at least avoid traveling in July or August—take a vacation all at one time and not try to commute to and from Summer places—travel during the middle of the week and carry as little baggage as possible in day coaches.

All these measures save space for military travel and travel on essential civilian business, and they will help to ease the heavy strain on public transportation of all kinds. This year, some well-known special Summer travel trains will not operate.

In the DeKalb Circuit Court
April Term 1943.

DeKalb County in the State of Indiana
vs
John Strebig, et al

Civil Cause No. 20104
Action to Quiet Title

The plaintiff having filed it's complaint herein, together with the special affidavit required by statute in actions to quiet title and having also filed the affidavit of a competent person that the residence, upon diligent inquiry, is unknown of the following named defendants, to-wit: John Strebig, Charles S. Strebig, Mrs. Charles Strebig, whose true given name is unknown, Edward M. Morgan, Minerva. C. Dawson, Henry Fields, Mary Cook, Charles Keasler, Clara Keasler, Gerome Cook, Clary Keasler, Isaac Kile, Clinton M. Wearley, Minnie B. Wearley, Fern Tegarden and Paul Tegarden; that the names of the following defendants are unknown and that they are believed to be non residents of the State of Indiana and are sued in this action by the following names and designations, to-wit: "The unknown husbands and wives, respectively, of the following named persons: Edward M. Morgan, Minerva C. Dawson, Henry Fields, Mary Cook, Charles Keasler, Clara Keasler, Gerome Cook, Clary Keasler, Isaac Kile, Clinton M. Wearley, Minnie B. Wearley, Fern Tegardin and Paul Tegardin, the names of all of whom are unknown to the plaintiff; the unknown widowers and widows, children, descendants a n d heirs, surviving s p o u s e s, creditors and administrators of the estates, devisees, legatees, trustees and executors of the Last Wills and Testaments, successors in interest and assigns, respectively, of the following named and designated persons, to-wit: Edward M. Morgan, Minerva C. Dawson, Henry Fields, Mary Cook, Charles Keasler, Clara Keasler, Isaac Kile, Clary Keasler, Gerome Cook, Clinton Wearley, Minnie B. Wearley, Fern Tegardin and Paul Tegardin, the names of all, of whom are unknown to the plaintiff; all of the women once known by any of the names and designations above stated, whose names may have been changed and who are now known by other names, the names of all of whom are unknown to the plaintiff; the spouses of all of the persons above named, described and designated as defendants to this action, the names of all of whom are unknown to the plaintiff; all persons and corporations who assert or might assert any title, claim or interest in or lien upon the real estate described in the complaint in this action by, under or thru any of the defendants described or designated in this complaint, the names of all of whom are unknown to the plaintiff."

It further appearing that said action is for the purpose of quieting title to real estate in DeKalb County, Indiana and that a cause of action exists against all of said defendants and that all of said defendants are necessary parties to said cause of action and that they are believed to be non residents of the State of Indiana and that said real estate is in DeKalb County, Indiana and is described as follows:

Commencing at the quarter post of the west line of Section Thirty Four (34), Township Thirty Three (33) nor t h, Range Fourteen (14) east and from thence east along the quarter line twenty six (26) rods; thence south 11 degrees and 30 minutes west a distance of 25 rods; thence north 73 degrees west twenty two and seventy two hundredths (22.72) rods to the west line of said section; thence north along the section line eighteen (18) rods to the place of beginning. Containing 3.25 acres, more or less.

Also a tract adjoining the aforesaid tract on the east and described as follows: Commencing twenty six (26) rods east of the quarter post on the west line of Section 34, Township 33 north, Range 14 east and from thence south 11 degrees and 30 minutes west a distance of twenty five (25) rods; thence east parallel with the said quarter line seven (7) rods; thence north 11 degrees and 30 minutes east twenty five (25) rods to the quarter line; thence west along the quarter line, seven (7) rods to the place of beginning. Containing 1.15 acres, more or less.

It further appearing that said action is instituted and prosecuted by the plaintiff for the purpose of quieting title to the real etsate described in the complaint and herein described as against all demands, claims and claimants whatsoever.

Notice is therefore given said defendants that unless they be and appear on the 6th day of September, 1943, being the 1st day of the September, 1943 Term of the DeKalb Circuit Court at the Court House at Auburn in DeKalb County, Indiana, and answer or demur to said complaint, that the same will be heard and determined in their absence.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of this court this the 17th day of June, 1943.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

J. H. Leighty is in Garrett working at the Eagle club room.

James Collins has moved to Bluffton, Ind., having sold his property to Mr. and Mrs. Argil Richmond.

A baby son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Fredericks of Reading, Pa., on Monday of last week, making their fourth child. Friends will remember Mrs. Fredericks as Miss Lucille Curie.

Mr. and Mrs. John Goldsmith, daughter, Muriel and Mrs. Addie Patterson, all of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests in the Merritt Sechler home. Mr. and Mrs. Chase Patterson, of New York, are also here spending a few days.

The campaign for waste fats, tin cans, hosiery, brown paper, brownpaper boxes, is set for June 21 to 26. There will be a general pick up of tin cans, paper and paper boxes and hosiery later. Watch for date. Fats are to be taken to Bowser's or Wade's grocery stores. The brown paper and boxes are to be folded flat and tied in bundles. They will be ground and used in packing bullets, in place of pulp which is hard to get. The tin cans are to be flattened. Tin cans and paper are to be kept dry. Have your cans, paper, and hose ready for the general pick up, date to be announced later.

M. A. Sechler attended the wedding of Chase Patterson, son of the late Ralph Patterson of Springfield, Ohio, and Miss Charlotte Bushnell, at Newark, O., Wednesday of last week. Misses Nancy Kuhn and Jan Garlow, of Springfield, accompanied him home for a week.

The death of Dr. Martin E. Klingler, widely known physician and surgeon and owner of the Garrett Clinic, took place at 6:30 o'clock Saturday night at University Hospital, Ann Arbor, Mich. Dr. Klingler, who was nearly 68 years of age, succumbed to heart disease. He was evidently in good health until April 21, when he suffered a heart attack while he was driving from Garrett to his home six miles south of Garrett on State Road 27. Funeral services were held from the Methodist Church Tuesday afternoon, in which he serviced in many of the church offices during his 39 years in Garrett. He was prominent in civic and medical affairs and member of the Masonic Order.

Raymond Quance, a 1943 graduate of the Auburn High School, has been ordered to report at Middlebury, College at Middlebury, Vermont, on July 1. He is in the U. S. naval reserve and will take pre-flight training under the V 12-a program. Raymond is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Quance.

The Sinclair Refining Co. has started construction o f an eight-inch oil pipe line through the northern part of DeKalb County, passing through Fairfield, Smithfield, Franklin and Troy townships about a mile north of State Road 6. Agents of the company have secured, or are getting, the right-of-way from the land owners, but no permit for the use of highways has yet been obtained from the county commissioners. The distance across DeKalb County is about 20½ miles. Two crews have started working at Kendallville, one toward Whiting and the other toward Toledo. The line will probably not be completed until late in September. Approximately 100,000 barrels of oil will be pumped daily through the 8-inch pipe to eastern distribution points.

Listen to Morgenthau-Marshall Tell Power of Payroll Savings!

Washington, D. C.—How important is the average worker's war bond purchases out of his pay every payday in the grand strategy of the Allied High Command? Does the extent of his or her War Bond allotment have a part in determining when, where and the strength of our military blows?

George C. Marshall

Any worker listening in on a recent conversation between General George C. Marshall, President Roosevelt's Chief of Staff, and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., learned the answers to these questions.

Said General Marshall:

"Mr. Secretary, I want you to answer a question for me and to answer it with complete frankness. Can we military leaders plan to fight this war in an orderly way—in the surest and most effective manner—or must we take extraordinary risks for fear the money will not hold out?"

Replied Secretary Morgenthau:

"General, the American public will take care of that. What they have done in the Second War Loan drive—the money they have produced and the spirit they have shown—is proof enough for me that they will not let our fighters suffer from lack of support until we achieve complete victory, no matter how long that may be nor how much it may cost."

Henry Morgenthau, Jr.

Up your War Bond allotment out of your wages today. Figure it out for yourself how much above 10 per cent it should be.

The attorney for the plaintiff is H. C. Springer, Butler.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC

Herman L. Brown of the DeKalb County War Price and Rationing Board wishes to tell the sugar consuming public of DeKalb County that it is unnecessary for them to go to the stores and purchase all of the canning sugar that is being issued to them at this time.

The reason that he is making this statement is due to the fact that people are rushing to the stores and are buying more sugar than they need at this particular time with the result that some of the consumers in the county are unable to purchase any sugar at all. If the people will use a little judgment and buy this sugar along as they need it, it will be a convenience to the merchant as well as to the neighbors.

There is no need to get alarmed about the sugar situation as they will be able to purchase all of the sugar that has been allotted to them and they have until October 31 of this year to make the purchase. The Merchant and your neighbor will appreciate the co-operation of the sugar consumers if they will do as suggested in this article.

HERMAN L. BROWN,
Chief Clerk.
DeKalb County War Price & Rationing Board 3117-1, Auburn, Indiana.

Keep the memory of our boys and girls in the Armed Forces in your mind by praying for them.

How'd you like to carry home 500 POUNDS OF CANDLES?

YOU: I wouldn't like it—and what would I do with 500 pounds of candles?

US: They would light your home for a month.

YOU: I don't need them. We've got electricity.

US: But if you DIDN'T have it, you'd need about a quarter-ton of candles to do the same job.

YOU: A quarter-ton! That's terrific.

US: And the cost would be about $200.

YOU: No sale! My electric bill now is only about three dollars a month—and that's enough.

US: Three dollars is just about average. Remember, of that, the average customer spends only about 85 cents for LIGHT. The remainder runs the radio and refrigerator and—

YOU: Electricity IS pretty cheap when you come to think of it.

US: Right to! Cheaper than it's ever been. Today you are getting about twice as much electricity for your money as you got fifteen years ago. Though you don't see much change in the amount of the bill think of ALL THE ELECTRIC APPLIANCES YOU'VE ADDED.

The answer is simple. Sound business methods experience—efficiency. The Electric Companies know their job—to give you, their customer, the best possible service at the lowest possible price.

Dear Folks:

Well, just came back home here and have been reading letters for the last half hour. Suppose you were pretty well worked up when you heard I was going across country. Sent you card and package from Washington. Had a nice trip, just a little rough weather coming back, over Arkansas.

Yes, I'm crewed up found out when I got back. They always send you list, I haven't seen it yet but the some of the boys have and its Long Beach, California.

On our trip we first went to Pat. Field, Ohio, had two Majors and a Captain for pilots, three student R. O. and one instructor to engineer, two passenger Lieutenants going to Homestead to bring back another plane, and two M/Sgts. going to Washington. We got some gas at Patterson and arrived at Washington about 9:15 Monday night. Sure does look nice at night even if it was dimmed out. We went into the operator's office and got a pass to go to town. Went in about 1:50 A. M. Saw quite a lot but not as much as we could have, had it been during the day. We then went back to Bolling Field and stayed in the transient barracks. It surely is a nice field there. Lots of WAAC's, about in every office. Everything is very expensive at this place and in Washington. We saw Generals and all kinds of high officers in Washington. Left there about 11:30 Tuesday morning and arrived at Miami about 6 o'clock. They were having bad weather down at Homestead so we had to land at Miami until it cleared up. Sure glad I don't have to stay here it's just like Africa just a big field right out in the middle of the Everglades. It is so big you have to go from one side to the other in a staff car. Not so many boys there but lots of planes.

They gave us something to eat and then we slept in another transient barracks, which was not so nice. Left there about 11:30 and arrived back about 7:30 in the evening.

Well this is about all for now. Love, Lewis Walter.

Wm. R. Brace of Spencerville, has been accepted for Navy enlistment, having passed the physical examination at Toledo a week ago.

Pvt. Glen W. Baughman, Co. B—6 Bn—2 Regh—1RTC, Fort McClellan, Ala. U. S. Army.

The following verses were sent home by Pvt. Glen Baughman:

I am glad the Army pays bills.
Is going to make us rich.
We all get 50 bucks a month,
It makes my eyeballs twitch.

But, anyway on pay day
We all get lots more dough,
Enough to make our wallets full
And pay off all we owe.

Enough to buy a juicy steak
And make the rounds in town.
Enough to get a Ft. Worth pass
And do the place up brown.

But, there is still one well known fact,
I'll bet my shirt, upon
Just one week after pay day
My dough will all be gone.

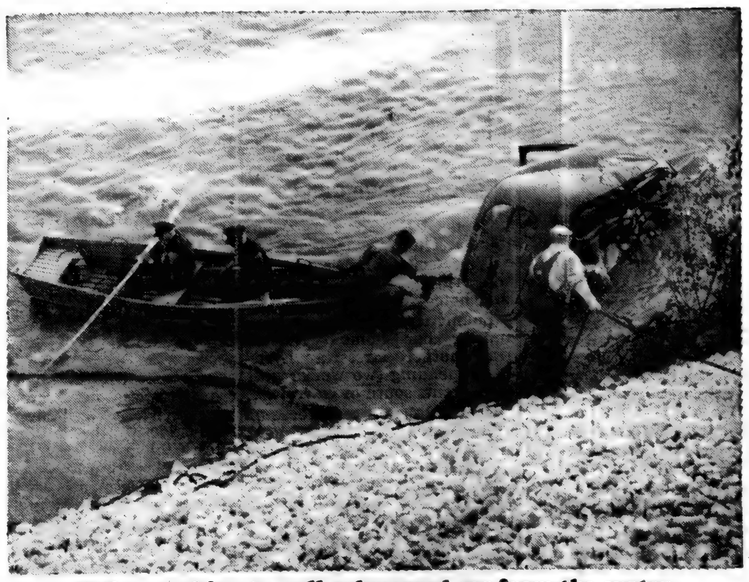
Three St. Joe Workmen Struck by Nickle Plate Train at Ft. Wayne and Hurled Into Maumee



Police working to pull submerged car from the water

(Courtesy News-Sentinel)

Three St. Joe men escaped serious injuries when the car in which they were riding was struck by a Nickel Plate switch engine at the Anthony Boulevard crossing and the auto went down the embankment into the river at 2:39 A. M. Friday morning.

The three injured were Donald Hart 31, shock and bruises; Frank Williams, 48, shock, laceration on right temple and possible chest injuries; Clayton Baker, 26, laceration on right forehead and sprained shoulder. The three were taken to the Methodist Hospital for treatment in the police ambulance.

The automobile was traveling north on Anthony Boulevard and the train, going west, struck the car in the right center. The impact turned the car completely around and it went backwards down the embankment into the Maumee River.

William Grepke, 25, 1925½ Emma Street, who was directly behind the Hart automobile, was a witness. He told police that the watchman was not in the street and that the lantern was standing beside the watchman's shanty. The Hart car, Grepke said, was going about 10 miles an hour.

Hart told officers that he was crossing the first of the triple tracks when he saw that switch engine. His first thought, he said, after the car was struck, was to open the car door as he knew if the auto went into the river that they might not be able to open it.

Donald and Clayton pulled Frank from the car and Grepke helped them all out of the water up the steep embankment.

Harry E. Weisbecker, 53, 1605 Third Street, was engineer and Harvey Holsworth, 57, 1655 Richardson Street, conductor.

Two of the men are still in the Metodist Hospital. Clayton Baker has a shoulder bone and collar bone fracture, and will be able to be about home possibly by next week.

Frank Williams is in a serious condition and will be in the hospital for several weeks. His injuries are pelvis bone fracture, ribs broken and chest injury, all of which will take time to improve. Mrs. Williams has visited him frequently and says he is on his way to recovery.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Goodwin announce the marriage of their daughter Margaret, to E. Harold King, physician and surgeon of Los Angeles, Calif. The wedding was solemnized at the Little Chapel of the Dawn, Santa Monica, at 8 P. M., June 12. The reception followed at the Town House, Los Angeles. Dr. and Mrs. King are on a several weeks trip to Mexico City and other interesting places below the border. Upon their return to California they will reside in West Wood Village, Los Angeles.

Dr. King is a well known physician and surgeon in Los Angeles. He is a graduate of Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, retired Captain of medical corps U. S. Army, and a member of Nu Sigma Nu fraternity.

Don't be surprised one of these years if you hear sheep baa-ing about 3,000 feet in the air. It will be a southwest rancher shipping by airplane to take advantage of a rise in the live stock market. A good many veterans of the stockyards confidently predict aerial transportation of live stock after the war.

RURAL HOUSEWIVES CLUB

The Rural Housewives Club met with Mrs. Fred Hart, Tuesday afternoon, June 29th. Meeting called to order by the president, Berniece Wilder. Inez Hadsell gave the opening number, a very interesting article on White House in Different Ages.

After the usual business the following officers were elected to serve the next six months:

President, Belle Woodcox.
Vice Pres., Winnifred Hart.
Secretary, Leona Mason.
Assistant, Grace Laub.
Treasurer, Eleanor Crothers.
Press Cor., Minnie Gee.

The new president appointed the following committees:

Chairman of special numbers: Berniece Wilder.

Sick Committee: Lorain Messimer, Gladys Hart and Dora Wilder.

Grace Laub and Leona Mason were in charge of special numbers. The hostess also had some special contests which tested our poetic, artistic and skill in working buttonholes, awarding three glass pitchers to winners. All won a final lunch of sandwiches, coffee, cookies and strawberries with whipped cream.

Thirteen members and four children were present and all enjoyed the pleasant afternoon. Next meeting to be with Gladys Hart in two weeks on Tuesday afternoon, July 13th.

TWO BIRTHDAYS CELEBRATED SUNDAY

The home of Mrs. Nan Lysher and son, Edgar, was the scene of a merry gathering Sunday afternoon, when a number of Bonnie Kees' girl friends completely surprised her for a birthday party. She was 9 years old and those present were Mary Cook, Evelyn Richmond, Barbara Hurni, Charles Lee Ramsey, Norma Jean Hartranft and little sister and niece. Miss Nelda Kees of Fort Wayne supervised the games and they sure had a happy afternoon which Bonnie will long remember. She received a number of nice gifts, which greatly added to her happiness

Edgar Lysher and his mother also entertaind in honor of Sammy Kees' 15th birthday with a chicken dinner for the family. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kees, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kees, sister, Nelda, and brothers, Harry Lee and Roger and Mary Cook.

A large white cake centered the table holding 15 candles which Sammy succeeded in blowing out with one big puff. Home made ice cream and cake were served to the guests later in the afternoon. All wished the children many more happy birthdays.

YOUTH HAS HEAD HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Seth Harris, 17, of St. Joe, suffered a cut on his head when a 1937 Willys-Overland being driven by his father, Warren Harris, collided with a 1939 Ford operated by Wayne Harts of Fort Wayne, in Spencerville Tuesday at 4:20 P. M.

Harts was going east, while Harris was driving west. Deputy Sheriff Frank E. Carpenter reports that as Harts approached a curve at considerable speed he saw the other car approaching. He applied the brakes and skidded for 45 feet, but was unable to avoid an accident.

Young Harris' head struck the windshield. Damage to the Harris car was estimated at $150 and to the Harts machine at $100.

SPENCERVILLE CHILD STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Jerry Woodring, aged 5 years, of Spencerville, is a patient at Sanders hospital in Auburn, suffering from a basal skull fracure as the result of an accident Saturday night.

The lad, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Woodring, ran from behind Claude Laub's automobile in the business district in Spencerville Saturday night at 8:30, intending to cross the street, and he stepped into the path of a car driven by Gerald Means, 16. The latter machine was proceeding at slow speed.

The boy was hit by the left front fender and was knocked to the pavement of State Road No. 1. Young Means, who was accompanied by Eugene Baker, 19, stopped within a few feet and the injured lad was removed to the hospital in Auburn. His condition is not considered critical.

The accident was investigated by State Policeman Jack Nye and Deputy Sheriff Frank Carpenter.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that Charles Woodcox has filed his petition in the DeKalb Circuit Court to have the time and place of his birth determined. Said petition is set for hearing July 10, 1943.

William Strouse Passes

Funeral services were held Monday at Kendallville for William Strouse, age 77, father of William Strouse of St. Joe. He died at the McCray Hospital in Kendallville from a complication of diseases. He had been a patient in the hospital since June 17.

What So Proudly We Hail

Old Glory, with the flags of our Allies, England, Russia and China, waves proudly on many battle fronts these war-scarred days. It carries its message of hope and freedom to the humblest souls of the oppressed peoples in the conquered lands and definitely warns the aggressor that the day of reckoning is at hand. In the history of our nation the flag has had a notable series of traditions to endear it to the hearts of Americans. The battlefields of this war will add to its great glory. The bravery of America's fighting men recalls the words of Oliver Wendell Holmes: "One flag, one land, one heart, one hand, one Nation, evermore!"

SMALL BUSINESS

Going deeper into war manufacture we have had a better understanding of the three fields that have been prospering, such as labor, agriculture and large industry, some mildly and some wildly. But consider that small business, harnessed by increased tax, bound with regulations and restraining orders, having difficulty keeping help because of higher wages in factories, difficulty in securing supplies, struggling to get government contracts when able to produce the goods. This is another one of the concerns for our consideration. This country can't afford to have its small, independent business houses closing. We need small business to keep our monopolies in tow. They must hold!

OF THINGS TO COME

It started with a vengeance, the first heat wave and, reading of deaths caused due to the rise in temperature, we realize this tells a story of what is ahead. The fellow in the north who found the electric fan a good idea didn't forget that its hot and humid and dusty in Georgia, Alabama, Florida, and Tennessee, where thousands and thousands of our boys are training in that heat. Drilling, driving jeeps, trucks, tanks, under that relentless sun. So before we go into the Summer and into the time of heat prostrations here and there through the country, remember these camps where double-quick time is hotter work and exercising with a gun is not stepping in at the corner drug store for a cold drink. There will be many a time, before the Summer has passed, that you are going to be uncomfortable from the heat, but when some one of our citizens asks the familiar, "hot enough for you," you'll say, "I can take it if our boys over there can."

COLLEGES CARRY ON

The first full year of instruction in country schools and colleges has come to an end we see youth exchanging campus togs for military regalia in many cases. They are handed their sheepskins and their commissions as they leave the classroom to enter a changed world. There has been many discussions during the Winter in regard to the altered courses of study under the war emergency program, of the quickened pace of study, shortening the lines of study and through more concentrated work. Many colleges have offered war courses and the college campus has been abloom with uniforms of various branches of the service. Physical education has been heavily stressed in most institutions and certain colleges have altered semester periods to divide terms because of students called to the front at various times during the college year. Colleges and universities have adjusted themselves to the prevailing conditions and in spite of the worry of many of the populace regarding the slowing down of the liberal arts courses as the war has brought emphasis upon the manual arts, still educational instruction goes on, maintaining high academic standards and preparing the student for physics, chemistry, mathematics, engineering, navigation, cartography, foreign languages. They will preserve the liberal arts program and assume it fully after the war, not sacrificing it entirely because of war demands. None of us here in St. Joe are worrying about the higher branches of learning.

PECK'S BAD BOY WITH THE CIRCUS
(8 reels)

Cast: Tom Kelly, Ann Gillis, Edgar Kennedy, Billy Gilbert, Benita Hume, Spanky MacFarland, Louise Beavers, and others.

Seventeen years ago Jackie Coogan portrayed "Peck's Bad Boy." Five years ago Jackie Cooper carried on the tradition with a remake of the film. Now Tom Kelly—remember him as Tow Sawyer—characterizes fun-loving, fun-making typical American youth in Peck's Bad Boy With the Circus in an entirely new background for George W. Pack's juvenile hero. Here is a soul-gratifying mixture of real old-fashioned laughs and human interest.

In this compilation of Bill Peck's activities he is seen as a vacation-bound youngster cheated out of his railroad fare by an unscrupulous circus attendant. He joins the show to hitch-hike to his camp. Determined upon revenge, he feeds sleeping pills to the lions, converting a hair-raising exhibition of animal mastery into a comedy fiasco between a bewildered trainer and five sleepy lions.

After this the fun piles up rapidly. Bill's ludicrous equine acrobatics, his pranks which plunge him into mounting difficulty and his youthful crush romance with the show's young bareback rider lead to a merry and wild chariot race to the Summer camp in time for the opening obstacle race event.

All the thrills of the "big top" the color and excitement are captured with exceptional realism. Expert performers, trained animal acts and a corps of able technical advisors were employed to achieve this remarkable atmosphere. A complete circus show, comprising the spectacular Escalante high-wire balancers, the noted Pina family and the colorful Liberty Horse act and a a variety of sensational animal performers is seen in the picture.

The animal cast consists of more than 100 lions, leopards, tigers, camels, zebras, apes, goats, and horses, culled from world-famous circus acts to depict the "big top" thrills in the picture.

Peck's Bad Boy With the Circus has all the fun and glamour of a circus but not the objectional feature. It is as clean as a real circus, as full of merriment and excitement from the grand opening parade to the final winning of the camp prize via a greased pole.

GET-TOGETHER 4-H CLUB

The Get-Together 4-H Club met at St. Joe school house at 9:30 A. M. on June 23. From the school house the club drove to Hamilton Lake for a picnic. Each club member took some food for potluck dinner.

Before we ate our dinner, a meeting was held to fill out the project record books. The officers also had a meeting to plan for Achievement Day, June 30 at the gym.

There were 29 members present at the meeting. About 1:00 P. M. all but a few of those present went swimming.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meese of Philadelphia, Pa., are here spending the week with his father, Frank Meese, and enjoying their vacation in quietness and real comfort. Fred is looking fine and is glad to get home again and renew old acquaintances.

Possession of a beaver hide in violation of the Indiana laws cost a Gary resident $138 after charges had been filed by Conservation Officer working with game management agent of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Beaver have been protected by Indiana laws since 1937, the statute prohibiting the molestation of beaver or beaver houses of the purchase or sale of beaver pelts. Enactment of the law followed the liberation by the Division of Fish and Game of several pair of beaver in the Northern part of the state.

Miss Geraldine Guilford of Connersville, Ind., is here spending the Summer with Mr. and Mrs. Merle Guilford.

Romeo Cole of Newville, who works in the Ordnance Depot at New Haven, had the misfortune to get cinders in his left eye Monday. Some were imbedded in the eyeball and a nurse worked most of the day removing them and dressing the eye. It was extremely painful.

Mr. and Mrs. Parlee Snyder of Fort Wayne, are here spending two weeks in their home, taking a vacation from his work as tool and die maker at the Wayne Pump. When Mr. Snyder is retired they expect to become permanent residents of St. Joe having purchased the J. C. F. Abel residence on Widney Avenue.

The canning factory started operation last week and report a good flow of green vegetables. Canning each afternoon takes care of the present pea crop, but soon all-day operating will be required to keep up with the demand of people in this community for home canned vegetables. Help, is at the present, yet a problem for Mr. and Mrs. Guilford, but as the crop increases we hope that labor will be available. The reputation of the St. Joe Canning Kitchen has reached out many miles from St. Joe, and the expected rush will no doubt come in due time.

Mowing of the right-of-way along the eleven hundred miles of state highways has been curtailed again this year due to wartime conditions, it has been announced by S. C. Hadden, chairman of the State Highway Commission. In previous years when labor, equipment and funds were more plentiful the entire right-of-way along state highways was mowed several times a year, creating a park-like appearance which brought numerous compliments from motorists. Again this year with a shortage of labor, equipment and funds, only essential mowing will be done by the highway workers.

THE DEKALB COUNTY SALVAGE COMMITTEES AT WORK

The Civilian War Service is conducting a county wide house-to-house campaign in behalf of waste fats, tin cans, hosiery, brown paper and corrugated boxes. These types of salvage are greatly needed in war production. The salvaged fats are needed in the manufacture of explosives. Tin is needed for many war items, especially at this time for blood plasma containers. Waste silk and nylon stockings go for making of heavy artillery powder bags and for parachutes. Mills no longer make silk hose, thus the demand for this salvage is more acute than ever.

Brown paper, whether bags or wrapping, all brown paper boxes or containers, whether corrugated or not, are needed. The leaders ask that all brown paper and containers be packed flat, wrapped in bundles, kept dry and notice of schedule of collection will come later. The purpose is to get all homes accumulating tin cans and brown paper.

There are approximately 1200 block and neighborhood leaders in DeKalb County. These volunteer workers are the permanent organization for dispensing information about war needs into each home in the county. The Civilian War Services function in connection with the Civilian Defense but maintain a separate organization.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Almost 300 standards in consumer items have been established under the price control program, and these standards help to make price control effective for without them it would be difficult to measure the relative quality of consumer goods. Under peacetime conditions, free competition tends to keep prices down and quality high. Under such conditions no price control measures are necessary. But under wartime conditions the tendency is toward high prices and lowered quality. To combat this, price control and standards are necessary. The consumer often has to accept anything that he can get at a store. That means that when some manufacturers begin to reduce quality without changing prices, others are seriously handicapped unless they do likewise. That is why wartime price control must set standards not only in the interest of the consumer but also in the interest of business itself.

One form of concealed inflation is through lowering the quality of an article and charging the same price as was formerly charged by the same item at a higher grade, or reducing the amount of material or ingredients and keeping the same price charged for the original item. Since the consumer is getting less for his money, the effect is the same as though he were paying more for the same article.

More than half of the 290 standards provisions in existing price regulations were accepted trade categories. Of the total number only 41 have been developed by the Office of Price Administration. The government's standards, therefore, are only an extension of a practice that has been increasing steadily in private enterprise as a means of safeguarding and stabilizing certain lines of goods. For several years it has been getting harder for unscrupulous chiselers in business to sell shoddy and inferior goods, imitating those of high quality, within a similar price range.

Consumers will pay about the same for the 1943 pack of frozen snap beans, corn, peas and spinach as they have been paying for the 1942 pack, but slightly more for frozen strawberries—between three and four cents a pound more—and about a cent a pound more for frozen asparagus. In the case of the last two items, increased costs in producing and processing justify the slight increases to the consumer.

"Emergency tires" are those which will deliver some mileage but do not come up to OPA standards for sound and repairable tires. These "emergency tires" are being put on the market by the Defense Supplies Corporation which will sell them to dealers at 50 cents each—the dealer's mark-up permits him to re-sell to consumers at a ceiling price of one dollar. The tires must be branded with the letter "O" and if they are repaired and sold by the dealer, he may not charge more for the temporarily repired tire than the maximum price for sound basic tire carcass of the same size.

Dealers in anthracite are urged to supply their consumers, as far as possible, no more than two-thirds of their annual supply of coal before Oct. 1, to spread distribution fairly. However, poultry raisers, who use anthracite to heat brooders should secure their full supply at the earliest possible moment.

During the past month, shipments of petroleum products to the East Coast dipped sharply because of flood conditions in the midwest. The drop in oil and gasoline stocks along the Atlantic seaboard was not felt immediately but for some time after the "big inch" pipeline was restored to service and railroad transportation in the Middle West returned to normal, the depletion of oil stocks continued to be acute. By the middle of June the shipments of crude oil and kerosene by rail were again approaching the million-barrels-a-day mark.

MILLIONS of Victory gardens will be cultivated this year to help relieve the shortage of food brought about by our efforts to feed the largest army in our history, to assist our allies, and to avert starvation among the people of Europe.

To make the most effective use of the products of the Victory garden, the woman in the home is called upon to make another contribution towards winning the war—every woman whose garden has yielded a surplus beyond that which her family can consume immediately will wish to preserve that surplus by canning.

With the hope of rendering assistance to the homemaker in this enterprise, we have produced a compact booklet containing most of the essential information necessary for the successful canning of fruits and vegetables. This booklet is available in our office. Be sure to get your copy.

4-H Club Activities in DeKalb County Reaches Peak of Activity

Five hundred twenty three 4-H club members are enrolled in home economics projects for 1943 according to Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent. These 523 members are carrying a total of 1118 projects. Last year DeKalb County had 426 members enrolled in home economics projects and a total of 621 projects. This year shows an increase of 97 members or 23%. According to total projects carried there has been an increase of 497 projects this year or 80%.

Supervising these 4-H club members in DeKalb County who are enrolled in 23 clubs are twenty adult leaders and vocational teachers and 25 junior leaders. Seven of these clubs had a 100% increase in enrollment and four additional clubs had 50% increased enrollment. Four hundred five members are taking the new 4-H victory project showing that 4-H club members are contributing 100% to the victory program.

The DeKalb County Judging and Demonstration Contest will be held on July 23. The County 4-H Show and Exhibit will be held the week of July 26-30.

Be sure to save your celery leaves, even though some of them are discolored. You can use them in soups, stews and meat loaves later on. A subscriber says she prefers the leaves this way. First wash and drain them thoroughly. Put them on a flat surface and cover, but not tightly to keep away air. A cloth or paper will keep the leaves from gathering dust. Turn them often until dry. When thoroughly dry rub the leaves through a coarse sieve. Store in an airtight container.

LOOK Lady

with JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

How many times has your dream of dressing up the closets gone smash because, when you really checked things over, the shelves were needed for storage.

This year you really can redecorate the closets for we've an idea that will give you loads of safe storage for all winter woolens and add charm and graciousness to your home all the year round!

New charm for your living room or hall and extra storage space for not-in-use woolens are combined in new cedar chests made of red cedar heartwood which insures moth protection. Exteriors are veneered in a wide variety of popular woods so that chests may be matched to other furniture.

Have you looked at cedar chests lately? If not, you've a beautiful surprise awaiting you for modern cedar chests are smart, attractive furniture that fits into any room in the house. They are as revealing of beauty and concealing of utility as the smile upon the lips of a woman in love.

Maybe you'd like a low modern piece in light color with a flat surface for magazines, flowers and ash trays . . . used as an occasional table between two cozy chairs. Then, by all means look at the new cedar chests in bleached woods styled in long, low lines.

And, for that window at the end of the hall where the space isn't wide enough for 3-cornered cabinets or chairs at the sides of the window but which looks so empty and uninviting, you can find a cedar chest for placing under the window, put a pillow or two on top of it, put some trailing vines at the sides of the window . . . and turn an eye sore into a haven of rest and beauty.

Then, there's high massive cedar chests the men will fancy because they appear so masculine, and delicate chests that give the final note of charm to the daintiest bedroom.

All these are yours for the looking, in modern or antique designs and wood. And, any of them will give you that extra, safe storage space you need before you can remove the clutter from the closets and decorate them as you've always wanted to do.

The LIONS CLUB

The last meeting of the fiscal year was held in the basement of the Lutheran Church in St. Joe with 27 Lions, Lionesses and guests present.

Reports of the various committee chairmen were made of club activities. It was revealed that the club has lost three members and gained four new ones. The total membership now stands at 23. The club in cooperation with the American Legion presented each new service boy a kit of essentials before leaving for camp. The Honor Roll boards placed in St. Joe and Spencerville, were presented to the communities by the Lions club. There are new names to be added to those already there. The work of the club in issuing Ration Book No. 2 was related and a report of the scrap metal drive was made which resulted in getting over 100 tons which was turned to the war effort. One of the noteworthy activities of the club was the presenting of a Bible to each of the high school graduates of the St. Joe and Spencerville schools.

The club was favored with the presence of Deputy Governor Fee of Hamilton, who spoke to the body on "What Constitutes our Nation's Safety."

The exercising of our Liberty of Free Ballot and the fact that only one half of the voters entitled to vote cast a ballot. Our liberty of Free Trial and our Intelligence which enabled us to form our laws that the intelligence of the people should be exploited for the benefit of the nation and not hampered by a several who would do our thinking for us.

By fulfililng these obligations we need not worry about our nation's safety.

Deputy Gov. Fee then awarded pins for 100% attendance to the following: C. R. Billow, F. R. Bowman, Maurice Kline, Claude Laub, F. B. Leighty, E. H. Paschen, D. B. Ridgway, C. G. Rectenwall and Fred Stemen.

The following officers for the new year were installed:
President, F. B. Leighty.
1st. Vice, C. G. Rectenwall.
2nd. Vice, D. B. Ridgway.
3rd. Vice, F. Robinson.
Sec.-Treas., D. C. Wicoff.
Tail Twister, F. Stemen.
Lion Tamer, F. R. Bowman.
One year Directors: Frank Sellers, E. H. Paschen.
Two year Directors: Maurice Kline, Lynn Fisher.

CAN PEAS AND BEANS, TOO!

Peas . . . Some like them hot, some like them cold, but nearly everybody likes them canned, or so claims Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company. Not everybody likes green or "English" peas and that's all right because there are plenty other peas of different color and flavor.

All kinds of peas, lima beans, and butter beans are canned the same way. All should be picked and canned the very day the pods are full enough to be shelled. At that time they will be from small to medium size, tender and sweet.

Peas and beans begin to lose flavor and food value as soon as pulled from the vine and are likely to spoil if time is wasted between gathering, preparing, and canning.

Flat sour and all other spoilage can be avoided by paying strict attention to canning rules. Yes, Rules, they are as simple as this:

1. Check over jars and lids the day before the canning is done. If glass top seals or two-piece metal vacuum seals are to be used, examine the top edges of the jars—the slightest flaw may cause you to have to do work over. The same is true of the sealing surface of glass lids. If there is any doubt as to the tension of the wires on "lightning" jars, fill them with hot water, seal, let stand until cold, then hold upside down and examine for leaks, and don't forget to wash jars, caps and rubbers clean.

2. Use young, tender, freshly gathered vegetables—and they won't be fresh after being out of the garden all night.

3. Prepare no more than your canner will hold and not that many if the canner is large and the help small.

4. Wash the pods clean before shelling. Sorry, but dirt is the chief cause of spoilage, so rinse the peas or beans in clean, cool water after they are shelled.

5. Cover with hot water and cook from 3 to 10 minutes, depending upon size; then pour into the jars while boiling hot—this won't break jars that have been covered with lukewarm water, heated to boiling and kept hot until needed.

6. Leave about an inch space at the top when filling the jar: add ½ teaspoon salt to each pint. Pint jars are best for peas and shelled beans because the heat reaches the center of the pack more quickly but whether pints or quarts are used, be sure to have enough water to insure quick heating all the way to the center of the jar. Seal or partly seal jars, depending upon type used; then put into the canner as quickly as possible and process the correct length of time. Young, tender, green peas take 50 minutes; blackeyed and field peas, limas and butter beans are processed 60 minutes at 10 pounds pressure. If no pressure cooker is available, process (boil) 3½ hours in hot-water bath canner. Use the same time for pint and quart jars. Nothing larger than a quart is safe for canning non-acid vegetables.

The bacteria that cause spoilage in peas and beans thrive in the temperature that makes you say "Whew, ain't it hot in here!" The quicker you make it too hot for bacteria, the better. So, don't piddle around when canning vegetables or anything else for that matter. If you have no pressure cooker, use a water-bath canner (never an oven or a steamer for vegetables). And remember to boil beans and peas 15 minutes before tasting them—even if a pressure cooker is used—for about once in a million or so times, a toxin forms in non-acid foods. Such toxin can be destroyed by boiling. Failure to take this precaution has been known to cause serious illness. Reboil non-acid vegetables left over from one meal to another.

To use a water bath right: Have the water steaming hot and deep enough to cover the tops of the jars two or more inches when they are put into the canner. Get the water boiling as quickly as possible and keep it boiling steadily every minute of the time called for in the recipe. Take the jars out of the canner as soon as they have processed long enough; complete the seal on all jars that require it (all except two-piece vacuum seals should be partly sealed before and completely sealed after processing—the vacuum seals are sealed before only); stand the jars far apart on a cloth or folded newspaper to cool. Make sure every jar is sealed when put away for winter and, believe it or not, there will come a day when you will say "I didn't dream it possible that canned peas could taste so much like garden fresh ones."

Food Conservation Is Major Objective For Every Housewife

Many a homemaker who has never done so before will roll back her sleeves and make herself at home in her kitchen like the hardy pioneer women from whom she's descended. For many, this summer will be their first spent in good, old-fashioned "putting up fruits and vegetables," and for others it will be an even more intense effort at canning than in previous years.

Out will come the kettles and the colanders, the pressure cookers, the drying racks, yes, and even the old wash boiler, fashioned into an efficient if not stream-lined water bath. Out must come dusty glass jars to be washed into sparkling cleanliness, sterilized and made ready to receive their vegetables and fruits. Once more the kitchen will come into its own, filled with the hustle, bustle and preparation for winter months.

Tempering all this activity will be one important thought: conservation. Food which cannot be used now must be saved for months when fresh produce is not available. Now, when 50% of the fruits and vegetables and processed foods from commercial producers is going to soldiers and allies, the home must take its place in providing a full larder for the family, assuring its wholehearted happiness and well being.

First things must come first—this is the dictate of the times. First things mean fruits and vegetables and perhaps even meats for next winter's well-balanced meals. After that, if there's sugar, fruits and vegetables left, Mrs. Homemaker can add to her shelves a few jams, jellies and pickles to provide zest and tang to meals.

At summer's end, families can look with well-justified pride at their cupboards, for there will be the means with which to stretch their ration points and the assurance that they can maintain themselves in the best of health and efficiency, coupled with the feeling that they've done their part on one indispensable production front—the food front.

Golden Rules Make Canning Easy

Fill Your Pantry Shelves The Patriotic Way

YOU haven't canned before? Put your worries aside, for if you follow these golden rules of canning, you can put your fruits and vegetables up successfully.

Select the freshest possible food, for there's less chance for organisms to get their work done and cause decay. Both fruits and vegetables should be given a thorough dunking in plenty of water so that dirt, which also harbors germs, is washed off and spoilage prevented.

Don't expect to can your whole victory garden produce all in one grand sweep. If you're overly ambitious, you'll tire before the job can be completed with the care and attention to detail that's necessary. Remember, canning's an exact science. Besides, you can't cut down on processing time. It takes just so long to work the miracle of sterilization which will keep your food in first class condition during the months it stands on the shelves awaiting use.

On the day that you plan to can, don't figure on getting that laundry out of the way or giving your clothes mothproof treatment. You'll be up early to trot to the garden to get fresh vegetables, or if you buy them, set Big Ben for the crack of dawn and tie a bandana around your hair, and off you go to market.

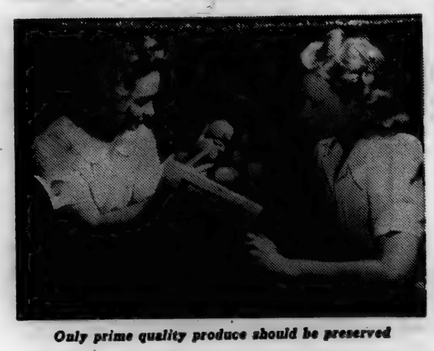
It's a good idea to check jars and canning equipment the day before you actually do your canning. See that jars do not have any nicks or cracks around the sealing edges. It's poor economy to re-use rubber bands.

Check Jars Carefully for Perfect Seal

After fruits or vegetables are packed in the jars, wipe the edge of the jar before adjusting cap. Food particles which lodge between edge of jar and cap prevent perfect seal.

Avoid packing starchy vegetables too tightly. For the starchy vegetables, leave one inch space between top of jar and vegetable to allow for expansion. For pre-cooked fruits and berries, allow one-half inch from top, for fruits which are cold-packed, allow one inch.

Steam-blanching means cooking in steam. Vegetables are steam-blanched before they are packed in sterile jars for processing. Some prefer pre-cooking or plunging in boiling water, but recent research reveals that steam-blanching retains more vitamins. Steam-blanching is necessary to stop enzymatic action, set the color, improve flavor to save vitamins.



Only prime quality produce should be preserved

For steam-blanching, use a deep vessel with a wire basket or colander and a tight fitting cover. A deep-well cooker will do. Place enough water in bottom of vessel to cover one-half inch, put vegetable in basket, cover tightly, and steam for 5 minutes.

Hot-pack applies to fruits or vegetables which are pre-cooked or steam blanched in some way before packing into sterile jars for processing.

Cold-pack means that the fruit or vegetable is not cooked before packing into jars and processing. For vegetables, salt and water are added (one teaspoon of salt per pint), and for fruits one of the syrups.

Most popular canning syrup this season will be a light syrup which does not require too much sugar. This is frequently referred to as a light syrup and is made by boiling together one cup of sugar and three cups of water for 5 minutes.

Fruits may be canned with plain water instead of syrup, but the appearance of the fruit is not as good nor is the taste as good with fruits canned with syrup.

Canners Have Choice of Four Methods

A glance at the daily food requirements issued by the government shows that 50% of those requirements include fruits and vegetables. These are essential for health and efficiency. Home-canned foods will enable families to live well within their limited point allowance.

There are many different methods of canning that can be used successfully at home. But before actual canning begins there are certain important principles of canning which the homemaker must understand.

A safe old-fashioned rule to follow when canning is to see that vegetables and fruits are "two hours from garden to the jar." That's a rush, but use only foods which are as fresh as possible, in young, prime condition.

Four different methods of canning are by PRESSURE COOKER, WATER BATH, that is, by submerging the jar in boiling water, by a THERMOSTATICALLY CONTROLLED OVEN or by the OPEN KETTLE method.

In addition to the equipment used in one of these methods, you must have utensils for preparing the vegetables, jars, caps, rubbers and storage space. Utensils for preparing vegetables include several large kettles with tight-fitting covers, a wire basket, colander, measuring spoons and cups, a funnel, a large jelly-roll pan or cookie sheet to place on floor of the oven should liquid boil out from the jars during processing by the oven method.

The pressure cooker is most reliable for canning non-acid vegetables. There's a very good reason, too. In vegetables there's present a very destructive germ, Botulinus, by name. The germ lodges itself in the soil and becomes absorbed by the vegetable while it grows. It's hard to detect Botulinus for it doesn't change the color of the vegetables or cause an odor of spoilage. However, one can become ill from eating canned vegetables, and there are many cases on record of Botulinus poisoning in the United States.

Extreme Temperatures Bring Death To Botulinus

Most effective methods of eliminating Botulinus are extreme heat, extreme cold, dehydration or brining. Extreme heat means a temperature of 240°F. or over. Neither the oven nor the water bath can give THIS HIGH DEGREE OF TEMPERATURE inside the jar, and for this reason the steam pressure cooker must be used with non-acid vegetables. This type of canning gives a temperature of 217°F. INSIDE THE JAR, while the pressure gauge registers 240°F., enough to do away with Botulinus, home canner's enemy No. 1.

It is true that steam pressure canners are hard to obtain this year. But there are enough new and old canners to do a great deal of work, if they are used wisely and generously.

There will be 150,000 steam pressure canners manufactured this year. They will be the size to hold seven quart jars at a time. This isn't nearly so many such canners as homemakers would buy, given the chance.

These new steam pressure canners will be rationed, because that way each state receives its quota, and also efforts can be made to see that the canners go to individuals or groups who will make extra-good use of them.

In an agricultural county, the county farm rationing committee has charge of considering applications and granting purchase certificates. In a non-farming county, a committee will be assigned to take care of this rationing. And city families have been advised that they stand a better chance of having an application approved if families team together.

If you can't buy a steam pressure canner, perhaps you can borrow. That is, try teaming with a neighbor who has a canner and will lend it or who will do your canning in exchange for some job you can do for her.

If you don't buy or borrow, you may still find a way to use a steam pressure canner, for many a community will set up a food preservation center this summer.

A canner for your tomatoes and fruits is no special problem. The best way to process these foods is in a boiling-water bath, and probably you have the makings of a canner right in the kitchen. All that is needed is a good-sized kettle or wash boiler, or any other sizable container with a good lid. It must be deep enough for water to cover the jar tops about 2 inches. You will need to contrive a rack of wood or wire to fit in the bottom. The boiling water must bubble and flow all around, over and under each jar.

CANNING ARITHMETIC

Use this handy table for determining the number of quart or pint jars you will need for canning fruits and vegetables.

Apples.....1 bu. (50 lb.) cans 17-20 qts.	Greens.....1 bu. (12 lb.) cans 5-7 qts.
Apricots....4 basket crate (1 bu.) cans 20-25 qts.	Peaches.....1 bu. (50 lb.) cans 18-20 qts.
Asparagus.....24 lb. crate cans 7-8 qts.	Pears.....1 bu. (58 lb.) cans 20-24 qts.
Beans, lima.....1 bu. (28 lb.) cans 6-8 qts.	Peas.....1 bu. (32 lb.) cans 12-16 qts.
Beans, snap.....1 bu. (24 lb.) cans 16-20 qts.	Pineapples.....15 pineapples yield 30 pts.
Beets.....1 bu. (60 lb.) cans 22-24 qts.	Plums.....1 bu. (56 lb.) cans 24-30 qts.
Berries.....24-qt. crate cans 15-24 qts.	Squash.....1 bu. (40 lb.) cans 16-20 qts.
Carrots.....1 bu. (50 lb.) cans 20-22 qts.	Strawberries.....24-qt. crate cans 10-15 qts.
Cherries.....1 bu. (56 lb.) cans 20-25 qts.	Sweet potatoes.....1 bu. (52 lb.) cans 16-20 qts.
Corn 1 bu. (whole kernel style) (72 lb.) cans 8-9 qts.	Tomatoes.....1 bu. (56 lb.) cans 15-20 qts.
Grapes.....1 bu. (48 lb.) cans 16-20 qts.

Oven Method of Canning

Both gas and electric ovens which have accurate heat controls may be used for canning fruits and vegetables. Coal, gasoline, oil and wood heated ovens are not equipped with thermostats and should not be used.

After tomatoes or fruit are packed in jars to within a half inch of the top, to allow room for expansion caused by heat, and for boiling, screw on tops and then loosen ¼ of a turn. Set jars at least 1 inch apart directly on oven racks. Do not use top unit in oven canning. Start counting processing time when indicator registers 250° F., and do not allow heat to exceed that temperature during processing time. Remove jars at end of processing time, and complete sealing.

The open kettle method was popular formerly and is still used to some extent for fruits and tomatoes. Many homemakers who have used it stand by it steadfastly as it can produce excellent results, although, used carelessly, the degree of spoilage can be very high. Tomatoes or fruits are thoroughly precooked and then packed into hot, sterile jars. If a higher degree of safety is desired, it's a good idea to take extra precaution and place the jars, after they have been filled and sealed, into a hot water bath for 5 minutes, or in a 250°F. for 25 minutes.

Other Methods of Preserving Food

Dehydration is one of the oldest methods of canning and is being revived with great interest this year. Oven drying is used with special wood racks or wire racks to dry vegetables thoroughly after they have been steam-blanched.

Quick-freezing is used in communities where cold storage locker facilities are available. Foods preserved in this way are easy to prepare, the vegetables requiring only steam-blanching, then packing in cartons, the fruits and berries are prepared as for table, sugared, then packed in transparent bags and sealed.

BE CAREFUL!

In canning non-acid vegetables such as beans, peas, and corn, etc., the U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends the use of a pressure cooker to insure absolute safety. Several states (where the botulinus organism has never been found) recommend the hot water bath for vegetables, but such methods are not endorsed by the Department of Agriculture.

Ample Vegetables Insure Nutritious All-Year Meals

Close Observance of Directions Leads to Canning Success

The most important contribution every homemaker can make to the war effort is in serving well-balanced meals every single day. This means the serving of at least two daily servings of vegetables. To assure her family of getting this quota every day of the non-growing season, Mrs. Homemaker should put up what she will need during the summer.

The successful canning of vegetables is not difficult. There are only a few general rules which should be observed in canning all vegetables. The first one is selecting a vegetable that is young and tender. The young, tender, freshly gathered vegetables will have more food value than the over-mature ones and their keeping quality and flavor is better.

Wash all vegetables thoroughly. Soils are usually heavily laden with bacteria, causing spoilage and the washing will remove these particles of soil which might otherwise cause spoilage.

Another important step in guarding against spoilage and retaining more food value in canned vegetables, is working rapidly with the vegetable, carrying every step of the canning through without delay. To help speed up the procedure, see that the canning equipment is clean and in readiness, before the work on the vegetable is begun. Check the pressure cooker or canner that is to be used, to see that it is in working order. Examine the sealing edge of the jars for nicks, cracks or sharp edges that would prevent a seal. Discard the imperfect ones.

Wash the jars well in hot, soapy water, scald thoroughly and invert them on a clean folded cloth until ready to use. See that a sufficient number of jar caps are on hand to complete the canning and be sure to check over the instructions for using the particular type of jar cap you have chosen. It may or may not require boiling.

When the two-piece "Self Sealing" cap is used, it needs no boiling. Simply place the lids in a pan and pour boiling water over them. When the jar is filled with the hot vegetable, place the lid on the jar, with sealing composition next to glass, and screw the band firmly tight. This cap will require no further tightening, thus eliminating the handling of the hot jars to seal them, when they are removed from the pressure cooker or canner.

Hot Pack Method for Most Vegetables

The hot pack method should be used for most vegetables. This means boiling the vegetables in water for a few minutes, to remove air from the food cells and to shrink the vegetable to make packing more uniform. Packing the vegetable hot will also speed up the heat of processing. As soon as the precooking time is up on vegetables, they should be packed while boiling hot and the jars placed in the canner at once, to process. If a pressure cooker is available, it should be used for the processing.

If the vegetables vary a great deal in size, you will get a better looking product if you grade the vegetable and get the content of each jar as uniform as possible. Use the water in which the vegetables are precooked or steam-blanched to fill the jars so there will be as little vitamin loss as possible. If necessary, additional boiling water may also be used in filling the jar. For pint jars of vegetables, add one teaspoon of salt before packing in the vegetable, and for quarts, add two teaspoons.

Usually jars are filled to within ½ inch of the top, but in the case of starchy foods such as corn, peas, beans, inch-length asparagus, it's smart to leave one inch free at the top to allow for sufficient expansion of vegetables during processing.

Work as fast as possible once the food has been heated and started on its way to processing. Objectionable bacteria develop most rapidly and do the most damage between the temperatures of 105-150° F. Fill the pressure cooker with only as many jars as it will take.

If self sealing cap is used, fasten firmly tight before processing. It is not necessary to tighten this type after processing. For zinc cap used with rubber band, screw tight, loosen ¼ turn, process, then screw tight after processing.

After jars have been processed and seal completed when necessary, place on several thicknesses of paper or cloth, away from drafts. Let cool thoroughly before storing in a cool place. Although it may be obvious what the jar contains, it's a good idea to label them with the name of the product and the date canned.

If the jars do not appear perfectly sealed after testing, if there's leakage or bubbles rising in the jar, they should be opened and re-processed at once for one-half their original processing time, then sealed and tested as before. A new cap must be used in the case of re-processing.

Vegetable	Preparation Required	Processing: Hot Water Bath Minutes	Processing: Pressure Cooker Minutes	Processing: Pressure Cooker Pounds

Use Extra Care In Canning Meats, Poultry, Fish

Meat can be canned at home with successful results—but every detail of the canning procedure must be followed to the letter. Many homemakers will have meat, poultry, fish, fowl and game which they will want to preserve to help stretch those red points next winter.

Make sure that the meat which you use for canning is the flesh of healthy, correctly slaughtered animals. If you are doing the slaughtering yourself, confine the animal 24 hours before killing, and give water but no feed. Neither frighten nor chase the animal before slaughter, hang head down immediately after slaughter to permit thorough bleeding. Draw, drench the carcass with cold water to remove blood. Wipe perfectly dry with clean cloth.

Pork, mutton and veal should be chilled thoroughly 24-36 hours, while beef needs 36-48 hour chilling. Make certain that at no time during chilling should the meat freeze as this gives an inferior product when canned.

Cut meat into pieces desirable for canning. Trim meat free of excess fat as this helps its preservative qualities. Also remove gristle, bruised spots, heavy connective tissue, and bones if they are too large.

Use a damp cloth to wipe meat clean, but do not allow it to stand in water. Fish and strong-flavored game, however, are usually soaked in salt water before canning.

Meat may be hot-packed or cold-packed for canning, but it is preferable to use hot pack with processing in the steam pressure cooker.

If cold-packed, place raw meat in jars and add salt but no water. Meat prepared in this way will make its own juice.

To use the hot pack method, cook meat until ⅓ to ½ done, or until almost all pink has disappeared at the center. Use any method of cooking desired—steaming, broiling, baking, or roasting. Frying is least desirable, as it tends to make meat dry and flavorless. Pack meat in hot, sterile jars, then cover with gravy or broth, for better flavor. Add salt. Leave at least ¼ of an inch at top of jar free. Process immediately after packing according to directions given in time table.

It is best not to roll cuts of meat in flour before they are packed in jars for canning. When the meat is re-heated it is apt to have a warmed over taste. Flour also retards penetration of heat in processing.

Pressure Cooker Safest For Non-Acid Vegetables

A pressure cooker offers the greatest degree of safety for canning non-acid vegetables and meats, for it is the only way in which to get the 240°F. temperature necessary for destroying Botulinus. If you do not own a cooker yourself, try begging or borrowing one from a friend of yours, or apply to your ration board to see if you are eligible to get one of the few that is being made available this year. Community canning is becoming popular in many communities, and a pressure cooker may be made available to them.

Pressure cookers are easy to use if you follow directions,

Follow Directions When Using Pressure Cooker

know the A B Cs of its operation. Here are the rules to follow when using it:

Fill the cooker with boiling water up to the level of the rack. Place cover on it and preheat while you are preparing the food for the cooker.

To prepare food, clean thoroughly, steam-blanch or precook it and pack into sterile jars. Place on lids and twist screw bands down firmly.

Put the filled jars into pressure cooker, being careful to see that none of them touch each other, and allowing for circulation of heat. Adjust lid to cooker and fasten clamps. Leave petcock open to allow steam to escape for 5-10 minutes. All air inside cooker must be exhausted to prevent spoilage and leakage.

Close petcock and let pressure mount to desired temperature. When the pressure is about one pound less than required amount, then turn down heat. Watch temperature gauge and do not let pressure fluctuate. Always process the required time, for there's no way to hurry processing time.

When processing is completed, remove pressure cooker from heat, and LET PRESSURE GAUGE FALL TO ZERO. Then open petcock gently, allow steam to escape very slowly, or juices and liquids will be drawn from jars.

Do not turn jars upside down or handle them unnecessarily. Place them on several thicknesses of cloth somewhere protected from drafts. When the jars are cooled completely—for 24 hours, at least—remove screw bands, and test for seal.

PRECAUTION

All home canned meats and vegetables must be boiled in an open vessel for 10-15 minutes before using or tasting. This applies to meats and vegetables used in salads.

A seal test is an important step in canning. Take a spoon and tap the lid gently. If it gives off a clear, ringing sound, and the lid has a slight dip caused by the vacuum inside, the seal is perfect. If the lid gives out with a dull sound, the seal is imperfect. In this last case, replace the lid with a new one and reprocess for half the original time.

Avoid an imperfect seal by wiping off rim of jar before fastening cap. Jars should not be inverted after processing.

Vegetable Dehydration Will Pay Dividends

Dehydration is a big word, but don't let it frighten you! It's a streamlined way of saying drying. Dried foods are not new to homemakers, for they've been known for centuries. The pilgrims picked it up from their Indian neighbors and found it most successful for keeping food throughout the winter.

No doubt dehydration would have continued except for commercial canning, but today it is again coming into its own because of shortages in tin and lack of pressure cookers for home canning. In fact, it is the recommended method if you have no pressure cooker available for canning non-acid vegetables.

Bacteria are thirsty creatures and cannot survive in anything in which extreme dryness prevails. The object of dehydration is to make the vegetables bone dry to stop the development and growth of harmful bacteria which would cause spoilage.

Corn, peas, beans, carrots and okra may be dehydrated successfully. Leafy green vegetables may also be dehydrated but they require more care. The foods may be dehydrated either indoors or outdoors, but the indoor method is preferable as outdoor drying causes greater vitamin loss. In indoor drying, the heat may be supplied by the oven of your range, electric bulbs, portable heaters or surface heat from the range.

Use Choicest Produce for Drying

Vegetables used for drying should be table-fresh, crisp and tender. They should be in the best of condition, thoroughly cleaned, and used immediately after picking.

To save precious vitamins, steam-blanch vegetables for dehydration. This is done by cleaning the vegetables as for the table. Place in a deep well cooker or colander which fits into a deep kettle of water. Have about 1 inch of water boiling at the bottom of the kettle when colander full of vegetables is placed in it. Cover tightly with close fitting cover. Steam until vegetable is cooked as for table use, and then proceed with dehydration.

Steam-blanching vegetables preserves their color and vitamins and gives a superior flavored product. Naturally all dehydrated vegetables must be soaked in water before using to allow them to absorb the moisture which they lost during drying.

Air must be allowed to circulate freely through the dehydrator, and the heat should be even. There should be enough heat to dry the vegetable in a minimum amount of time, but not enough to scorch it. When thoroughly dry, foods are stored in moisture-proof and insect-proof bags in cool, dry, dark place.

The oven is adaptable for drying in small quantities. The temperature required is 150° F. This should be maintained throughout the drying process. If necessary, leave oven door ajar. Place the drying racks as high as possible in the oven to remove them from closeness to the heating unit which is usually at the bottom.

To prepare oven for dehydration, light the oven while vegetable is steam-blanching. Set the regulator at low. Prop oven door open about 8 inches. During the whole drying process, stir the food several times so it dries evenly.

In using the electric oven, set thermostat low. Remove or do not use upper unit. Heat oven before placing vegetable racks in to prevent steaming or sulphuring. Place trays on upper set of glides, and leave door ajar as for broiling. Trays should be shifted 8 to 12 times during drying.

A Few Easy-to-follow Directions For Common Vegetables

Dehydrated carrots are delicious if they are prepared thus: Peel, slice, dice or shred. Steam for 10 minutes, then place in drying rack in a 160° F. oven to dry. Drying time depends upon vegetable and averages from 4 to 12 hours.

Green beans may be dehydrated successfully. Use only garden-fresh beans. Remove ends and strings if any and break into short lengths or leave lengthwise as preferred. Steam for 15 minutes. Dry at 140 to 145° F, until brittle dry.

Celery which is dehydrated is often ground after drying is finished and then used for seasoning soups or meats. Wash celery stalks and cut into short lengths about ¼ inch long. Include leaves either whole or cut up. Steam for 2 minutes and dry at 145° F.

Peas are excellent when dehydrated. Use them at their freshest, immediately after picked. Shell and steam for 15 minutes. Dry at 150° F.

Turnips or rutabagas dehydrate nicely. Peel, slice thin or shred. Steam 10 minutes and dehydrate at 150° F. until bone dry.

Many families are learning again to eat dried sweet corn —and liking it.

So if your victory garden yields more roasting ears than you can eat fresh, and if you have no steam pressure outfit to safely home can your corn, try storing away some in dried form for next winter's eating.

Food specialists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture say you can dry corn either by controlled heat or by the warmth of the sun.

Use any good table corn, gathered when it is in good condition for immediate eating. As for canning, plan to use corn right away—do not let it stand for any length of time before drying. If it should have to stand even for a few hours, keep it cool. That helps to keep the sugar in the corn from changing to starch and losing its sweetness.

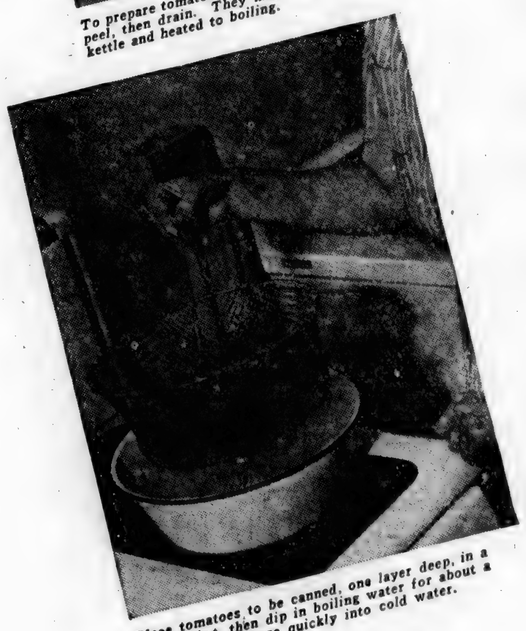
First, husk the corn and remove any blemishes. You do not need to silk it, however, because the silks separate easily from the kernels after they are dried.

Then steam the corn for 10 minutes in a deep container with a tight-fitting lid. Or hold it in boiling water from 8 to 12 minutes—until the milk is "set." Test for that is when no fluid comes from the kernels when you cut across them.

When through steaming or boiling the corn, drain it, cool it, and cut it from the cob.

If you have some way to dry the corn by controlled heat, you will find this method much quicker than sun drying.

To prepare tomatoes for canning, dip them first in boiling water to peel, then drain. They may be cut in quarters, then placed in a kettle and heated to boiling.



Place tomatoes to be canned, one layer deep, in a wire basket, then dip in boiling water for about a minute, then plunge quickly into cold water.

Have tomatoes in a kettle at one side of the range. They should be boiling hot. Lift an empty glass jar from a kettle of boiling water, using clamps or a large kitchen fork for the purpose. Fill the jar immediately from boiling hot tomatoes.

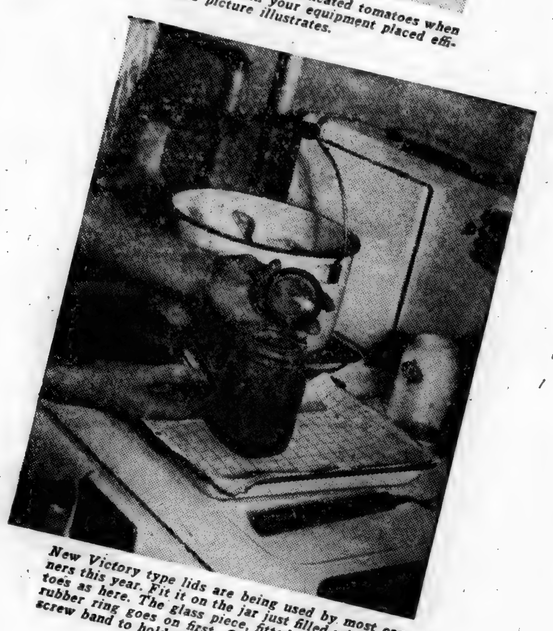
It's easy to fill the hot, sterile jars with the heated tomatoes when you do it like this. Work quickly with your equipment placed efficiently on the range like this picture illustrates.



New Victory type lids are being used by most canners this year. Fit it on the jar just filled with tomatoes as here. The glass piece, fitted with a separate rubber ring goes on first. Over this goes the metal screw band to hold the lid in place.

These tomatoes have been processed in a water-bath— a large kettle with a rack at the bottom and a tight fitting cover, filled with boiling water. There should be enough water in the kettle to boil an inch or two above the jars.

Surplus Foods Stored Best in Cool Cellar

Victory gardeners who raise more than their families eat during the growing season can well send many of their products to the winter-time dinner table by way of the cellar, indoors or out, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Cellars under houses provide storage facilities if they are cool, moist and well ventilated. Outdoor cellars serve similar purposes for gardeners who have basements unsuitable for vegetable storage.

Basements with a furnace for heating the house are usually too warm and dry, but it is often possible to partition off a room either in one corner or at one end where the temperature may be controlled by means of outside windows. At least one window is needed; and two or more are desirable for cooling and ventilation.

Storage-room windows should be darkened to protect vegetables from light. They can be boxed in or shaded to keep the light out when the windows are open.

Directions for constructing a storage room in a corner of the basement are as follows:

Lay two 2-by-4-inch scantlings flat on the floor where the two walls are to be built, using the cellar wall for the other two sides. Secure these scantlings firmly to the cellar floor. Set 2-by-4-inch studs from the sill formed by the scantlings to the ceiling, spacing them 16 inches apart from center to center.

Locate the door to the storage room at the most convenient point, making it large enough to admit barrels and boxes, a good size being 2½ feet wide by 6½ feet high. Set the studs on either side of the door 32 inches apart; this will allow for the door and the frame. Put a header over the door, allowing 1 inch for the frame and seven-eighths of an inch for the sill at the bottom. Set the studs against the walls where the cellar walls and storage-room walls meet.

Care in Construction Guarantees Results

Care in making the frame square and plumb will enable the builder to get the structure tight with a minimum of labor. A good room is made by covering the studs on the outside with tongue-and-groove material, but a better way is to sheathe the outside with plain lumber, tack building paper on this, and side with tongue-and-groove material. This construction in connection with lath and plaster or wallboard on the inside makes an excellent room.

Barrels, crates, boxes or bins may be used as containers for the various vegetables and fruits, but movable containers are preferable to built-in bins, as it is possible to remove them for cleaning.

Outdoor storage cellars, accessible from the kitchen at all times, are also excellent for vegetable storage. The type and construction of outdoor cellars vary with their geographical location, but all must be free from moisture and frost.

An above-ground storage cellar suited to conditions in southern sections of the United States may be built on a well-drained site at low cost. A row of posts may be set 5 or 6 feet apart, extending 7 or 8 feet above the surface of the ground, with a ridge pole placed on top of them. Against each side of the ridge pole a row of planks or puncheons is placed, with their opposite ends resting in a shallow trench 4 or 5 feet from the line of posts. The ends are boarded up, a door being provided in one end of the structure, and the roof covered with sod to a depth of 5 or 6 inches.

Avoid Storing Skinned or Bruised Vegetables

Victory garden products intended for storage should be handled carefully at all times to avoid bruises and skin breaks, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The successful storage of vegetables, is, however, described as "not at all difficult." In fact, say the authors of a Federal bulletin on this subject, "good storage facilities already exist in many homes, it being only necessary to make use of the cellar, a large closet, or other parts of the dwelling, and to take reasonable care to discard all individual vegetables showing any decay or mechanical injury before putting them into storage."

Places recommended for home storage of vegetables include attics, outdoor cellars and basements. Dry beans and peas, for example, are stored in an attic or other cool, dry place, while late cabbage keeps best in a pit, trench or outdoor cellar. Other garden products are suggested for storing, as follows:

Onions, in any cool dry place, above freezing.
Parsnips, where they grew, or in soil in storage cellar.
Various root crops, in pit or in soil in storage cellar.
Potatoes, in pit or storage cellar.
Pumpkins and squashes, in dry, fairly cool cellar or basement.
Sweet potatoes, in dry, warm cellar or basement.

The length of the periods during which the vegetables can be stored vary from "as long as desired" for dry beans and peas, to only 2 to 3 weeks for cauliflower and broccoli. The storage period length for endive is 2 to 3 months. Late cabbage and late celery can be stored through late fall and winter.

Onions, parsnips, various root crops, potatoes, pumpkins, squashes and sweet potatoes may be stored through the entire fall and winter.

Temperature and humidity requirements for good storage are summarized, as follows:

Dry beans and peas, cool and dry.
Late cabbage, cool; avoid severe freezing, and keep moderately moist.
Cauliflower and broccoli, 32° F. Moderately moist.
Onions, cool and dry.
Parsnips, cold; freezing does not injure. Moderately moist.
Various root crops, cool; avoid freezing. Moderately moist.
Pumpkins and squashes, 50° to 60° F. Moderately dry.
Sweet potatoes, 55° to 60° F. Moderately dry.
Potatoes, avoid freezing. Moderately moist.

Fruit Preparation and Processing Guide

Easy-To-Can Foods Supply Vital Minerals, Vitamins

Loveliest to look at, easy to do, and wonderful aids to winter menu-making for providing precious minerals and vitamins to diets, are home-canned fruits and berries. Unlike non-acid vegetables, which require a pressure cooker for processing for the greatest degree of safety, fruits and berries may be put up by the water bath or oven method, or even by open kettle successfully.

For home canned fruits and berries, select the fresh product with the greatest degree of care, being careful to observe the "two hours from garden to kettle" rule to the letter as much as possible. Fruits for canning must be fresh, firm-ripe rather than overly mature, sound, unbruised and clean. That sounds like a big order, but remember that canning does not improve flavor, it preserves the fruit, and therefore it must fill the requirements. Remember, too, that commercial canners exercise the greatest care in the selection of fruit they use, and home canning is no different.

Sorting fruit as to size, color and degree of ripeness is important if the finished product is to approach commercial perfection. It's important, too, for ease in canning, so that fruit equally ripe, and of the same size and color may be canned together. Fruits should be washed and drained before the skin is cut or broken. Berries require sorting and grading just as fruits do to get a superior product. Less choice fruits and berries—particularly those which do not meet the high standards of size, color and ripeness may be used for butters, jams and jellies.

Choose Best Fruits, Berries for Canning

Canning Fruits Without Sugar

One of the biggest questions homemakers face in regard to fruit canning is, of course, how much sugar they can get for the purpose. Some extra sugar is available for home canning and may be obtained from applying to the local rationing board. Some foresighted homemakers have been setting aside sugar in a "sugar bank" for their canning needs. But there are still a large majority who will not have enough to reach around.

Several solutions are available. If the homemaker has a small quantity of fruit to can and a small quantity of sugar available she can use a light syrup for fruits and berries. This is made by bringing to a boil three cups of water with one cup of sugar. This will be the most popular type of syrup.

Sugar substitutes can also be used in making syrups for fruit canning. Both honey and corn syrup can be used in place of the sugar. In substituting honey for the light syrup described above, use one cup of honey to three cups of water. In any syrup recipe for canning fruits, substitute one cup honey for one cup of sugar. If corn syrup is used, the proportion is one and one-half cups corn syrup to three cups of water.

When all honey is used for making fruit syrups, the finished product, particularly in the case of pears and peaches, is darker and the original fruit flavor is intensified. For this reason, it is better to use a combination of honey and sugar in making the syrup.

To make a combination honey and sugar syrup, good for tart fruits such as cherries, plums and apples, use 1 cup honey, 1 cup sugar and 4 cups water. Bring the water and sugar to a boiling point, add honey. Allow to come to a good, rolling boil, skim and use.

To make the honey and sugar syrup for sweeter fruits and berries, use ¼ cup honey, ¼ cup sugar and 2¼ cups water. Here again, bring water and sugar to a boil, add honey and let come to a good, rolling boil, then skim and use. This makes an especially nice syrup for strawberries, pineapple, raspberries, peaches or sweet cherries.

When both sugar and sugar substitutes for syrups are scarce, don't refrain from putting up your fruits. You may use boiling water in place of the syrups, or fruit juices made from the fruits themselves. In this case, of course, you would have to sweeten the fruit and berries when serving. Use this method as a last resort—not in preference to a sweetened syrup, for fruit is better flavored and better preserved because sugar itself mellows and makes a better tasting canned product of the fruits and berries.

Follow One of These Procedures To Obtain Best Results

After the fruits and berries are sorted and cleaned and made ready for canning, several procedures may be followed to carry the product into its finished stage—colorful, bright, plump appearing in glass jars—carefully processed and perfectly sealed.

Hot-pack is recommended for some fruits and berries. This means pre-cooking the fruit for a short time before packing into sterile jars, and then processing. Cold pack means that both the product and syrup is cold when packed in a hot, sterile jar.

Water Bath: This method is very successful for processing fruits and berries. Take out an old wash boiler and fit bottom with a rack, or use a large kettle with tight fitting cover and rack at the bottom, or a deep well cooker if your range is equipped with it. The rack must hold the jars one-half inch from the bottom, and the bath should be deep enough to allow the water at least one inch above the top of the jars after they are submerged in it.

Place well-filled jars on rack and allow for free circulation of water around them. Start counting processing time when water surrounding the jars begins to boil. The water must be boiling all during processing time. If it boils down, add enough boiling water to keep it at the required level. Use the timetable on this page for determining time of processing—and don't skip a minute of it!

Oven Canning: Your oven must be equipped with an automatic heat control, and may be gas or electric. Set the prepared fruit or berries in the jars on the rack in a cold oven. Jars should not touch each other or the sides of the oven. Set regulator at 250° F. and light or turn on oven, starting to count processing time when it is switched on. Keep it at that temperature or the liquid will evaporate in the jars. See the timetable—and process exact time required.

Many Prefer Open Kettle Method For Fruits and Tomatoes

Open Kettle Method: Use a large kettle, and cook fruit in its syrup until thoroughly done. Sterilization of fruit and berries, jars and other equipment used, plus a perfect seal can give you good results.

Old-fashioned though it may be, the open kettle method is still the preference on many a home canner's list for fruits and tomatoes. If every precaution is exercised, it may be successful, in fact, as successful as the water bath and oven method. Fruits are cooked in their syrup until done, over direct heat in one of these large, open kettles.

There's a reason for preferring open kettle, although it's much harder to be successful with it, than by water bath or oven canning. Fruits, and berries, too, are evenly and beautifully cooked. When they are placed in the clean, sterile jars—which you have in hot boiling water for 15 minutes before filling them, use a silver knife and press down into the side of the jar several times, to destroy any stray bacteria which may have come in betwixt the sterile jar and the hot, cooked fruit. Then wipe the edges free of seeds, syrup or pulp before fastening lid.

Smart trick this year is to combine open kettle method with water bath or oven canning. Cook the fruit to lovely doneness in the open kettle, and after finishing sealing, place it in the water bath for 5 minutes or in the oven at 250° F. for 25 minutes—and assure yourself of complete safety in canning.

Here are open kettle recipes for most common fruits:

APPLES

Select uniform apples, wash, pare and core. Cut into desired size. If peeled fruit stands, sprinkle with lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Drain. Drop into boiling syrup and cook until tender and transparent. Pack boiling hot into sterile jars and seal.

APPLE SAUCE

3 pounds green apples — 2 cups water
1¼ cups sugar

Wash, peel and quarter apples. Add water and cook until soft. Mash, then add sugar and cook for 10 minutes. Pack while boiling hot into sterilized jars. Seal at once.

APRICOTS

Select firm, ripe fruit. Peel, if desired, halve and remove stone. Put fruit in syrup, light or medium, simmer 10-15 minutes, then bring to a boil. Pack boiling hot into hot, sterile jars and seal immediately.

Use Sugar or Syrup if Obtainable

CHERRIES

Wash, stem and pit, if desired. Place in a light or medium syrup and boil 20 minutes. Pack while still boiling hot into sterile jars and seal at once.

PEACHES

Select firm, ripe peaches. Remove peel, leave whole or halve, or cut in slices. Boil in syrup, for 20 minutes, and pack boiling hot into hot, sterile jars and seal at once.

PEARS

Pare and core fruit and sprinkle with lemon juice if fruit must stand any time at all. Drain and boil 25 minutes in syrup. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice for each quart of pears. Pack hot into hot, sterile jars.

PLUMS

Select plums which are not too ripe. Wash and stem. Prick with needle to prevent bursting. Boil 20 minutes in syrup and pack boiling hot into sterile jars and seal immediately.

RHUBARB

Wash. Cut into inch length pieces without removing skin. Boil in syrup until tender, then pack into hot sterile jars and seal at once.

STRAWBERRIES

Here is a good combination of both methods for strawberries. If canned by this method, the strawberries will not float, they stay plump and delicious and do not lose their color:

2 cups sugar — 2 cups water
2 quarts strawberries

Cook sugar and water together until sugar is dissolved. Add the berries which have been washed and hulled. Cook for 5 minutes. Remove from range, cover with a cloth and allow to stand overnight. Pour strawberries into sterilized jars, filling to within ½ inch of top. Screw on lid, then loosen one-half turn. Place jars on rack in oven, taking care they don't touch. Process 45 minutes in a 250° F. oven or 15 minutes in water bath.

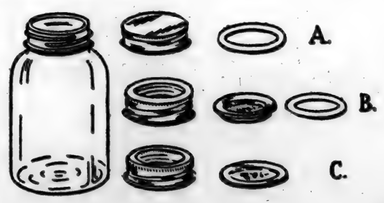
TYPES OF JARS and Caps to Fit Them

1. Jar with standard Mason size opening (2¾ inches in diameter) and with shoulder and deep thread (⅝ inch), taking screw cap or band.



A. Use a metal cap with white lacquer lining and a shoulder rubber ring. Or use a porcelain lined zinc cap—if you have a perfect one on hand—with a shoulder rubber. Zinc caps are not made now, due to war needs for zinc.

B. Or use a 3-piece cap—metal screw band, glass disk, top seal rubber.

C. Or use a 2-piece cap—metal screw band slightly less deep than style B, and metal disk with flowed-on rubber.

2. Jar with standard Mason size opening, without shoulder and with deep thread (⅛ inch) or shallow thread (3/16 inch). Some commercial jars are this type.

DEEP THREAD TYPE

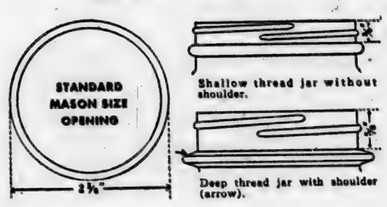
Or if thread is deep, use same type of 2-piece or 3-piece cap—shown in B and C above.

PATTERNS: For standard Mason size jar opening and for threads.



3. Lightning jar with wire bail. Opening: Similar size to standard Mason jar.

Use glass top and shoulder rubber ring.

4. "63" size jar with screw thread. Opening: 2⅛ inches diameter.

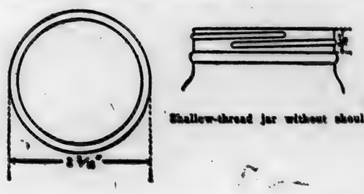
PATTERNS: For "63" jar openings and for threads.



JELLIES and PICKLES

Entire Family Will Enjoy Home-Made Jams and Jellies

Clear, sparkling and quivery—that's good jelly. Then, if it has fresh fruit flavor, it's perfect jelly! If it holds its angles when cut, then its score is 100 per cent.

To make good jelly, you must have a sufficient quantity of pectin in your fruits or berries, for this puts the jell in jellies. Some fruits have a good quantity of natural pectin, but others lacking in it will require the addition of another fruit containing a good quantity of pectin or a commercial pectin, either powdered or liquid. The use of a commercial pectin cuts down the boiling time of the juice considerably and thus the fruit or berries can retain a good natural color and flavor more readily.

Good jelly is easy to make if the whole procedure is understood and recipes followed to the letter. If you are making jelly without pectin, here is the method. Select fresh fruit or berries, wash and pick over carefully. Cook juicy fruits and berries without any water, and cook firmer, less juicy fruit and berries with only enough water to prevent scorching. It's useless to add a lot of water to fruit or berries in the hopes that there will be more jelly, for you will only have to cook down your juice to make jelly, and longer cooking destroys color and flavor.

Fruits, Berries Should Be Heated Slowly

Fruit and berries are heated slowly until juices begin to run freely. Then place cooked fruit in a jelly bag made from cheesecloth or muslin, hang up and let drain. Do not try to squeeze juice from the bag to hurry up the dripping as this may cause jelly to be cloudy.

After the juice has all dripped out, measure it, and add one cup of sugar to each cup of juice. Boil together the juice and sugar until you can make it pass the jelly test. To do this, take a drop or two of the sauce and let drop on a sauce dish. If it seems to jell immediately, the jelly is done. Another test for jelly is to take a little of the cooked juice, cool slightly, and pour back into the kettle from the edge of the spoon. If the jelly has not cooked long enough the juice will fall in two parallel drops from the spoon. When jelly is done, the drops will run together and fall from the spoon in a sheet, leaving the edge of the spoon clean. Remove jelly from heat and skim.

Pour jelly carefully into glasses and seal with paraffin at once and then store in a cool, dry place at once. Do not be concerned if jelly does not seem to set immediately after cooling. It may take a week or longer in some cases to complete the "jell."

Although the spoilage with jellies, jams, preserves, etc., is not as great as when canning fruits and vegetables, be sure to have jars washed and sterilized before pouring in jelly. Wash all glasses and jars in clean, soapy water, rinse, and boil 15 minutes in fresh water. Leave jars stand in hot water until ready to fill.

In making jellies with a fruit pectin, follow directions carefully, as the procedure is different from jelly-making as described for just fruit juice and sugar. Count the boiling time carefully as this is of the greatest importance.

Following are several recipes for jams, jellies, preserves, conserves, marmalades and pickles:

GRAPE JELLY
(Makes 11 medium-sized glasses)

5 cups juice
6½ cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare juice, stem about 3½ pounds fully ripe grapes, and crush thoroughly. Add 1½ cups water, bring to a boil, and simmer, covered for 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly bag or cloth and let juice drip. Measure sugar into dish and set aside. Measure juice into 5-6 quart saucepan. Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. Pour sugar in at once, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil and boil ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Seal with hot paraffin at once.

APRICOT AND RASPBERRY JAM

2 pounds apricots
¼ cup water
4½ cups sugar
1½ cups raspberries

Add water to apricots which have been peeled and pitted. Add sugar and raspberries and cook until jam is desired consistency. Pour into sterilized jars and seal at once.

Preserves, conserves and marmalades are to a meal what make-up is to a lady. They provide finish and smoothness. Because of small amount of sugar which will be left over for this purpose, consider your meal accompaniments carefully before you embark upon canning them. Make a small quantity at a time to assure care in making.

CARROT-ORANGE MARMALADE

6 oranges
4 lemons
4 cups water
6 cups carrots
5 cups sugar

Remove peel from oranges and lemons and chop the peel of both. Soak peel in 4 cups of water overnight and drain. Cut orange in small pieces, dice or run carrots through food chopper. Add peel to oranges and carrots and cook until tender in as little water as possible. Add sugar and water in which peel was soaked and cook until thick and clear. Add lemon juice and cook 5 minutes. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

PEACH CONSERVE

3 pounds peaches
2 oranges, sliced thin
2 cups shredded pineapple
1 small bottle maraschino cherries
6¾ cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt

Pour boiling water over peaches; drain; cover with cold water and remove skins. Chop peaches; add oranges, pineapple, cherry juice, sugar, salt and two or three cracked peach kernels. Boil hard for 30 minutes. Add cherries, cut in rings. Continue cooking until fruit is tender and syrup is thick, stirring frequently. Pour into hot, clean jelly glasses and seal.

PEAR PRESERVES

1 quart pears, sliced or chopped
1½ cups sugar
1 cup water or juice
2-3 slices lemon

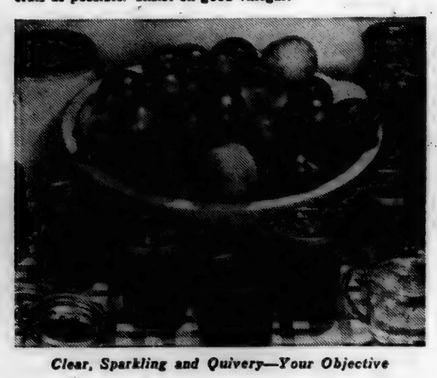
Pare fruit (if hard, cook until tender in water). Make a syrup out of liquid and sugar, add fruit to partly cooled syrup and bring gently to a boil. Boil rapidly until clear and tender, cool quickly. Stand in syrup to plump. Pack fruit in sterilized jars and add reheated syrup to within ⅛ inch of top. Seal at once.

BREAD AND BUTTER PICKLES

25-30 medium-sized cucumbers
8 large white onions
2 large sweet peppers
⅓ cup salt
5 cups cider vinegar
5 cups sugar (2½ pounds)
2 tablespoons mustard seed
1 teaspoon tumeric
½ teaspoon cloves

Wash cucumbers well and slice as thin as possible. Chop onions and peppers, combine with cucumbers and salt. Let stand 3 hours and drain. Combine vinegar, sugar and spices in large preserving kettle; bring to a boil. Add drained cucumbers. Heat thoroughly but do not boil. Pack while hot in sterilized jars and seal.

Best pickles are crisp pickles. To have them crisp, use only pure apple cider vinegar, use tested recipes to get the proper mixture for brine, and use water which is as free from minerals as possible. Insist on good vinegar.



Clear, Sparkling and Quivery—Your Objective

RIPE CUCUMBER SWEET PICKLES

8 large ripe cucumbers
¼ pound stick of cinnamon or oil of cinnamon
1 ounce whole cloves
1½ pints vinegar
3 pounds sugar

Pare the cucumbers, quarter, and take out seeds. Cut quarters into medium-sized pieces. Scald in salted water (2 tablespoons salt to 1 quart water), then drain and simmer in clear water until they are tender. Tie spices in a bag and boil them with vinegar and sugar 5 minutes. Pour this mixture over cucumbers, cover jar and set away. The next day, pour off syrup, boil for 10 minutes and pour over cucumbers again. Flavor is improved by repeating this process several times. With last heating, place pickles in cleaned, sterilized jars and seal at once.

SWEET PICKLES

Into a clean stone jar, put 2 gallons of cucumbers which have been washed carefully and sliced lengthwise. Dissolve 2 cups of salt in 2 gallons of boiling water and pour while hot over pickles. Cover and weight down pickles and let stand for one week. On the eighth day, drain, and then pour 1 gallon of boiling water over them and let stand 24 hours. On the ninth day, drain, and pour 1 gallon of boiling water with 1 tablespoon powdered alum over the pickles and let stand 24 hours. On the following, or tenth day, drain again and pour 1 gallon boiling water over pickles and let stand 24 hours. Drain.

To make the pickling mixture, combine 5 pints vinegar heated to boiling with 6 cups sugar, ½ ounce celery seed, 1 ounce cinnamon stick. Pour this over pickles, drain off for three mornings, reheating and adding 1 cup sugar each morning. With third and last heating, pack pickles into sterile jars, pour hot liquid over them and seal.

VOL. LVIII (58 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, JULY 8, 1943 NUMBER 27

From Boys IN THE U.S.Army

New addresses of the week:

Hearsel S. Shockley, A. S., Navy V-12 Unit, Hepburn Hall Room 307, Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont.

Aviation Cadet Roy Laub, Group N, Sqdn. 219, Preflight School "Pilot" S. A. A. C. C., San Antonio, Texas.

Tom Sellers was classified last week on Tuesday and placed in 1-A, subject to call.

Sgt. Dayton D. Webb, Jr., has received his silver wings and a marksman's medal upon graduating from the Harlingen Army Gunnery School at Harlingen, Texas. Sgt. Webb has been transferred to Salt Lake City, Utah and his new address will be given later.

St. Joe gives two more young men to the armed forces this week Chalmer Beaty left Wednesday and Rosoce Moore will leave Friday. Both are 1943 graduates from the local high school.

The following letters were sent in that people might know what the youngsters in V-12 were getting in their training:

Dear Sisters:

What are you doing this hot weather? We just got thru drilling for two hours. Boy, was it hot. We still haven't our uniforms, but expect them any time. The food is grand, and so is every thing else.

Boy, the officers sure make you step thru. We will be here 16 weeks instead of 16 months, as I said in the other letter. I may yet leave then, and then I may be transferred to another school. We're really on a full schedule. Tell Dad I'm taking these subjects two hours a day: Math. every other day or three days a week, Naval organization one day a week, History background 2, Eng. Drawing 3, Physics 3, oh, oh! English, 3 and Physical Training every day. I still haven't had any shots, but expect I'll get them. I'll close for now. Your Brother,

James Crothers.

P. S.—Don't forget to write.

Terre Haute, Ind.
July 4, '43.

Dear Mom:

I guess I really haven't written to you yet. It's sure swell here. We are still on our 32 hour leave for the week-end. We have the best possible food, and the most possible food. The C. O. is sure a grand guy. I hope Shockley is at as good a place as I am.

I get a little lonesome once in a while, but not bad. I think they will keep us busy enough so that we won't get homesick. We're required to buy a bond a month, so we won't have much money. Our uniforms won't be issued until Wednesday or Thursday, so you can imagine how my clothes look. We bought a skivvy shirt so that is what we wear now.

We're sure learning to march in a hurry. We get up at 6:00 when the S. G. calls "hit the deck." We then muster at the training field. We have calisthenics for 20 minutes. One guy "passed out" the first day. We then eat in two groups, deck 1-2, and then deck 3-4. We've been taking physical exams, registering and marching so far. About Wednesday classes begin. I wish tomorrow was here so I would get some letters.

I am assistant duty officer next Friday from 1200 to 1600. I answer all telephone calls, take care of all routine business. If anything happens I am responsible. It's better than duty watch. We have this special duty once a month.

Well that's about all for now.

One of your sailors,
James Crothers.

Roger William Hadley, Rt. 2, Fort Wayne, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hadley, formerly of St. Joe community, and a 1943 graduate of St. Joe High School, left Tuesday for Indianapolis to take his final physical examination for the U. S. Navy reserve, and if successful will be sent to Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

TWO HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Ground fresh meat doesn't store well for any length of time after you buy it. Wrap it in wax paper and put it in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator but use it as quickly as possible anyhow. Opened canned goods may be stored in original cans without harming the flavor, appearance or nutritive content. Cover the opened can to prevent absorbing other flavors and odors.

A subscriber suggests using the double boiler for double duty. She cooks the potatoes in the bottom part while the vegetables are cooking in the top section. Another idea she passes on to those who care, is to buy oiled silk by the yard, cut it with pinking shears into sizes you like and then wrap your celery or meat platters you store in the ice box, in the oiled silk.

Mr. Kyle also is a graduate of North Side High School and of International College. He was employed in the offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad before entering the Navy. He is now attending the University of Illinois under the Navy officer training program.

No definite plans have been made for the wedding.

HOW TO FILL OUT A BOOK APPLICATIONS

Herman L. Brown, chief clerk of the DeKalb County war price and rationing board says that when the applicant for new A gasoline books applies he should follow instructions carefully in order to expedite the issuing of these books:

1. Answer questions No. 1 and No. 2.
2. Be sure to sign the application.
3. Fill out the box in the upper right hand corner.
4. Fill out the box blank in the center of application, two parts just alike.
5. Fill in the address blanks in lower left corner giving the address to which you wish the A book mailed.
6. Pay strict attention to instructions on back of application. If the above is not carefully followed it will cause the applicant and the board considerable trouble. All applications improperly made out will have to be returned for correction. The board has found that many of the applicants for all kinds of rations are very careless and are delayed in getting the rations for which they apply because of the fact that their applications are not properly filled out.

GROSS INCOME SHOWS INCREASED RETURNS

The Indiana Gross Income Tax Division has just closed its books on collections for the fiscal year from July 1, 1942, to June 30, 1943. This period was the highest in the history of the department in both the amount of money collected and the number of returns filed. The total tax collected was $34,236,158.53, and the number of returns totaled 1,144,605. This makes a total increase over tax collected for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1942, $496,835.97, and there were 99,008 more returns filed during the same period. This is the first complete fiscal year which retailers were taxed at the new rate of one-half of one per cent. Previous to January 1, 1942, the retailers' rate was one per cent.

The department is now mailing approximately 100,000 returns to taxpayers in Indiana who pay quarterly. Quarterly returns are required when the tax due for the quarter is in excess of ten dollars ($10.00.) Gilbert K. Hewit, Director of the Gross Income Tax Division, calls attention to the Amendment made by the last Legislature which changes the time for filing quarterly returns from the 15th of July to the 31st of July. Many taxpayers who heretofore have been forced to file date and pay a penalty, will be able to file on time because of this additional period granted by the Amendment.

MORTUARY

WIERS

Rolla Ray Wiers was born May 17, 1888 in DeKalb County, Indiana, and departed this life at Detroit, Michigan, July 2, 1943, at the age of 55 years, 1 month and 15 days. Death came very suddenly due to heart failure.

He was the son of William and Mary Wiers. He was united in marriage to Franc Loa Rhodenbaugh, August 9, 1913. To this union were born nine children: Robert and Richard, of Detroit; Mrs. Glenn Bowser, of Ft. Wayne; Franklin Wiers, stationed with the U. S. Army Air Forces in California; Marcella, Helen, Marianne, Shirley and Max, at home.

There are five grandchildren: Carol Sue, David and Bobby Bowser; Shirlev Lynn and Bobby Jr. Wiers; and two sisters, Mrs. Martin Peters of Jackson Center, and Mrs. Bert Bachtel, of Waterloo.

He was employed by the B. & O. Railroad for more than twenty-five years. For the past eleven years he had been disabled.

He spent his entire life in DeKalb County, and he was a member of the Lutheran Church at St. Joe.

Funeral services were held at the Kinsey Funeral Home at 1:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Frank Stevenson. Interment in the Riverside K. of P. Cemetery, with Richard Rupp in charge.

Card of Thanks

Our deep appreciation is hereby expressed to our neighbors and friends for their sympathy and assistance rendered in our home, during our bereavement, caused by the sudden death of our husband and father, and for the floral contributions and the encouragment of Pastor Stevenson.—Mrs. Franc Wiers and Children.

GILLIE ANNOUNCES ANNAPOLIS EXAM

A competitive examination for Fourth District candidates for appointment to Annapolis will be conducted by the Civil Service Commission in Fort Wayne on Saturday, July 31, according to an announcement by Congressman George W. Gillie.

The examination, open to all District residents between the ages of 17 and 21 years, including men in the armed services, has been arranged by Congressman Gillie to assist in the selection of qualified nominees for admission to the Naval Academy in June, 1944. A principal and three alternates will be nominated on a basis of the examination results.

Candidates desiring to compete for the appointment should contact Congressman Gillie immediately at the House Office Building, Washington. A letter of authorization, together with complete information concerning the scope of the examination, will be supplied by return mail.

BLACK-OUT FOR DEKALB COUNTY

Detailed plans for the semi-surprise blackout of the eight counties of the Fort Wayne civilian defense communications district btween July 12 and July 17, have been completed by civilian defense directors, Citizens Defense Corps officers and Robert A. O'Neal, State Civilian Protection Coordinator and Lieut. Walter Mentzer, State Communications Officer, Clarence A. Jackson, State Director of Civilian Defense, announced today.

At the meeting in Fort Wayne, July 2, civilian defense officials of Adams, Allen, DeKalb, LaGrange, Noble, Steuben, Wells and Whitley counties, to be blacked out in the test, details concerning the transmittal of the warning signals were outlined.

Preliminary plans for such a test were announced during the recent series of district meetings of civilian defense officials.

The civilian defense communications district lines are dictated by the telephone toll line circuits and by no other consideration.

The state control center, Mr. Jackson has announced, will alert the county control centers in each of the above designated counties, through the Fort Wayne District control center between the hours of 7:30 P. M. and 10:00 P. M. When the first warning signal reaches the county control center, the county civilian defense commander will be expected to notify all of the secondary control centers, (those in all other cities and towns) in his county in the same manner as would be required in an actual air raid.

All phases of the blackout are to be observed, with all lights, other than those in critical defense plants which may have been exempt by the State Defense Council for military reasons, to be turned out as in an actual air raid.

Preliminary figures show that in every month of 1943 the number of strikes and man-days lost was greater than in comparable months of 1942. Take April, for instance: in 1942 there were 277 strikes, involving 56,038 workers, with a total of 367,400 man-days of idleness. But, in April of 1943 there were 395 strikes, involving 200,000 workers, with a total of 675,000 man-days of idleness. An even sharper increase will be shown for May and June when the figures are available.

Socrates, who walked the streets of ancient Athens spouting gems of wisdom, recognized the ability of people to know what was good for them. He drafted the following prayer for his Athenian friends to address to their gods: "Give us what is good for us, whether we pray for it or not, and divert from us the evil even though we pray for it." Which reminds us of the Southern Democrat, who marched into the voting booth and cast a ballot for FDR and came out saying: "The Darn New Deal is going to ruin this country if those Northeners don't stop voting for it."

OUR COUNTRY

This country of ours, made up of a hundred different blends and races, is an unusual outfit, as the Axis will shortly find out. Our people may trace their ancestry to practically every race on the globe, but when the occasion arises, we unite in a lasting effort. We have our internal strife, and many of us have decided opinions about how the country should be run, but we are of one accord when attacked. From the day our forefathers frowned on the idea of paying Stamp Taxes America has been that way, and America will ever remain thus.

ON AGAIN, OFF AGAIN

Strikes and more strikes, we can't stop the flood it seems. The atmosphere grows tense with wondering where the blow will fall next. Spreading through plants manufacturing armament, to mines producing power through steel, into this industry and that one are the debates over rights and wrongs. The motive is not too clear in some cases, in other instances it takes on a political angle. Economically the trouble appears to be on pay increase grounds, using the high cost of living as the reason. Inflation appears as an argument on the other side and then stalemate. As for politics, some union leaders feel that Lewis would like nothing better than to win a victory on the pay increase and show up the group that is supporting the anti-inflation principle BECAUSE the founder of the CIO and the President have not seen eye to eye and after Mr. Lewis swung his support to Willkie in 1940 the breech was wide. Perhaps we might be ashamed.

STAYING CLOSE HOME

With a ban on pleasure driving in some states, hinted for others, rationing boards clamping down on vacationists everywhere, it seems that the American people who have loved to travel are going to have to learn to love to stay home. The fact we owned an auto for every four persons in the nation goes to prove that we must have done some sight-seeing in our town. The day of boasting of how fast we made a trip, of how much mileage we have used since we bought the car, is no more. Now in St. Joe we conserve whether we have a rationing board or a government official parked on our curb or not, to make the war short by making our cars and equipment last longer. Resorts have found a change in the public's plans for the Summer. The mountains, shores, shrines and relatives are going to have to wait. But it doesn't mean that there won't be relaxation and enjoyment right here at home.

Life is just one banned thing after another.

"There are too many soft hands (and heads) waiting for light work and heavy pay."—P. T. Barnum.

The New Deal has spent ten years in trying to make America over. Now they are ready to go to work on the world.

POISON IVY

Guard as you will against the infection, sidestep the pronged leaf, steer clear of contact, avoid the paths and hie to the sidewalk and what have you? Usually, poison ivy! Start here to itch, scratching develops there and the deceitful leaf has won again as we get out the lotions and unguents to ease the burning itch. We try to eliminate the vines that spell poison ivy, watch our step through woods, are wise to ways of the five-pointed leaf, but still the fight goes on. There are people who year after year, at about the same time, have this breaking out and can't account for it, unless 'it's in the air.' But it all proves the point that into each life some poison will fall even if it is diagnosed as poison ivy.

OUR CAPITAL'S BIRTHDAY

The center of national activity is our capital, the seat of our government, located in the District of Columbia and called Washington. It was July 16, 1790 the Congress of the United States then in session in the city of Philadelphia, provided for a site of ten miles square on the banks of the Potomac. Our capital was so born and though the act named the capital there was a ten year delay in order to build the public offices and provide for living quarters. Although no money was voted for the project, Maryland and Virginia ceded the land that was chosen by George Washington for the spot, and they also gave the first funds to construct the buildings. Later the government retroceded the portion of the site given by Virginia. A Frenchman was the first one to plan the federal city but ran into difficulty by demolishing a private house that conflicted with his plans, and the job was then given to a surveyor named Ellicot. The first census of Washington's population was taken in 1800 and we find 14,093 persons listed. During the period in trying to build the White House there was confusion, discharges, alterations and no finances. At one time the state of Maryland held a lottery to come to the rescue with funds to go on. It was a long drawn out process and two wars interferred with its progress. Land occupied finally totaled 58.8 acres, renovation added steam heating, elevators, fireproofing, electric lights, modern drainage, light, heat and power plant, and wide landscaping of exterior has enhanced the beauty. This is the site of our law, the campus of governmental order. Happy birthday.

SQUIRREL SEASON for 1943 STARTS AUG. 10 THRU OUT INDIANA

Indiana's open season eon squirrels will begin on Aug. 10 and end on Oct. 8 throughout the entire state with a daily bag limit of five, it was announced by Harrell F. Mosbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game.

The opening and closing dates of the season and the bag limit, applying to the state as a whole without any zones, are the same as were in effect during the 1942 season and which met with general approval on the part of the hunters. Retention of the same dates and bag limits for 1943 was approved by the State Conservation Advisory Committee and by the State Conservation Commission during meetings held late in June.

An abundance of squirrels has been reported from most sections of the state by Conservation Officers and other observors, indicating that reports show the squirrel population equal to last year and favorable conditions for good hunting following the opening of the season.

Hoosiers were reminded by Mr. Mosbaugh that Indiana laws require every hunter to have a 1943 license, regardless of age, with the only exceptions being the resident farm owner and tenant who limits his hunting to the farm which he owns or on which he is a tenant. The special 50-cent fishing license for Indiana women is not valid for hunting; feminine nimrods must have the regular license which covers hunting, fishing and trapping and is issued at a fee of $1.50 by county clerks and agents.

Woman-POWER!

Wait a minute! How can 11 pounds of beauty boss so many tons of steel? . . . Is this magic?

Yes, in a way. The modern magic of electric power. The magic that makes it possible for a girl's slim fingers to lift mountains of metal, or set great wheels in motion — just by pressing a button or pulling a lever.

Women are able to work beside men on America's roaring production lines because electricity does the heavy labor. America's war production is the greatest in the world largely because America has the world's greatest supply of electric power.

And America's electric companies under business management provide over 80 per cent of all that power at low pre-war prices!

Call that magic, too! But the experienced men and women of the electric companies it's all in the day's work! All part of knowing the job.

They were ready when war came, and now they're producing far more power than all the Axis countries combined! They're stepping up America's manpower — and woman-power — tremendously!

Sgt. Francis Cole of Ft. Benning, Ga., was a guest in the home of his uncle, Glen Cole, and wife, last week.

Word has been recived from Wayne Fetters that he has arrived safely overseas and his wife and relatives are greatly relieved of their anxiety upon receipt of government notification. He was on the trip about a month.

The great significance of the overriding of the President's veto of the anti-strike bill is that congress has at last reasserted the principles of the republic. For 10 years President Roosevelt has debased and coerced the legislative and judicial branches of the government. At last he has met effective resistance.

The 24th annual reunion of the Widney family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sechler Sunday, June 27. Fifty seven members were present. Officers elected for next year were Paul Carpenter, president; Agnes Monroe, vice president; Patricia Carpenter, secretary. Next reunion will be held at the home of Merritt Sechler.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Crick and Bobby, of Anderson spent the week end in the Charles Morr home after spending a week at Snow Lake fishing, catching a nice lot of fish and all enjoyed a fish supper Saturday evening. Other guests were Miss Doris Doswell, of Fort Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morr and sons, Larry and Dicky, of Auburn. They all attended the Morr reunion on Sunday at Eckhart Park, Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent Provines entertained over the week end their two sons, Hubert and Bruce, who had not been together since in April, 1942. Bruce was spending a ten day furlough from Camp San Luis Obispo, Cal., and Hubert a week end pass from Syracuse, New York. Other Sunday dinner guests were Mrs. Hubert Provines and Forrest Surface. Afternoon and evening guests were Mrs. Artus Coyle, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Keller, Mr. and Mrs. John Chittenden and Melvin Smith. Both boys returned to their respective camps on Monday. Hubert's wife accompanied him to spend the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Baker were at Columbus, Ohio, last week on business.

Mrs. E. W. Johnson is improving in health and is about her home again.

Miss Phyllis Witmer of Grabill, spent the week end here with Miss Marcille Guilford.

The sale by Ruth Anderson and Edgar W. Atkinson, commissioners in the partition suit of Wilbur Beree against Clay Beree et al, of 106 acres of land in Newville Township to Wilbur and Josephine Beree for $10,600 has been approved in the DeKalb Circuit Court.

Late transactions in real estate recorded at the court house are: St. Joe, Addie Lower to John B. Lower, und. ½ of one half acre sec. 15, $350. Concord, Harlow and Carrie Sechler to Geo. C. Moore et. al, 1.50 acres and 45.75 acres, sec. 12, and lots 73 to 83, Orangeville, $10.

JAMES A. HUSSELMAN DIES AT AGE 76

James A. Husselman, a well known resident of Grant Township, DeKalb County, passed away at his home three and one-half miles north of Auburn, Monday afternoon at 4:30. Complications following an operation for prostrate trouble resulted in death. He was 76 years of age.

Mr. Husselman had been in failing health for the past 4 months. He was a patient at the St. Joseph Hospital in Fort Wayne for six weeks. He passed away on the same farm on which he was born on March 25, 1867 and had been a lifelong resident of DeKalb County.

Mr. Husselman was a farmer and school teacher during his life. He taught school for 27 years and for 10 years was a member of the Waterloo and Grant Township school board at Waterloo. He was president of the DeKalb County Old Settlers Association and was a teacher of the men's class of the Evangelical Sunday School at Waterloo. He also served as a trustee of the church.

The marriage of Mr. Husselman and Laura Clum took place on December 30, 1911 and the wife survives. Other survivors include a sister, Mrs. Jennie Campbell of Crooked Lake, near Angola, and a nephew, E. A. Husselman, of E. Seventh St., Auburn.

Funeral services will be held at the Evangelical Church in Waterloo Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. C. S. Overmeyer, pastor, will officiate and burial will be made in the Waterlo cemetery.

vs
John Strebig, et al

Civil Cause No. 20104
Action to Quiet Title

The plaintiff having filed it's complaint herein, together with the special affidavit required by statute in actions to quiet title and having also filed the affidavit of a competent person that the residence, upon diligent inquiry, is unknown of the following named defendants, to-wit: John Strebig, Charles S. Strebig, Mrs. Charles Strebig, whose true given name is unknown, Edward M. Morgan, Minerva. C. Dawson, Henry Fields, Mary Cook, Charles Keasler, Clara Keasler, Gerome Cook, Clary Keasler, Isaac Kile, Clinton M. Wearley, Minnie B. Wearley, Fern Tegardin and Paul Tegarden; that the names of the following defendants are unknown and that they are believed to be non residents of the State of Indiana and are sued in this action by the following names and designations, to-wit: "The unknown husbands and wives, respectively, of the following named persons: Edward M. Morgan, Minerva C. Dawson, Henry Fields, Mary Cook, Charles Keasler, Clara Keasler, Gerome Cook, Clary Keasler, Isaac Kile, Clinton M. Wearley, Minnie B. Wearley, Fern Tegardin and Paul Tegardin, the names of all of whom are unknown to the plaintiff; the unknown widowers and widows, children, descendants and heirs, surviving spouses, creditors and administrators of the estates, devisees, legatees, trustees and executors of the Last Wills and Testaments, successors in interest and assigns, respectively, of the following named and designated persons, to-wit: Edward M. Morgan, Minerva C. Dawson, Henry Fields, Mary Cook, Charles Keasler, Clara Keasler, Isaac Kile, Clary Keasler, Gerome Cook, Clinton Wearley, Minnie B. Wearley, Fern Tegardin and Paul Tegardin, the names of all, of whom are unknown to the plaintiff; all of the women once known by any of the names and designations above stated, whose names may have been changed and who are now known by other names, the names of all of whom are unknown to the plaintiff; the spouses of all of the persons above named, described and designated as defendants to this action, the names of all of whom are unknown to the plaintiff; all persons and corporations who assert or might assert any title, claim or interest in or lien upon the real estate described in the complaint in this action by, under or thru any of the defendants described or designated in this complaint, the names of all of whom are unknown to the plaintiff."

It further appearing that said action is for the purpose of quieting title to real estate in DeKalb County, Indiana and that a cause of action exists against all of said defendants and that all of said defendants are necessary parties to said cause of action and that they are believed to be non residents of the State of Indiana and that said real estate is in DeKalb County, Indiana and is described as follows:

Commencing at the quarter post of the west line of Section Thirty Four (34), Township Thirty Three (33) north, Range Fourteen (14) east and from thence east along the quarter line twenty six (26) rods; thence south 11 degrees and 30 minutes west a distance of 25 rods; thence north 73 degrees west twenty two and seventy two hundredths (22.72) rods to the west line of said section; thence north along the section line eighteen (18) rods to the place of beginning. Containing 3.25 acres, more or less.

Also a tract adjoining the aforesaid tract on the east and described as follows: Commencing twenty six (26) rods east of the quarter post on the west line of Section 34, Township 33 north, Range 14 east and from thence south 11 degrees and 30 minutes west a distance of twenty five (25) rods; thence east parallel with the said quarter line seven (7) rods; thence north 11 degrees and 30 minutes east twenty five (25) rods to the quarter line; thence west along the quarter line, seven (7) rods to the place of beginning. Containing 1.15 acres, more or less.

It further appearing that said action is instituted and prosecuted by the plaintiff for the purpose of quieting title to the real etsate described in the complaint and herein described as against all demands, claims and claimants whatsoever.

Notice is therefore given said defendants that unless they be and appear on the 6th day of September, 1943, being the 1st day of the September, 1943 Term of the DeKalb Circuit Court at the Court House at Auburn in DeKalb County, Indiana, and answer or demur to said complaint, that the same will be heard and determined in their absence.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of this court this the 17th day of June, 1943.

NEWVILLE NEWS

Wilbur Beree, of Payne, O., was here Friday looking after his farm work.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Traxler went to South Bend Saturday to visit over the Fourth with their daughter and family. They returned home Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jennings and Ann Louise, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jennings and two daughters.

The Fourth was celebrated quietly here. Most of those who had gas, went to the lakes. Monday was not observed as a holiday, the farmers being busy with hay making, wheat cutting and corn cultivating.

A 75 year old woman has been pushing the lawn mower in Riverside cemetery while the sexton is employed in Fort Wayne. Several male old-age pensioners were offered work, at good pay, but refused, one of them sneeringly remarking —"Nobody works but fools and mules." The woman who is doing the work is NOT an old-age pensioner, but IS a taxpayer who helps support the louse that made the remark, and she is as much of a WAR WORKER, as if she worked in a factory.

NEWVILLE CENTER

Wheat cutting has started in this neighborhood.

Dorothy Hook was a Wednesday and Thursday guest of Pat Maxwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Davis and family were recent callers in the Stanley Davis home.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Donley, of Pleasant Lake, called at the Leonard Kreig home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Blackwell spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Church and daughters.

Beulah Snyder, sons, Bobbie and Charles, were Thursday afternoon callers in the Lyman Bidlack home.

Mr. and Mrs. Olen Waltz, of St. Joe, were Thursday evening callers in the Ira Hook home. Sunday evening callers were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mettert, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Bidlack spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Snyder and sons. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith were afternoon callers. All enjoyed ice cream.

SPENCERVILLE

The Young Ladies Social Club will meet with Mrs. Kathryn Dean Friday evening.

Lewis E. Webb leaves Friday, July 9, for final examinations before entering the army.

Mrs. Jane Bice visited last week with her children and other relatives in Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Ethel Webb and family were guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Carey at Hamilton Lake, Sunday.

The Misses Ida and Vera Reed went to South Bend Saturday to visit their sister, Mrs. Chester Wolf and husband.

Miss Margery Ann Hollabaugh is spending two weeks in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Jones at Battle Creek, Mich.

James Reed and family and Mrs. Ada Whitacre and children were Sunday dinner guests at the R. U. Bowser home.

Mrs. Georgia Butler and sons who have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Art Dunn, returned home last week.

Mrs. Golden High was taken very ill last week and was taken to the Lutheran Hospital. She was brought home on Monday.

Miss Loretta Funk, of Auburn, and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rhoades called on Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Squires of near Rebohoth Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Ada Whitacre and son, Darwin, of Highland, Ind., came last week to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Bowser and other relatives and friends.

Miss Elma Gene Arnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Arnett, of Albion, Mich., was the June bride of Private Rex Butler, of Spartanburg, South Carolina. Miss Arnett attended Spencerville school and left many friends in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baidinger, Sr., daughter, Ardy, and Miss Norma Kuntz were here from Mishawaka, Ind., Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Walter. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baidinger, Jr., of Detroit, are spending a few days with the latter's parents also.

The July meeting of the Spencer Township Home Economics Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Ethelyn Miller. A project lesson on "Meat Alternates" will be given by Mrs. Roy Chaney and Mrs. Ruth Henderson. Miss Mary Lenore Moore will be present.

JAP WEAPONS ARE NOW TROPHIES—Never to fire again except in ordnance tests this captured Japanese artillery piece recently was landed at San Francisco. The shield shows that this 105-mm gun saw heavy action before it was taken by the Americans in the Southwest Pacific area. Ordnance experts point out that most of the captured Japanese artillery compares unfavorably with American weapons in muzzle velocity and fire power.

YOUNGSTERS—HELP WITH HOME-CANNING!

Don't worry if you're too young for the WAACS or WAVES. There's another important job for you. Save all the extra vegetables from your Victory Garden by home-canning. A few jars a day take little time and add up to well-filled shelves by the end of the season. Food costs are high in the stores and may be higher, but food grown at home still costs a few cents a jar.

There's a deep satisfaction in growing and canning your own food. Wait and see. You'll take inventory of your garden each day to see which vegetables are right for the table and how many extras there are to put in glass jars. Make it a point each day to gather everything at its prime, and make it a point of honor to get the extras into glass jars before they lose freshness.

That's the big secret of delicious, nutritious, home-canned foods—freshness. Home-grown, home-canned foods often have many more vitamins than those bought at the store, because they are fresh. And when you get a reliable home-canning booklet, you'll be surprised at how many different things may be put away for later use in glass jars.

Be sure to have the very best canning instructions and recipes. One fruit jar company offers a Blue Book free with a coupon packed with each dozen jars—or for ten cents if you have no coupon. The instructions are easy to follow. It is not necessary to have elaborate or expensive equipment. Form a canning club and have fun while you can!

Farm Commentator, Heard Daily 6:15-6:45 am on WHAQ—970 on your dial

STATEMENTS made at the recent United Nations Food Conference were forcibly brought home to me in my recent visit to the farm.

At that conference, it was said that most Americans do not take enough time to eat a solid breakfast.

I am sure that when this statement was made, farm folks were not being thought of. Upon arising with my farm host at four-thirty, we journeyed to the barns for the pre-breakfast chores, returning about six o'clock for a healthy farm breakfast of pancakes, eggs, bacon, and coffee. I think that it might be a good idea for city folks to get up a little earlier, and take more time at the breakfast table.

Here's some welcome advice for all of us who have Victory Gardens.

You can get out of a lot of hoeing on hot days this summer if you kill the weeds when they are small.

When you have killed the weeds you have done everything you can with ordinary cultivation. Hoeing to make a mulch or to break up a crust—after the plants are through—will not make your Victory Garden produce any more vegetables.

Incidentally, in hoeing to kill weeds, be sure to keep your hoe sharp. Run the sharp blade just under the surface of the ground to cut the weeds. If rains start another crop of them, go out again with your sharp hoe and kill the newly-sprouted weeds just after they come through the ground. When the weeds are all dead, quit hoeing.

Until next time, lots of luck everybody!

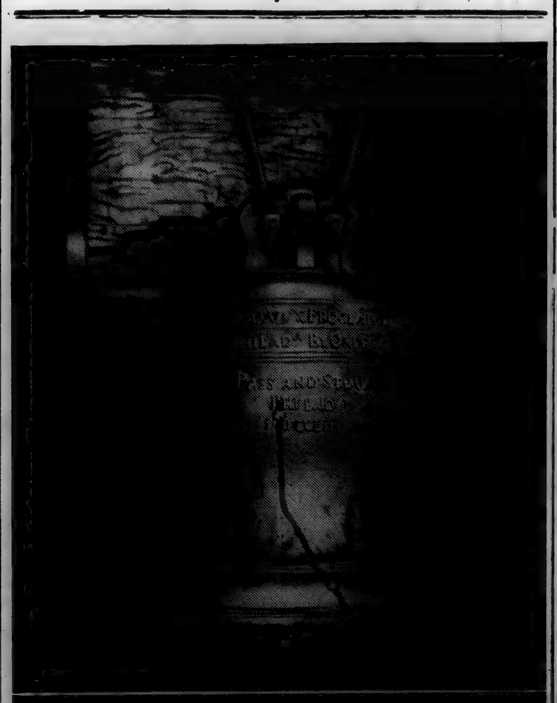
Frank learned the machinist's trade in the B. & O. shops and was promoted to foreman and general foreman. He later became master mechanic at Chillicothe, O., but after the company's facilities were consolidated he was made general foreman at Cincinnati, Ohio. About three years ago he remodeled the parental home in Garrett, which he inherited, into a duplex and after he was appointed master mechanic of the Chicago division several months ago he and his wife moved to Garrett from Cincinnati.



WASTE FAT IS AMMUNITION, EVERY DROP OF IT SHOULD BE SAVED

"Salvage fills the want of all women for something to do to help our fighting men win this war. Each and every woman can have a part in victory if she will follow the simple steps prescribed by the Women's Unit of the State Salvage Division for the salvaging of household items," said Frank G. Thompson, W P B Executive Secretary, today.

One of the most important and critically needed materials is waste fat. The Government has set a quota of 16,667,000 pounds per month for the entire country and less than half of that amount is now being salvaged. Indiana is producing less than 40% of her quota.

It isn't a big job if every woman will do her part. Women are asked to save just one tablespoonful of waste fat each day. If this is done it will go a long way toward meeting the glycerine requirements of war and Indiana will be doing her share.

A few words about what happens to waste fat might give you some idea of how important it is to the war. Once you have saved a pound or more of fat in a tin you take it to your butcher. It goes from there to the renderer and then to the processor who does the big job of extracting glycerine from the waste fat. If you save just one tablepsoon of fat every day, you will have salvaged a pound in 31 days. That pound of fat will produce enough glycerine for the nitroglycerine necessary to fire 10 rounds of ammunition from a 50-calibre machine gun.

In watrime, glycerine finds its most powerful use in the making of nitro-glycerine which goes into explosives and munitions such as anti-aircraft, anti-tank and airplane cannon. It is also used in the depth charges that destroyers flip over the sides to combat the submarine menace to our supply lines to the Allies.

The lives of millions of our fighting men depend on the cooperation of American women in saving even the smallest amount of fat from their kitchens.

Regard that tablespoonful of fat you can salvage as your bit contributed to the millions of pounds we need....and the mite you throw away might very well have expelled the bullet necessary to save your loved one's life.

Every kind of meat you put under your broiler or into the roasting pan should make a substantial contribution to your waste fat collection. If it's all fat, just save it. If there are drippings, use what you need for gravies and sauces—put the leavings into the waste fat tin. To separate the fat and get the most out of your greasy pans, just pour a little hot water into it, swish it all around so the fat is loosened, and then pour the fat and the water into a dish or bowl. Let this stand until the fat rises to the top and solidifies. Then it's easy to just lift the fat right off and drop it into your waste fat tin. You can do the same thing with the surplus fat of your soups and stews.

There are lots of other fats, to. Many of us use margarine for our vegetables these days, but not all of us realize that margarine, like other butter substitutes and shortenings, is as welcome to the waste fat as your beef, lamb, fish, pork, sausage, bacon, and yes, even horse meat fats, are. It doesn't matter how many different types of fat you put into one tin either...just so long as it's strained and kept in a cool place.

If every woman will do her part, and influence her neighbors to contribute waste fats to the war program, victory will come sooner.

Take your waste fats to your meat dealer in St. Joe and Spencerville promptly, where you will receive pay for it.

LIGHTNING KILLS COUSIN OF FRANK MEESE

Frank Meese received word a few days ago of the death of his cousin, Frank Joseph Meese, of Nebraska. Two years ago he with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Meese, visited in St. Joe. The newspaper account of the accident was on June 6, death coming on the 8th, is as follows:

"Mr. Meese was driving a herd of cattle when he was struck by a lightning bolt in full view of his wife, who was looking from an upstairs window of their home. The horse on which he was riding was killed, as well as three cows in the herd he was driving.

"The lightning bolt apparently struck him in the head, ranging through his body and the electric charge emerging through his leg. He was unconscious when brought to the hospital and it was feared at first that his death was only a matter of hours but when his heart action remained strong and he became semi-conscious it was hoped that he would recover."

EVERY DAY IS MOVING DAY AT WASHINGTON

Limited as space is in Washington these days, Government bureaus do a lot of moving. In fact, it keeps 1,400 men busy all the time keeping the various bureaus on the move.

A. W. Clime, chief of the Federal Works Administration's service division, revealed that 1,400 men are employed regularly to move Government departments from one location to another—one office to another, one building to another—even one side of the Potomac River to the other. The monthly payroll just to keep Washington on the move is $50,000 on an average.

One employee of the War Department was quoted as saying that since he went to work a few months ago his section had moved four times, and a fifth move is being considered.

If we didn't know the New Deal's attitude toward money, we would think they had discovered the old axiom that it is cheaper to move than to pay rent.

Jar Rubbers Are Different This Year

It is now thought that red rubber will be available for jar rings this year but there will be no cause for alarm if the rubbers you buy turn out to be black. It is the rubber, not the color, that counts. True, you may be a bit startled when you open your first package of the war models. "But what of it?" asks Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company. "Our grandmothers got along well enough with lipless rubbers and so can we."

Months ago, manufacturers began experiments to learn how to make jar rings that would conserve both rubber and food—the government set its scientists to the same task. One of the first things upon which all agreed was that lips are unnecessary for opening jars. The point of a thin knife can be run under the rubber to make a tiny space for air to seep through and break the seal. It is then easy to remove cap or lid. It was also agreed that jar rings could be a small fraction of an inch narrower but the thickness must remain at the pre-war standard.

War-time rubbers will keep jars sealed air-tight, but they won't stand abuse. To get good results, break yourself of that never-good habit of stretching to test and follow these four simple rules:

1. Wash and rinse rubbers. Boil them to sterilize if you can fruits the old-fashioned open-kettle way. If processing is to be done, drop the rubbers in boiling water and set aside until needed.
2. Have rubbers wet when they are used—and be sure that each rubber lies flat on the sealing surface of the jar.
3. Partly seal all jars before processing.
4. Screw zinc caps and bands on glass top seal closures slowly when sealing, as quick or jerky turns cause rubbers to slip out of position.

FOUNDER OF MOTHER'S DAY DIES AT AGE 69

Frank E. Hering, 69, founder of Mother's Day and the first paid athletic director at the University of Notre Dame, died in his home Sunday at South Bend, after an illness of several weeks.

Hering also was a former national president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and had edited its magazine for the past 35 years. He had served as a member of Notre Dame's lay board of trustees for 10 years.

The first plea for a Mother's Day observance was made by Hering at the English theatre at Indianapolis on Feb, 7, 1904. His appeal was recognized officially in Washington in 1925. A plaque in his honor was unveiled at the theatre on May 10, 1931.

4-H CLUB SHOW SEPTEMBER 4 TO 11

The Indiana State Fair Board's 4-H Club Show will be held from September 4th to 11th, inclusive, the main Club Days being the 6th, 7th and 8th.

There is a lot of activity at this time on the grounds reserved by the Indiana State Fair Board, getting ready for this show. This includes the Coliseum, Light Harness Horse Barn and 16 acres, the remaining buildings have been taken over by the Army.

Secretary Guy Cantwell, states a great interest is being taken by the County Agents and Vocational Teachers thru out the State, realizing a show of this kind means much to the 4-H Club Boys and Girls, as a round-up of the activities for the year.

4-H Club members interested in this show should get in touch with their County Agent or Vocational Teacher and secure Club Booklet giving Complete details and premiums offered. Any boy or girl in Indiana between the ages of 10 and 20, inclusive, who is enrolled in a regular club as outlined by the Boys' and Girls' Club Division, Purdue University, may exhibit at the show. All entries must be made with the Indiana State Fair, Indianapolis, Indiana, on or before August 18th.

RACE PROBLEMS

There hasn't been an editorial column in many papers that has not contained comment on the recent trouble between the colored and white people on the home front. Detroit, Michigan was the scene of disgraceful riot. There has been more comment on race discrimination since the war began, with the colored boys fighting as nobly as the white ones, for their country's cause. Foreign countries do not look upn the race problem as do we and they have not understood the American segregation of the colored, the fact that the colored people mainly are confined to menial labor, and extra propaganda pushed by our enemies are making a ticklish matter worse in the eyes of our Allies. The strike, supposedly impelled by Ku Klux Klan interests, the zoot suit disorders in California, two recent lynchings, are all adding up to some embarrassing moments for us. Perhaps we should refrain from criticism of England's policy toward India and figure out how to handle our domestic difficulties.

JULY JOYS

Maybe the shoulders are bowed with personal problems, with worry over national responsibilities, physical ills to make you lose sleep, but in spite of all this one can't overlook the delight of a Summer day and the refreshing sight of July dew on grass plots. There is the hopefulness that Summer on a city sidewalk leads to a patch of shadow under a neighbor's tree. The glare that hurts the eyes as it assails itself against the drawn office shades or those at home, breaks down into flickering fingers of light and dark as it softly sifts thru vines on the veranda. Park benches in the city, wooded lanes in the country meet in relationship for all creatures to marvel at the delight of July.

SLOW DOWN

Thirty-five miles an hour is being generally observed tho you will still find folks whizziny by you in the old order. It is not the majority who are so careless with their tires, gas and patriotism. There is still the fellow who is hard to convince and says he couldn't drive slowly if his life depended on it, and it usually does! Many of us in St. Joe who have complied with the requested 35 mile speed are seeing more of the scenery, taking better care of our lives and finding this rate a little less nerve-wracking. When you get used to it then going over the limit seems like old-time speeding used to feel. Some cities are cracking down on the violators and the result is frequently the loss of ration books. Try the 35-mile gait yourself, in case you haven't tried it, and you won't mind it, after the first ten miles!

KEEPING CLEAN

A dirty businesswar, and it is going to be dirtier unless they find a way to clean up the laundry and dry cleaning situation. The soldier who left Africa hurriedly and waited a week to receive it by mail, was lucky for he would have a three week's wait if it had been done in this country! All over the country laundry helpers have gone to war, accepted high-paying defense jobs while an added headache is the shortage of cleaning fluids and machinery wearing out with nothing to replace either. The estimate that at the rate we are going 1500 laundries will have to close, is probably not overstated and to many people this would be a decided problem. In places the size of St. Joe and Spencerville the majority of housewives have considered Monday their family washing day down the years and no crisis other than the lack of soap would break up their schedule. Time has replaced the galvanized tubs and wash boards but we haven't started as yet to bag our soiled clothes and hie them off to the commercial laundry and forget it until time to pay the bill. But the dry cleaning is going to affect all of us, probably. In large cities citizens have, in many cases, become as independent upon laundries as upon the rubber industry for their tires. Of course on trying to solve the problem there arises the solution of 'do it yourself' or maybe they could ration the quantity to each customer, and thus each one stands a chance for a boiled shirt for special events. We understand that in many localities dry cleaners do not do unessential cleaning, such as evening frocks and stiff shirts. But since we are living in an age of soft-collared shirts and slacks that are creaseless, wash ties and cotton string socks, we will probably look as good as the next fellow, whatever the situation.

LIVING LONGER

It is surprising to many people to learn that the effect of war on the public health is not detrimental. This is true in spite of a nation busy working, bustling, worrying with war programs. The people of the nation are surviving the strain so well that the death rate drops to the lowest level ever recorded in the country! This has happened in the United States in 1942, regardless of how much stewing and fretting, driving ourselves to extra endeavor and undergoing difficulties. During a war year living is speeded with a "tomorrow-we-may-die" sort of attitude. Rationing entails restraints, personal responsibilities are increased and this brings additional worry. Thus we figure the general health will suffer. England found national health benefitted by a war diet and they surely have suffered closer contact with the actual fury than we. But we are advancing in medical knowledge, care of ourselves and surroundings, education in health restraints, certain extra health facilities offered during wartime have profited the public. We have been able to meet the situation bravely, to have found within ourselves a reserve that we might not know we had, a stamina that perhaps we didn't feel was there, for adjusting our thots and our health with a purpose.

BETTER ROADS

Talk of post-war planning sometimes leaves local citizens in doubt, but when you bring up the subject of spending money on building public highways after the war, we can follow. The taxpayer knows this kind of conversation, he'd been there before! When the Association of State Highway Officials get together to discuss the post-war plans, they spoke for state highway departments and federal roads. In mentioning how ten billion dollars might well be spent which goes to maintain, repair, rebuild the highways, they also spoke of the construction furnishing direct employment for 750,000 people. War has shown us the need for good roads. Much of the work done during this war was hurriedly and not under favorable conditions, generally. More will be needed after the heavy traffic of army equipment and travel. But this is just a discussion of things to come and important since the auto stands as an economic feature in our national income.

BEWARE OF MICE

Sometimes one or two, sometimes just passing thru, but almost every home in St. Joe has had to rid the premises of mice. They come and go, are pests we dislike as they destroy and damage, but we don't abhor them as we do rats. Rats we fight because we think of them spreading disease and as a health hazard we don't waste time exterminating this menace. There is no reason for panic around here but we might bear in mind that recently two scientists found through research, that mice can carry infantile paralysis germs and although you might have mice you do not necessarily have the disease present. But mice are found to be carriers. Upon the outbreak of infantile paralysis in a neighborhood, discovering a dead mouse in the house where the illness was fatal, trapping mice there and also within a half-mile area of the diseased section, the doctors found the mice to contain the same virus as the human. Let us beware of mice as well as rats.

That They May Share Our Fruits of Victory...

GUARDING THEM—saving thousands of lives every year—is an army of fire-prevention experts maintained for America's protection by Capital Stock fire insurance companies.

In peace and war, these companies stand constant guard over our lives and jobs and homes. Helping authorities discover and correct fire hazards that threaten our communities. Seeing that materials and equipment we buy are as safe as man can make them. Mapping better ways of guarding homes, industries and vital materials against loss...

In 30 years, they have reduced both the rate of fire loss and the average cost of fire insurance by more than 40%.

CAPITAL STOCK COMPANY INSURANCE — Standard protection

Let us give you the sure protection of this double-duty insurance that pays if fire strikes—and helps keep fires from starting.

BURLINGTON BOMBS—These bombs, bought by citizens of Burlington, Iowa, just before they were loaded in a United States Army Air Forces B-17 Flying Fortress somewhere in North Africa for a journey of destruction over Leghorn Harbor, in western Italy. Money for these bombs was contributed by 350 members of Burlington, Iowa, American Legion Post No. 52. When they reached North Africa, First Lieutenant William A. Whitemore, commanding officer of an Army Air Force ordnance company, and a resident of Burlington, took a personal interest in the contribution from his home town. The bombs were used on a successful raid against the Italian mainland on May 28, 1943. Lt. Whittemore, (left), and Sergeant Neal I. Zollers, also a Burlington man, watch Arabs loading the bombs just before the raid.

Homer Stemen, who is stationed at Nashville, Tenn., was given a three day furlough and because of train difficulties did not arrive home until Saturday night. His wife, Helen, and daughter, of Butler, spent the day Sunday in the Mrs. Mary Stemen home in order that they might all be together. Homer had to leave Sunday night for return to camp.

Whether the purchase of Bibles may be made from public funds and presented to graduates of township schools will be determined in a court case at Huntington, Clarence B. Samson, a township trustee, in a complaint says that the state board of accounts contends the purchases are illegal and threatens to try to charge back the cost of the Bibles to the trustees. Samson says the contention has caused uncertainty in regard to the matter and cites long acquiesence and consent of the expenditures in asking the court to declare the custom legal. The practice has been general in Huntington County for about 40 years, the Bibles being presented along with diplomas at the exercises. The city of Huntington is not mentioned in the complaint, but Bibles have been presented to Huntington high school graduates for a number of years. The expense in Rock Creek Township averages $40 a year, the complaint says.

HAVE NOTHING ON US

We "Dug Up" 903,200 pounds of Scrap

THE call to the Nation for scrap was taken seriously by your Electric Company . . . every nook and cranny was explored to uncover every last ounce of the scarce metals that are needed to supply munitions to our men at the Front. We "dug up" all sorts of scrap—iron, copper, aluminum and rubber—ranging all the way from large pieces of electrical equipment that had served their usefulness down to office keys.

For the year ending February, 1943, we had turned in over 903,200 pounds.

In addition, we have made every effort to conserve scarce materials while still maintaining the best service to our customers . . . this was done by using substitutes and by various makeshifts; by conserving tires, gasoline and equipment.

Many of these wartime expediencies would not have been possible but for the helpful cooperation of our customers who have taken every situation with typical American spirit.

INDIANA SUCCEEDS IN SCRAP SALVAGE

Revealing that Indiana once again has "gone over the top" in its "all-out" war effort, Frank G. Thompson, executive secretary of the Indiana State Salvage Committee, WPB, today announced that with final reports in from only half of Hoosierdom's 92 counties, more than 147,700 tons of scrap metal has been salvaged in the state during the first six months of 1943. The total figure will probably reach 155,000 tons.

At the first of the year, Indiana was assigned a quota of 83,000 tons of scrap metal to be collected from farms and homes during the first six months of 1943. At that time, this appeared to be an almost impossible task. But with the true Hoosier spirit, Indianians "pitched in" with a will, and as a result we already have exceeded our quota by more than 78 per cent.

Mr. Thompson urged that Indiana citizens "keep up the good work," emphasizinz that the need for scrap metal is constant and pointing out the necessity for continuing the scrap metal drive on a month-to-month basis.

"We cannot relax for a minute in the continuing drive for scrap," he said. "At this point of the war, complacency on our part will counteract the many advances our boys are making on the battlefronts of the world."

BLACK-OUT WAS 100% SUCCESSFUL

Chief Warden, Walter Stewart is pleased over the success of the first trial black-out in St. Joe, Tuesday evening, and he stated that no finer co-operation could be had anywhere.

Some were unable to hear the signal given by tapping of the fire bell, but upon notification everyone obeyed orders completely. It was a strange feeling that crept over one, when not a light anywhere was visible except the headlights on the passing freight trains.

Automobiles were stopped at each entrance to town, and every driver was agreeable. The messengar service carried out by a group of young ladies was prompt and up to the minute, which demonstrated that the organization was functioning in every detail.

The firemen's organization and auxilliary police were a great factor in making the tr a success.

A state wide black-out will be next in order in the near future.

USUAL CHARGES AFTER A WRECK

"Well, it was your fault. You didn't signal that you were going to make a turn."

"I certainly did, and anyway, the stop light was against you."

"It wasn't either, and I'll make you pay for this!"

That is a typical line of heated conversation that usually follows an automobile accident on street or highway—and it is just the start of what will happen after Indiana's Safety Responsibility Law is promulgated. For no matter who is right or wrong, both drivers have to post security after an automobile accident—if anyone is injured or the property damage exceeds $25.00.

After these two drivers have time enough to cool off a little they must both make reports of the accident, each giving his version of how it happened, together with a number of other details. If they are both bonded or properly insured, they also obtain from their bonding or insurance agents a copy of Form SR-21, which they fill out and attach to their accident reports and send them to the Division of Public Safety, State House, Indianapolis.

This action provides both security, which is required to be posted in all cases and by all drivers involved, and also proof of financial responsibility for each. If one or the other brings legal action, of if they are finally able to agree on which was at fault, it then becomes the obligation of the insuring concern to effect a settlement, without further trouble or inconvenience to the drivers involved.

But if neither driver in such a case is insured, then each must post security in the form of cash or negotiable collateral. This will be held by the State Treasurer until a settlement has been reached, or for one year if no action has been filed by either party within that time. Then the security will be released.

If one or the other of the parties involved, or both, are later convicted on any one of several charges enumerated in the law, then they may be required to provide proof of future financial responsibility, which then must be in the sum of $5;000 for injury or death of one person, $10,000 for the injury or death of two or more persons in one accident, and $1,000 for property damage.

All these are contingencies which make it a matter of prudence for every owner and driver to be protected before he has an accident.

Call on Fred B. Leighty at News office and he will explain to you fully just what is required by this new law.

The board has been disappointed in the response of volunteers to do the clerical work, the number being inadequate to handle the 7,000 applications in time, and the board secured permission of the district office to keep the offices locked for two days in order that all members of staff may devote their entire time to making out certificates. GLASS JARS FOR VICTORY CANNING

Plan to can every extra vegetable from your Victory garden and don't worry if your dealer hasn't jars with the kinds of caps you have been accustomed to using. Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company, tells us that very few of the all-time favorite zinc caps are left on the home front because zinc is needed on the battle front, but all Mason jars (any brand) with smooth, even top edges can be sealed with glass top seal or two-piece metal vacuum seal closures.

Glass top seals consist of glass lid, rubber ring, and metal screw band. The rubber is placed around the projection on the bottom of the lid, then lid with rubber is placed so that the rubber rests on top of the jar. The bands are screwed down tight, then loosened slightly before the jars are put into a canner for processing and screwed tight immediately after the jars are removed from the canner. After the jars have stood twelve or fifteen hours, the bands are removed and used to seal more jars with glass lids and rubbers, thus making a little metal go a long way. That's one reason Government officials smile upon home canners who use glass top seals.

Another good top seal for Mason jars is the two-piece metal cap, called vacuum seal. The lid is slightly dome shaped, lined with white enamel and has a rubber sealing compound around the outer edge to take the place of a regular jar ring—(don't let anybody fool you—all sealing compounds contain rubber). If one is using old-fashioned open kettle (never use this method for canning vegetables), the lids are boiled a few minutes to sterilize, but need only to be dropped into boiling water and kept hot if the jars of food are to be placed in a canner for processing. After the lid is placed on the jar, the metal band is screwed tight once for all. Retightening the band after the jars are taken out of the canner is likely to prevent sealing. The bands are removed from the jars twelve or fifteen hours after the canning is done and used to seal more lids on other jars. Jars sealed with two-piece metal caps are suitable for all types of canning except oven—a tightly sealed jar is likely to break when subjected to the dry heat of an oven.

Bands for glass top seal and vacuum seal caps are not interchangeable because a deeper band is needed for the glass lids, but the two have one thing in common. Neither is rust-proof. That's because of the zinc shortage, but a quick wiping after each use with a cloth moistened with paraffin will prevent serious rusting. It will save time and trouble too, if a cloth is prepared ahead of time and kept in one of those glass jars that can't be used for home-canning. Then when the cloth is needed, set the jar in a pan of warm water until the paraffin softens.

The "lightning" jar (so called because it is quickest to seal) requires very little metal and not too much rubber for sealing. Several manufacturers make this type jar. It seals with a glass lid and rubber held in place with wire bails. The wires used on one nationally known brand are of heat-treated, high-tension, stretch-proof, spring steel. This is the ideal jar for home canning any year because it is so easy to seal. The rubber is placed on the sealing surface or shoulder, the lid comes next, then the upper bail wire is pushed up until it rests in the groove in the top of the lid. Pay no attention to the lower wire, it takes care of itself until after the jars are removed from the canner—then it is pushed down against the side of the jar and that's all there is to sealing it.

When buying jars, choose pints for peas, corn, and shelled beans—and quarts for all other vegetables. Half-pint sizes aren't being made, and half-gallons are unsuitable for canning vegetables because it takes too long for heat to reach the center of the jar.

Editor News:

Will you please send Sgt. Zonker's paper to this address for a matter of a few weeks—Sgt. T W. W. Zonker, Jr., 170 F. A. Bn. Serv. Btry., Ventura, California.

We are moving in about 3 weeks again, I think to Los Angeles or Beverly Hills.

We took a ride down there Sunday and it is a beautiful place and can hardly wait to get moved. Have really seen some sights since I have been gone, but I guess there is no place like home. We get lonesome for home and are planning on coming home sometime this fall when Walter gets his furlough. We also expect to drive back if we can get sufficient gas to make the trip.

Hope to see you all soon.

Sincerely,
Sgt. T. and Mrs. Walter W. W. Zonker, Jr.

Louis Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Webb, of Spencerville, will leave Friday for the armed service.

Word has been received from Corp. James Draggoo by parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Draggoo, that he is safe in India, having flown 15,000 miles in one of the U. S. A. largest planes completing the trip in the same plane. He said it was a wonderful trip. Their washing is all done by the natives and the natives do all the serving in the mess hall. He closed the letter by saying: "Dad I will send you some Japs' ears to hang down under the barn where I used to hang my ground hog tails."

Pfc. Wayne D. Storer, Mrs. Storer and babe arrived Sunday from Camp Sutton, N. C. Wayne having recived a 7 day furlough. Others to spend Sunday in the Storer home were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Simanton of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wade and daughter, Gwynn Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Laub of Butler, Ind., and Lt. Wm. D. Squires and Mrs. Squires, of Detroit, Mich., also Miss Joyce Woodcox. This list includes all the Storer family. There were many afternoon and evening callers. Wayne and family will start their return trip Friday, July 23.

NOTICE OF LETTING BUS DRIVERS CONTRACT

CONCORD FARMER ENDS HIS LIFE BY HANGING

The entire community was shocked early Tuesday forenoon when it was learned that Ernest W. Johnson, a farmer living one mile north of Concord, committed suicide by hanging himself. He was found in the wagon shed at his farm home where he had tied a rope to the rafters, stood on a box and stepped off.

Mr. Johnson was 68 years of age and had been physically and mentally ill. He had been in poor health for a number of years and a neighbor said that he had threatened to commit suicide by hanging about a month ago.

County Coroner Kenneth Kaylor, of Auburn, was called and investigated the death, returning a verdict of suicide by hanging. His body was found in the wagon shed at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning by his wife, who has also been in poor health for several years.

Mr. Johnson was born on Dec. 22, 1874, and had lived all of his life on the farm where he died. He is survived by his wife, the former Harriet Draggoo; one daughter, Mrs. Thelma Baker, of north of St. Joe on Road No. 1, and one brother, C. R. Johnson, of Auburn. He was a member of the Concord Methodist Church.

For many years he was associated with the Farmers Mutual Insurance Co., and was also engaged in selling fertilizer to farmers of his community. He was a man highly respected in this community and will be greatly missed.

The body was taken to the Gerig Funeral Home in Auburn. Funeral services will be held from the funeral home Thursday afternoon. Burial at St. Joe.

LAKE JAMES CHRISTIAN ASSEMBLY

The second week of "Junior Camp" at Lake James Christian Assembly came to a close Sunday, July 18. 285 children ranging in age from 9-14 attended the last week. Those from the Church of Christ attending were:

Connie Stewart, Anita and Howard McMaken, and Jack Kees. The next two weeks is High School age — Maxine Converse is attending this week.

The week of Aug. 2-8 is Mission week and Missionaries who are home on furloughs or because of the war will be there. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shaffer, who returned home from India a month or so ago will be there.

Christian Worker's week, Aug. 9-14. The program is one worth while and especially good for the elders.

Those who are interested in the New Testament teaching as to the elders should attend. There is to be a Town Hall session and W. R. Walker will preside, but other members of the faculty of eight preachers, teachers and editors will be on the platform at the receiving end for your questions. 15-21 is Ministers week and the last week 21-28 is Camp Leaders week.

SECOND BLACK-OUT SCHEDULED FOR ST. JOE

According to information obtained from Chief Warden, Walter Stewart, St. Joe will experience its second black-out shortly. This was determined at a meeting Monday night, when the Civilian Defense leaders met with the local firemen.

All block wardens will call at each home in his sector, so that residents may know who to call upon in case of need at time during such black-out periods. The main purpose of this 15 minutes of darkness will be for all defense units consisting of Auxiliary Police, Firemen, Air Raid Wardens, Messenger Service and First Aid units to become familiar with the work in contemplation of the state wide black-out to be soon.

In order that St. Joe citizens may be able to determine the air-raid signals the fire siren will be used and the intermittant rise and fall of the siren will be the signal. In case of fire a continuous blast of the siren is always used, thus thre should be no confusion on the part of the citizens.

Let everyone be alert and cooperate with local wardens in making the second black-out even more successful than the first trial last week.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Mid-Summer meeting of the Ladies Literary Club was held at the home of Mrs. Carl Perkins, Friday afternoon, July 16. The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Charles Krise. Sixteen members responded to roll call. Secretary's report was read and accepted.

The club program for the coming year was read and accepted. The meeting was then turned over to the hostess and her committee, Mrs. Don Burley, Mrs. Fred Hart, and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox. Several contests were conducted with the following winning prizes, Mrs. Charles Krise, Mrs. Frank Curie, Mrs. Inez Chapman, Mrs. Allen Haller and Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser.

Refreshments consisting of chicken salad, crackers, cake and lemonade were served by the committee.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser, September 15th.

BOOTS SCHOOL REUNION

Cards are being mailed announcing the Boots School reunion to be held on Sunday, July 1st. at the School house in Jackson township. Clarence Sponhour is president and Ross Bishop is Secretary.

Miss Flossie Dorsey, of Scipio, is visiting this week with her grandmother, Mrs. John Wineland.

Mrs. Anna Tustison was taken to the Hicksville Hospital Sunday afternoon. She had been poorly for several weeks. Special medical attention was given her Wednesday, but we are unable to report her condition at time of going to press.

The ten-month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Woodcox, of near Garrett, is in the Lutheran Hospital at Fort Wayne, where she underwent an operation last Wednesday for removal of a timothy head from her lung. Special nurses were attending the case and Saturday the little one was getting along as well as could be expected.

Remembrance of a Warning

Symbol of freedom everywhere is the historic Liberty Bell in Philadelphia which rang out the tidings of our independence in 1776. Significant today is this picture of the Liberty Bell and the famous man who stood beside it—Georges Clemenceau, premier of France in World War I. For France, which first helped America to peal out the song of liberty is now being helped by America to regain its lost freedom. This picture was taken back in 1922, when four years after the Armistice, Clemenceau at the age of 81 came to America as a private citizen and during his tour stopped to pay homage to the famous Liberty shrine. Prophetic were the words he uttered there that the prospect ahead would be "dark and dreary unless the United States assumed her rightful place in international collaboration for the establishment of a lasting peace." Prophetic, too, was his warning 21 years ago that "Germany is preparing war again."

What's wrong with July that they don't get poetic about the month.

They say Mussolini isn't himself, and we'd act like we were somebody else if we were in his shoes, to try and fool the Allies.

PRAISE THE FARMER

In current strike discussions it behooves us to look at the farmer and find some pointers on what you mean by hard work with no time and a half on the books. Stalled because of heavy Spring rains and unable to plow farms partially under water, didn't keep the farmer from getting ready for work ahead. Crops were put in, late perhaps which meant additional hours, doing chores at night, driving tractors on Sunday, rigging up lights some way to carry on late. The farmer rises early and the tractor has just time to work up steam for the next day. Everybody in the family joins in, crops are no respector of age or sex, for young hand and old ones. Weather comes to upset plans but he redoubles his efforts, going on to produce food for a nation, the army, the Allies. He isn't too certain f what he is going to get in dollars for his labor, but this uncertainty of not knowing how much profit, of taking his chance, the farmer has done in the past. He can't quit because crops have a way of growing regardless of man's disposition. Long hours, weather, prices, chances—that's farming.

HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS DOWN 47% IN JUNE

Motor vehicle accidents on the state highway system during June showed a decrease of 47 per cent from the same month in 1942, it was announced today by S. C. Hadden, chairman of the State Highway Commission. Reports filed with the Commission's bureau of traffic show 677 accidents during June of 1943 as compared with 1,289 accidents listed in June, 1942.

The decrease in accidents was accompanied by a reduction in the number of fatalities, which dropped from 46 in June, 1942 to 11 in June of this year; in the number of persons injured, which decreased from 671 to 307, and in the property damage resulting from the accidents.

The improvement in safety conditions on the state highway system, including both the routes in cities and towns and those in rural areas, is credited to three factors: the reduction in the speed of driving, the reduction in the number of vehicular miles traveled, and the continuing work of the State Highway Commission to eliminate conditions which might contribute to accidents.

Monthly reports on accidents occurring on the state highway system have shown an average reduction of 41 per cent in the first six months of 1943 as compared with the same period of 1942, with a corresponding drop in property damage, and number of persons injured. During the six months of this year only 118 fatalities have been reported in motor vehicle accidents on the state highway system as compared with 321 in the same six months of 1942, a reduction of 64 per cent.

While much of the State Highway Commission's activities in eliminating possible accident conditions have been curtailed by the wartime restrictions on construction, as much of this type of work is being done as is possible. At the same time plans for additional projects of this nature are being developed for construction as soon as present restrictions are removed.

LUTHERAN YOUNG PEOPLE ATTEND LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOL

Seven young people from the local parish attended the nineteenth annual Summer school of the Indiana and Michigan Synods of the Lutheran Church, held at Oakwood Park, Lake Wawasee, July 13-18.

Over three hundred church workers from the participating congregations managed to be present in spite of travel difficulties.

Those attending from the Spencerville Parish were: Ruthanna Doll and Richard Shilling, St. Peter's, Spencerville; Paul Lake and William Billow, St. Mark's, Saint Joe; Wanda Briegel, Lucile Miller and Jimmie Tombow, St. Mark's, Butler, Indiana. Pastor Stevenson, his wife, and their daughter, Kay, accompanied the group and participated in the school and recreation. Richard Zuch, Alliance, Ohio, was the week-long guest of the Stevensons.

Besides the Bible hour and the age-group conferences which all attended, each student enrolled in a leadership course in Church History, Hymnology, Missions, or The Life of Christ taught by Church-accredited teachers.

All came home tired from study and play but looking forward to next year.

AIR FIGHTERS BIVOUAC IN GREENLAND—The rigors and hazards of air patrol along the bleak Greenland coast are demonstrated in this picture of a U. S. Army Air Forces Mission patrol mission forced down on the inhospitable Arctic fjord by bad weather and zero-zero visibility.

Unhurt, except for bruises and scratches, members of the crew cut their way out of the plane and improvised a snow shelter, using one wing as a roof. Then they rationed their emergency food supply, melted snow for water, and kept sending out weak radio signals in hope of directing rescue. On the fourth day they were sighted and photographed from the air, and rescued by a Coast Guard patrol immediately dispatched to the scene.

★BONDS BUILD FORTRESSES FOR FREEDOM!

To the wide-eyed boy beside him, this Fortress pilot ranks with Superman.

One look at the instrument panel and you feel the same way. It's hard to believe that ordinary mortals could ever master that maze of dials, buttons, levers and switches.

But young Americans are doing it with deadly efficiency. (Ask Adolf, Benito or Tojo.) And they don't learn their jobs just by reading a book. It takes intensive training and practical experience.

The electric power business is like that. You can't make kilowatt-hours with theories. You've got to learn how—by growing up in the business.

That's the way most electric company men got their start. It's the American way. And it works.

It works so well that the electric companies under experienced business management were able to push power production up and up — to supply war plants with far more electric power than any nation has ever known before — and at low rates.

Do not waste Electricity just because it is not rationed

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY

SYRETTE and BLOOD PLASMA TUBES DEMAND MORE TIN

"Tin is a precious metal in our country today. With about 90% of our former source of supply cut off by the war in the Pacific, it has become necessary to salvage the tin coating from tin cans used in every home in the country.

"Now that tin cans are going to war, it opens one more avenue for women to do their part in keeping our armed forces supplied with food and medicines, not to mention gas masks and vital parts for ships, planes, and tanks," said Frank G. Thompson, WPB Executive Secretary.

The prepared tin cans you turn in to the war effort are shipped to big detinning plants where ten tons of them at one time go into the solution which removes the tin. The tin can is in reality a steel cylinder coated with a very thin layer of tin—about 1% tin by weight and 99% steel.

The importance of collecting all the tin cans might be further impressed upon us if we stop to realize that every ton of tin cans produces only about 20 pounds of pure tin, as against 1,980 pounds of steel scrap.

Tin is used in the production of airplane motors, guns, hand grenades, torpedoes, blood plasma containers, in war ships and submarines; tin ingots go to companies producing cans and containers for food, both for your home use and for the troops abroad and the men at sea; still other ingots go to the technical laboratories and special factories producing supplies for the Red Cross, hospitals, Medical Corps, and for emergency supplies used by the soldier himself in the field, when wounded and waiting assistance.

No more spectacular proof of the essential service of tin in this war has appeared than the "syrette." It is standard equipment for all combat men and women on the fighting front.

The syrette is a tiny thing about the size of the first joint of your little finger. It resembles a small toothpaste tube with a needle at the head, enclosed in a transparent plastic. Its pouch must be made of tin —100% pure tin. A twist of the finger and the plastic covering is removed, exposing a sterilized hollow needle. It is a simple operation to insert this needle near the wound and squeeze the little pouch, thus injecting a single dose of morphine which will deaden pain for 10 to 14 hours. The tin from only two cans will make a syrette.

Your tin cans contribute to the making of these little "angels of mercy" that will help the lives of thousands of our fighting men. It is possible that the tin cans you save will eventually find their steel in a cannon sending shells toward the enemy on the European front, while the reclaimed tin, 15,000 miles away, covers the little syrette which gives a wounded American soldier the relief necessary to preserve his life until aid reaches him.

It is necessary for every woman to save the tin cans used in her home. Remember the procedure for preparing them —rinse thoroughly, remove label, open both ends, step on firmly, and place in a basket or box for collection. When you have done that the remainder of the job rests with persons who know where those cans will do the most good. You have done your part if you save and prepare the cans—and see that they are sent on their way to provide needed war materials.

WARNING AS TO CARE OF FOODS

Warning that rationing is resulting in housewives' buying ahead and using left-overs to a greater extent than ever before, State Board of Health officials said today that the public faces great health dangers unless homemakers make sure that food is properly cared for and stored.

"During the past few weeks, five food poisoning outbreaks have been reported to us," Joseph C. Schneider, head of the Bureau of Food and Drugs, said. "There were 162 persons affected, of whom 70 received hospital treatment. No doubt many other cases of a less serious nature have occurred, many of them in homes, in which instance they were not reported.

"To avoid food poisoning in the home, cleanliness and refrigeration are of prime importance," Mr. Schneider pointed out. "The practice of preparing stews, soups, and custards several hours before serving and leaving them at room or body temperature for any length of time is very dangerous. These foods should be kept hot until served, or cooled quickly by improvised methods. The container can be placed in a larger container filled with tap water and then placed in the refrigerator, or can be placed directly in the refrigerator to cool.

"The mere act of placing food in the refrigerator, however, does not constitute adequate cooling. An overcrowded ice box is ineffective, because it does not permit free circulation of the air. Also, food wrapped or tightly sealed in paper cannot be refrigerated effectively because paper itself is an excellent insulator. Warm food placed in an overcrowded box or wrapped in paper and placed in a refrigerator will remain for several hours at a temperature high enough to permit growth of bacteria."

The proper temperature for storage of foods has been placed at between 40 and 50 degrees F., although 40 is preferred.

While most foods will grow bacteria, there are some which are particularly susceptible. Stewed chicken should be refrigerated immediately, as should stewed turkey, chicken salad, ham salad, tongue and ham and liver sausage. Cheese, milk, custard pies, cream-filled eclairs and tarts, custard filled pastries, eclairs require special care, as do creamed corn and other non-acid fatty foods.

The most common cause of food poisoning, staphylococcus, occurs in infections in the nose, throat and in sores, cuts or skin abrasions. Because of this, persons who have sores or cuts especially on the hands, arms, face and neck should not be permitted to handle food. Also, food should not be handled in such a way as to be exposed to coughing or sneezing.

While staphylococcus in quantities sufficient to cause illness does not cause food to spoil so that it is offensive to sight, taste, or smell, every precaution must be taken to store foods properly and at sufficiently low temperatures to prevent growth of bacteria.

It is utterly impossible to be sure that food is safe simply by looking at it, tasting, or smelling it, Mr. Schneider said.

ADVENTURE IN HEARTS

Director: Elmer Clifton,
Story and Screen Play by: Oliver Drake.

Cast: Jack LaRue, Mary Healy Kane Richmond, Iris Adrian, Gayle Mellott, Jack Mulhall, Howard Banks, Ben Taggart, Montague Shaw, Inna Gest, Arthur Gardner.

Adventure in Hearts or Hard Guy brings Jack LaRue to the screen in the title role and he certainly makes the most of it. As the mastermind behind one of the cleverest rackets yet depicted on the screen, La Rue directs the destinies of a band of professional brides whose function is to rush their ardent suitors, with which they are purposely thrown into contact, into a hasty marriage. The next step is to tip off the parents, who raid the bridal parties in time to stop the honeymoon—and to learn that a much desired annulment might be procured for a price.

Lovely racket No. 2—especially when some of the professional brides are Mary Healy, Gayle Mallott, Iris Adrian, Ina Gest and Grace Leonard. These oft-married and just as oft-separated young misses finally find themselves in trouble when La Rue marries Miss Mellott to young Howard Banks who later is accused when his bride is found murdered (some more of La Rue's underhanded work.) That brings in a three way investigation, conducted by Mary Healy, the murdered girl's sister, her boy friend, Kane Richmond, and Jack Mulhall, in the role of a cattleman actually on the police force investigating La Rue.

The picture abounds with feminine beauty and backed by a soundly dramatic story, plenty of clean-cut comedy, and excellent performances by practically every member of the cast, it should more than fill the entertainment appetite of the fans. For a film that is as exciting as it is different, don't miss Adventure in Hearts.

HOME-CANNED BERRIES TAKE LITTLE SUGAR

Home canned berries play leading roles in the pantry because they contribute vitamins and minerals for health, can be used in many ways, and are easy and inexpensive to can.

Blackberries, blueberries, boysenberries, raspberries, elderberries—can them all and others, too, with little or no sugar. Sugar gives them better flavor and more calories, but has nothing to do with keeping qualities.

Berries are too precious to waste and none will be wasted if you will see to it that every step taken is the right one. First of all, wash, rinse and examine your jars. Be sure to inspect the top edges of those to be sealed with glass top seal or two-piece vacuum seal closures because top seals refuse to work unless tops of the jars are perfect. Cover jars, glass lids, and zinc caps with luke-warm water; heat to boiling and keep hot until needed. Wash and rinse rubbers and vacuum seal lids and drop them in boiling water—they don't need boiling unless you plan to do old-fashioned open kettle canning—then they must be boiled a few minutes to sterilize.

Every berry must be fresh, sound, ripe, and firm. Wash them carefully and then take your choice of canning methods.

Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company, prefers to hot-pack berries. This is how it is done. Place berries in a wide, shallow pan; add one-half cup sugar, or less, for each quart of berries; set the pan over low heat and simmer until the berries heat through and the sugar dissolves (remember you don't have to use any sugar); pour the hot berries into clean, hot jars and process five minutes in hot water-bath canner.

If you prefer cold packing, fill a jar about half full with raw berries, then tap it gently on a folded cloth to shake the berries down. When the jar is filled to within a half-inch of the top, add enough hot syrup to cover the berries. Process 20 minutes in a water-bath canner.

Syrup for four quarts of berries may be made by boiling two cups sugar and three cups water or berry juice together until the sugar dissolves. If you are a little short on sugar—and who isn't these days?—try making the syrup of one measure sugar, one measure corn syrup, and one-half measure water or berry juice. This syrup seems rather thick and sweet, but it will become thinner and less sweet after it has been with the berries a few weeks. And if you have no sugar at all, cover the berries with hot berry juice or boiling water; seal or partly seal the jars (follow the manufacturer's instructions) and process 20 minutes in a water-bath canner.

If you want your berries to really star, can them without sugar. Then they can be used as if they were fresh from the patch. The juice can be drained off and used for making jelly. The berries can go into a pie or into jam—a jam turnover tucked in a lunch box will make the noon hour much more pleasant for somebody and surely you need nobody to tell you that jelly and jam are far more delicious when freshly made than at any other time.

From Boys IN THE U.S.Army

New addresses of the week:

P. F. C. Morris J. Woodcox, A. S. N. 35343064, Det. Med. Dept., Station Hosp., Camp Blanding, Florida, U. S. A.

Roger W. Hadley, A. S., Co. 7 Recruit Station, N. S. N., A. T. C., Corpus Christi, Texas.

Pvt. Charles H. Washler, 35341787, Hq. & Hq., 82nd Chemical Bn. (MTZ) A. P. O. 4573, % Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif.

P. F. C. Paul L. Keller returned to Miami Beach, Fla., on Tuesday morning after spending a 15 day furlough with his parents and brother. His address is: P. F. C. Paul L. Keller, Hqd. & Hqd. B. T. C. 4, Sqd., Miami Beach, Fla.

Harry Schendel who is located at Camp Haan, California, was home for a 15 day furlough. He visited friends at different places and returned to camp Tuesday. He has been in service six months.

Lt. Frank H. Draggoo was home on leave for a few days before leaving for 2 Air Force Ephrata, Washington. P. F. C. Joe B. Draggoo is now stationed at Long Island, N. Y. These boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Draggoo of Fort Wayne, formerly of Concord.

Lewis E. Webb and Harold M. Laux, of Spencerville, and Loren D. Inlow left Friday for induction into the armed services at Ft. Benjamin Harrison. Sixteen made up the quota.

Camp Robinson.
July 18, 1943.

Dear Fred:

Since I haven't written you for quite some time, I'd like to write a few lines just to say hello and that we are all O. K. in Arkansas. We are nearing the end of our current cycle, in fact, 8 more days and our men will complete their basic training, it has really been rough. All the men are 14 weeks out of civilian life and as you know it is during this time that waist lines dwindle and ruddy cheeks appear along with lots of blisters and chigger bites.

I have been in Robinson nearly four months now and have found it to be a nice camp, very close to Little Rock and situated at the foot of the Ozark Mountains in very pretty country.

We have a house in Pulaski Heights, suburb of Little Rock which is very nice. Lt. and Mrs. Griggs, of South Carolina, are the people who live with us. It's a 25 minute ride on the street car from transfer corner in Little Rock. Get home at least twicee a week when we aren't in the woods.

I'm Battalion Duty Officer today so while sitting at headquarters on days like these I catch up on my writing. (The mess sergeant just brought me a whole pumpkin pie still too hot to eat, but there is a hungry looking corporal sitting here so I think he and I will get by O. K. on the pie.)

There isn't much news I can tell you but I am enclosing a letter from a very good friend of mine, he was company commander of Co. B in Fort Harrison when I was there last year. He is a native of Indianapolis, a newspaper man.

Hoping this finds you O. K. and thank you for The News regularly.

I remain,

Respectfully,
Lt. Dale Collins.
July 7, '43

Dear Lieutenant:

Although no mail has come through except two letters from the family, I am banking on the fact that you won't let me down and that one or two letters from you are chasing after me.

Have been on the move lately and if all goes as planned and as you will probably be reading, this will probably my last letter from North Africa. After four weeks at our last mountain spot where we got our last schooling of the war, I hope, a group of us set out on a fantastic 5-day train ride across North Africa to one of the larger cities. The trip should have taken about 24 hours, but poor equipment, poorer facilities and heavy traffic make ordinary schedules out of the question. It was rough, filthy, hot and a tiring experience.

We spent July 4th in this particular city and then yesterday came out to this God-forsaken spot where we are joining the American division to which we have been attached for special duty and with which we will move forward. We have pitched our tents and spread our bedrolls on the ground—very dirty and dusty and real North African heat, worse than anything I have ever known, plus plenty of humidity.

We are all impatient to get underway, it brings us that much closer to the job for which we have been trained and that much closer to the real and final home coming.

I miss my Ft. Harrison friends and I wish like the devil you could be here too. I am anxious to hear how things are going, so I hope the mail will start breaking through soon.

Good luck to you always and let me hear from you.

As ever,
Capt. Philip C. Lewis.

Overseas.
July 25, 1943.

Dear Mother:

Received your very welcome letter last night and sure was glad to hear from you. I am on duty all by myself this morning so things are very quiet and maybe I can get this written before the "dispatch crew" comes to work. Nothing new has been added around here. Still in the mail business and working hard every day.

If things go right I should be in the States within the next couple of weeks. It sure looks like I am going to be one very busy man when I get back. It isn't the idea of waiting so long for them to arrange our leave papers, but it is the waiting for my relief to come back so I can shove off. The past ten months have gone fast, but when it comes to within a week or maybe three of going on leave, they go very slow. It will probably be another year or so before I get another leave.

Suppose quite a few of the boys from around home are Overseas by now. Sure is going to be a happy time when we all get together to celebrate. I would like to have been there when your black-out occurred. It isn't anything to us here.

Thanks a lot for Mike's address. I will drop him a line when I get around to the office this evening. I wrote to "Ching" awhile back but haven't heard from him yet.

Well, Mother, it is almost time for me to go off duty, so I will close hoping to hear from you soon and often. Don't know when I will be there but hope it is real soon. Am all ready to pack my bag to leave any time.

Your loving Son.
Burl Rude, Jr.

We wish to thank the St. Joe Fire Department for preventing any loss or damage to the Elevator or grinding and feed room Tuesday, July 27. H. H. Myers, Owner. C. R. Billow, Manager. 30t1.

While canning beans Thursday in her stove oven, Mrs. Glen Snyder of Schell's Corners, had an experience that might have been serious for her. She had just gone upstairs to paint when she heard an explosion, and upon investigating found beans and glass scattered over two rooms. Seven quarts of beans had exploded.

Walter Stewart is ill this week at his home with an appendicitis attack and also a renewal of the poison abrasions on his arms. He has been off work for several weeks with the latter trouble. Later: We learn that Mr. Stewart was taken to Hicksville Hospital and operated on Wednesday forenoon. His condition is not known here by friends.

Molly Pitcher Tag Day, August 4

The modern Molly Pitcher will greet you throughout the nation on August 4th when brigades of Mollys will tag every buyer of War Bonds and Stamps. They will carry on the tradition of the Revolutionary War heroine who has gone down in history because she aided her fighters at the battle of Monmouth in 1778.

The LIONS CLUB

Fifteen members of the St. Joe Lions Club met Monday evening at Akins Tea Room with four visitors, namely, Lion Willis and Lion Bartholomew, of Waterloo, Leon Kees and James Warstler, St. Joe.

Each member was presented with a copy of a booklet "How to Respect and Display Our Flag," as a courtesy of the U. S. Marine Corps.

James Warstler presented music on his electric guitar, displaying the ability of a young artist. He was the guest of Lion Ridgway.

Lion Ralph Sechler was asked to introduce the speaker for the evening and introduced Dean Bachtel, of Garrett, now Vice Commander of Indiana and may become the State Commander of the American Legion. Mr. Bachtel said it had been the purpose of the American Legion to build up America, and not tear it down. He advocated the necessity of being prepared and cited the loss of men in the first World War because we were not prepared. We believe in universal training that the young boys in school should be trained.

He told in eloquent terms of the rise of Hitler and Mussolini to power. There is nothing to indicate that this war will end soon. The Axis are still building up with arms and men. We hate to make a prediction as to when the war will end. We are fighting with that hope that Christ Jesus gave us—the hope that we will be able to hold out.

We don't know what causes war. It may be the greed and the hatred that nations have that gets us into trouble. Americans do not have the hatred in their hearts to fight ,until they see their buddies fall.

The speaker said we are going to lose about a million of our boys. When our boys from the home community are listed among the dead, then we will begin to realize what it means. There are 250,000 sons of Legionnaires in the war.

The American Legion has three points of special interest. First is to win the war; second, in the negotiations of a peach it must be lasting, and one dictated by us. Third, that we must come back to the days of our fathers, and believe that the government doesn't owe us anything.

In emphasizing the patriotism of our people, the speaker said, "that anyone who lays down his tools instead of doing his part, should be shot down like a traitor to our nation."

He made a plea to help the boys in the service and showed how to aid them when they return from the fighting front.

We will give you a stabilized Legion. We want these boys to come back and carry on as we who have carried on for the past quarter of a century. We are going to win the war, whether it takes one, two, or six years.

TWO HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Fish is throughly cooked when the flesh separates easily. Wash the cooking utensils, dishes and hands, that have used in preparing the fish meal, in cold water and salt. Wash all with soap to remove the odor...Flour packs as it stands so always sift it before you measure. Pile it lightly with a spoon in the measuring cup and level off with a knife. ..Fill an empty salt shaker with dried, powdered parsley and have it ready for when you are cooking. Sprinkle the parsley on the top of vegetables or creamed dishes before serving.

A subscriber gives this suggestion to local housewives to try. She cuts her baking powder biscuits square shaped instead of round, finding this takes less time and there are no ends left from cutting. They take less space in the pan, also. This shape can be made with a floured kitchen knife if you haven't a square cookie cutter.

TRI-TOWNSHIP 4-H CONTEST WINNERS

Food Preparation, senior division —Second place, Alice Moore, Newville Tp. and Martha Olinger, North Keyser, (tie.)

Canning, senior division—Third, Doris Trenary, Concord Tp. Junior division—First, Joann Curie, Concord Tp.

$12,000 JUDGMENT GIVEN HIGH COURT O. K.

Announcement is made that the state supreme court at Indianapolis has ordered an entry made affirming the decision of the LaGrange Circuit Court in the suit of the Peoples Savings and Loan Association of DeKalb County against nine members of its former board of directors.

The defendants are Vern C. Clark, Karl Kutzner, Walter J. Mondhank, L. E. Schlotterback, Henry Shaffer, Iris Stage, Emory A. Hartman, J. A. Sebert and Lester G. Casebere. Judge Aldon Simpson, of Elkhart, presided in the trial at LaGrange and he entered a judgment of $12,000 against the defendants. They appealed to the Indiana appellate court, but the members of that tribunal divided equally in their vote. The case was automatically transferred to the state supreme court.

The complaint was filed in September, 1938, in the DeKalb Circuit Court and went to LaGrange County on a change of venue. Trial was held there in September, 1941. The complaint alleged that the capital of the association became impaired and in 1935 the state department of financial institutions threatened to take possession. It was claimed the directors agreed to pay $9,000 into the treaesury of the concern in consideration of being permitted to operate and control it. The plaintiff asserted that the offer was accepted, but that payment of the money was never made, although the defendants made the representation that the deficiency had been made good.

In entering a finding for the association, Judge Simpson included the principal amount demanded and interest. The supreme court held that the lower court made no errors in the trial.

BOOTS SCHOOL REUNION

Cards are being mailed announcing the Boots School reunion to be held on Sunday, Aug. 1st, at the school house in Jackson township. Clarence Sponhour is president and Ross Bishop is Secretary.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this manner to express our sincere gratitude to each and every one who contributed in any way after the death of our beloved husband and father, and especially we want to thank Rev. Ferguson for his consoling words, and Gerigs' for their many courtesies shown us during our bereavement. — Mrs. Harriett Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Baker.

HOME ECONOMIC CLUBS

The July meeting of the Spencer Township Home Economics Club was very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. Ethlyn Miller, with Mrs. Izetta Chaney as assistant hostess. Seventeen members responded to roll call. A report on the collection of fats, cans, and brown paper was given by Mrs. Mary Stemen.

The history of the song of the month, "Onward Christian Soldiers," by Mrs. Metta Sharp preceeded the singing of the song of the month. A quartet, Mrs. Lois Fisher, Mrs. Flossie Rediger, Mrs. Ruth Baker, and Mrs. Elsie Fisher gave a special number, "The Old Rugged Cross."

"Our Flag, its History and Uses," was very capably and earnestly given by Mrs. Zona Abel. The quartet closed the business session with "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," followed with dismissal by Mrs. Sharp. Mrs. Grace Laub and Mrs. Lois Fisher, project leaders, demonstrated the preparation of and served Mock Sausage as a meat alternate. All pronounced the food very appetizing. Mary Lenore Moore, Co. Home Worker, of Auburn, demonstrated with beautifully colored chart cut-outs a complete and varied list of foods for the sick room and convalescents.

The hostess and her assistant served delicious home made ice cream and cookies. The August meeting will be Family Night, with a program and carry-in lunch at the Spencerville Town Hall. All members please take notice and remember occasion and place.

GOOD HONEY CROP IS PREDICTED FOR STATE

Predictions of a good honey crop in most parts of Indiana as a result of favorable working conditions for bees in recent weeks, were made today by James E. Starkey, chief apiary inspector for the Division of Entomology. The honey now being taken from producing colonies is in demand.

Production may not equal that of past years, due to the unusually heavy loss of colonies during the Winter and inability to replace them with bees from other states as has been the practice in the past.

DR. G. W. GILLIE ON WLW PROGRAM

Dr. George W. Gillie of Fort Wayne, Ind., representative in Congress from the Fourth Indiana District, will speak on the subject, "Disease Control Activities of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. The American Legion picnic will be held Sunday near Georgetown on Road 101.

James Hatch has been off duty from the air base at Fort Wayne for several days, nursing a mashed toe.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Morr and son, Jerry of South Bend, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Draggoo.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller, of north of Montpelier, Ohio, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Woodcox, Saturday night.

Mrs. Inez Chapman left Monday morning for Jamestown, N. Y., to be the guest of her son, Max and family for the next ten days.

Cal Hull and William Monroe began working at the HK tower as student operators on last Sunday. The company pays 50c per hour to learn the business. Cal had been working as trackman all Summer.

Invitations are being mailed to members of the Sechler family, to be present at the annual gathering of Sechlers' at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Monroe, on Sunday, Aug. 8, 1943. Basket dinner.

Leslie Meek has been awarded high honors for the fising season thus far by all St. Joe nimrods as having caught the largest fish. Sunday he caught a 5¼ pound large mouth bass at his favorite lake and it was a most beautiful specimen.

Miss Delilah Ridgway, of West Unity, Ohio, is spending this week here in the Clifford Billow home. She came with her uncle, Denver Ridgway last Sunday. She will return Sunday when the Billow family goes to Bryan, to attend their family reunion.

The twenty-eighth annual reunion of the Perkins Family will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron F. Gorrell, 1 mile east and 1½ south of Harlan, on Sunday, Aug. 8, 1943. Carl Perkins, of St. Joe, is president and Mrs. Aaron Gorrell, Woodburn, Indiana, secretary.

Mrs. Harry Kees was very agreeably surprised on the anniversary of her natal day by receiving gifts and a shower of beautiful cards from many friends. These tokens of remembrance are much appreciated by Mrs. Kees as she has been unable lately to take her part in life's busy way because of illness.

Mrs. Hilda Travis and son, Morrel, of Fort Wayne, were over Sunday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sellers. The son remained here for the week and Tom Sellers accompanied his sister home Monday for a few days. Afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Waters, Mrs. Stanley State and baby and Mrs. Thos. McCarthy, all of Ft. Wayne.

Mrs. Blanche M. South, of Auburn, salvage chairman of the women's division of the DeKalb County Council of Defense, makes the following report for the month of June: Kitchen waste fats collected in the county: Auburn, 590 lbs.; Butler, 295 lbs.; Garrett, 450 lbs.; Waterloo, 135 lbs.; Ashley, 11 lbs.; and St. Joe and Spencerville, 126 lbs., a total of 1706 pounds. Tin cans shipped from the county, 4,880 pounds. Hosiery shipped from the county, 400 pounds.

A prompt response to a fire call at the Myers Elevator, Tuesday noon, averted what might have resulted in a terrific loss of much needed grains and materials. Fire was discovered in the basement of the feed room, near the corn shelter where cobs were piled high. Just what happened is not known. William Billow worked heroically before the department arrived to put the fire out, but not until the stream of chemicals began pouring in on the cobs from the department enigne could they see much progress in putting the fire out. Dense, strong smoke made it difficult to enter the pit and remain long enough to do much. Roy Reidenbach donned the gas mask of the fire company and he was able to put the chemicals at the seat of the fire, and soon was able to say that he had the blaze under control. Real loss in money is light but this scare may lead to more adequate protection. Fire is sabotage, because it consumes things most vital to any community.

Wartime Meals With Rationed Foods

BY VIANNA D. BRAMBLETT,
Nutrition Consultant, Station WLW

Some homemakers are hesitant in spending their point stamps early in the month, but hold them until the end of the ration period, then rush out to make last minute purchases. Quite often this results in inconvenience to both the housewife and the grocer, and often the items sought are temporarily sold out. Rationing is here for the duration, so we might as well shop in a normal way and spend our points gradually and efficiently over the month.

It pays to keep an eye on the market for good buys not only of fresh fruits and vegetables, but also for good buys in point rationed foods, and buy them as needed.

Point values have been lowered considerably on several items, particularly on canned fruits and vegetable juices and on cold cuts of meats.

Mrs. Bramblett

Citrus fruits and juices, fresh or canned, are our best sources of vtiamin C, tomatoes and tomato juice rank second best. Vitamin C cannot be stored to any extent in the body so foods containing it should be included in our diet.

Chilled grapefruit, orange, or tomato juice makes an excellent starter for the day or for any meal. Now with coffee rationed, tea, cocoa and chocolate scarce, canned grapefruit and orange juices combined with fresh fruit juices make excellent punches, or sherbets for dessert or party refreshments.

To homemakers looking for bargains in points, cold cuts are excellent buys. Fresh smoked and cooked sausages, such as pork sausage, weiners, bologna, baked loaves and liver sausage, now range from three to six points a pound, depending on the meat content. Cold cuts are concentrated foods too, giving a large volume of meat in proportion to their weight which makes them a good buy for both money and point stamps; and they are particularly valuable for adding variety to daily lunches.

"No-Ration-Point" Meals

To help homemakers spend their points to a better advantage, here are menus for three pointless meals for one day this week. The figure alongside each dish shows where it falls into the Government Seven Basic Food Groups.

COFFEE MAY BE REMOVED FROM RATIONING

Removal of coffee from the ration list is "imminent and may be announced any day.

The removal date awaits final approval expected momentarily by the office of price administration and war food administration. Recommendations for removal, effective immediately, have been placed before top officials of both agencies.

Coffee was the second food product to be rationed, being placed on the rationed list in November, 1942. Sugar has been rationed since April, 1942. The current coffee stamp, good for one pound, expires Aug. 11.

President Roosevelt said in a message to congress some weeks ago that the shipping situation had so improved that it might be possible to take both coffee and sugar off the ration list. It was learned, however, that the industrial demand for sugar has so increased that its early removal from the rationed list is doubtful.

The improved shipping situation has resulted in coffee stocks in this country rising to about 450,000,000 pounds, compared with a pre-war normal of around 300,000,000 pounds.

NOTICE TO DEFENSE WORKERS

The DeKalb County War Price and Rationing Board wishes to announce that effective Wednesday, July 28, 1943, that all applications for defense workers of this county who are working in Allen County, for supplmental gasoline, tires, bicycles, and automobiles will be handled by the Ft. Wayne plant area board located at 816 So. Clinton St., Fort Wayne, Ind. Applicants should not contact this board in person but must send their applications through their own plant transportation committees for approval and they in turn will forward them to the Fort Wayne plant area board. The list of companies whose employees will be affected by this order, is as follows:

American Steel Dredge, Bass Foundry & Machine Company, General Hosiery, General Electric Company, Horton Manufacturing Co., Joslyn Manufacturing Co., Phelps Dodge Corporation, Magnavox Company, International Harvester, Bowser Company, Fruehauff Trailer Co., Tokheim Oil, Post Office, National Mill Supply, Home Telephone, City Utilities, Kuhner Packing, Wayne Paper Box, Wayne Knitting Mills, C. L. Schust, Zollner Machine Works, Fries Tool and Dye, Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Nickel Plate Railroad, New York Central, Wabash Railroad, U. S. Army Baer Field, Truck Engineering Company, Casad New Haven Ordnance Plant, Allied Mills and Wayne Pump.

THE AMERICAN FARMER . . . soldier of the soil.

Because of his tireless, faithful work throughout drought and flood alike, burning suns, shriveling heat—plenty of dreary cold and heart-breaking discouragement, our Farmers "produce"—in every sense of the word. An unending stream of meats and vegetables, grains and dairy products are pouring into transportation centers and canning factories—to keep a Nation at War healthfully fed.

The soldier in the Service may well be proud of his Dad. And we are proud of the part Electricity plays in helping him.

BUDGETS AND TAX RATES TO BE ESTABLISHED

An act of the 1943 general assembly, fixing the time when annual meetings must be held for the adoption of budgets and tax rates, will become effective when the new laws are promulgated, possibly August 1. Harry Miesse, secretary of the Indiana Taxpayers Association, has called attention to the dates included in this statute and urges that they be kept in mind by all taxpayers who wish to protect their own interests.

The date provided for the adoption of budgets and rates in civil towns and cities is the last Monday in August each year, for school cities and towns the date is the last Thursday in August, for townships the last Tuesday of August, and for counties the first Tuesday after the first Monday in September.

Notice of publication must be given to taxpayers of the meetings for the adoption of all budgets, at least eighteen days prior to the meeting. Any taxpayer has a right to attend these meetings and be heard on any matter pertaining to the budget affecting his taxes.

"Now, more than ever before," said Mr. Miesse, "such savings as are made in the cost of government will have to be made at home. Despite the enormous and necessary increase in federal expenditures, due to war's demands, there is a tendency on the part of many public officials to continue spending on a grand scale in the local units. We are reminded constantly to make sacrifices and endure hardships to the end that we may help win the war quickly and completely, but there are many governmental units where the greatest unwillingenss is shown to any suggestion for economy. This attitude on the part of many officials makes it all the more necessary for taxpayers to remember these dates, attend budget hearings, question proposed expenditures, and insist that property taxes be kept as low as possible. We wil, fail our armed forces if we permit money to be wasted in needless governmental activities at home."

Due to laws enacted by the last general assembly all taxing units in the state are faced with tax increases. The laws that will affect taxes mostly, in this respect, have to do with salaries of governmental employees, and taxpayers should carefully check all budget items in order to hold tax increases to the minimum.

Poor relief is an item that is still excessive in many taxing units. It is under the direct supervision of the township trustee and the budget for this item of expense will be adopted at the same time as other township budgets. There is no reason why poor relief in 1944 should not be the lowest since 1929.

The number of persons receiving old age assistance and assistance for the care of dependent children has decreased some what during the last two years, and this decrease should continue next year, thus reflecting a decrease in welfare budgets.

Hospitals which have received considerable taxpayer support in the past should be able to operate on a more self-supporting basis.

Taxpayers should be watchful for additional appropriations. While they are not a part of the annual budget such items deplete working balances and this deficiency has to be made up by the next tax levy established. The budget law provides for additional appropriations only in the case of an emergency but many such items are allowed that might be eliminated by proper investigation. Requests for additional appropriations are published in the local newspapers and taxpayers should not permit unnecessary items to be allowed.

Nationwide Molly Pitcher Tag Day

Washington, D. C.—On August 4th, Molly Pitcher is stepping out of the pages of American history to sell War Bonds and Stamps. The gal who carried water to thirsty soldiers during the blistering Revolutionary Battle of Monmouth and took over her husband's cannon when he was wounded, has long been a symbol of the heroism of American women.

In her honor, brigades of modern Molly Pitchers will take their stands on nation-wide Molly Pitcher Day at street corners, building entrances, and in public places to sell the bonds and stamps that back up our modern fighting men.

A red-white-and-blue Molly Pitcher Tag will be given to everyone who purchases a bond or stamp on that day. Members of the American Legion Auxiliary, and of the Independent Food Distributors Council unit of Molly Pitchers, will aid and augment local Women's War Savings Staffs to make up the volunteer sales force. They will use water pitchers to hold their supplies of tags and War Stamps. The slogan on the tags will read "Fill the Pitcher with Bonds and Stamps on Molly Pitcher Day," and the goal of the sales force will be to "tag" the total population.

ROBOT PILOT

Cast: Forrest Tucker, Carol Hughes and Evelyn Brent.

A robot-controlled airplane has been developed by Jerry Barton, pilot, and Doc Williams, weather observer. Because of war orders the Lambert Airplane factory is too busy to try out the device, until Lambert himself sees the working model and authorizes the boys to test it in one of his planes. With army officers watching, Jerry parachutes from the plane, leaving it to fly on the radio beam. However, foreign agents have tampered with the robot and the plane crashes. Fired, Jerry and Doc return to the desert weather outpost. Meanwhile Lambert's daughter, Betty, enroute to Hollywood with her aunt, runs out of gas and appropriates some belonging to the government. Jerry catches her and keeps the two under arrest, doing house work at the weather station, until the U. S. Marshal arrives. A Lambert bomber which has been hi-jacked by enemy agents, crashes in the desert. One spy is killed but the other makes his way to the station. He takes off in Doc's plane, in which the girls, to escape their "prison" have hidden themselves. Jerry signals to a landing. The spy is captured, and Betty, realizing she loves Jerry, makes amends for her previous bad behavior.

TEMPERATURE CHANGES DAMAGE ROAD SURFACE

Sudden changes in temperature, causing contraction and expansion of pavement on the state highway system, have added approximately five thousand dollars to normal maintenance costs in the past seven weeks, S. C. Hadden, chairman of the State Highway Commission, reported today.

A total of 171 of these pavement breaks or 'blowups' have been reported from the six state highway districts since June 4, with more than one-half of them occurring during the first three weeks of July. Most of the blowups have taken place on state highways in the central and northern parts of the state.

Maintenance engineers estimate that each of these pavement breaks resulting from temperature changes, costs a minimum of $25 in labor and materials. In some cases extensive repairs are required before the surface is again ready for traffic.

MORTUARY

CHARLS G. MURPHY DIES AT AGE 64

Ulcers of the stomach caused the death of Charles G. Murphy, who lived one-half mile west of Concord, at the J. A. Sanders Hospital in Auburn, at 12:45 Saturday morning. Mr. Murphy, aeg 64, had been a life long resident of DeKalb County.

The deceased had been in poor health for the past five years but his condition did not become critical until last Monday, when he was taken to the hospital after suffering several hemorrhages at his home. He had been working hard in his hay and possibly did too much. He was a farmer by occupation and an elder in the Church of Christ at St. Joe.

He was married on Sept. 5, 1900, to Catherine Kees, who survives. Other survivors are: three children, Mrs. Howard Grimm, who lives east of Auburn, Mrs. Charles Quance of Van Wert, Ohio, and Mrs. Ray Cobbler of Jackson Township; one brother, Lynn Murphy, of south of Garrett; one sister, Mrs. Laura Acton ,of Newville Township, and nine grandchildren.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Church of Christ, St. Joe.

Erby Messimer, pastor of the St. Joe Church of Christ officiated and burial was made in the K. of P. Cemetery, St. Joe, and was in charge of Forrest Gerig, Auburn.

TAKE 275,101 PELTS IN TRAPPING SEASON

Hoosier trappers garnered a harvest of over 275,101 pelts from fur-bearing animals during the 1942-43 trapping season, Harrell F. Mosbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game, said today. The report is based upon information filed with the Division of Fish and Game by the licensed fur buyers of the state, as required by law.

The total reported by the fur buyers who hold Indiana licenses does not represent all the fur taken in the state as thousands of pelts are shipped outisde the state by trappers each season. It is estimated that there were in excess of three hundred thousand pieces of fur taken in Indiana during the past season.

While no report was made this year on the value of the furs which had been purchased from Hoosier trappers, the 1942-43 crop represented an income of approximately a third of a million dollars, on the basis of past years. The major part of the income from trapping goes to residents of the rural and suburban areas who maintain trap lines as a part-time activity. Due to wartime conditions there was some decrease in the number of troppers operating in most communities.

Reports on the fur taken in Indiana during the past season list: muskrat, 129,250; opossum, 91,096; raccoon, 23,684; skunk, 16,934; fox, 8,377; mink, 5,297; weasels, 438; and badgers, 25.

AKINS TEA ROOM QUITS FOR DURATION

After seven years of a most successful tea room business, Mrs. Marie Akins makes announcement to her customers that after next Sunday she will no longer be able to serve country style dinners on Sunday and special parties, because of the rationing of food stuffs.

This is a situation that is deplored by her customers, as the fame of St. Joe has been spread far and near by the delightful home cooked foods served in plentious style by the Akins'.

It is hoped that the supply of foods will soon be changed and that the famous eating house will again be able to operate in its usual manner. Of course, Mrs. Akins can stand a rest of a few weeks, but no doubt she will be anxious to get at it, because she loves to cook, and people who came here loved to eat.

Orville R. Maxfield, Fort Wayne, has been named district manager for promotion of war bond sales in 14 counties in the northeastern Indiana area. He is a veteran of World War I and is district governor for the 77 Kiwanis clubs in Indiana. Mr. Maxwell will serve the following county war finance committees: LaGrange, Steuben, Noble, DeKalb, Whitley, Allen, Huntington, Wells, Adams, Blackford, Jay, Grant, Deleware, and Randolph.

We understand that the Italian soldiers aren't putting up much resistance in Sicily, which might mean that their heart isn't in their work.

The W. O. Smith farm of 42 acres which he purchased of W. E. Baxter, has been sold to Mrs. Pearl Arnett, of Fort Wayne, and will be occupied by her son-in-law, John Lee and family. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have purchased the Ada Christoffel farm of 49 acres at the Henry Bridge on the St. Joe River. It has been planned to make the move this Fall.

It is reported by farmers living near LaOtto and Huntertown and west to Columbia City and south to Ft. Wayne that thousands of acres of corn were lost in the hail storm that struck that area Tuesday evening of last week. One farm owner is reported to have lost 200 acres of corn in that district. About fifty per cent of the potato corp is expected to survive the storm and approximately thirty per cent of the onion crop.

SQUIRREL SEASON NOT OPEN—HUNTERS WARNED

Indiana's open season on squirrels does not begin until Tuesday, Aug. 10, Harrell F. Mosbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game, cautioned Hoosier nimrods today. Possession of squirrels during the closed season may result in the confiscation of the hunter's gun as well as a fine.

Several arrests for taking squirrels out of season have already been reported by Conservation Officers and a close check is being kept for any violations prior to the opening of the season.

SOME VICTORY RULES FOR CANNING VICTORY VEGETABLES

Canning without rules is like driving in a strange country without a road map—one is likely to go in the wrong direction. The wrong direction in canning leads to spoiled food—loss of canned food through spoilage is deplorable and unnecessary in time of peace, and inexcusable in time of war.

Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company, gives the following sure-fire rule for successful home-canning:

1. Use jars intended for home-canning. Every one of them has a name lettered on the side.
2. Examine every jar to make sure that it is in good condition. Give special attention to the top edges of Mason jars. Most of them must be sealed with glass top seal closures or two-piece metal vacuum seals, because the zinc that used to go into the one-piece Mason caps has gone to the battle front. The glass top and vacuum seals can take the zinc cap's place on the home front only when used on jars with perfect top edges.
3. Do not stretch rubbers to test.
4. Wash and rinse jars, lids and rubbers. Then cover jars, zinc caps, and glass lids with lukewarm water, heat to boiling, and keep hot. Jars and lids to be used for old-fashioned open-kettle canning must be boiled 20 to 30 minutes. Wash rubbers and vacuum-seal lids, drop into boiling water, and keep hot until needed if to be used for processing (cooking food in jars). They must be boiled to sterilize for open-kettle canning.
5. Get canners and jars ready before starting to prepare vegetables.
6. Use vegetables that are fresh from the garden. The alien enemies, mould, yeast and bacteria, stand ready to sabotage any and all vegetables left standing over night or all through a long, hot morning.
7. Be sure that everything to be canned is at the right stage for canning. Shelled beans and peas should be young and tender—a few over-size or over-mature ones can cause the loss of the whole batch. The pods of string beans should be crisp and meaty—corn in full milk stage—and tomatoes red-ripe, firm, and sound. Wash all fruits and vegetables before breaking the skins.
8. Hot pack all vegetables except tomatoes. Hot pack means to cook the food a few minutes, then pour it into hot jars for processing. This is also the best way to can most fruits.
9. Fill no more jars at a time than your canner will hold.
10. Leave ample head space and plenty of room for liquid to circulate between pieces of food when filling jars for processing.
11. Tighten metal bands on two-piece metal vacuum seal caps before processing. Do not tighten again.
12. Partly seal for processing, all jars on which a jar rubber is used.
13. Place jars in the canner immediately after packing and process the time called for in the recipe. Remember, time guessing has no place in canning.
14. Take jars out of canner as promptly as possible after the processing time is up and complete the seal on all that are partly sealed for processing (see Rule 12).
15. Set hot jars as far apart as possible so they will cool quickly, but do not place in a draft.
16. Be sure every jar of canned food is sealed before it is put away.
   a. Take the bands off glass top seals after the jars have stood over night and test the seal by pulling gently on lid with finger tips. Don't put the bands back on the jars.
   b. Remove bands from vacuum seals 12 or 15 hours after canning and test the seal by pressing on the lid with the finger. If tightly sealed, there will be no "give" to the lid. Don't put the bands back on the jars.
   c. One-piece zinc caps are drawn down flat when sealed. Do not turn Mason jars upside down—this rule applies when using glass top seals, vacuum seals, and zinc caps.
   d. Test "lightning" jars after they are cold by holding them upside down and examining for leaks.
17. Be finicky when it comes to cleanliness. Get rid of house flies. Remember, they prefer food to foot tub for foot washing.
18. Don't ask your neighbor how to can. She may not be as up-to-date as she thinks she is. It is far better to get a good recipe book and follow directions to the letter. As good a one as can be bought costs only a dime.

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

COURTESY NEWS-SENTINEL

Carlton Moore

Glenn Moore

Paul Moore

Mr. and Mrs. Enos Moore, of Spencerville, have three sons now serving in the U. S. armed forces.

PFC. PAUL MOORE was advanced to that grade last week at Tarrant Field, Fort Worth, Texas, where he is stationed with the Army Air Forces. A graduate of Spencerville High School, he has been in service since July 16, 1942.

PFC. GLENN F. MOORE also was promoted to that grade last week. He is with the infantry at Camp Phillips, Kan. A former employe of the Magnavox Company, he is a graduate of Larwill High School.

AVIATION CADET CARLTON R. MOORE has finished pre-flight school at Santa Ana, Calif., and will enter advanced training. He is a graduate of Leo High School.

New addresses of the week:

Pfc. D. O. Glen Wasson, Co. C. 147 Eng. Conb. Bn., A. S. N., 35543104, Camp Swift, Texas.

Cpl. Gerald E. Miller, 35545802, Co. "D" 368th Eng. G. & S. Reg't., Camp Ellis, Illinois.

Pvt. Loren Inlow, 35558416, U. S. Army, 748 Railway Operating Bn., Engineering Dpt., Camp Jessie Turner, Van Buren, Arkansas.

Aviation Cadet Glenn L. Likes, U. S. N. R., Barracks 8A Class 7C, N. A. S., Norman Oklahoma.

Harold Yeiser has returned to his camp after spending the past week at home. He arrived at Hicksville on Wednesday afternoon and started out to hike home and in a short time he arrived as a great surprise to his parents. He has been kept busy by his family and friends every minute. On his arrival to camp he expects to be moved.

Eighteen DeKalb County youths became 18 during July and were required to register with the selective service board. Of these Clifton L. Rupert is from Rt. 1, St. Joe. He is working for Wm. Sible and is the son of Dolbee Rupert and wife, former residents of St. Joe.

Pvt. Harold V. Nelson, left Saturday to return to Camp Butner, N. C., after a furlough spent with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph V. Nelson and friends.

Word has just been received that Loren Inlow and Morris Laux are both stationed at Camp Jessie Turner, Van Burer, Arkansas.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Draggoo received a letter from one of their son, James' buddies, who is now in Brazil, South America stating that James was with him two days in South America enroute to India and that they sure had a swell time. These boys were in school together in North Carolina and also at Chanute, Ill., where they were separated. Rather a queer happening.

Mrs. Rally Markle, of Spencerville, has received word that her son, Pfc. Max L. Markle, has arrived safely overseas.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

Walter Whitehurst American Legion Post Auxiliary No. 283, St. Joe, Ind.

Regular meetings each 4th Tuesday of each month.

American Legion members of Post No. 283 had their installation of officers for 1943-44 at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bartell, of Grabill, Ind. There were forty-five present. Everyone present enjoyed the carry-in dinner, and at a late hour voted their host a fine "Thanks" for the hospitality shown the American Legion and family.

U. S. ARMY DIVISIONAL INSIGNIA

DO YOU RECOGNIZE THESE EMBLEMS?—Patches worn on the left shoulder sleeve of the soldier's service coat or overcoat indicate the Division to which he belongs. Insignia designs are made in a wide variety of colors but are reproduced above in silhouette to facilitate recognition. The absence of certain divisional numbers indicates that such divisions are without personnel or not yet organized.

ENDS THIRTEEN YEARS OF TEACHING AT GOSHEN

Glen Hart, teacher of social studies and physical education at the Parkside school, Goshen, Ind., for the past 13 years, who has resigned to accept a position in the vocational department of Elkhart High School, will move his family to Elkhart August 15.

The Harts have purchased the residence at 1514 Strong Avenue, Elkhart. They have lived in Goshen 13 years and are now residing at 913 South Main St. Before moving to Goshen Mr. Hart coached high school basketball and served as elementary principal at Waterloo.

He is working on his M. S. degree from Indiana University and has completed 20 of 37 required hours. He received the B. E. degree from Ball State Teachers' College, Muncie, and a two-year normal degree from Tri-State College, Angola.

Mr. Hart has served as official timer for all Goshen high school athletic contests for the past ten years. He has been active in Boy Scout work for 13 years and holds the scoutmaster's key for leadership training work. He is a member of the Goshen Lions Club and a member of the board of directors, a member of the American Legion's emergency unit, and a member of the Red Cross senior life saving service.

His son, Dick, will be a junion in high school this Fall.

Glen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hart of Coburntown.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Mrs. Ida Walker, is here from South Bend, Ind., visiting her sister, Mrs. Loretta Hull and other relatives.

Walter Stewart is recovering nicely from his operation last week for removal of appendix. He will be home in a few days.

Mrs. Anna Tustison continues to be considered in a serious condition at Hicksville Hospital where she has been for the past two and a half weeks. Monday she seemed brighter.

Warren Harris is driving a different car for his salvage pick up. It's a Ford Panel but he still uses the trailer. His father made the purchase this week for him, and it will serve his business well.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cook, of Louisiana, are here spending a week in the home of their son, John W. Cook and family. They came north about May 1 and have been guests of a daughter at Grass Lake, Mich.

An eight pound boy was born Friday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moore at the Souders Hospital in Auburn. Name, Ronald Eugene. Mrs. Moore and son were dismissed from the hospital Sunday.

Clayton Baker and family are enjoying the week at Hamilton Lake. Wilbur Yeiser and family in company with Pat McBride and Gerald Means spent Monday afternoon and evening at their cottage. Wm. Sible and family were over Saturday night and Sunday guests.

In an economy move to save gas, tires, and personnel time without inconveniencing any unemployed individual who is eligible for job insurance, a change in the day on which St. Joe residents may file claims for unemployment compensation was announced today by Colonel Everett L. Gardner, Director of the Indiana Employment Security Division. Beginning with Monday, August 16, a representative of the Division will be at court house in Auburn each Monday at 2:00 P. M. to take claims.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Crick and Bobby, of Anderson, spent from Sunday evening until Thursday with Mrs. Crick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morr, also in the Robert Morr home in Auburn, attending the funeral of Charley Murphy.

30th Anniversary of R. H. C.

The following poem was written by Mrs. Winifred Hart and read at the thirtieth anniversary of the Rural Housewives Club recently held.

When the R. H. C. was organized
Just thirty years ago,
It brought forth many pleasures
And shortened all our woe.
An afternoon away from home
With friends we held so dear,
Just seemed to raise our spirits
And filled our hearts with cheer.

Of course, the men decided
That it was too much to bear,
To have us leave our pleasant homes
And sally forth some where
To "gossip" as they called it
And talk in lighter vein,
Of things that didn't concern us,
But leave that to our men.

But then, the men don't gossip,
And we tried to explain,
That all this work could not be done,
If we at home remain.
So each Club day we started out,
With courage high, undaunted.
We would have our pleasant afternoon,
Our authority we flaunted.

Then one night we had a party,
And our husbands were our guests.
They had such a grand and jolly time
After that our least request
Was cheerfully complied with.
And the years went on apace.
We've had many pleasant gatherings
In each own familiar place.

Just a few that I remember,
Were the first at Lela's home.
Then, the men said they would greet us
And tried to shingle off our dome.
Anniversaries, Hallowe'ens, Backward May,
And clubs in town.
Entertained one out to Edith's,
Several more at old Cheesetown.

Used to make guests of our Mothers.
Children, too, we entertained.
Yes, we've had so many good times,
Many more than I can name.
Once we learned to do our quilting,
Also macaroni to make,
Learned to crochet and embroider
Also how to give and take.

Thirty years have flitted past us
One by one we've older grown.
Younger ones have joined our number
Several old friends have "gone home."
So our group is always changing,
Some have moved, yet some return
Join again the Rural Housewives,
Proving that for us they yearn.

So within this world of changes,
Be it sorrow, joy or pain,
May we hope for that tomorrow
Where old friends shall meet again.
May each hand clasp hand in friendship,
There once more our friends we'll greet
There to dwell with Christ our Savior,
There our joy will be complete.

OUR MEXICAN NEIGHBOR

We have not stressed so much in the press, the good neighbor policy from the Mexican side of our international fence. Pan Americanism is not only South Americanism, for Mexico is a real part of the policy through her neighborliness. We can't know definitely what amount of metal, mahogany, hemp, mercury and rubber we are receiving from across the border but we have been shipped enough to mean restrictions and limitations as a consequence upon the Mexicans themselves. They are helping us to carry on the war although they have not found the people of that country enthused over participating in the battle from the stand point of army. They have declared war as a matter of principle but since only six out of ten Mexicans can read enough to know what this war is all about, since labor in many cases work from sunrise to sunset for a bare living of pinto beans and parched corn, you can see why the Indian hasn't become especially aroused over European conditions. But there is a determination on the part of many of these neighbors to be a partner with the Allies in fighting this war.

FOR POISON WEEDS

The advance of science for our protection steps forward to exterminate the noxious weeds as poison ivy, oak, sew thistle, wild black berries and chokecherries. Though poison weeds differ in some localities, the ivy plant is generally found all over. There is now a spray solution of a non-poisonous preparation of ammonium sulfamate that kills the weeds and sterilizes the soil for a short period. If used as directed the weeds are forever erased in your field, orchard or home lot. There are many man-hours lost from ivy poisoning and since the ivy and oak frequent orchards it makes a hazard in the care of crops. Some of our News readers might be interested to learn that this spray does not harm animals, doesn't hurt trees when it touches the trunks though it would the fruit tree leaves. Anyone who has a desire to rid their land of this poison ivy should consider ammonium sulfamate.

TWO BIRTHDAYS

August 15th is the birthday of the Panama Canal while August 14 is the anniversary of the Atlantic Charter and both significant dates. The Panama Canal links the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans as the Atlantic Charter hopes to link the countries on both oceans in an understanding of benefit to all. The Panama Canal was a 400-year-old dream that became a reality. The Charter is a dream always, however the wording or the name, of men who have lived through wars and desire peace. The Panama Canal is considered a vital spot in the preservation of the nation while the Atlantic Charter suggests a way to preserve a world. The Four Freedoms are still but one freedom with four names. There were idealists who dreamed a dream where they thought in terms of such an engineering feat that boats would not have to sail around Cape Horn in order to go from ocean to ocean. So is man named an idealist perhaps as he hopes for a world brotherhood, an understanding, a belief that peace is possible for free men.

TO THE GARDENERS

Have you noticed how much closer the family, who tends their Victory garden together, has become in just a few months? A man in St. Joe says he hasn't slept better in years, since he has devoted his talents to tending the small but productive garden plot in his backyard. Perhaps he sleeps better figuring on the stores of food that will combat any probable shortage this coming Winter. A St. Joe woman says she has tried to reduce for years and unsuccessfully, but since the fresh vegetables are on the table and point to more vitamins and less obesity, as well as keeping her figure by working the garden with hoe and perspiration, that she considers the undertaking a physical builder-upper. The children are all interested in watching a plant's progress. They discuss the growth and watch nature at work with the healthy observance of youth. You can't tend the garden without getting a spiritual benefit, for you are in closer touch with sunsets, and cloud formations, listening to birds and crickets. The weather alone becomes a topic for family discussion, the matter of bugs a point in question that arouses the ire of the clan in unison.

You may lose a sale across a counter, a case if you are a doctor or lawyer, a hometown baseball game, a rubber at bridge, a bid to a Saturday night party, have trouble getting a sewing stint to go together properly, too many air holes in the bread, a bass got away, something's wrong with the lawn mower and the typewriter is acting peculiarly—but gardening will iron it all out. Just to see the corn tasseling as a forerunner to piled on a dish in the center of the table, steaming and succulent, to eye the large ripe tomatoes that drag on their vines, to cool a melon for breakfast, shell peas that are sweet as sugar, makes all hearts lighter, the spirit of the family one of unity.

When you "make your bow" to Canning....

BE SURE TO FOLLOW THE RULES

OF COURSE you are going to can this year—not just to assure subsistence for your family, but because it is part of every one's war duty to preserve food when there is an abundance.

To can successfully you must follow the rules religiously. Many jar manufacturers will supply excellent booklets giving detailed recipes, time-tables and instructions for use of their customers.

With the hope of rendering assistance to the homemaker in this enterprise, we have produced a compact booklet containing most of the essential information necessary for the successful canning of fruits and vegetables. This booklet is available in our office. Be sure to get your copy.

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY

SOME HINTS FOR FIRST-TIME CANNERS

1. For canning, select only sound garden fresh fruits and vegetables.
2. Make sure that all jars and caps are in perfect condition — free from cracks, chips, or dents.
3. Wash all container lids and jar rubbers and place in hot water until ready to use.
4. Pack material loosely in containers to allow proper heat circulation and leave sufficient space to allow for expansion without overflow.
5. Do not subject jars to sudden temperature changes—never lift jars from canner by jar lids—do not open jars after processing (cooking in jars) starts.
6. Use utmost care in sealing jars to avoid spoilage and breakage of containers. Follow jar manufacturer's instructions exactly for sealing the particular style of jar top that you use.
7. Be sure to boil all home-canned meats and non-acid vegetables 10 to 15 minutes before eating or even tasting.

EVERYTHING'S ON ICE

Cast: Irene Dare, Edgar Kennedy, Roscoe Karns, Lynne Roberts, Eric Linden, Mary Hart, Bobby Watson, Geo. Meeker, Mary Murrier, Maxine Stewart, Wade Boteler.

Rollicking romance and spectacular ice ballets are combined in "Everything's On Ice" which introduces little Irene Dare, six-year-old beauty acclaimed as the most skillful and graceful juvenile ice skater ever developed. Irene is seen as the principal performer in the floor show at a lavish night club in Palm Beach. Here she leads a series of ice dances at the head of forty of Hollywood's most expert professionals.

As the story opens Irene is living in Brooklyn with her father, Joe Barton, a hard-working barber, her mother, Elsie, who has always had a secret longing for good clothes and her pretty 19 year old sister, Jane. But the irritating member of the household is Elsie's middle-aged brother, Felix, a kibitizing bachelor full of wild ideas and always ready to borrow a dollar. By displaying Irene's talent as a skater at a local rink Felix secures an engagement for her as the stellar attraction at a Florida resort, and immediately appoints himself her financial manager. Joe, trying to save enough to purchase the shop in which he works, is induced to advance the necessary expense money to send the rest of the family to Palm Beach, while he remains behind at his job. On the train Jane becomes acquainted with Leopold, a shy young man whose manner conceals the fact that he has just inherited a million dollars.

Arrived in Florida, Felix installs his entire party in a luxurious hotel, where their expenses are greater than the salary earned by Irene. But the child's debut is a rousing success and as the weeks pass Uncle Felix conceives the idea of marrying Jane off to Harrison Gregg, a supposedly wealthy man who is staying at the hotel and who, privately, finds himself unable to meet a constantly increasing board-bill. Felix, impressed by the strangler's wealth, embarks on a campaign to bring his money into the family. He begins to spend money like water and telegraphs Joe for more, but the barber instead hastens to Palm Beach to find out what it is all about. On his arrival he meets Leopold who has been put out of the running by the strategy of the bungling uncle who is still unaware of the young man's fortune. Though an attachment had already sprung up between Leopold and Janie, the latter had yielded to Felix's forceful arguments and agreed to save the situation by marrying the masquerading Gregg. Joe immediately goes into action and a series of laughable, fast-moving incidents culminates in a surprising climax.

Tiny Irene dominates this rollicking screenplay as a skating ingenue. The youngster displays in several beautifully staged ice ballets the skating skill which has suddenly elevated her to the top rank of screen juveniles.

IF YOU HAVE NO CANNER, MAKE ONE

"All authorities on home canning advise that non-acid vegetables be canned by processing (cooking in jars) in a steam pressure cooker because a pressure cooker is the only household utensil that can retain a much hotter than boiling temperature. High temperatures are desirable when canning beans, peas, corn, greens, etc., because they insure more certain destruction of bacteria and because the canning can be done more quickly. But," says Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company, who heartily approves using a pressure cooker whenever possible, "the time is at hand when we must be practical. Don't worry if you can't buy a pressure cooker for surely you can find a wash boiler, lard can, baby bath tub or some deep container in which water can be boiled. Tack a few strips of wood together to make a rack or platform to hold the jars about one-half inch from the bottom of the container. Find something, even if it has to be a board, to use as a lid. Then you will have a water-bath canner for those Victory garden vegetables.

"You are afraid to eat vegetables canned that way? Nonsense! A lot of folks who say a water bath can't be used were raised on vegetables canned by that method. But let's get three things clear before we go any further: first, there have been a few instances of poisoning from eating canned vegetables; second, all such danger can be avoided by boiling the canned vegetables 15 minutes before tasting or serving—they should be re-boiled before serving if left from one meal to the next; third, a pressure cooker is not a guarantee against spoilage. There will be spoilage if the pressure gauge registers too low or if poor judgment is used in the selection, preparation, and packing of food into the jars. And don't let anybody tell you otherwise.

"Now, back to the water bath. The water should be steaming but not boiling when the jars are lowered into it and deep enough to cover the tops of the jars two or more inches. No, water won't get into the jars if directions are followed. The water should be brought to boiling as quickly as possible and kept boiling steadily throughout the canning period.

"Any jar suitable for use in home canning (and only those with names lettered on them are suitable) may be used for water-bath processing. Mason jars may be sealed with one-piece zinc cap and rubber—if you can find the caps—with glass top seal, or with two-piece vacuum seal caps. Glass top seal closures and vacuum caps seal on the top edge of the jar, therefore it is necessary to make sure the top edges of the jars are even, smooth, and perfect in every respect. The bands are screwed down tight on the vacuum seals as soon as the jars are filled to within from one to one-half inch of the top, and should not be tightened again. Zinc caps are screwed down on the rubber and then loosened slightly. Bands for glass top seals are screwed down and then loosened. This tightening and loosening is called 'partly sealing' and should always be done before jars are placed in a canner. Seals are completed by tightening caps or bands immediately after processing.

"Then there is the jar with a glass lid and rubber ring held in place with wires—it is ideal for canning, especially when fitted with high-tension, stretch-proof, steel wire. It is partly sealed before and completely sealed after processing.

"Those who select vegetables that are young, tender, and right out of the garden, and waste no time in washing them clean, cooking them five to ten minutes, and pouring into clean, hot jars and processing immediately, will live to laugh at those who say it can't be done. It is the Cans, not the Can'ts, who are going to win the war on both home and battle front."

The B. & O. depot was wired Monday for electric service.

Editor News:

Pleasa change my address to Sgt. T—W. W. Zonker, Jr., 10200 West Pico Blvd., Los Angeles 34, California. I have been here a little over a week and like it real well. We live 18 miles from camp, sometimes drive since I have a car.

We took a couple of friends with us last night and went for a drive along the ocean and through the mountains. Sure is beautiful scenery.

Sincerely,
Sgt.T and Mrs. W. W. Zonker, Jr.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Anna Hursey from Pvt. Woodrow Boggess.

Dear Anna:

At last I will try and write you a few lines to say "Hello." Hope everyone is well. I am well and getting along fine. I am in Germany and a prisoner of war. Suppose you heard the news over the radio of the 168th getting captured. I have been captured over a month. All of my friends are with me.

If you can get in touch with the Red Cross they will tell you what you can send me. Send all the candy and cigarettes you can. A lady from St. Madison, Wisconsin has been sending me these things, which I greatly appreciate.

Will you write to Grandmom and tell her I am well?

Goodbye for now and answer.

Petty Officer 3/c James W. Hamilton, stationed at Olathe, Kansas, has the following address: U. S. N. A. S., A. M. M. 3/3, Barracks No. 2,—Wing 1- F. James will have a birthday August 18th.

Cpl. Frank Curie, Jr., is spending a fifteen day furlough with his parents and friends. He is looking fine and enjoys Army life. He will return to Courtland, Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Washler received a letter from their son, Charles, stating he was located on a beautiful island in the South Pacific, and the eats were better than in the States.

The LIONS CLUB

Dinner was served Monday evening by section one of the Lutheran Aid, to the Lions Club. A number of special guests was present making the crowd about 25. The secretary reported an addition of three new members since the previous meeting, which represented the greatest gain at any one time since the organization of the club.

Lion Clyde Rectenwall, gave a talk on the objects and aims of a Lions Club, how that its members are bound together to promote the best interests of the community, the county and state at all times, and men who exercise their free rights as American citizens. Membership is by invitation only and that the club is governed by a competant board of directors. Every Lion is duty bound for regular attendance at all sessions.

Congressman Geo. W. Gillie visited the club and talked about the most interesting things in Washington and most naturally his talk centered around the handling of the war and magnitude of the affair. He described his inspection tour made with 75 other Congressmen of the camps and the club enjoyed the friendly way in which they were received by Dr. Gillie and he enjoyed meeting the group and being able to just talk of matters of their particular interest.

Martin Wagner is crippling about this week, hardly able to do chores. Friday he was helping Chas. Armstrong in the field, and the team started to run away, throwing Mr. Wagner about 25 feet. He is badly bruised and quite stiff.

Mrs. Anna Musser, of Marion, and Mrs. Lucille Kropp and two children, of Dallas, Texas, are guests in the Frank Sellers home this week. The ladies are sisters. This week end they will all go to Norwalk, O., to visit the fourth sister.

LEST WE FORGET

The Atlantic Charter

The President of the United States of America and the Prime Minister, Mr. Churchill, representing His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom, being met together, deem it right to make known certain common principles in the national policies of their respective countries on which they base their hopes for a better future for the world.

1 Their countries seek no aggrandizement, territorial or other.

2 They desire to see no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned.

3 They respect the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live; and they wish to see sovereign rights and self-government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them.

4 They will endeavor, with due respect for their existing obligations, to further the enjoyment by all States, great or small, victor or vanquished, of access, on equal terms, to the trade and to the raw materials of the world which are needed for their economic prosperity.

5 They desire to bring about the fullest collaboration between all nations in the economic field with the object of securing, for all, improved labor standards, economic advancement and social security.

6 After the final destruction of the Nazi tyranny, they hope to see established a peace which will afford to all nations the means of dwelling in safety within their own boundaries, and which will afford assurance that all the men in all the lands may live out their lives in freedom from fear and want.

7 Such a peace should enable all men to traverse the high seas and oceans without hindrance.

8 They believe that all of the nations of the world, for realistic as well as spiritual reasons, must come to the abandonment of the use of force. Since no future peace can be maintained if land, sea or air armaments continue to be employed by nations which threaten, or may threaten, aggression outside of their frontiers, they believe, pending the establishment of a wider and permanent system of general security, that the disarmament of such nations is essential. They will likewise aid and encourage all other practicable measures which will lighten for peace-loving peoples the crushing burden of armaments.

STROKE PROVES FATAL TO GEO. B. WILSON

Monday evening at 11:35 the life of George Bittenger Wilson came to a close, after only a three day illness, resulting from a stroke on Saturday morning. He arose early and it was his daily custom to take a cold shower. Mrs. Wilson heard a sound and upon investigating found that he had fallen to the floor. She tried to get him to the bed, but being unable to help himself, she was compelled to call Frank Sellers, a near neighor, who came in and helped to put him to bed.

Medical aid was called and by afternoon he had revived. Sunday he held his own and it was thought he would again pull out and possibly had passed the serious stage. Later on Monday he became serious and before midnight had passed away. Age 87 years, 6 months, and 10 days.

He was the son of Hiram Wilson and was born near Spencerville where he lived to young manhood.

He began the milling business there with the Murray Brothers, and when he became experienced he set out for himself, and during the many years of his busy life had operated mills in many of the towns of the country Locally he operated mills at Orangeville, Edgerton, Bryan, Hicksville, Warsaw, and for a number of years in Iowa. His last undertaking was in St. Joe in 1928-'29 and here he suffered severe burns when an engine exploded and had been unable to work since.

His first wife, Libby, died here October 5, 1929, and for a while Mr. Wilson made his home with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Adams, then in LaGrange Co.

On October 5, 1935, he was married to Lida Myers then of Butler and in 1936 he again opened his home in St. Joe, where he has resided since that time.

Besides the widow, he leaves one brother, L. W. Wilson, of Eustis Park, Colorado.

Funeral services will be conducted by Frank Stevenson, pastor of local Lutheran Church, with burial at Spencerville Cemetery.

The body may be viewed at the home anytime until the funeral hour.

MORTUARY

BENNINGHOFF

Funeral services for John Benninghoff, Sr., 83, 1640 Wells Street, Fort Wayne, who died at 1:25 P. M. Monday at St. Joseph's Hospital, will be held at 2:30 P. M. Thursday at the Roscoe Walter Funeral Home, Spencerville. Burial will be in the Spencerville Cemetery.

Born in Spencerville, Mr. Benninghoff moved to Fort Wayne 20 years ago. He was a retired farmer and was a member of the Spencerville Methodist Church.

Surviving are two sons, William N. and John Benninghoff, both of Ft. Wayne, and 5 grandchildren. The wife, Rebecca, died seven years ago.

Friends may call at the funeral home at Spencerville.

SECHLER REUNION

The fifty-third annual reunion of the Sechler Family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Monroe on Sunday, Aug. 8th. Seventy-four members enjoyed the picnic dinner, visiting and program.

All appreciated the presence of the three oldest members of the family: Mrs. Harriett Sechler, Mrs. Mary Sechler, and B. E. Widney, and one of the young men in the service Cpl. Frank Curie.

Short talks were given and the thought of all was gratitude for our many blessings today; and that we keep faithful to Christian teachings of our older members, whose memories are dear to us for their many sacrifices, love and high ideals.

A vote of thanks was given the host and hostess for a very pleasant day. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carpenter invited the family to hold the 1944 reunion at their home in Butler.

SUPPLEMENT GASOLINE RATIONING

New revised forms No. 535 are now in the hands of all Official Tire Inspectors and anyone whose books expire from this date on, for supplemetal gasoline, which is a B or C book, must fill out one of these 535 forms and must answer all the questions in detail and mail to the Rationing Office along with the new tire inspection sheet before they can be issued the new supplement gasoline. Many books expire between this date and September 1, and all applications must be in this office 10 days before the expiration date shown on the present B or C book.

CUSTOM SLAUGHTERERS MUST HAVE PERMIT

"All who custom slaughter are urged to make application at once for a permit to custom slaughter," said Jay F. Olinger, Chairman of the DeKalb County War Meat Committee. today.

The War Food Administration has made it plain that all who custom slaughter without a permit are in violation of the Food Distribution Order No. 27, and are subject to penalties under the provisions of the order, Mr. Olinger pointed out.

Although this requirement became effective July 1, 1943, application may be made at the DeKalb County War Board Office at third floor court house.

ENGLAND PLANS TO KNOCK OUT BERLIN

London, Aug. 9.—Berlin, expected to be a target for concentrated air attack soon, could be destroyed as an effective military center by 35 major raids, observers estimated today.

Experiences in more than one year of heavy raids, have resulted in this equation for the destruction of any city; one ton of bombs for every 60 inhabitants.

Thus one RAF raid in "great strength"—an attack in which about 2,000 tons of bombs are dropped—is sufficient to knock out a town of 120,000 people.

Berlin, a city of about 4,000,000, thus would require 30 to 35 heavy raids to knock it out beyond hope of recovery, the observers said.

Considerably fewer raids would be needed, it was pointed out, to paralyze production and make life unbearable.

Ten major raids concentrated in 15 or 16 nights—as the RAF now is able to do if weather permits — probably would result in such confusion in public services, such terror among the inhabitants, such destruction among key industries, that Berlin's war effort would be almost halted.

There are variable factors in the equation. These include the concentration of population and industry, although such factors likely would favor the attackers. As the size of the target increases, it was said, the number of bombs per 100,000 population may decrease because of concentration of targets.

Berlin would be an easier target than Hamburg where many waterways split the city and prevent the spread of flames.

The attacks on Berlin, when they begin, are expected to be carried out exclusively by the RAF at night.

On the basis of recent average losses, it is estimated that a total of 1,000 planes might be lost before Berlin was knocked out.

INSTITUTE INDICATES NEARNESS OF SCHOOL

The annual teachers' institute will be held at the assembly room of the court house in Auburn Wednesday, Sept. 2, Carl F. Stallman, county superintendent of schools, announced Thursday.

Sessions will begin at 9 A. M. and 1 P. M. The forenoon speaker will be Dr. J. Raymond Schutz, of North Manchester, while Dr. Logan Hall, pastor of the Meridian Street Methodist Church, Indianapolis, will lecture during the afternoon. Dr. Schutz is a well known speaker and formerly was connected with Manchester College.

The pupils of the district schools under the supervision of Mr. Stallman will call at the school houses Friday, Sept. 4, to enroll and get their book lists. Regular sessions for the Fall and Winter term will be started Tuesday, Sept. 7.

Only two vacancies still exist among the teaching staff, a commerce instructor being needed at Spencerville and a music and art teacher at Ashley.

GIVE YOUR OLD JEWELRY

The Home Economics clubs of DeKalb County are asked to assist in the drive for collecting jewelry, pins, buttons and anything of little value, (but flashy) to be sent to the boys in the South Seas. They use these to trade with the natives as money has no value to them.

Mrs. Mary Krise, is acting chairman for the collecting and a suitable depository has been set up at News office for receiving your contribution. This will have to be done promptly. Bring in Saturday night as you come to the picture show.

Baker's Grocery, Spencerville, is a depository for those from that section of the county.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Notice is hereby given that all Republican voters of the Town of St. Joe, are requested to meet in Caucus on Thursday, August 26, at 8 o'clock at the Town Hall, for the purpose of nominating one candidate for the office of Clerk-Treasurer, one Town Trustee for Ward 1-2-3, each.

THROW THEM OUT!

Lou R. Maxon, high official of the OPA, has resigned with the declaration that: "There is a strong clique in OPA who believe that the government should manufacture and distribute all commodities. They are using the war as a means of furthering their reform ideas and will continue to use honest men in OPA as a front for their efforts.

"If this group isn't curbed, we are going to lose a good slice of the very freedom we are fighting for."

Mr. Maxon's charges are similar to those of leading retail distributors, who have reiterated many times that the distribution industry faces total disruption unless the pet theories of extremists are relegated to a back seat.

With inflation gaining inexorably, the spectacle of one of the principal agencies established to combat rising prices experimenting with the doctrines of socialism, while the destinies of a hundred and thirty million people hang in the balance, is intolerable.

The production and distribution system in this country has been developed to a state of perfection never before attained in history. The result has been evident in every American home. Why, in the name of heaven, should this system be scrapped when we need it most? If given a chance, our forms and factories and our merchants will feed and clothe the country. They will do it, inflation or no inflation. The only thing that could conceivably stop them would be hopelessly complex domination by so-called "war agencies," who would rather see Americans growing in rows than fighting for victory.

THE RIGHT TO VOTE

They raise the question of whether eighteen-year-old youths should have the right to vote. A common enough answer has been, "if they are old enough to fight they are old enough to vote." This may be logical though we do feel that eighteen is still in the youngster class. Voting may often be conducted like child's play and the candidates have acted far from grown up in their campaigning and previous political life, but we still associate the ritual of ballot casting as an adult responsibility. But let the youths themselves decide. So a survey was made in 1,000 high schools with over 85 thousand students taking part, and the Institute of Student Opinions found that 53 per cent were opposed to eighteen-year-old voting! There were varied reasons given by the students for not favoring the early age voting and the reasons themseleves go to show that these youngsters are not without good heads and are perhaps far more mature in thought than the oldsters have given them credit for being. For instance, "Boys of 18 do not fully understand political and economic affairs," sounds sensible. "Eighteen-year-olds have neither the mental ability nor experience to vote honestly and intelligently," or this, "Boys and girls of 18 are too preoccupied with frivolities," gives pause for thought on our part concerning the mental processes of these children. They are giving more attention to the subject of voting than some adults in St. Joe and Spencerville who have been able to vote for years.

LOOKING BETTER NOW

The farmer must have kept about his plowing while policy minded individuals reported and papered in Washington, for in spite of manpower shortage, equipment headaches, of being behind schedule due to floods, the country banks are holding a lot of farm money and the silos, bins, haymows of the nation are stacked with grain. The country's meadows abound in hay, alfalfa and clover while the wet weather failed to dampen hopes of a larger corn crop. There were predictions of a drop of around 100 million bushels in this crop due to inclement weather, but with sunshine as a revitalizer, the corn crop looks well in hand. This is encouraging to livestock interests and for producers who have worried that they have raised more meat than there would be food to fatten it. The early returns from the Middle West are enheartening. This year's food production will exceed that of last by an estimated four per cent, proving that the plows have been doing their share. As individuals we will not go hungry although we may still be reduced in quantity.

FOUR O'CLOCK MILK

Absenteeism has not been solved though it has not been as pronounced as it was a few months back. The government claimed that absenteeism is due chiefly to the large numbers of inexperienced workers coming into war plants, workers not knowing of the work situation, workers who are not in good health. Labor and management have co-operated and with certain plants improving the canteen and cafeteria menus in their organizations, there will probably be a change in eating habits of workers not used to well-balanced meals. The British have insisted and persisted on their usual afternoon tea, served usually at two oclock. It has long been their custom. One Eastern manufacturing company here has established an American "4 o'clock milk" and a mobile canteen is wheeled around the plant each day, serving milk as a mental and physical pick-up. Four o'clock is rated the low point of efficiency and by giving workers a rest at this time the company has found they have already reduced accidents.

COMING HIGH

We looked forward to the strawberry, blueberry, raspberry, corn on the cob, ripe tomato season. Through trying Winter months when weather was heavy aad hours long and dreary, we mused in secret on these glories to come, of electric fans to stir hot Summer air, of old swimming holes and plans to make a trellis for Mother's roses. Well, came the strawberry, raspberry, peach and plum crops. With 40 to 80 cents a quart for berries that were 20 and 25 last Summer, well, we have become more certain that war is exacting. Peaches selling at five cents each, plums at a premium, bananas something to wonder about, you decide you would rather have tomatoes and roasting ears, anyhow! If we lose out here with these two vegetables, all of us in St. Joe will agree that Sherman put it into words for us.

VETOES SHOW TREND

Study of President Roosevelt's veto record alongside those of 16 presidents from President Washington to Lincoln, inclusive, shows conclusively that the trend of government since 1933 is definitely attributed to the Chief Executive, rather than to our representatives in Congress.

During the ten years of New Deal administration, President Roosevelt has vetoed more than 12 times as many bills as the other 16 presidents vetoed in 76 years.

Representative Sumners, Democrat from Texas, chairman of the House Judiciary committee, is sponsoring a constitutional amendment which provides that a president's veto may be over-ridden by a majority of both houses rather than two-thirds. Judge Sumners says there has been a growing abuse of the veto power by the executive branch of the government at the expense of Congress. We noted that from the administrations of President Washington to Lincoln, inclusive, there were only 43 bills vetoed by those 16 presidents. That was a period of 76 years. From March, 1933, when Mr. Roosevelt assumed office, to June, 1943, there have been 592 vetoes.

Judge Sumners further states "the incorporation of this proposed amendment to the constitution giving the Congress the power to make the law would definitely increase the possibility of procuring the redistribution of governmental powers now concentrated in Washington and the re-establishmet of democracy in this country. That job has got to be tackled soon."—Hagerstown Exponent.

THE LOYAL OPPOSITION

Patriotism comes before partisanship in a Republican form of government—but both are essential. It is not merely our privilege, but our patriotic duty as well, to criticise the administration. As citizens, not necessarily as Republicans, we are pledged to destroy waste, political promotion of class strife, insincerity in public dealings, illicit use of power and money and efforts to destroy our American way of life. We are unalternately opposed to all those things because they not only waste our national wealth—but cause untold suffering. They prolong the war and waste the lives of our fighting men. We were opposed to them before the war, are opposed to them after the war. It is patriotic to belong to the "Loyal Opposition."

CHILD INJURED

Katherine Cobler, nineteen months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cobler, of two miles west of Concord, suffered a broken leg Tuesday morning of last week and was taken to the Dr. Bonnel M. Souder hospital in Auburn for treatment. The child had made its way to the garage where its grandfather, John Cobler had gone to get his car, and not knowing the little one was around, backed the car out, throwing her down and breaking her leg near the hip. The confinement will possibly be for six weeks.

FOOD TO SAVE A STARVING WORLD

THE skilled farmer, whether young or old, who sticks to the job of producing food is truly a patriot.

Those who "carry on," working against mounting difficulties, like the soldier at the Front, merit a medal of honor. In deed and in fact, front line trenches are often located on a farm, where the very Furies of Nature seem loosed at times in an attempt to defeat all of the constant labor and sweat of the farmer.

This Company realizes that only a farm man or woman or youngster can understand the hopes and fears tied up in an oncoming crop or in the livestock, but we do feel pride in the important help Electricity can give. That our farm customers may never turn on a switch in vain inspires us, too, to constantly labor and struggle against the elements and all of the necessary restrictions of wartimes.

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY

at LaOtto Aug. 19 at 10 A. M. Clayton M. Bailey, of Garrett, will be the examiner. Lack of sufficient patronage and business is given as the cause for the proceedings. In former years the Rome City station was a place of unusual activity, especially during the days of the summer chautauqua and other events which made Sylvan Lake one of the most popular summer resorts in the middlewest. During the period of popularity and before the advent of the automobile many excursion trains were operated over the G. R. & I. to the resort.

Corn—Home-Canned to Keep!

"Corn, a favorite food of man, beast, and bacteria, is the victim of defense propaganda and I am not talking about war." Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company, made the above statement and went on to explain, "Persons who refuse to take the time and trouble to understand corn, defend their canning failures by claiming that it refuses to keep. The truth is, corn is more than willing to be canned, but is doomed to spoilage unless right tactics are used, because it has no acid to protect it against the invasion of bacteria. Tactics? Why," says Miss Kimbrough, "they can be summed up in one sentence: i. e., learn what is to be done, begin at the right time, keep things moving, and turn on the heat."

The first thing to be done is to get jars, lids, rubbers, and canner ready. If you have no pressure cooker, get along with a water-bath canner. Examine every jar and lid to see that it is in good condition—remember glass top seals and two-piece metal vacuum seal caps won't work unless the top edges of the jars are perfect. Wash everything clean; cover jars, glass lids and zinc caps with luke-warm water and put on the stove to heat. Cover vacuum seal lids and rubbers with boiling water and leave until needed. When everything is ready, gather the corn—bring in no more than needed for one canner full. Keep in mind that canning too much too late is a common cause of spoilage. Place the corn on a board and use a strong sharp knife to cut the husks (shucks to you in the Middle West and South) off at each end just where the corn begins and ends. There shouldn't be any worms if you have followed Victory garden directions, but if there are worms in the tassel end, cut deep enough to leave them with the husks. The husks will come off easily and bring most of the silks with them.

Examine every ear of corn and use only those having plump, glossy, juice-filled kernels. Remove all silks; rinse the corn and cut it from the cob. One or more cuttings may be made, but scrapings should not be used unless processing can be done in a pressure cooker, because the scrapings make a thick mass that heats through slowly. Cover the corn with boiling water, using about half as much water as corn; cook five minutes; then pour immediately into clean, hot jars. A generous amount of water helps the corn heat through quickly and aids in preventing its sugar from carmelizing and causing a brownish color. Add one teaspoon salt to the quart and seal jars according to manufacturer's directions. Then put into the canner and process.

If possible, use pint jars, as they heat through more rapidly — the quicker the jars can be heated through, the more certain the destruction of bacteria. Process pints and quarts 70 minutes at 10 pounds pressure or by boiling 3½ hours in hot-water bath. Remove the jars from the canner as promptly as possible after processing; finish sealing all jars that require rubber rings; set jars as far apart as possible on folded newspaper or cloth so they can cool quickly, but be sure they are not where a breeze will strike them.

The jars should be examined after twelve hours in order to make sure they are sealed. To do this, remove bands from glass top seals and metal vacuum seal caps (leave the bands off when the jars are put away). Test the glass top seals by pulling gently on the lids with the finger tips. Vacuum seals are tested by pressing down on them with the fingers—if sealed, they won't move under this pressure. "Lightning" type are tested by holding upside down and watching for leaks. There won't be any leaks if instructions are followed and there won't be any spoilage if you keep in mind that Vigilance means Victory. Furthermore, you will never know how good canned corn can be until you have tasted your own home-canned brand.

ROLL ALONG COWBOY
(6 reels)

Running Time: 60 minutes.
Cast: Smith Ballew, Cecilia Parker, Stanley Fields, Wally Allbright, Jr., Ruth Robinson, Budd Buster, Monte Montague, and others.

Shooting his way through blazing adventure, singing his way into romance. Smith Ballew, radio's greatest singing cowboy, is at his best in Zane Grey's smashing story of a fighting buckaroo, "Roll Along Cowboy." The actionful, colorful story begins in arousing thrills when Smith Ballew and his partner, Stanley Fields, having received promisory notes instead of cash for their work on Cecelia Parker's ranch, find themselves involved in a plot on the part of their neighbor and his lawyer to gain control of the property after Fields has unsuspectingly cashed one of the notes. With the ranch now in jeopardy, the cowboys learn in time of their enemies plans to stampede the cattle to prevent their being rounded up for sale to pay off the note. A thrilling combat with the rustlers marks the climax to a story abundant with action, romance and comedy.

Firsts For the Flag

The flag was first carried in battle at the Brandywine, September 11, 1777. It first flew over foreign territory on January 28, 1778, at Nassau, Bahama Islands, Ft. Nassau having been captured by the Americans in the course of the war for independence. The first foreign salute to the flag was rendered February 14, 1778, when John Paul Jones, in command of the USS Ranger entered Quiberon bay, near Brest, France, and received a salute of nine guns, ordered by the French admiral, La Motte Piquet. The United States frigate Essex was the first warship to fly the American flag in the Pacific, January 26, 1813. It was first displayed officially over Alaska at Sitka, October 18, 1867, and was first saluted by the British at the surrender of Burgoyne's army, October 17, 1777.

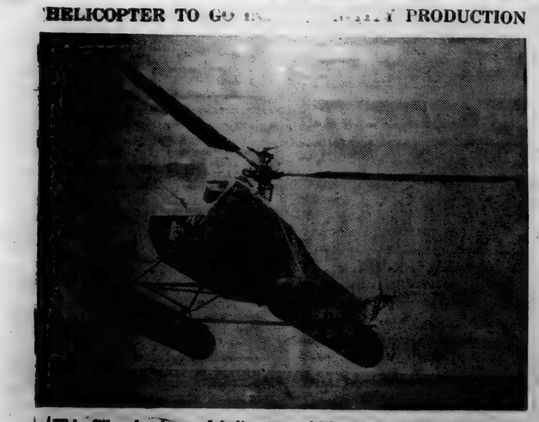
HELICOPTER TO GO [illegible] PRODUCTION



This Sikorsky type of helicopter, which will be built in quantity for the Army Air Forces by Nash-Kelvinator Corporation, peacetime manufacturer of automobiles and refrigerators, can alight on land, water, snow, thin ice, a rooftop or a parking lot. The craft can hover motionless in mid-air; descend and ascend vertically without forward motion and fly backward, sideways or forward with equal facility.

Colors of Flag Have Symbolic Significance

The colors of the flag may be thus explained: red is for valor, zeal and fervency; white is for hope, purity, cleanliness of life and rectitude of conduct; blue, the color of heaven, for reverence to God, loyalty and sincerity, justice and truth. The star, an ancient symbol of India, Persia and Egypt, symbolizes dominion and sovereignty, as well as lofty aspirations. The constellation of the stars within the union, one star for each state, is emblematic of our federal Constitution, which reserves to the states their individual rights.

Cecil Shilling has received a letter from his son, Lynn, who is overseas, stating that he is on an island, and that they work from dawn until dark, and have little time to write. He said he wished he was making good easy money now, and what he is making is being saved and sent home. He also stated" Dad you can be glad that you are in a factory, as we need that stuff out here. I haven't seen all that I want to see. These islands are nice and we are here all by ourselves. Lots of sunshine and its really good for us. Tell everyone hello."

Cadet Walter V. Coburn, of Kokomo, Ind., is a member of the engineer Corps stationed at Kansas State College in Manhattan, as part of the Army Specialized Training Program unit. He is the son of Chaplain and Mrs. Walter H. Coburn, of Rt. 3, Kokomo, and former Coburntown residents. Before entering the armed services he was with the United States Engineers Office at Kokomo airport.

The Army Specialized Training unit at Kansas State College here was activated June 1, 1943. It is one of many such units located at universities and colleges throughout the United States where army men receive training in specialized fields. The College has several hundred men in army uniform in basic engineering and in the veterinary corps.

Col. J. K. Campbell, head of the College's Department of Military Science, is commandant of the A. S. T. P. unit. A. S. T. P. students live in fraternity houses and in Van Zile hall, formerly a residence hall for women students. They are fed in shifts at the College cafeteria. Soon they will have their own mess hall with a capacity of 800.

Civilian members of the College faculty are the classroom instructors for academic work. The engineers meet in classes by themselves but the veterinary medicine students continue to meet in classes with civilian students. Army officers handle the military training.

Kansas State College, established 80 years ago as a land-grant college, has more than 30 beautiful native limestone buildings on a rolling 135-acre campus landscaped with more than 150 varieties of trees and shrubs.

In peace time the annual enrollment reached 5,000 students, including 1,500 in R. O. T. C. training. The city of Manhattan, with a pre-war population of 12,000, has been swelled to 18,000 by nearby Ft. Riley, world's largest cavalry school.

GILLIE PLANS 10-DAY TOUR OF DISTRICT

Plans for a 10-day official tour of the Fourth Congressional District, including visits to more than a dozen cities in seven Northeastern Indiana counties, were announced today by Congressman George W. Gillie. The tour will begin Saturday, August 21, in Steuben County, and will end at Bluffton, in Wells County, on September 3.

Temporary offices will be established by Congressman Gillie in each of the cities on his tour schedule, and constituents will be invited to confer with him on governmental matters. He will be accompanied by his secretary, Charles A. Baird.

Congressman Gillie will spend the first week visiting cities in the Northern section of the Fourth District. During the second week he will visit cities in Adams and Wells counties.

The Fourth District Congressman has been spending the Summer recess of Congress with his family in Fort Wayne and at a cottage on Lake Gage, in Steuben County. He plans to return to Washinton in mid-September for the re-opening of Congress.

The complete itinerary for his tour follows:

YOUNG FOLKS TO GRADUATE SUNDAY

Eight students from DeKalb County are in the Indiana University class which will be graduated Sunday, August 22. This will be the fourth commencement held by the University since the United States entered the war, and the 600 degrees to be granted Sunday will increase to 2,580 the number of degrees granted.

By taking advantage of the University's war-time accelerated program, the students in this month's class will be graduated several months ahead of the scheduled time. Approximately half of the class will be in military uniform instead of the customary cap and gown attire. Several of the students who will receive degrees already have entered military service and will not be able to attend the commencement exercises.

Eighty-seven Indiana counties will be represented in the August 22 class, as well as students for 20 other states and two foreign countries.

DeKalb County students scheduled to receeive degrees Sunday, the degrees they will receive and their major subjects are as follows:

Auburn: Jane E. Hines, bachelor of public school music; James H. McIntyre, B. S., business; Walter C. McGuire, doctor of dental surgery.

Butler: Mrs. Mary Eakright Fuller, B. S., education; Kent D. Myers, B S., education.

Garrett: James A. Alford, B. S., medicine; Donald S. Painter, doctor of medicine; William E. Van Fleit, B. S., medicine.

TO SCHOOL SEPT. 3

The pupils of the district schools, under the direction of Mr. Stallman, will call at the school houses Friday, September 3, to enroll and get their book lists. Regular sessions for the Fall and Winter term will be started Tuesday, September 7th.

ATTEND LEGION CONVENTION

Jake Miller, the new Commander of Legion post here, was accompanied by Elmer Dean, of Harlan and Leon Kees and Charles Bassett, of St. Joe, in attending the State Convention held at Indianapolis last Saturday and Sunday. Dean Bachtel, of Garrett, was elected State Commander after taking four ballots. His opposition was strong which made the battle interesting and the local boys feel pleased over north eastern Indiana having been awarded this honor. Mr. Bachtel has held most of the important offices of post and state organization, and will make a real commander. He will give his entire time to this work, having taken a year's vacation from nts postal clerk duties at Garrett.

OLD RATION BOOK HOLDERS

Anyone holding the old type "B" or "C" ration book that expires after September 1, 1943, should return this book by mail or in person to the local rationing office and the new type book will be issued with the same amount of coupons as in book, and will be mailed back to the applicant immediately. No "A" "B" "C" or "D" coupons will be good after September 1, 1943, that does not read, on the face of the coupon "Mileage Ration." All gasoline dealers, suppliers and distributers must not accept a coupon that does not have "Mileage Ration" on the face of the coupon after September 1, 1943.

WARNING FOR CANNERS

Home canners have been warned by the United States Department of Agriculture against the use of "canning powders." Such as salicylic acid and sodium benzoate, for some of them constitute a definite health hazard, says Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent. Practically all the chemical preservatives have limited value in their aid on food preservation. There is also a tendency to place undue confidence in the effectiveness of such preservatives and neglect the usual sanitary precautions. The only safe way to process foods adequately is with heat.

FAMILY GET-TOGETHER

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Brown were the hosts Sunday at their home in Hicksville, of a delightful family "get-together" in honor of her brother, Corp. Frank Curie, who is home from Courtland, Ala., on a fifteen day furlough. Those who enjoyed the delicious dinner and pleasant afternoon together, besides the host and hostess were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Curie and daughter, Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Jump and daughter, June, Mr. and Mrs. Garold Cook and daughters, Nancy and Marjorie, Mr. and Mrs. William Moore and daughter, Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jarrett and family, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Mavis and Mr. Merritt Sechler.

MAKES RECORD CATCH

George P. Brown, of Garrett, caught a giant large mouth bass Thursday evening on Indian Lake, one smile north of Corunna. The big fish tipped the scales at 6 pounds and 5 ounces. Mr. and Mrs. Brown had been still fishing and at dusk Mr. Brown decided to try his luck at casting. They were at the north end of the lake and Mr. Brown was using a Creek Club injured minnow artificial bait. The fish gave him a merry battle for about five minutes before he could bring it alongside the boat. Then he was in a quandary as to how to get the fish in the boat because he had no landing net. However, he clamped a pair of pliers onto the jaws of the fish and hauled it in.

REPUBLICAN GATHERING

What is expected to be one of the largest Republican gatherings in Northern Indiana will assemble Sunday, August 22, in South Bend's Potawatomi Park under the direction of the River Park Republican club. The affair is to have the form of an old settlers' basket dinner and therefore is open to old settlers as well as everyone else of any political belief residing in Indiana, Michigan or any other place.

CONSUMERS WILL BEGIN USE OF WAR RATION BOOK NO. 3

Consumers will begin using war ration book three on Sept. 12, starting with brown stamps which will be used to obtain meat, butter, fats, oils and rationed dairy products, the Office of Price Administration announced last night.

Brown stamps lettered "A" will become valid on the 12th, and from then on, each subsequent letter will be placed in circulation each succeding Sunday.

Brown "A" and "B" stamps will be valid until October 2. "C," "D," "E," and "F" stamps until Oct. 30.

The OPA also announced that red stamps "X," "Y" and "Z" in war ration book two will become valid on August 22 and 29, and Sept. 5. All three will expire October 2nd.

Inasmuch as the brown stamps in book three will go into use while the red stamps of book two still are valid, customers will be giving their butchers and grocers both brown and red stamps for the period from Sept. 12 to October 2.

INDIANA RANKS FOURTH

Few states issue more hunting and fishing licenses than Indiana with the Hoosier state ranking fourth in the issuance of fishing licenses and fifth in the number of hunting licenses, Harrell F. Mosbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game, reported. The large number of hunting and fishing licenses issued in Indiana is an indication of the unusually high percentage of residents of the state who enjoy these outdoor activities, as well as an indication of the good fishing and hunting which have been developed and maintained through the conservation program.

CHRISTMAS MAILING TO START SEPTEMBER 15, 1943

Postmaster Storer calls your attention to the following instructions regarding mailing Christmas Parcels to armed forces overseas.

Parcels may be sent to those in the Army from September 15 to October 15, and to those in the Navy September 15 to October 1st. The sooner the better. No request is required from the addressee to mail Christmas packages and each parcel should be marked Christmas parcel. Parcels shall not weigh more than 5 pounds, dimentions shall not exceed 15 inches in length or 36 iches in length and girth combined. Not more than one package may be mailed by sender to same Addressee in any one week.

All articles must be packed in metal, wooden, or solid fiber-board boxes. Each parcel is subject to censorship and should be so prepared as to permit ready inspection of contents. Parcels must not contain perishables, intoxicants, weapons or inflammable articles.

Food and Clothing should not be included as these needs are taken care of.

Be sure that all Parcels are correctly addressed.

Parcels cannot be insured or sent C. O. D.

Inscriptions such as Merry Christmas or Do not open until Christmas may be placed on package.

If you wish to send Money we recommend Money Order be used.

Don't forget to mail early.

Mr. L. W. Wilson, of Estes Park, Colorado, arrived in St. Joe last Friday. He started as soon as he received word of the serious illness of his brother, George B. Wilson, and was unable to reach St. Joe until Friday morning. The funeral of his brother was held Thursday and burial was made Friday afternoon, due to his late arrival here. Mr. Wilson is 80 years old and is the only member of the Wilson family living.

INCREASE SHOWN IN PERSONAL PROPERTY

An increase of nearly 6 per cent in the valuation of personal property in DeKalb County assessed locally is shown by the July abstract prepared in the office of County Auditor Burley Ensley.

The 1943 is $6,445,900, as against $6,100,340 a year ago. An increase of nearly 22 per cent was recorded last year, 6½ per cent in 1941 and 10 per cent in 1940.

Mortgage exemptions approved this year aggregate $1,340,360, a reduction of $185,370 from a year ago, indicating that property owners are paying off their indebtedness. The reduction shown a year ago was $83,510. The figures for each unit this year follows:

Auburn $291,910; Butler city $73,220; Garrett $211,220; Altona $4,660; Ashley $5,430; Corunna $1,270; St. Joe $3,840; Waterloo $24,590; Butler Twp. $39,500; Concord Twp. $34,780; Fairfield $77,120; Franklin $70,840; Grant $28,370; Jackson $79,160; Keyser $54,670; Newville $27,010; Richland $47,510; Smithfield $67,150; Spencer $40,050; Stafford $14,400; Troy $26,600; Union $43,330; and Wilmington $73,730.

Soldiers' exemptions show a slight increase this year, from $58,740 to $60,170. Seven units report no soldiers' exemptions on file. They are the following townships: Jackson, Keyser, Newville, Rickland, Spencer, Troy and Union.

Real estate was not generally reassessed this year, but the abstract shows that the 227,210 acres of farm land is on the tax duplicate at $6,698,110 and improvements at $ 3,501,110, a total of $10,119,220. The average per acre of land and improvements is the highest in Union township, at $59.66, and the lowest in Troy, at $37.49. The figures for the other townships follow: Butler $42.72; Concord $41.67; Fairfield $41,08; Franklin $38.35; Grant $48.17; Jackson $43.85; Keyser $47.08; Newville $40.62; Richland $42.03; Smithfield $41.04; Spencer $46.84; Stafford $41.04; and Wilmington $44.17.

The greatest acreage is 22,730 in Fairfield and the least is 8,775 in Newville.

The number of town and city lots is 9,422 and the valuation of lots and improvements $7,036,750. Polls number 3,699, a marked reduction of 388. All male persons between the ages of 21 and 50 are subject to poll tax.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to publicly recognize the many kindnesses of neighbors and friends during the illness and death of our husband and brother, George B. Wilson. Our thanks also are given for the floral offerings, to Pastor Stevenson and the singers. —Mrs. Lida Wilson, Mr. L. W. Wilson.

Two miles of new rails are being laid past the Charles Morr farm on the B. & O. The rails will weigh 131 pounds to the yard, and for some unknown reason, rails frequently break on this stretch of track, and this is a move to avert a bad wreck.

COLLINS—WARSTLER

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Ruth Warstler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Artie H. Warstler, of Auburn, to Herman "Vernie" Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins, of St. Joe.

The wedding took place at 9 o'clock Saturday evening, June 26, at Angola. The single ring ceremony was used with Rev. Humphreys, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church officiating.

The bride was becomingly attired for her wedding in a white silk jersey street length dress with which she wore all white accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of white sweetpeas and red roses. Miss Alice Boger, of Auburn, who attended her, wore a beige dress with brown accessories. Her shoulder corsage was also of white sweetpeas and red roses.

The groom wore a tan suit and Charles Hartranft also of St. Joe, who served as best man, wore a brown suit. They both wore white carnation lapel boutonniere.

The bride, a graduate of the Auburn High School of the 1941 class, is now employed by the General Electric in Fort Wayne. The groom, a graduate of the St. Joe High School and of the 1939 class, is employed by the Fruehauf Trailer Company in Ft. Wayne.

VACATIONING AT DAM

J. P. Buckingham and J. E. Foltz, accompanied by their wives, spent from Monday to Wednesday of this week at the dam near Defiance, and they expected to spend some of this time fishing. They visited their brother, M. E. Foltz, who lives in the family cottage, and Mrs. Foltz spent a part of her time with her parents.

Tom Sellers and Walter Ervin will report for military service on August 24, from St. Joe.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Notice is hereby given that all Republican voters of the Town of St. Joe, are requested to meet in Caucus on Thursday, August 26, at 8 o'clock at the Town Hall, for the purpose of nominating one candidate for the office of Clerk-Treasurer, one Town Trustee for Ward 1-2-3, each.

They tell us no one is immune to air sickness which we believe after reading of the Berlin panic following the Hamburg hammering.

In commenting on the potato loss at Vincennes, a Democrat blurb says: "the loss . . . . will be far less than the average loss to commercial distributors." Is that a laugh? Did you ever hear of a commercial potato buyer hauling even one truck load out and throwing it on the dump?

Do you suppose Senator Van Nuys has some more "done" with which to threaten the Democratic party officials? Remember back in 1938 when he promised to blow the lid off the scandal pot if they didn't nominate him for Senator? His recent interview brings out the idea that he is still "Feudin" with the governor and the state chairman and a sizzling fight seems to be set up.

DON'T LET UP

The boys who have returned home from pouring bombs on Germany, who are telling of their experiences and relating the conditions of other nations at war, are home again thru the assistance of you and the war bonds your family has sacrificed to buy. Whenever you hear an accident related by a man who has returned from overseas, remember that your efforts have helped sustain them and prepare them. It is the war bonds that keep bomb-racks euipped for the engagements witn the enemy, the war bonds that build the Shangri-Las for a future security, the war bonds that maintain a fighting force to push ahead to victory. The recent upheaval in Italy's politics and the internal disquiet among her citizens, might lead certain optomistic ones here at home to believe we are on the home stretch to peace. Such are apt to relax their vigilance being over-come by over-confidence. To be so encouraged by the Italian break that we lean on our shovels is actually aiding the enemy. The war is not over, the Geman-Japanese menace is still alive and doing business on a pretty wide scale. Americans have had the reputation of not being serious enough to be frightened, our national reputation for ardor and over-enthusiasm being linked with our over-confidence. We become aroused by a cause, undertake an enterprise with energy with our effort forgotten as soon as the goal is reached, our critics say. Our national history proves we will support, defend and champion, work and fight, here in St. Joe and every town just like us. We won't let up!

CORPORATION VALUATION SHOW INCREASE

Corporation assessments made by the state tax board and reported to County Auditor Burley Ensley show an increase this year of $1,642,260, or more than 22 per cent. The total is $9,089,470. An increase of 5 per cent was ordered last year.

Valuations are substantially higher this year for practically all the corporations. Following are the figures, with changes, if any, being shown for corporations in this section of the county:

Baltimore & Ohio—20.72 miles first main at $75,500 a mile, increased from $68,620. 20.72 miles second main at $14,670; increased from $13,300. 26.07 miles side track at $8,000, increased from $6,670. 20.72 miles rolling stock at $10,250, increased from $9,300. Improvements, $67,740, reduced from $69,240.

Wabash Railway, Fort Wayne and Detroit branch—16.64 miles of main track at $26,980, increased from $24,550. 5.67 miles side track at $4,000, increased from $3,630. 16.64 miles rolling stock at $4,000, increased from $3,630. Improvements $4,080.

Indiana Standard Telephone Corp.—921.54 miles at $38 a mile. Last year, $40.

Indiana & Michigan Electric Co.—$251,400.

Keep Vitamins In Home-Canned Tomatoes

The tomato rates respect because it is chuckful of vitamins (A and C), those invisible spark plugs that keep one feeling fit.

Because tomatoes are an important food, it is imperative that every one not needed for immediate use be saved by canning, but they must be canned right, else there will be little or no vitamin C left in them. Undue exposure to air after the skins are removed and over-cooking in an uncovered container destroy vitamin C. This is one reason that tomatoes should be prepared and canned as quickly as possible. Usually whole tomatoes have more food value than tomato juice, partly because a considerable amount of vitamin A is lost in the pulp that fails to go through the strainer when the juice is made, but mainly because greater exposure to air destroys vitamin C.

If you want first-class canned tomatoes, use freshly gathered, firm-ripe, sound fruit—one small bad spot can ruin a whole batch. Wash the tomatoes before scalding; scald a few at a time. Remove all core, slip off the skins, and cut away green spots. Pack the tomatoes tight into clean hot jars—this is best done by pressing each tomato down with a wooden spoon. Add salt to season to suit your taste—the usual amount is one teaspoon to the quart. Seal jars according to manufscturer's instructions and process 35 minutes in hot water bath. If tomatoes are not fresh from the garden, process 45 minutes.

No juice can be better than the fruit from which it is made, so be sure to use strictly fresh, firm-ripe, red tomatoes, which are free from all decay. Wash well and cut away any green spots or weather cracks. Weather cracks are those splits that form around the stem ends when hot sunshine follows a hard rain. Such tomatoes are unfit for canning or juice unless used immediately after picking. Leave the tomatoes whole and steam or bake them until they are soft; then press through a fine sieve, preferably a cone-shaped one; reheat the juice to simmering; pour into sterilized jars and process 30 minutes at simmering. The pulp will separate from the juice unless a very fine sieve is used or if too much heat is applied at any time. Oh, so you boil the juice in an open kettle until it is thick? Well, that's a fine way to get rid of most of those precious vitamins.

The best tasting juice is that made by pressing whole home canned tomatoes through a sieve just before serving. Any seasonings liked may be added before canning but the juice will be better if seasonings, except salt, are added when the salt may be left out.

..FORCES THAT MUST NOT FAIL

SEATED in your living room beside the comforting light of an electric lamp, you listen to the storm roaring overhead. Should you hear a plane droning through the thunder, your only concern would be for the safety of the pilot — a whispered prayer that lightning might not strike him down.

Far away, high in their control rooms in stations throughout our system sit "Load Dispatchers," men who with intense concentration watch the progress of the storm on instrument boards. On them rests a grave responsibility — the responsibility not alone of your comfort and convenience, but of Peace and War—of life and death.

Should the storm interrupt the electric power facilities, these dispatchers must be alert to find the way to bring the power to the stricken area. Other dispatchers down the line must pick up the load until finally at the power houses idle turbines come to throbbing life.

These dispatchers are only a few of the 986 employees whose responsibility is maintaining this company's service. In the aggregate, this loyal body of men and women represents 9,990 years of experience, an average of over 10 years for each person employed by the company.

Before the War we had the "know how" and, in these wartimes, that is partly the secret of America's Power to Produce. We are proud of our employees and their unceasing efforts to help win Victory.

ARMY MYSTERY
(8 reels)

Running Time: 80 Minutes
Director: Joseph Lewis
Screenplay: Arthur Hoerl

Cast: Eric Linden, Ann Doran, Constance Worth, Donald Curtis, Weldon Heyburn, Ben Alexander, Dudley Dickerson, Bernice Pilot, Ray Erlenborn, I. Stanford Jolley, Emmett Vogan, Robert Fraser, Boyd Irwin, William Ruhl.

ARMY MYSTERY or CRIMINALS WITHIN is a sensational drama of a new menace. It is concerned with how enemy agents strike at democracy within.

Murder before eighty thousand eyes, an army of trained sleuths on the scent but completely baffled by a small band of trained criminals. Comedy and thrills mixed in grand proportions and an all star cast of Hollywood's best performers make this a sensational picture.

A handful of smooth working conspirators succeed in driving a wedge into important government projects. They murder at will, ride high, wide and handsome and make their own rules in their attempt to lead a nation into their trap. Unaware that his brother a government chemist, has already been murdered, Greg tries to warn him, just as a high ranking officer is killed by enemy agents. Naturally, he is accused of the crime. A delegation from army chemical headquarters also seek Greg as the only man who could continue his late brother's work. A three-way man hunt develops, as the two army groups hunt Greg, who in turn, pursues the real killers in an effort to prove his innocence.

Produced by E. B. Derr and directed by Joseph Lewis. ARMY MYSTERY was meant to be a thriller. Critics from Coast to Coast have praised it for its exciting climaxes and the brilliant work of the entire cast which is headed by a new romantic team, Eric Linden and beautiful Ann Doran.

Two veteran Negro comedy stars are combined as a team in this thrilling murder-mystery. They are Dudley Dickerson, who reached films via minstrel, vaudeville and musical comedy shows, and Bernice Pilot, who has been handing movie-goers laughs since her debut in UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

While it deals with international intrigue and deftly - accomplished murder, it is something new in the thriller-excitement class. Hollywood claims it is one of the fastest moving, gripping and well rounded screen achievements of its time and it had long runs both in New York and Chicago to attest to its audience appeal.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Mrs. Ida Herrick visited a few days the past week with Mrs. Anna Rickett.

Dallas Green will move next week from Cedarville into the Jenkins farm tenant home. He is employed at Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Rediger, of Spencerville, are the parents of a baby daughter, named Grace Yvonne, born August 11th.

Sherman Rangeler, of Chicago, on his way to Pittsburgh, Pa., stopped here for a two hour visit with his aunt and uncle, the Buckinghams.

A number of bicycles were taken into custody Saturday night by Marshal Schondelmayer, because of the conduct of their riders, in riding on side walks and running into young ladies. Perhaps this was started all in fun, but too much of anything becomes a nuisance.

Thomas E. Myers, a well known farmer in Franklin Township, DeKalb County, was found dead in bed at his home Monday morning at 6:30. Kenneth Kaylor, of Auburn, county coroner, was called and found that he had suffered a fatal attack of angina pectoris. Mr. Myers had been troubled with heart illness for the past five years. He suffered a severe attack five years ago and had had several recurrent attacks of a lighter nature.

Jack Kees spent last week at Hamilton Lake, guest of Jack Bowser.

Mrs. Harvey Carr and daughter, Andrea, spent last week at Paulding, Ohio, the guests of Mrs. Sylvia Carr.

Roscoe Moore was home Sunday morning for a few hours, when he returned to Camp Grant, Ill., where he is stationed.

The Notestine reunion was held Sunday at Cedarville Park, and Mrs. Josie Porter and Mary Moore, were in attendance from St. Joe.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Randall, daughted, Karen and Mrs. Karl Wilt, of Ft. Wayne, were Sunday afternoon callers of Mrs. Jane Randall and Mrs. Helen Randall.

Coyene Lemon, of West Lafayette, Ind., spent the past week here in the Simon Nicholls home at Orangeville. Harvey Hull and family were also Sunday guests.

Saturday night crowds are on the increase in St. Joe, and the moving pictures are meeting with favor. Remember if you want to see your friends come to St. Joe on Saturday night.

A tablespoon of maple syrup spread over the top of grapefruit gives a delicious flavor to it. Try spreading grapefruit with melted butter and syrup and broil until light brown, which takes about ten minutes. Serve the fruit warm.

Victory Stationery at News.

Estella Hart Deventer returned Tuesday from Camp Phillips, Kansas, after ten days visiting her husband, Ronald Deventer.

Mrs. Vernie Collins was entertained Wednesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins, in celebration of her twentieth birthday.

Mrs. Edna Jenkins accompanied her grandson, Loren Barnthouse, to Detroit, Mich., Wednesday morning, where she will visit relatives for a couple of weeks.

Lewis Wasson and family were here last week a few days visiting his mother at Orangeville, and this week they are in Michigan visiting relatives of his wife.

Anna Hart Brown, sons, Billy Victor and Paige, and lady friend, of Elkhart, Indiana, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Hart. Paige is a Sergeant now and is sailing for overseas soon. Roscoe Moore of Camp Grant, Ill., was also a guest in the Hart home on Sunday.

JEWELRY AND HOSE COLLECTION FOR SOLDIERS

Home makers in DeKalb County are urged to make contributions of various kinds of cheap jewelry, buttons, beads, buttons on strings, necklaces, and any flashy jewelry for the benefit of our soldiers who are in the South Seas. These trinkets will be sent to these soldiers in an effort for them to make friends with the natives. Collection centers have already been set up at Baker's grocery store at Spencerville, and The News office at St. Joe.

This program is being sponsored by the "Organization of Mothers" of the Boys of World War II. The collection should be completed by August 31.

Cotton and rayon hose are also being collected for crippled boys from this war who are located at Marion, Indiana. These are used in making rugs and other articles of hand work. Both contributions may be made at the same centers.

The State Highway Commission opened bids Tuesday, for construction projects in Marion, Madison, Howard, Dearborn, and Blackford Counties having an estimated cost of $200,000. With the exception of the construction of a bridge on Road 22 west of Hartford City and erosion control along Road 50 near Hardinsburg, the projects are for grading, widening and paving access roads to defense plants in Anderson, Kokomo and Marion County. The bridge construction and erosion control will be financed with state funds while federal funds will be employed in financing the access road construction.

HUNTING SEASON IS MARRED BY FIREARM ACCIDENTS IN WOODS

Alarmed by the number of hunting accidents reported since the opening of the squirrel season two weeks ago Harrell F. Mosbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game, today urged more careful handling of firearms at all times.

Ten "Safety Commandments" for observance by all hunters were cited as a means of preventing further accidental shootings during the squirrel season and during the rabbit and bird hunting seasons which will follow. These suggestions include:

1. Treat every gun with the respect due to a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.
2. Carry only empty guns, taken down or with action open, into your automobile, boat, camp or home.
3. Always be sure that the barrell and action are clear of obstructions.
4. Always carry a gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle even if you stumble.
5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.
6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to kill.
7. Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.
8. Never climb a fence or tree with a loaded gun.
9. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.
10. Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.

Observance of these simple precautions will do much to eliminate firearms hunting accidents in Indiana, preventing tragedies which mar the pleasure of hunters and eliminating the loss of working time in weeks when production of food and war materials is vital for victory.

HOME ECONOMIC CLUBS

The Concord Township Home Economics Club held the August meeting at the home of Mrs. Helen Ulm. Our president, Mrs. Millie Shull, took charge. The meeting was opened by reading the Creed in unison and singing our Club song. It was felt in the Club that a local Victory Garden market might serve a useful purpose in disposing of surplus vegetables. Consequently, a committee of three was appointed by the president, composed of the two garden leaders, Mrs. Clara Foltz and Mrs. Nevada Wyatt, the third member being Mrs. Katie Storer. Any victory gardener with produce to sell should call a member of this committee, likewise, persons wanting garden produce should contact the committee. The committee plans to post lists of produce wanted and for sale in the Kinsey Hdwe. window. Watch this window.

Fifteen members responded to roll call with "Gems of Thought." The song, "The Last Rose of Summer," was then sung with Mrs. Ulm reading the history of the song. Mrs. Shull gave a reading, "Ain't God Good to Indiana," which was enjoyed by all.

The project work, "Time and labor saving in meal preparation," was well given by Mrs. Katie Storer, after which Mrs. Mary Krise rendered a solo composed by Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick. All that it lacked was a title. Laura Washler gave a very interesting flower contest. The hostess with her committee served a tasty lunch of sandwiches, vegetable salad, pickles and coffee. The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Washler, since she and Mrs. Iva Yeiser exchanged meetings.

Riding in planes is a lot safer than riding in canoes.

We have reached the place wheer if a man arises to give ihs seat to a woman, on a crowded bus, the fellow is conspicuous.

We understand some colleges will not allow girls to wear slacks. It hasn't been so long ago that such a topic was not considered proper and fitting in public discussion even.

A Texas woman found a diamond in a chicken. In some parts of our state, a News reader suggests, it is hard to find a chicken.

Wherever Il Duce is, we don't think he is standing on a balcony. It would make him so homesick.

A man in Spencerville says it has been so long since we have heard from the office, he wonders if there is a Secretary of Labor.

YE SHADES OF GRANDMA!

A news item stating that a shoe store refused to try shoes on women who do not wear stockings might arouse ire amongst some feminine readers. There is something to be said for both sides but probably more for the women according to St. Joe females. With the limitation put on the amount of elastic that goes into foundation garments, the girdle that is supposed to uphold milady's hose doesn't have its old-time give and tends to the baggy and balloon type finish that is not flattering to the general appearance. The roll and knot your own way keeps a woman in suspence as it does a slim-hipped man with no suspenders with which to anchor his pants. In order to look neat the ladies took to leg make-up and in many cases can fool the public but evidently not certain shoe salesmen. They say the stuff rubs off and spots the shoes, which is probably true in spite of advertising. But just imagine the horror of grandmother who wouldn't appear out of the bedroom without stockings, let alone off the home lot! But with necessity being the mother of invention, where grandma might have knitted hers, our women folks are patting theirs on.

GIVE A THOUGHT

We came across this item the other day that we are passing on to our readers that might give them the food for necessary thought that it did us. According to a Kansas City judge, a Negro preacher offered the evening prayer at a mission in Tucson, Arizona. When called upon he arose and said, "O Lord, prop us up on our leanin' side." This might serve as a text around each of our St. Joe tables. It offers an idea that each of us find our leaning side and the suggestion that we might strengthen it. We have been in need of propping through the years and tho some of us grow strong enough to withstand the props, most of us accept them and lean the harder. Few of us, unfortunately, can be said to be in balance.

IT WON'T WORK

A bill of an Alabama state senator to fine a teacher $500 for not instructing in arithmetic and spelling, makes for comment. The senator would make these two subjects compulsory in all grades of public high school. We feel in St. Joe and Spencerville, that arithmetic and spelling is definitely a grade school combination and if youngsters aren't able to grasp them by the time high school comes along, the teacher shouldn't be blamed. The lower grades should stress these two subjects but with some children, arithmetic and spelling will never touch them deeply. Keep an eye on some of the folks in the professional world who have made a bit of money upon which to pay income tax, and see how many prominent citizens are poor spellers and how often they make mistakes in their bank balance.

WAR'S LIKE THAT

Germans criticise the lack of respect we show works of art, antiques of the ages, during bombings of German cities. Although ruining monuments, architectural works, examples of culture through the ages, is not the definite objective of air raids, it might be that it is unavoidable in order to reach vital spots for attack as railroad centers, munition works, and so on. The efforts of labor through the years, of art through the ages, of culture from the past, all when interfering with war in order to attain victory, can't stand in the way. They must be sacrificed that man himself can live. Germany has not been so careful as has been the Allies in protecting religious centers, paintings and sculptures. As regrettable as it is, the horrible feature of war is its devastating effect on the works of art of the world. War sacrifices art to keep from sacrificing the spirit of man.

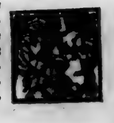
"How Seldom-Heard-Of Services Provided by America's Fire Insurance Companies Guard Vital Wartime Food Supplies"

War stresses the importance of extra services that have reduced fire losses and average rates 40%... while your premium dollar has contributed to profits an average of only 2¼¢!

"Dear Consumer: With our nation at war, I think everyone realizes the need of guarding vital food and raw materials. But not many know this: Leading insurance companies I represent maintain many voluntary services that protect vital food supplies, industries, communities and homes... reduce fire losses... and thus reduce the cost of fire insurance to you. Among these are:

ARSON INVESTIGATORS

These specially chosen experts safeguard granaries and warehouses—rasp materials—homes and lives. From coast to coast they trail and help to trap firebugs, aiding authorities in convicting an average of 400 arsonists each year.



"In 30 years, such services as these have reduced both the rate of fire loss and the average cost of fire insurance by more than 40%! Out of each premium dollar, 97¼¢ on the average has been applied to the payment of policyholders' losses, taxes and other necessary costs of operation. Only 2¾¢ has remained as 'profit'—to strengthen the companies' ability to pay unusually heavy losses should they occur in the future."

Let us give you the more protection of double-duty insurance that pays [illegible] —and helps keep fires from starting.

FREE! 46 ways to keep your home from burning. Fire prevention specialists have prepared interesting articles and checklists. Among them are: How to make sure your family lives if fire does strike. DUMMY TROUBLE
(7 reels)

Cast: Ralph Byrd, Esther Muir, Harry Langdon, Betty Blythe, Gayne Whitman, Frank Jacquet, Luana Walters, Florence Wright, Byron Barr, Frank Hagney, Vernon Dent, Billy Mitchell, Hennie Brown.

DUMMY TROUBLE or (Misbehaving Husbands, 35mm name) is a most amusing comedy. It is a grand satire on the eternal triangle. In the hands of such capable artists as Ralph Byrd, Esther Muir, those old friends Harry Langdon and Betty Blythe and directed by William Beaudine, Dummy Trouble turns out to be one of the most diverting bits of entertainment we can offer.

The story recounts the trials and tribulations of a well meaning but thoughtless husband who spends his twentieth anniversary, not with his wife, but in his store window with three beautiful blonds. When scandal looms on the horizon, Hubby, panic-stricken decides to straighten everything out. His efforts result in some of the funniest scenes recorded on film since way back. How everything is worked out for the happy ending will provide the whole family with all the gaiety it could ask for. DUMMY TROUBLE to put it briefly, is good entertainment.

JULY TRAFFIC FLOW ONE-HALF OF 1941

Traffic flow on the state highway system, recorded by automatic counters, was down fifty per cent in July from the same month in 1941, S. C. Hadden, chairman of the State Highway Commission, said today. The July 1943 traffic volume was 28 per cent under the July 1942 total.

While this comparison is not wholly accurate for the state, because of increased traffic in the vicinity of defense plants served by highways on which there are no counters to record the increased flow of traffic, the report is accurate so far as traffic conditions on other sections of the state highway system are concerned.

A major part of the reduction in general traffic is due to the elimination of the great volume of tourist traffic which came into Indiana in the past or which followed interstate routes across the Hoosier state.

DEKALB CO. FARMERS TO SHARE BOND DRIVE

DeKalb County farmers will figure out their own Third War Loan quotas at the rate of $5.94 per acre of cropland and will be asked to invest at least 70 per cent of this annual personal and family goal during the September drive, it was announced today by Albert Yoder, chairman of the county's agricultural division of the war finance committee.

"We believe this to be a sensible plan for every American farmer," said Mr. Yoder. "The investment in war bonds on a cropland-acre basis is smart savings. The per acre figure for the county was arrived at by state agricultural leaders, including Purdue University statisticians."

Mr. Yoder explained that farmers who produced above the average for the county were expected to take up the slack lower bond investment of those farming poorer land. Farmers with a low indebtedness, he said, could afford to invest more than those whose obligations are heavier.

The per acre figure is based on savings recommended for home and family, on replacement of farm equipment, including automobiles—both now unobtainable—on building repair and remodeling needs and on increasing soil fertility after the war from savings earmarked for that purpose now.

"We know that about 70 per cent of annual income will be in the hands of farmers by the time the drive opens Sept. 9," said Mr. Yoder. "That's why every farmer will be asked to invest 70 per cent of his annual goal or as much more as he can during the September war loan drive. In all cases each farmer may subtact from his own quota the amount tof bonds he has purchased since January 1, 1943."

A farm to farm war bond crusade will take place on the opening day of the drive, Sept. 9, under the campaign slogan: "Back the Attack!"

NO MORE ROAST DUCK

Roast Long Island duckling, long a favorite on New Yorker menus, will soon be only a fond memory. Some of the dancing master economists of Washington have decreed that the duck farming industry of that part of the country must be liquidated. Guess they feel that other parts of the USA are better fitted to raising ducks, so these farmers, many of whose families have been in the duck raising business for generations have been ordered to stop.

There is a heavy movement of light feeding shoats and bred sows thru all the auction markets in Northern Indiana the last several weeks. There seems to be a tendency for farmers who operate a diversified program to sell their shoats and breeding stock to men who specialize in pork production.

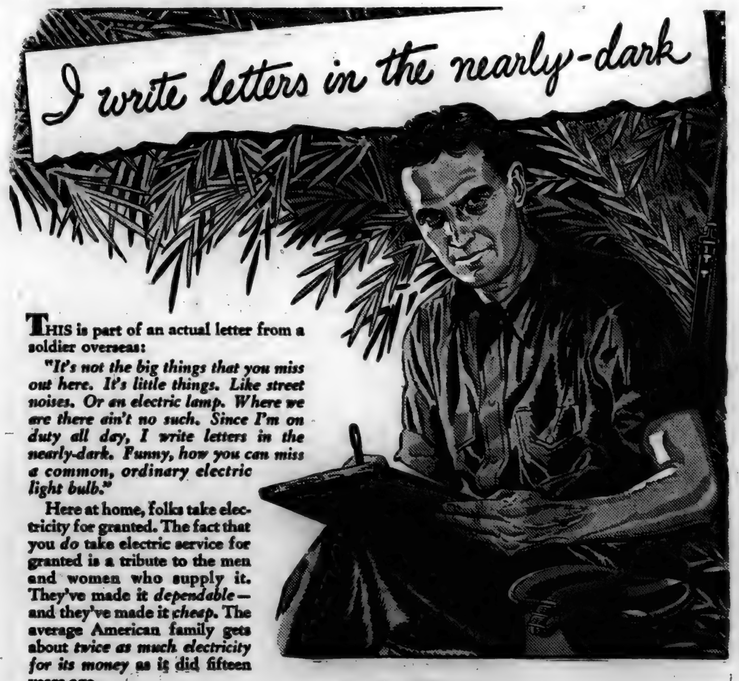
Native lambs and fat ewes are being sent to market in small lots. Receipts of all other kinds of slaughter and feeding animals was about equal to last week's receipts with a few extra cattle in this week's offering.

A review of sales follows:

Hogs in a weight range from 100 to 240, $14.40 to $14.75. Slaughter sows from $12.75 to $13.35. Boars mostly $6.50. Shoats weighing from 60 to 80 pounds find plenty of buyers at from $6.00 to $12.00 per head.

All good to choice veals changed hands from $15.50 to $16.45. There is so much competition between Elkhart and Chicago for the light, thin calves that they bring near top prices. Farmers say milk is too high to make calf raising profitable so day old calves find it hard to get a new home.

In the cattle pens the following prices were established; a good red cow weighing 850, $11.00. A good quality dairy type cow weighing 700, $9.25. A very low quality white steer weighing 600, $8.50. Light bulls sell by the head at prices equal to $12.00 to $14.00 per cwt.



THIS is part of an actual letter from a soldier overseas:

"It's not the big things that you miss out here. It's little things. Like street noises. Or an electric lamp. Where we are there ain't no such. Since I'm on duty all day, I write letters in the nearly-dark. Funny, how you can miss a common, ordinary electric light bulb."

Here at home, folks take electricity for granted. The fact that you do take electric service for granted is a tribute to the men and women who supply it. They've made it dependable—and they've made it cheap. The average American family gets about twice as much electricity for its money as it did fifteen years ago.

Soldier, we're sorry we can't send you electricity over there. But we are pouring power into industry over here, so that you can have the tanks, planes, ships and guns you need. . . . The electric companies under business management are in the war—as you are—to dispel the darkness of state slavery!

C. G. RECTENWALL, Trustee Spencer Township.

The Young Ladies Social Club met Friday evening with Mrs. Zelpha Steward. Those lucky for the evening were, Gaylon Markle, Cleo Reed, Bernice Wilder, Helen Koch and Kathryn Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kimes and little sons, Lynn and Larry, of near Leo, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mortorff and son, Paul, of Garrett, were Saturday evening supper guests in the Harvey Kimes home.

Mrs. Rosa Widdifield, of Columbia City, and Mrs. Harvey Kimes received word of the death of their aunt, Mrs. Thomas Fales, at her home in Snohomish, Washington. They will be remembered by the older people of the community as having lived here many years ago, before leaving for the West. She is survived by her aged husband, who is past 85 years of age, one son, three daughters, several grandchildren and great grandchildren. Funeral and burial at Snohomish, Wash.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

You can get your favorite magazine at News Stand.

Joe Carlin and family, of Garrett, spent several days here with Mrs. Helen Randall.

Mrs. Larry Condrey and children, of Indianapolis, were guests of Mrs. Sylvia Ginther the past week.

Mrs. Etta Lysher, of Flint, Mich., returned home Tuesday after a visit here with her sister, Mrs. C. H. Sailer.

Mrs. Sada Reeder, of Auburn, was over night and Sunday guest of her sister, Mrs. Jesse Loftus and family.

Real estate transfer of 60 acres off the original Andrews farm was made this week to LaVon Richmond. Mrs. Mahoney retains a small acreage and the building site. As fast as materials are available she will modernize the house and eventually transfer her business from Ft. Wayne to the farm home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Staman were Sunday guests of his sister at Sturgis.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morr and two sons were Sunday guests of Mrs. Ella McCrory at Auburn.

Mrs. Dora Morr has gone to Harbor Springs, Mich., and will remain until after the hay fever time is over.

W. O. Smith and family moved Tuesday from their farm recently sold on Road 1, to a farm near Henry Bridge.

Glen Snyder of near Schell's Corners on the Ridge Road, has lost 136 hogs during the past few weeks. The veterinarians are undetermined as to the ailment.

Miss Bette Armstrong and Miss Jean Musser, of Auburn, left Tuesday morning for Indianapolis, where they will take nurses training at the Methodist Hospital.

Robert Ridgway is being sent to Willard this week to take work on the third trick as operator. This is a heavy job and by such a call leads us to believe that Robert is making good as an apprentice operator.

Mrs. Willard Hurni left Wednesday this week for Omaha, Neb., to be with her son, Morris, who is stationed there taking technical radio training. He has been in the hospital for several days with a severe cold but is out again.

Mrs. Loren Beckley, of Kendallvillle, spent last week here the guest of Mrs. Letha Kinsey. Her son, Walter and wife, of Jackson, Mich., were here over Saturday, and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mohney and daughter, of New Philadelphia, O., arrived Saturday for over night.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schondelmayer, of Bismarck, Ill., and his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Schondelmayer, of Danville, Ill., were all over night guests in the Reign Schondelmayer home last Thursday. They were here attending the Lake James Assembly.

A real estate transfer of interest to News readers is that of Burnette A. and Esta Rhoads et al to Chas. Furnishund. ½ 60 acres sec. 31 and 63.09 acres sec. 32, $2,250.

Two local stockmen were successful at the Kendallville fair last week. Carl Perkins showed his Berkshire hogs, and out of eight entries, won eight first ribbons. Fred Stemen, who is raiser of the Duroc breed of hogs, out of seven possible firsts, he captured five, and his competition was keen with five other raisers displaying. That's two records that are hard to beat.

Prediction of increased drilling for oil in Indiana's producing and potential areas if present federal restrictions are lifted or modified, was predicted by P. Hastings Kellar, assistant State Geologist in the Department of Conservation. A change in drilling regulations, to stimulate oil production has been proposed as a means of meeting wartime demands for petroleum products. Drilling for oil in Indiana has been slowed by difficulty in obtaining equipment and other regulations affecting the industry.

Students admitted to the Indiana University Training School for Nurses at Indianapolis beginning Sept. 1 were announced by Director Cordelia Hoeflin as including: Betty Drake and Louise Sechler, of St. Joe. The class to enter the I. U. Nurses' School next month will number 103, the largest in the history of the school which is a part of the University's school of medicine. With the entering class the University will have in training approximately 300 student nurses as compared with pre-war enrollment of 150 to 200—an increase which Director Hoeflin describes as "a patriotic response by the young women of Indiana to the government's call for more nurses."

Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss., Aug. 23 — Pvt. Victor DeWayne Kelley, son of Mrs. Thressa Kelley, Spencerville, Ind., was promoted this week to the grade of private first class after qualifying for enrollment in Keesler Field's B-24 Liberator bomber mechanics school.

Private Kelley's promotion was the result of qualifying for a technical school through high marks received in his Army mechanical aptitude test. He now will undergo approximately 17 weeks of training under the Army Air Forces Training Command here. Then he will be assigned to active duty on the line, servicing and maintaining the huge bombers which are carrying the war to the enemy, or will go to a factory or gunnery school.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Keesler announce the wedding of their daughter, Myranella, to Corporal Dennis Menshy, son of Mr. Otto Menshy, of Grabill, Indiana. The wedding took place at Angola, Indiana, on Wednesday, August 25th with Reverend John W. Borders, officiating.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Dale Collins.

The groom returned to his base at Woodward, Oklahoma, to report for duty on Wednesday, September 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Laub, of near Coburntown, are happy in announcing the marriage of their son, Second Lieutenant Loren D. Laub, of the U. S. Marines, to Miss Lucille Jorgenson, of Bloomington, Ill., and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mort Jorgenson, on Saturday, Aug. 21, 1943, by Judge Page at Pensacola, Fla., where the groom is stationed. The newly weds have been spending their honeymoon here at the parental home.

Cpl. Laub had just received his new commission. The couple will return to New Orleans where Dale will go through a 5-weeks special training and then expects to be sent North where he will serve as an instructor. The young people have the best wishes of their Indiana friends.

Wayne Bowser, wife and child, of Watertown, N. Y., were home last Saturday and Sunday visiting his mother, Mrs. Estella Bowser and sons. Wayne had to return to camp but expects 15 days later in the month.

COUNTY ASSESSOR CHAS. E. MISER DIES

The death of Charles E. Miser, DeKalb County Assessor for many years, took place Friday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock at his home in Waterloo.

Mr. Miser, who was 71 years of age, was a victim of concer of the throat and heart failure. He lost his voice several months ago and began taking treatments, but did not improve. He remained active until a week before his death and then became confined to his home. He was unable to lie down.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Evangelical Church in Waterloo. The Rev. Joseph Ferguson, of near Auburn, officiated and burial was made in the Waterloo cemetery. The body was returned to the residence Saturday evening from the funeral home owned by a nephew, Harcourt Miser, at Albion.

Mr. Miser was born on a farm at the southwest edge of Waterloo May 15, 1872, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Miser. His father was a pioneer resident of DeKalb County, having been born near Waterloo in 1840. The family moved to Franklin Township when Charles E. Miser was a boy. He and Daisy Hoy were married more than half a century ago, observing their golden wedding anniverary last May. Mrs. Miser has been an invalid for many years.

Surviving besides the widow are two children, Wm. F. Miser of Franklin Township and Carlton Miser, of Waterloo; four brothers, Martin A. Miser of Waterloo, Burley L. Miser of Montpelier, O., Walter B. Miser of Dalhart, Texas, and Edward N. Miser of Garrett; and four grandchildren.

After locating in Waterloo, Mr. Miser served as assessor of Grant Township. He was elected county assessor on the Republican ticket five times, starting his fifth four-year term last Jan. 1. He was a member of the Waterloo Evangelical Church and served as trustee for a long time.

The offices in the court house in Auburn were closed Monday afternoon, beginning at 12 o'clock, out of respect to Mr. Miser and the officials attended the funeral.

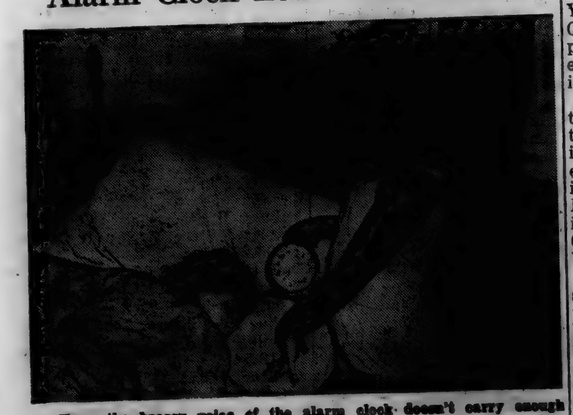
It is expected that a successor to Mr. Miser as county assessor will be appointed by the county commissioners at their September term starting Sept. sixth.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my appreciation through the columns of The News, to my many friends for their fine expressions of friendship, for the flowers and beautiful cards sent to me while confined in the hospital for two weeks. We shall cherish the kindness of these thoughtful friends.

Mrs. Cliffton Draggoo.

Alarm Clock Loses First Round



Even the brassy voice of the alarm clock doesn't carry enough authority to arouse this youngster, all too comfortable in her nice, warm bed. But her younger sister is determined that neither of them will be late for the first day of school. Teacher wouldn't like it. Scenes like this will be common from now on with the resumption of school work throughout the area.

Happy Children Await First Day of School

These jubilant, smiling youngsters finally have reached the day they've been waiting for since last spring—the first day of school. Their sparkling eyes are evidence of their complete happiness at being able to resume their quest of knowledge. Too bad that there are vacation periods to ruin such bliss. It is obvious that the students are gleeful over the fact that they no longer will have to spend their time at the swimming hole or fishing pond.

TWO LOCAL BOYS VISIT IN NORTH CAROLINA

James Hart and James Kees returned Tuesday morning from Willington, No. Carolina. They were guests of Captain Charles Hart, at Camp Fisher, N. C., for the past ten days.

They made the trip by bus, stayed at Hotel Bame, swam daily in the Atlantic Ocean, being midway between New York and Florida, near the Gulf Stream. They greatly appreciated the beautiful scenery, historic charm spots, Willington settled 1730.

The famous old Arton Plantation dates back to 1725, with the original house still standing, gnarled old oaks festooned with moss, lily ponds, a veritable fairyland. At Third & Market Street is the old Colonial residence, used by Lord Cornwallis, when he invaded Willington in 1781.

GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH AIDS BOND DRIVE

With Robert, Aubrey and Mrs. Charles Ringling, owners, in harness and running in person the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, which will exhibit in Fort Wayne, Wednesday, Sept. 15, the cooperation they initiated with the U. S. Treasury Department and the ODT last Winter is clicking daily.

Following the New York and Boston engagements' opening nights when only purchasers of war bonds were admitted, the Ringlings have set aside an honor section at afternoon and night performances in every stand for bond buyers, a procedure planned with Treasury Department representatives in February. At the same time the Ringling family arranged to meet all the requirements of the ODT, which then approved the 1943 railroad tour, subject of course, to troop and war supply movements. To date, the Big Show has moved on schedule, for the Ringlings have extended the length of engagements in almost all cities in order to stay off the railway lines as much as possible. Further to relieve the railroads, the management has made many one-day stands into two-day stays.

Performances will be given at 2:15 and 8:15 P. M., with doors open at 1 and 7.

Free Talking Pictures- ST. JOE on SATURDAY NITE

RIDER OF THE PLAINS
(6 reels)

Running Time: 60 minutes

Cast: George Houston, Hilary Brooks, Al St. John, Karl Hackett and others.

RIDER OF THE PLAINS or (The Lone Rider Rides on) is a lusty and action packed drama of a lone avenger who finally tracks down his parents' murderers and although he is forced to escape numerous traps which endangers his life, finally forces a showdown and wreaks vengeance on a band of outlaws.

REPUBLICANS PLACE TICKET IN THE FIELD

Twenty-one qualified voters of the town of St. Joe met in caucus last Thursday night, at the Town Hall at the call of Chairman, Willard L. Hurni, for the purpose of electing party officers and a ticket to be placed in nomination for the Fall election in November.

The result of the party organization was, Willard L. Hurni, chairman, and A. M. Baker, secretary.

The result of the caucus nominations, after some deliberation, were:

Town Trustees

Ward 1, Fred B. Leighty.
Ward 2, Frank R. Bowman.
Ward 3, Walter Stewart.
Clerk-Treasurer, Charles Bassett.

Wilbur Yeiser and family were over Sunday guests of Wm. Strouse and family at Marble Lake near Quincy.

We hear much of victory gardens this year, but each year in St. Joe we have victory gardens and this year is no exception. There are two things, if successful, that spells victory in any garden. First, it must be free from weeds which, if let grow, take all the strength of the ground from the vegetables. Second, if you get a crop, then you can talk victory for your efforts and expense. Many of our people can qualify in the first requirement, but when it comes to the second, only a few can boast of victory. J. W. Cornelius has rightfully won the full tile of a "Victory Gardener." He displayed a sample of his potatoes weighing a pound each and he is harvesting from 3 to 4 good sized potatoes from each hill. Truly a remarkable yield for a home garden. Our hats are off to "Corny."

The further we go into war the shorter come the luxuries.

When you play, play hard; when you work, don't play at all.—Theodore Roosevelt.

Consider the man who calls for justice and see if what he is calling for isn't just revenge.

The youngsters went off to war and left the family bus at home for their parents, but they took the gasoline with them.

Labor boards meet and mediate and strikers refuse to accept the mediation and then they start in mediating all over again.

According to Maurice Kline that secret weapon that Hitler claims Germany is ready to launch, maybe will prove to be something within the German people themselves.

If families owned planes as they do autos, children could still use the excuse that they had run out of gas and had to walk home.

It has reached the place in our point system where a magician can't find a rabbit to pull out of his hat.

There are still a few folks left, in spite of war, who think in terms of work for tomorrow and play for today.

There is a report that there won't be as much corn liquidated and put in barrels this year.

We are noticing the approach of the heating months with concern in St. Joe, for fuel shortage reasons, freezing temperatures and the bill for necessaries which will have to be paid out of a "no increased income."

Even the cave man had something on us. He had meat.

By cutting out banquets because of food rationing, it means that folks won't have to listen to after-dinner speeches.

You are as apt to lose your children on the crowded busses as you would your pocketbook.

In some families there was more back-talk about the backgarden than there was back breaking.

Mussolini keeps his name before the public even if it's only in a game of hide and seek.

Folks in St. Joe haven't minded having to spend vacations at home because there wasn't any place else they could go.

A newly developed automatic "lung" enables United Nations flyers to stay in the substratosphere twice as long on the same amount of oxygen.

Fifty fighting planes can use up 300,000 rounds of small-arms ammunition in one minute. This is as much as 10,000 men in Napoleon's army would have used in a day's battle.

HOW DO YOU PUT IT?

We have been urged to write more letters to our fighting boys and girls in service, asking that we not forget how important letters are in their lives. And we have tried to do our part in this moral-builder. You wouldn't think it would be necessary to appeal to the writers of letters that they do not send gloomy, disturbing mail, letters that will cause the boys to worry about things back home. They tell us that they notice, in the overseas hospitals, the reaction of mail on the patients and it takes 6 months longer to get a chap out of the hospital if his mail is doleful and complaining. Imagine lying in a New Guinea jungle and wondering if mother is worse and dad back on his feet again. Take the person who writes the soldier of how sorry they are for him, when a hardship, too bad he has to do this dirty work and so on. That boy doesn't want sympathy. He wants to know how the garden is growing, of brother becoming a Boy Scout, the church having a social, the latest dope on the town's baseball team, the neighbor girl marrying a sailor. That's what they want to hear, that Mother still goes to Red Cross, Dad on Civilian Defense, Sister on the school salvage drive. Tell him how the town put over the bond drive. There is much to tell them, so much they want to know that spells home and loved ones to them.

STILL NEEDED

Perhaps you have read the many appeals that come over radios, in newspapers, from platforms, of the need of American women for serving their country in the capacity of nurses. Perhaps you had thought that every woman able at all was answering the appeal and that the profession had its quota filled. That is not true, however. There is greater need now than ever and we are told of a greater need ahead. This is a time-honored profession and women have been training in it for many years. The length of time of nurses training has been decreased and under a new Federal law they will draw a modest salary as they learn, which is a decided advantage. Young women between the ages of 18 and 35, with high school education, can take up nurses training at almost any hospital. Our country needs them in the hospitals, our army needs them in the service. Now is the time. Two young people of our community have answered the call already.

WHAT OF SPAIN?

There has been something in our newspapers of most of the countries that are touched by the war but we haven't read much of it's affect upon Spain. It has been four years since Spain ended her civil war and she didn't have a chance to relax from that before she started in her heavy trading with the Allies and the Axis. Spain has rich mineral deposits and has become wealthy due to it. We understand that the Allies have paid in money but it is alleged that the Axis have carried most of theirs "on the cuff." The Spanish people are now paying enormous prices for ordinary goods and extreme prices for articles not easy to import. Many Spanish women wear Nylon hose, costing $18, imitation silk ones sell for $1.75. American cosmetics and French perfumes are available and coffee sells for 50 cents a cup at hotels. Rationing of food is necessary, however, and workers get half a pound of bread daily while every one gets half a pound of meat a week. The same from all quarters the need of food.

IF YOU RECALL—

The cutting of vacation driving and the crowded transportation facilities, due to more people taking trains and busses to their favorite resorts, brings to mind the appearance of the auto that formerly set forth on the annual trip for the family. Packing a suitcase and a handbag, maybe toting a magazine along, hopping on a train or bus, is all simple enough and calming to the spirit in its tranquil style. But most of the folks who have gone on trips other summers made the journey in the family auto and after they packed the car the night before with equipment and supplies, you couldn't find the family inside the next morning! Consider taking a folding cot, a couple of new lawn chairs, added length for the hose, some new pans, a set of dishes Mother got on sale, fishing tackle, a rug for the porch, the dog's dishes, a discarded auto seat that would be dandy in the boat for fishing, discounting the boxes of groceries from the cupboard and ice box at home and the family's clothes, and you can easily figure the difficulty of getting the stuff to the resort by train with a full pack. So most of us who can't manage a trip loaded from hub cap to hub cap won't mind so much, for to be able to travel comfortably with a mere suitcase wouldnt seem like a vacation, anyhow. We'll wait until later for our trip; when we can do it normally!

UP IN THE AIR

September 8 is the anniversary of the establishment of our first coast-to-coast air route. The flying of the mail is not the prime mission of the airplane today but it still remains an important part of our post office department. It points to the advance made in aviation in our own time and reminds us of the dreams of aviation for tomorrow. The linking of continents by aid of transportation in two decades makes it possible to visualize the number of families flying around in helicopters in the near future. The idea is not too fantastic. It isn't ahead of present planning for a post-war world. Foreign travel we feel will become pretty commonplace before many years pass. The present plans for trans-Atlantic air travel for the future would be a matter of $100 to Europe in ten hours. We may become world travelers here in St. Joe yet.

PROTECT THEM

Just because there aren't so many gallons of gas to carry us doesn't mean there won't be the usual need of watching out for accidents to school children. School busses will still stop to take on and discharge their young passengers. Motor vehicles still follow the highways and should drive as carefully as ever. It is equally necessary to warn children to stop, look and listen. The opening of schools will fill the streets with children and accident prevention should be stressed in St. Joe and Spencerville. Safety records may be made here in our town by teaching caution and the need for careful driving within the local homes. Drivers must cooperate with the boys and girls and each keep their part of a safety bargain by keeping to their part of the road. We want our highways for traffic and not for tragedy.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Draggoo spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. M. Morr at South Bend.

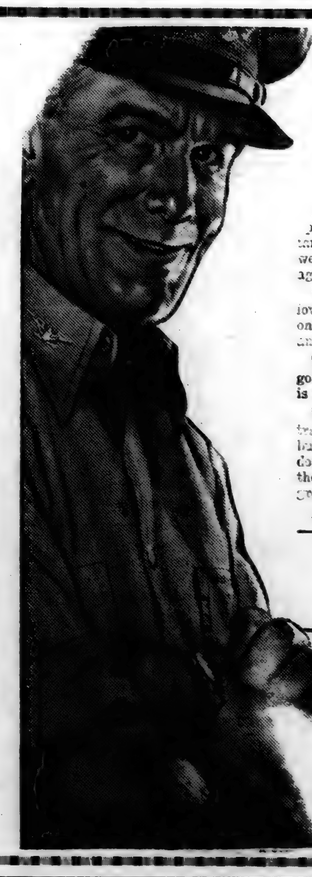
Mary Louise Woodcox spent over last Thursday night in Ft. Wayne with Dorothy Ann Reasoner going on to Huntington Friday, visiting in the Leslie Wilbern home the week end and over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Russell Borthwick enroute from Philadelphia to Los Angeles, are spending a few days at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Borthwick. Mrs. Xenia Kramer, of Chicago, spent the week-end in the same home.

A local woman says that she has difficulty in threading the needle of the sewing machine and so keeps a flashlight at hand and does it easily with this light. She always has a piece of blotting paper in a machine drawer so that when she oils the machine she then stitches through the blotting paper and thus absorbs the excess oil.

A Ford tudor driven by Virginia Martin, of Rt. 1 Auburn, was damaged to the extent of about $50 in an accident at an intersection two miles north of St. Joe Wednesday, according to a report made to the office of Sheriff Paul Miller. The Ford was following a highway truck and hit the truck as the driver, Victor Coburn, of St. Joe, was making a U turn.

A subscriber suggests that to make cake stay fresh longer after it has been cut, just pin slices of bread to each cut end with toothpicks. She says her family doesn't want the onion browned in the bottom of the cooking kettle when she has roasts, so she fastens the slices on the top by toothpicks. This holds good for a garlic clove perched on the top of a roast, too.



"Those doggoned kids!

*Give 'em a screw-driver and a pair of pliers and they'll make anything run!"

The colonel's "kids" had come upon a broken-down French tank in North Africa. They were told it would never run again.

That was a dare to boys who loved machinery. They worked on the old tank until it grunted and lurched across the field!

The story of "those doggoned kids" is true—and so is its American moral.

The boys sweated those extra hours, not at bayonet point, but freely. They saw a job to do and they pitched in! That's the spirit that made America grow!

And that same spirit built America's electric companies. Many of the business men who manage them today were linemen, clerks, meter readers—folks who saw a job to do and pitched in.

Result? Better service at lower prices! The average American family gets twice as much electricity for its money as it did about 15 years ago. And, at the same time—

These companies under experienced business management are supplying over 80 per cent of America's wealth of electric power! Far more power for war production than in all the Axis countries combined!

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY

*Quoted from an AP dispatch from Tunisia

Miss Maud Passon is quite ill at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Crick and son, Bobby, of Anderson, spent from Thursday until Saturday evening in the Charles Morr home, and spending Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morr and family in Auburn. Miss Doris Doswell, of Fort Wayne, was also a Saturday night and Sunday guest in the same home. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Morr were Sunday dinner guests of their son and family.

Legal notice is being given by County Auditor Burley Ensley that the county council will meet at the court house in Auburn, Tuesday, Sept. 7, to set the rounty tax levies for the year 1944, to pass on additional appropriations for this year, to appoint a member of the county alcoholic beverage board for 1944 and to consider for adoption a resolution to accept the provisions of house bill No. 106 to surrender the custody of the common school, congressional and permanent endowment funds to the state auditor. Taxpayers appearing at the meeting will have a right to be heard.

Kenneth Ridgway passed through St. Joe, east bound Saturday morning. John Dilley happened to see him at Garrett as the train pulled in and he hurriedly called the Ridgway family here, and a few were at the track as the train speeded on its way East. He has been located in Alaska for many months.

Plans for a house to house canvass in DeKalb County for the sale of third war loan bonds were made at a meeting of the leaders of the civilian war services organization in the court house in Auburn Monday evening. The war services group is a unit of the DeKalb County council of civilian defense. E. F. Fribley, of the Waterloo Road is county chairman of civilian war services. Local chairmen of the drive are Mrs. Doris Yeiser for St. Joe and Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner for Spencerville.

Leading manufacturers of farm machinery look forward to at least two years of full employment in their industry after the war, which is more than they have ever been able to count on in the past. The manufacture of farm machinery and tractors normally employs about 75,000 persons, not including those who work in plants turning out materials and parts. It may provide more jobs than in the postwar period. Much depends on the length of the war and on how hard up for equipment the farmer becomes before it ends.

Members of the school year of 1902-'03 were Sunday guests of Merritt Sechler, and a total of 23 took part in the carry-in dinner. The day was spent in visiting and a most enjoyable time was spent together. Robert L. Dixon, their principal, was unable to attend. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Dio Dermott, Constantine, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Lee O. Tustison, Defiance, O.; Mrs. Nettie Baker, Ft. Wayne; Mrs. Laura Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bishop, Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox, Mrs. Nina Kees, Mrs. Inez Hadsell, Mrs. Lela Northrup, Roy Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Leighty. The group will go to Defiance, O., next year and be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Tustison. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Mavis, of Auburn, were also guests.

Born Tuesday evening to Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kline, a son, at the Dr. Bonnell Souder Hospital in Auburn.

LABOR DAY
(September 6, 1943)

● In paying a heartfelt tribute to labor, America is all-inclusive. The farmer, the engineer, the clerk and the thousands of other workers are playing vitally important roles in the winning of the war.

Without foods, wars could never be won. Despite the many handicaps resulting from war, the American farmer has redoubled his efforts to increase production.

Age is no handicap to many a wartime job. And thousands of mothers and grandmothers—in the factory, in the office and on the farm—are doing their part to insure complete victory.

The skill and ingenuity of American working men is a decisive factor in hastening an inevitable victory. The loud roar of our industry is now reaching its crescendo.

The housewife has an important job—and she is getting it done. Through volunteer work with civilian defense, Red Cross or community projects, she is contributing directly to the war effort.

Many youngsters with little or no previous training are stepping into jobs on farms and in factories. They are doing a man's work and are shouldering responsibilities beyond their years.

★ What You Buy With WAR BONDS ★
Services

On Sunday morning as you sit in church and see the vacant places in the choir and wonder where the war has taken the young people from your community you may feel certain that they are attending divine services if circumstance permits.

Chaplains and choral leaders are found on the larger ships and even abroad in the Army centers.

Millions of hymnals have been distributed to the men and women of all services and you may rest assured that a portion of the savings you are placing into War Bonds is used for their spiritual welfare.

Booby Trap Detector

In the snow, in the sand, on the beaches, on the roads, in the woods, everywhere the Axis soldiers hide "booby traps," to slow the movement of oncoming fighting men of the United Nations. The detector does the same work on land as the mine sweeper does at sea.

Like buying War Bonds, the soldier operating the detectors will never know just how much they have aided in the success of their campaign, but he knows his work is necessary and must be accomplished. If more Americans on the home front will come to realize this, the success of our War Bond campaigns will be assured.

Dear Friend:

As I sat here in the galley tonight, I got rather homesick. Haven't received any mail in the past five months and it's pretty hard to take, being over seas isn't too pleasant. I have not received your paper either in the past five months. So I am pretty far behind in the home town news.

I have made several collections I want to give you when I get home. Think that you will be interested in them. I get lots of pleasure in gathering things for this collection. It is pretty hard for me to write an interesting letter for the censor just loves to carve the heck out of your letters.

I imagine you are having lots of nice weather back home now. I think it must be about melon season now for the farmers. I wont be able to hook a melon this year, (Ha! Ha!)

Well, think I will close for the time being, hope that all is well in St. Joe and Spencerville.

Yours very truly,

Pvt. C. R. Burns 35334327 % A. T. S., A. P. O. 729, Seattle Washington.

OPEN LETTER TO ROSCOE MOORE

Dear "Rusty:" As you asked if we were busy; you ought to be here. Just the same as usual, you old (son of a gun.) I see your name on the belt at the pump at the factory; probably cost me ½ hour wages while you were doing it. Ha! Ha! I will give this to Fred because I hear you take our home town paper.

Hey! "Rusty," I bet a nickel this is the first time you got a letter that every one will read, but keep it under your hat, don't tell ony one. Don't that sound like old Art?

Burl R. was home last week, we had quite a chat. He has headed back, (we don't know where, see?) but he said "hello to all" of my boys. You know any of you boys that ever worked for me, I call you mine, and, as you know already, I will do anything to help you if I think it is right.

Well, be good, old boy, and don't forget we, and (I mean everyone around here) think you O. K. Keep 'em rolling, we will try to take care of the home front.

Oh, yes! I hear from quite a few of my boys, but I will tell you when I see you.

Remember, old boy: management lays out the job; labor carrys it out, (you know what I mean.) Never take the side path, come down the middle of the road.

Bye, old top, Art.

LOCAL BERK BREEDER TO EXHIBIT AT SHOW

C. E. Perkins, local Berkshire breeder, is exhibiting 5 head at the East Central National Berkshire Show and Sale being held this week-end at the Indiana State Fair Grounds at Indianapolis. Mr. Perkins is the only local breeder participating in this national event.

Competition at this show is expected to be exceptionally keen. 27 exhibitors from five states will compete for more than $1,500 in premium monies, which is substantially more than has been offered on a breed of hogs at the State Fair in recent years.

The show is limited to stock under a year of age. Competition is divided into four age classes, Fall, Winter, March and late Spring farrow. $25 first prevail in each of these age classes for both boars and guts, with a $40 first premium in the get of sire class, and a $30 in the produce of sow, the only two group classes.

This show, which is sponsored by the national Berkshire breeders association in co-operation with the state group, opens Friday noon, Sept. 10th with the classification of all entries into standardized grades in accordance with the system of measuring breeding values as set up by the American Berkshire Assosiation a year ago. Only animals receiving the highest rating at the hands of the judges will be eligible for the show on Saturday morning at 9 A. M., Sept. 11th, at which time individual awards will be made in each class and champions of the show will be awarded.

In keeping with the spirit of the war effort, all stock exhibited will be offered at public auction on Saturday afternoon, the 11th. Every winner, including the champions, will sell; thus providing a rate opportunity for the farmers of Indiana and men wishing to purchase Berkshire breeding stock to make selections from a really large offering of the finest the breed has to offer. More than 140 head of boars, bred Fall yearlings, and open gilts have entered in the show, and will sell.

Judges of the show are Prof. J. S. Coffey, of Ohio State University, and Ivan T. Snowden, of Mattoon, Illinois.

Mr. Perkins will leave for the show next Thursday evening. He wants to point out that a cordial invitation is extended to all swine breeders in this territory to attend, as is it the largest swine show in the state this year.

Discontinues Hose Collection

Collection of used silk and nylon stockings under the wartime salvage plan will be discontinued Setember 30, the War Production Board has announced. Paul C. Cabot, director of WPB's salvage division said the public response to the stocking salvage appeal has been "amazing." More than 46,000,000 pairs of used stockings were collected up to August 31st.

This light-and shadow pose of Virginia Speaker goes completely haywire when the singer swings into action. Virginia's lively renditions are a high spot of the National Barn Dance, (WLW, Saturdays, 9 p. m., EWT), and a high spot, too, at camps and canteens where she spends most of her spare time singing for soldiers.

A Substitute for Hell

Somewhere in New Guinea these wounded soldiers await evacuation. Flat on their backs, in the steaming heat of the jungle, where mosquitoes plague the air and ants and mosquitoes torment weary bodies, they dream of home . . . of clean white sheets and the touch of cool, comforting hands. You can help provide modern hospitals and the medicines they need for their recuperation by putting every dollar you can into War Bonds during the Third War Loan. U. S. Treasury Department

LOCAL TEACHERS TO REPRESENT COUNTY

The teachers at their annual institute in Auburn Thursday selected Roy Maxwell, of St. Joe, to represent DeKalb County on the executive committee of the Northeastern Indiana Teachers Association, while Darrell Murphy of Spencerville, and Willis Reinoehl, of Fairfield Township, were chosen for the committee on nominations.

Three vacancies alse were reported filled in the teaching staff at this meeting. Mrs. Fred Zeigler, of Auburn, will teach in the Junior High, and Mrs. Alice Kagey, of St. Joe, in the grade schools at Spencerville.

DELINQUENT PARENTS TO BE SENTENCED TO JAIL

Parents will be sent to prison if their children are brought into Marion County juvenile court of delinquency and it is shown there has been parental neglect, Judge Mark W. Rhoads of Juvenile Court declared Saturday.

As an example of what he said was in store for "delinquent parents," he sentenced a mother to 180 days in the Indiana Women's Prison, a father to 180 days at the Indiana State Farm, assessed a fine of $500 and costs against each, and disfranchised both for three to five years.

The two, unmarried, but living as man and wife, were found guilty of child neglect.

Judge Rhoads said they are the parents of three children—an eight-month-old boy an 18-months-old girl, and a three-year-old boy. The children were made wards of the Marion County Department of public welfare.

"The increase in the number of cases in which flagrant neglect of children by their parents is shown has become unusually great," Judge Rhoads said. "In the future when it becomes necessary for the court to award custody of children to the welfare department, it will be the policy of the court to commit negligent parents to prison."

Judge Rhoads declared that a customary slump in juvenile delinquency during the Summer months has not materialized this year.

"I believe this is due to the cussedness, neglect and immorality of parents, and I am going to do something about it," he asserted. "There is no reason why a lot of neglectful parents should not be in prison."

The Independent Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the St. Joe Church of Christ will meet at the home of Mrs. Olen Waltz, Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

The Third War Loan is your loan.

The securities on sale fit your purse. Check the one which is applicable to you and buy it to the point of personal temporary sacrifice. Always keep in mind your sacrifice is only temporary because you do not give your money away when you "buy" War Bonds; you lend your money at interest. Your money is not even frozen. In the event of an emergency—and the record shows that Americans are not redeeming their Bonds except in the event of true emergencies—your Bonds are redeemable.

The United States Government has never in its history repudiated a Government Bond. As further evidence of the strength of this country to guarantee repayment of your money, United States potential wealth amounts to $33,000 per capita. Even with the heavy current war expenses, our national debt is only $1100 per capita.

Only a country like ours could make such a deal with its citizens: repay you with interest for a loan of your money to protect you and your family against enemies which would murder, rob, or enslave you.

The number one "buy" for you is the familiar Series E War Bond. Twenty-seven million American workers are buying Series E Bonds at the rate of $420,000,000 a month. Your Third War Loan duty is to buy at least one extra $100 Series E Bond above your regular buying. Buy more if you can.

Keep these facts in mind about the Series E Bonds:

They come in $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 denominations. They sell for 75 per cent of their maturity value. They pay you $4 for every $3 invested if held until maturity, which is 10 years from issuing date. You may redeem them at any time 60 days after issue without notice at stated redemption values. Every Bond carries this redemption table.

WORLD'S BIGGEST CIRCUS TO PLAY IN THIS VICINITY

Ringling — Barnum & Bailey Performance Enjoys Nation's Praise

With its star-studded and exciting performance enlarged and presented in three rings and on two stages under the world's largest big top, again a six-pole spread, the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus will exhibit in Fort Wayne, Wednesday, Sept. 15, bringing to that city 1,600 people, 50 elephants, hundreds of rare wild animals and blue-blooded horses, and Mr. and Mrs. Gargantua the Great, world renowned gorilla couple.

Vast and colorful spectacles, staged by John Murray Anderson, New York theatre genius; Lalage, internationally famed girl aerial star, Torrence and Victoria, mid-air sensationalists; the great Alfred Court's 1943 displays of performing wild animals; the astounding Reynolds and Donegan Pyramid Skating Girls; The Lopez, Wolthing and Brannock troupes of aerial novelty gymnasts; the world renowned high wire Wallendas; Elly Ardelty, aerial star; the three Flying Concello troupes; the Oestermaier and Konyot equestrian troupes; the Naittos, Chinese wizards of the tight wire; the two Diego comedy bar troupes; the great Truzzi; the world famous Loyal-Repensky family of bareback riding stars...these are a few of the new and more outstanding featured performers among the 800 noted artists with The Greatest Show on Earth.

Performances will be given at 2:15 and 8:15 P. M., with doors open at 1 and 7.

STILL ADVERTISING

We have written before of the importance of advertising and its economic pattern on our lives. This has been the popular way of business men to contact the public and make it aware of their industry and manufacture. The bill for advertising in our nation's newspapers and magazines has been one to stagger. When war gave certain reductions in goods there was an idea that perhaps national advertising would be curtailed to a great extent. There is a change of wording generally that the readers in St. Joe have noticed. Besides being a means of instructing the buyer of merchandise the advertiser now becomes of great value in the defense effort through the pushing of bond selling, of recruiting more men and women for our armed forces. There are the public-spirited ads that deal with salvage drives and promoting them. Notice the ones written to instill added patriotism and appreciation by stressing the hardships and valor of our men over seas. And along with this type of advertising comes the selling of goods, keeping up the morale of the people by offering them what is at hand and asking them to submit with grace to reductions in merchandise. Manufacturers are keeping their names before the public when possible in order to keep their place in the business roster of post-war trade.

FROM THIS POINT

Some look at life from the point of money, figuring the expense angle and letting their neighbors worry about the moral and ethical branches. Society, as far as these people are concerned, means what they can make of it or lose by it. So if they will regard the cost of killing and add their strength to that of the humanitarians who view battle in the cost of lives, we might put a stop to war. When Julius Caesar went forth to conquer the wars were fought crudely and by the strength of man and the awkardness of his enemy. The experts tell us it cost 75 cents to kill his enemy. Time marched on and mechanized wars as the World War I made killing one soldier cost 21 thousand dollars. Today it costs 50 thousand dollers for each dead soldier and proving that war, to the man who deals in money alone, is too expensive to be pampered. Caesar could have owned the world on just what one of our battles costs us.

INTO THE HOUSE

Summer has almost ended and with it the family picnics that accompanied the season as part of the calendar's plan. In spite of rationing, thousands of American families picnicked and even if they changed their location from woods to home lots and porches there was still the healthy and whole some enjoyment. Picnics mean the open to us in St. Joe, and in that jaunt to woods or the steps to back yard picnic table, food tastes differently just being outside. The pleasure enjoyed by our ancestors still lives in us, an appreciation of nature and a pride in our ability to get along "roughing it." So until another time of family picnics we put away out baskets and thermos jugs and live in memory.

BACK TO SCHOOL

There goes into the education of our young people, time, effort, and money, and it comes from all of us. Students returning to the classrooms all over our country will not fail to take advantage of this opportunity if they look at education in the light of time, effort and money. We are engaged in war and our schools will notice a difference in enrollment, in reduced faculties, in limited running expenses. Schools will probably lay special stress on subjects of government dealing with civics, principally. Economy will be enlarged upon, the management in production, distribution and consumption of goods, social and political and home economics all important enough to every one of us. History should be practically a required subject and taught with the facts, not to build up our democracy thru anything but the truth, for it is the truth in history that will make all alive to the present and how to clear for the future.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

"Let us, for a moment, cast our glance backward to WORLD WAR NO. I—Let us compare those fearful days with the tragic hour of the present. Congress enacted a law which established a COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE. THE WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD, operating under functions which were specifically authorized under the law creating the Council of National Defense, did an excellent job. THE FOOD ADMINISTRATION, the Fuel Administration, the Shipping Board, the War Trade Board and the Railroad Administration WERE ALL SET UP BY AN ACT OF CONGRESS—and, CONGRESS, was still the law of the land, as specifically outlined by our Constitution.

"But, in this war, WORLD WAR II, there has been a great change in the procedure,—and executive agencies have been created rapidly by EXECUTIVE ORDER and NOT by ACT OF CONGRESS— to the result that confusion has reigned. At this moment I cannot recall all of these agencies, which, I feel sure started with the OEM. There have followed the MPB, the OPM, the OPAGES, the OWI, the OPA, the ODT, the OPAGS, the SPAB, the WLB, and many others. Duties have overlapped; conflicting statements are issued; 'Heads' have resigned, been fired and replaced. All of which presents a picture of BUREAUCRACY in ACTION WHILE CONGRESS SITS ON THE SIDELINES.

The WLB, created by executive order, has virtually taken over the functions of the Labor Department created by an Act of Congress. A personal appointee of the president has taken over food control while the Department of Agriculture created by Congressional action, sits idly by twiddling its thumbs. The Board of Economic Warfare, created by an executive order, invaded the field of the state department created by Congress to the extent that the state department vigorously protested that it and not the BEW formulated and conducted foreign policies.

THEY DID NOT TALK

Civilians have been thoroughly aware of the importance of not aiding the enemy through the system of talking too much and passing information on mere hearsay or by acting important and "in the know" and thus confiding secrets to the indiscrete. But there have been few instances where the confidences placed in the press have been violated and newspaper men revealed important facts indiscriminately and heedlessly of cost. The correspondents abroad have been taken into the confidence of officers and trusted with news, withholding vital information that might boom sales for their sheet but putting the welfare of their country before the salary check from their boss. In the recent invasion we find the trust placed in them by General Eisenhower, who met them in a press conference the middle of June and informed them that overseas operations would be undertaken within the month. He also said the attack was to be aimed at Sicily. This took the men by surprise although they had been used to strict confidences of the military authorities. This was an event that would make history with the approximate time and exact place given. They carried this news around for almost a month, wondering each day when the blow would strike, how it would be met. General Eisenhower had trusted them, his manner suggested he expected them to obey his order to keep silent as he would expect one of his men in uniform to obey his command.

3RD WAR LOAN DRIVE —FOR INVASION

● Put a circle around the date—Thursday, September 9th. For that's the day the 3rd War Loan Drive starts.

On that day, you will be asked to go the limit to back our valiant fighting men. You will be asked to do your share in the greatest invasion the world has ever seen. Answer your country's roll call!

Your part is to back this invasion by investing in at least one EXTRA $100 War Bond in September. That's in addition to your regular War Bond purchases. Invest more than $100—a lot more—if you possibly can.

The job is big. Everyone must do his full share if we are to put this drive over the top.

War Bonds are the safest investment in the world. For your own sake, for your Country's sake, put every spare dime and dollar in War Bonds during the 3rd War Loan Drive.

This general is well liked and no wonder he is respected. He gave the newsmen the information to be sped to their public but they must keep their stories until he gave the command to fire. His trust in the press was not violated by one man of the one hundred who listened to his voice that June day.

ZENOBIA

Running Time: 80 minutes
Director: Gordon Douglas
Musical Score: Marvin Hatley

Cast: Oliver Hardy, Harry Langdon, Billie Burke, Alice Brady, James Ellison, Jean Parker, June Lang, Olin Howland, J. Farrell MacDonald, Stepin' Fetchit, Hattie McDaniels, Phillip Hurlic, Hobart Cavanaugh, Tommy Mack, "Miss Zenobia" herself

With a cast studded with stars and a story filled with action and humor, Hal Roach's ZENOBIA is a merry comedy romance of the old South.

The story, picturized from the well-known short story, ZENOBIA'S INFIDELITY by H. C. Brenner, relates the unexpected turn of events in the Tibbitt family when Dr. Tibbitt, played by Oliver Hardy, administers first-aid to a sentimental elephant, Zenobia. The elephant is grateful to her benefactor, in fact is so grateful she causes the collapse of his social standing. More than that, her unbecoming behavior ends in a court scandal.

The story ZENOBIA unfolds in Carterville, Mississippi in the year 1870. Oliver Hardy plays the role of Dr. Tibbitt, a genial, easy-going medico, who has two great loves in his life —his daughter and the Declaration of Independence. His life, however, becomes deeply involved with intrigue and publicity, when the town's society arbiters learn that the doctor has treated an elephant, Zenobia, who is ballyhooing a medicine show. Further complications follow when Zenobia, to show her gratitude, breaks her chains and hunts out Dr. Tibbitt at his home.

ZENOBIA is a United Artists release.

Frank Conner, of Auburn, was ordered to close his gasoline filling station at the corner of Main and Fifth Streets for a period of fifteen days at an OPA hearing held at South Bend Wednesday. The station is known as the Conner Standard Service. Mr. Conner was accused of transferring gasoline with improper coupons, of issuing gasoline without obtaining coupons and of an unexplained 1,015-gallon shortage. The closing period was made from Sept. 10-25.

Sales aggregating at least $12,000 were made by the county commissioners Tuesday at the auction of county-owned real estate at the court house in Auburn. The number of tracts bid in was at least 70 of a total of 236 offered and the county officials were well pleased with the results. Competition developed on a large number of tracts. Sales may be made at the appraised value after the auction and a number were recorded as soon as buyers could be waited upon.

Two changes were made in the pastorates of United Brethren churches in DeKalb County at the close of annual conference at Oakwood Park, Lake Wawasee, on Sunday. Rev. M. E. Reed, of Gary, was assigned to Waterloo church taking the place of Rev. A. W. York who will be the minister at Peru. Rev. C. H. Dobbins, pastor of the Nine Mile U. B. Church in Allen County was assigned to the Butler Church and the Rev. Alonzo Nicodemus, who has been pastor at Butler, will go to the Nine Mile church.

Because of taking Monday as a holiday The News this week will be short on everything, especially news.

Mr. and Mrs. Olen Waltz had as guests last week Mrs. Ralph Zimmerman and daughter, Joan, of Bluffton.

A daughter, Rita Rose, was born on Wednesday, Sept. 1st, to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reinhart at the Souders Hospital in Auburn.

The Wittenberg Brotherhood will be held at Hamilton Methodist Church Wednesday, September 8. Dinner at 7 o'clock. The speaker will be Dr. E. T. Franklin, Supv. Methodist Hospital, Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Shull and daughter, Sharlee, of Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Borthwick, of Auburn, and Mr and Mrs. H. Russell Borthwick recently of Philadelphia, Pa., were Wednesday evening dinner guests in the home of Mr and Mrs. H. C. Borthwick.

Another Labor Day is past and another school term has started. Many of the pupils were pleased while others were downhearted that they were to resume studies again. Those who were younger wished they were older, so that their school years would be shortened, and those out of school, wished they could retrace their years and become teen age individuals again. Ah, that is the way with us "humings" our lot in life is the heavier to bear.

Congressman Robert A. Grant should be complimented for his insistence that the Kingsford Heights housing mess be investigated. It is now costing you, Mr. Taxpayer, nearly $100,000 a year to maintain this city which was built to house 3,000 families—but which has less than 300 now living in it. And the sad part of the story is that the construction work is still continuing. A theatre, stores, and other down town buildings have yet to be completed. Mr. Grant is seeking to have a congressional investigation made of the whole layout.

SCHOOL FOR MECHANICS

The attendance at the School for Automotive Maintenance students meeting held at the Auburn High School on August 12 was so satisfactory, that it was decided to hold the first class on Sept. 20 at the high school. This meeting will determine the number of classes to be conducted, based on the maximum of fifteen to each class, the days of each week for the meetings, and the number of hours to each class.

There is no cost to the student.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morr and sons, Larry and Dicky, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morr, of Concord, spent last Sunday in Fort Wayne, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Doswell and family.

The LIONS CLUB

L. W. Yeiser, Publicity

The Lions and their guests, numbering forty-three men in all, met in the Lutheran church basement, Monday evening to partake of a fine meal, served by a section of the Ladies Aid Society. The meeting proved to be one of the most enjoyable and enlightening held in the history of the local club.

The program opened with singing "The Star Spangled Banner," followed with prayer by Rev. Erby Messimer. Roll call was held and the guests were introduced. Lion Clyde Rectenwall, head of the Educational committee, recounted the services rendered by the organization to community and nation.

The next meeting will be for the public and to be held at the Spencerville School Gym, was announced by Pres. Leighty and he invited Honorary Member Clyde Willis, of Waterloo, to tell of the speaker for the occasion. The Lions will be accompanied by their ladies to a six o'clock dinner preceding the public meeting.

Mr. Willis paid high compliment to the qualifications of Ed Payne, ex-district governor and past president of the Lions International and promised a treat to this section when he speaks at the Spencerville meeting.

DR. J. RAYMOND SCHUTZ

Prof. J. Raymond Schutz, formerly of Manchester College, and now president of the Indiana Standard Life Insurance Company was introduced by Pres. Leighty. Prof. Schutz, who has been heard by most of us on numerous occasions, and who has held many positions of honor and service, is always interesting and he proved exceptionally so on this occasion, when he spoken on "What After the War."

Prof. Schutz made five trips thru Europe between the two wars and in view of the information he was able to accumulate he feels the conflict will terminate sooner than many surmise, even predicting that if the home front does its full duty the Germany end might come before the new year arrives. The dictator must be eliminated before peace can come and Germany must be occupied so she cannot come back every generation and set the world on fire and to accomplish this there will necessarily be a prolonged occupation of Hitler's country.

We failed before in post-war planning and we will have to avoid that mistake this time.

While many of the speaker's predictions, were mere conjectures, as he admitted, but of some things he was sure and one of these was that "We Will Win the War." We are winning and the credit is due our fighting boys, who are doing a wonderful job.

When it comes to the home front Mr. Schutz handled the subject with "gloves off." He said we are losing the war at home, both morally and spiritually. Delinquency and crime are 300 per cent worse than in pre-war days. The moral situation in our cities and towns is worse than it was in Paris when the world considered it the most wicked city.

We must also whip inflation if our economic system is not to collapse. It makes our soldier boys fighting mad when they come back and find the price of meals three or four times what they previously had to pay. On their salary of $51 a month the soldier boy could not eat many meals a month. The boys are giving four or five years out of their lives and they are getting bitter at the way we at home are doing things. Maybe they had better come home and clean out the traitors.

If we are going to maintain our ideals after the war new emphasis must be put on spiritual values. Churches are losing instead of losing.

What is going to happen economicaliy cannot be foretold. It takes 10,000 employees to operate the state of Indiana and at the same time there are 35,000 Hoosiers on the federal pay roll.

While many are alarmed about what Russia will insist upon at the end of the war, we must give them credit for saving us and the world from Hitlerism. Stalin's country has changed greatly in that now they have freedom of religion and a modified form of capitalism. The speaker trusts Stalin more than you do, but wishes he could trust him more. The Russians have lost between 36 and 37 million people in battles and in German occupied parts of their country.

Our present prosperity is false and for this the credit goes to Hitler. Our government will redeem its obligations, but unless inflation is headed off, these obligations will be met with a depreciated dollar. Mr. Schutz paid 9,000,000 marks for a breakfast in Germany following the other war and then came the blow-up, when German money had no value. Should the war continue several years and inflation continue to mount a like situation might follow here.

The demand for goods will be great and industry and farming should prosper with proper planning and management. He hit the black markets hard and said that many diseased animals have gone that route to the tables of the consumers.

The several communities should plan to care for the boys when they come home and not look to the federal government to do the ministering.

If we fail in our spiritual and economic obligations we may well have a dictatorship here. We must make America for Americans.

We have the pessimist and the optimist, but between these two is the realist and on him we must depend to save our democracy and the world.

The gathering adjourned after singing "Our Victory Prayer," whose author is Fred W. Knott, of Auburn.

Thanks to the ladies for the well prepared and well served food.

NEW ASSESSOR FOR COUNTY IS NAMED

The new DeKalb County assessor is Elmer O. Likens, of Auburn. He received the appointment Wednesday from the county commissioners.

Mr. Likens succeeds the late Charles E. Miser, of Waterloo, who died recently. He reports coincidences in the facts that Mr. Miser was just one day his elder and that Mr. Miser was first elected county assessor on the same day that Mr. Likens was chosen for Union Township assessor and both were re-elected four times thereafter.

Mr. Likens served as deputy township assessor for three years before his election as township assessor. He had no opposition for township assessor at two of the five elections in which he was the winner.

Mr. Miser's fifth term, to which Mr. Likens succeeds, runs from Jan. 1, 1944, to December 31, 1946. The commissioners will choose a new township assessor later. The township assessors have no duties to perform until next March. In addition to his duties as supervisor of township assessors, the county assessor appraises estates for inheritance tax.

The commissioners have decided to move the county assessor's office from the office of the license bureau on the first floor of the court house to the room between he offices of the auditor and treasurer on the second floor. It is planned to cut a door to connect the new office with the lobby. No date was set for making the change.

—LOCAL SCHOOL NOTES—

The school enrollment for the St. Joe School this year is as follows:

Senior, 16; Junior, 25; Sophomore, 25; Freshman, 26; Eighth, 15; Seventh, 12; Sixth, 15; Fifth, 22; Fourth, 24; Third, 13; Second, 16; First, 19; Total, 228.

Tuesday morning of each week is designated as Stamp and Bond morning at the Concord Township School. Parents are asked to encourage their boys and girls to buy stamps regularly through the school.

Home Economics

There are now fifteen enrolled in the Home Economics Class. The first semester we will study Home Life. The second semester we study clothing for the high school girl. During the past week we have been discussing the factors of family living in the home and what we should do to help have a successful home.

Grades 5 and 6

Our room started out this year with thirty-seven pupils, fifteen in the sixth grade and twenty-two in the fifth. The new faces are Burtis Dickman, Nila Hanes, and DuWayne Richmond.

Grades 3 and 4

Of the pupils who aided the war effort by the purchase of War Savins Stamps and Bonds last year, the following carried on during the Summer vacation: Sally Draggoo, Carol Billow, Mary Wyne, Barbara Jo Oberlin, Delores Baker, Lois Anne Wyne. Carlton Curie, Joan Curie, Norma Hartranft, Ruth Trenary, Howard McMaken, Joann Larowe, Anita McMaken, and Connie Stewart.

Of this list, the first six were consistent weekly purchasers during the entire Summer.

Also, bonds were bought by each of the following: Billy Coburn, Joan Curie, Opal Trenary, Gwynn Wade, Dawn Keesler, Jo Anne Bowser, and Carlton Curie.

SPENCER. SCHOOL NOTES

Books are now all in and school is progressing at a normal rate.

Enrollment at 191

MORTUARY

FUSSELMAN

Ora Fusselman, 70, brother of Mrs. Ruby Krabill, died Saturday at 5:30 in Detroit, after a short illness, and where he had lived for the past 38 years. He was brought to Orangeville by Richard Rupp, where a short service was held Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Erby Messimer, at the Rupp home, and burial was made in White City Cemetery at Spencerville. He was a dealer in horses for years, supplying the needs of the federal government. He was raised about the Newville community.

CONINE

Margaret A. Conine, aged 68, wife of Roscoe H. Conine, died Saturday morning of last week at the family home in Hicksville following an extended illness of a complication of diseases. She had suffered a paralytic stroke in February, 1942.

Mrs. Conine was born October 12, 1874, at St. Joe, Indiana, and was a daughter of James W. and Emma Coburn Hart. She grew to womanhood in the vicinity of her birth, and on December 25, 1894, she was united in marriage with Roscoe H. Conine. They went to housekeeping near Hicksville and had lived in Hicksville for the past thirteen years. Mrs. Conine was a member of the Methodist Church and took an active part in the various organizations of the church as long as health permitted.

Surviving her are the husband; a daughter, Mrs. Gladys Brinck, of Hicksville; a son, Ensor Conine, of Fort Wayne; three grandchildren; 4 brothers, Frank Hart, of California, Charles Hart, of Los Angeles, Calif., John C. Hart, of Fort Wayne, and Jay J. Hart, of St. Joe.

A sister, Mrs. Effie Schoolmaster, preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 Monday in the Perkins & Reeb Funeral Home. Rev. Walter H. Heitz, of the Methodist Church officiated, assisted by Rev. J. D. Blake, pastor of the Gospel Tabernacle. Burial was made in the Scipio Cemetery.

The advisory committee of the Lions clubs for this zone, comprising the clubs of Waterloo, Auburn, Garrett, Avilla, and St. Joe, will meet at Avilla Thursday evening. This is the regular meeting for the Avilla club.

Millions of Volunteers Settle Down to Hard Grind for 3rd War Loan

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15—With the first burst of enthusiasm spent, the "third" army of more than 4,500,000 volunteers settled down today for a steady siege and a day-by-day advance to reach its quota of fifteen billion dollars in the Third War Loan Drive.

Reports from all sections of the nation in the first week of the drive indicated that the battle to "Back the Attack with War Bonds" is progressing "according to plan," but that every possible effort must be exhausted if the goal of at least an extra $100 War Bond for every income earner is to be reached.

First meager reports indicate that in some cities and in some sectors on this important battle front the immediate objective has been obtained and the quota met. In other sections a long hard pull will be necessary in the house-to-house and bench-to-bench canvass which has been undertaken in order to reach every man, woman and child in the United States.

This Third War Loan Drive is a challenge to the American people without parallel in history, for they are being asked to "lend" the largest sum of money ever raised in the life of any nation. It is a challenge to their will to sacrifice to "back the attack" of their husbands, sons, brothers and fathers who are sacrificing everything, even life, so that the people back home may continue to enjoy the freedom and liberty of the American way of life.

Reports from many of the urban sections of the nation indicate that workers are answering the challenge to send their dollars to war to "back the attack." "Fur coat" money, "automobile money," "new appliance money," "new home money"—is going into War Bonds for the duration, into the assembly lines for tanks and planes, to settle today's job and guarantee a victorious America of tomorrow when every War Bond dollar will pay $4 for $3.

"Labor-management committees are working hand in hand; returned war heroes, film stars, bankers, housewives, professional men, workers, clerks and salesmen—men and women in every walk of life are demonstrating that War Bonds bring unity to American life and that the nation is bonded in a common purpose in this great financing task," Ted R. Gamble, national director of the War Finance Division of the Treasury, said here today.

"The people of the nation are demonstrating that Americans on the home front can and will match the performance of the invading armies in 'backing the attack' when they are called upon to do a job," Mr. Gamble said.

"Never before in history have a people in civilian life been asked to do a job comparable to the task which must be done in this Third War Loan," Mr. Gamble observed, "but we have a sustaining faith in the ability of the American people to make every sacrifice, to meet every test with which they are faced, in the voluntary, democratic way so that our boys in the trenches and on the battle lines may have the tools with which to fight our common enemies."

The Treasury is puzzled over the scarcity of $10,000 bills. Folks in St. Joe have never worried much about them.

It looks to us in St. Joe, that the way folks are leaving Berlin, they must be having mighty hot weather for late Summer.

It appears that the fellow who claimed that "dictators are temporary," really had something there.

USING MILKWEED

Farmers are asked to pick the pods of milkweed and sell the harvest to the Government, who will send it to a plant where its floss becomes a substitute for a much-needed kapok. Little did we think a few years ago, that the fuzz and fluff of the lowly milkweed would be of value in our war program of today. It has found its place since kapok is not reaching us any longer from the Netherlands East Indies. A manufacturing plant in Petoskey, Michigan, has been under way for over a year working up the pods of milkweed effectively in life preservers and insulation and other ways. The milkweed is the only plant grown in our country which fibre is like kapok with its hollowness and air cells. The Government hopes for a harvest of one million pounds of milkweed floss this year and three times as much for next.

"What's A Cooking?"

(By Phil Lee)

The family fight which has broken out in the Democratic Party, between Senator Fredrick Van Nuys and Fred Bays, Democratic state chairman, is real despite all efforts of the Democrats to cover up. There is no doubt in the minds of close observers but that Governor Schricker has been given the "go sign" by the Democratic state committee. Naturally, Van Nuys does not like this; and he has not been backward in saying so.

It seems apparent that the Democrats wish to pick their strongest candidate, and in view of the fact that 1944 is a presidential year, and that Senator Van Nuys has shown antagonism to the national administration on virtually all matters not pertaining to the prosecution of the war, it is quite possible that he is not looked upon as the strongest candidate.

Whoever may be the Democratic choice, there are going to be some wounds after the convention is over. This will come at the time when the Republicans will oppose the Democratic candidate with a strong nominee. In Republican ranks, the impression is rapidly gaining ground that this candidate will be Homer E. Capehart, of Washington, Indiana.

Of course, this is not a settled matter by any means, and there are others who wish to aspire to the senate toga. But it is really admitted that at this time, Capehart's name stands far out above all others. One cause for this, it has been pointed out by astute observers, is that the overwhelming number of Indiana voters are crying out for a business man for a candidate. Mr. Capehart has been an outstanding and highly successful business man and his manufacturing plant has long been converted to manufacturing war materials.

Capehart's boom seemed to have gotten underway in a "spontaneous action" which has already swept to virtually all parts of Indiana. If he is not the candidate, there will be surprised wiseacres in Indiana—and someone will have to do a good job to smother Capehart.

Whether or not the smothering process, in face of Mr. Capehart's present position, can be made successful, is another matter. And regardless of what may happen later, Capehart has the stage to himself at this time.

NATURE CHANGES THINGS

The turning back and forth of national clocks, with time pieces tuned to working and waking hours, might have confounded us a number of times in different places. But nature has her way of managing the day and night of our work-a-day lives and as the sun moves from the north to the south, she reminds us by shadows the days are shorter and nights longer. Man can do nothing about it for nature is no clock watcher. We have heard from boys over-seas of their surprise in the decided fall of night in the tropical countries. They write of how they miss the twilight, the dusk, back home. This is perhaps one of the many things we have taken for granted, this spell of twilight. As it steals quietly across our path, as afternoon fades into soft dusk we think of it more in the light of hours than to the pleasing closing of each day. We do not think of it, but accept it placidly until someone, like our soldier, tells home of how he misess their twilight. We don't stop to consider the music of the season, the sounds that nature offers. The sunrise is lost because we sleep late. The chirp of morning bird calls when dew dazzles the grass and the sky lightens as day breaks, is lost because the clock has not pointed as yet to action. The change of time, of man's moving those hands an hour this or that way is not the tempo of living. It is nature's way of changing the clock that is appealing and impresses us, that is remembered by boys in fox holes of the Solomons, who hail from Kenosho, Terre Haute, Ann Arbor, St. Joe, and Spencerville.

ANOTHER SCOUT HEARD FROM

A returning soldier, a wounded Marine, tells his story of how he saved his outfit on Guadalcanal from what would have been disaster, if his presence of mind and early training had not equipped him for the situation. We have before this praised the training received by our Boy Scouts, of how they build character and teach many branches to our boys. This boy became a man and carried with him to a man's war his remembrance of signaling that he learned as a Boy Scout. His platoon became separated from another and no signal man was with this group and the Japs "were all over the place." He offered his knowledge and taking two bayonets and tying handkerchiefs on them for semaphore flags, he sent his message successfully. This former Boy Scout was decorated for extraordinary heroism with our Navy Cross. Again, The News salutes and thanks the Boy Scout organization.

GEORGE CAN'T DO IT

The illusion that government is Santa Claus, if not already dispelled, soon will be. The President is asking for more billions in taxes, and Senator George, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, has bluntly warned that "any large increase must fall on the middle-income brackets and down to $2,500 and $3,000. The truth is that our national income (now at 140 billions) some 91 billions goes to people in the lower brackets—people whose income is $3,000 or less."

Any public official who inspires the belief that the rich can be made to pay for the war is doing a disservice to his country. This war must be paid for by the whole people. If an attempt is made to grant tax favors to one group at the expense of another, the result can be none other than disastrous. The tax burden is growing so heavy that unless it is distributed equitably, individual opportunity and the incentive to produce will be destroyed. If that happens, a farce will have been made of democratic government — a farce that will collapse under the weight of its own injustice, taking with it the liberties of all of us. When new tax bills are drawn, the old adage of "Let George do it," won't work. George can't do it.

Holl Jackson, 77, of three miles north of St. Joe, is critically ill, as result of a stroke on Friday. He has not rallied since taking ill and his passing is expected at any moment by the wife and relatives.

The Auburn fire department was called at 9:30 Sunday morning to the farm home of Leonard McClellan, two and one-half miles southeast of Auburn. The roof of the residence had caught fire, apparently from sparks from the chimney. When the firemen arrived neighbors were fighting the blaze with water from a garden hose. The firemen used water in the booster tank on the truck and soon had it under control. Part of the roof over the kitchen was burned as well as a portion on the other part of the house. Mr. McClellan recently purchased the farm, known as the Magginis homestead.

Jimmy's over there now, fighting our enemies to keep the Stars and Stripes flying.

"Before he left, he told me they are going to need more equipment, more ammunition and more food for INVASION of enemy lands.

" 'The more bonds the folks at home buy —the more they'll be helping us fighters to win.' That's what Jimmy said."

* * * *

The 3rd War Loan of 15 billion dollars must produce the money to pay for these essentials to victory.

Buy at least one EXTRA $100 Bond besides your regular bond purchases—many will have to invest thousands!

Don't think that what you do isn't important. It will take all every individual in America can raise to put this 3rd War Loan over the top. So buy more bonds out of your pay—out of extra income—out of "rainy-day" funds!

The quicker you do that the more you'll help Jimmy and our other boys smash through to Victory.

What do you say? It's the safest, soundest investment you'll ever make!

Let's go!

TAX LEVY IN COUNTY FIXED AT 39 CENTS

The DeKalb County Council in annual session at the court house in Auburn Wednesday set a tax levy of 39 cents on the $100 valuation for the year 1944.

This compares with 33 cents for 1943. However, it was necessary to provide for the expense of the general election next year, the appropriation being $9,000; and the balance on hand in the general fund is lower than formerly.

The levy for the county fund is 30 cents, as against 33 cents in the advertised budget. This reduction was reached by cutting the appropriatons $4,575 from the amount advertised. The amount of appropriations approved is $110,181. Numerous small reductions were made in items proposed by the county departments. The welfare levy remains at 9 cents as advertised. The 1943 rate was 13 cents.

Conspicuous among the appropriations made are the following: fox bounties, $200; Irene Byron Sanatorium, $6,000; expenses of inmates at state institutions, $1,800; ditch repair, $1,800; and the county council of civilian defense, $1,250.

The council adopted a resolution to turn over the common school, congressional and permanent endowment funds to the state auditor. About $40,000 is now on hand and will probably be sent to Indianapolis soon. There is still about $100,000 outstanding in real estate loans and when these are paid by the borrowers the money will be remitted to the state. No further loans will be made.

The council appointed Jesse B. Garns, of Auburn, to represent it on the county tax adjustment board and reappointed Ira Williams, of west of Auburn, to the county alcoholic beverage board for a year beginning next January 1.

Auburn schools report an enrollment of 1020.

Mrs. Nettie Baker, of Fort Wayne and Mrs. Maude Bishop of Auburn, are guests this week of Mrs. Edith Cole.

A Columbia City merchant described his business recently as "one of those places called an out-house'." "I used to manage a pretty good store," he said. "My daughter called it an establishment. An advertising man once wrote it up as an 'emporium.' Then came the war, then 1943. Now, I look at the empty shelves; tell people over and over, we haven't got this, we're out of that. I guess I'm just running one of those places called an "outhouse'."

Frank Meese is credited as being one among St. Joe's successful Victory gardeners this year. On just a small patch in his back yard he was able to raise 5 bushels of the finest of potatoes you ever saw, besides small vegetables for his Summer use. He gave The News a sample of the potatoes and we can vouch for the splendid quality of his crop and for the extreme size of the spuds. Our hats are off to Frank for his successful record this year.

Mrs. Ashton Staman, of Auburn, received a fractured leg from a fall at her home Tuesday evening and was taken to the Dr. Bonnell M. Souder Hospital. Mrs. Staman has been suffering with arthritis for some time and is crippled up badly.

A surprise carry-in dinner was enjoyed at 6 o'clock Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Squires. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cutter, son, John, and daughter, Linda Lou, Mrs. Lurah Squires, Miss Annabelle Squires, Mrs. Ella Squires, all of Auburn, Mr. Robert Campbell, of near Corunna, and Mrs. Ida Eberly.

July 27, 1943.

Dear Sis:

Think I owe you a letter so here goes. I suppose you wonder what I am doing now. We are building a new base camp out in a farmer's cow pasture. It is really a beautiful spot, situated on the banks of a stream about the size of Cedar Creek where it runs through Auburn.

This Island we are on is quite mountainous and is virtually a sportsman's paradise, because of the abundance of deer and other wild game. There are also numerous fishing streams coming out of the mountains. It is now Winter down here but still very warm, although it is quite damp and rainy. They say it is the dry season, but I can't see how it can rain much more. It must rain harder. In a couple of months it will be time for the hurricanes to start. I sure hope I don't get blown off the island although it is quite large.

The natives on the Island are black and their clothing on the interior is mostly sarongs, but out near the Coast they are taking up the European styles. There are all types of tropical fruits here, however it is the wrong time of year for them to be ripe. We did find a few oranges in the farmer's orchard that were edible. The bananas are about the size of your finger now, but I hope they will be ripe before we leave for some other place.

Tomorrow we take a hike with full equipment and rifles. The latest rumor is that it will be an 8 mile hike. I wish I could tell you where we are but for our own safety it is something that must be kept secret. We are fairly comfortable though, have big army tents for quarters. Seven men to a tent. Army cots for beds. Better chow than we had in the States. Also a radio that keeps us in contact with the world news. We have lots of recreational equipment also.

Well must close, Bye now,

Your brother,
Charles Washler.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club of St. Joe opened its 48th year Wednesday, Sept. 15, at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser.

A very delicious dinner of hot rolls, vegetable salad, sweet potato supreme, ice cream, cup cakes, and coffee was served.

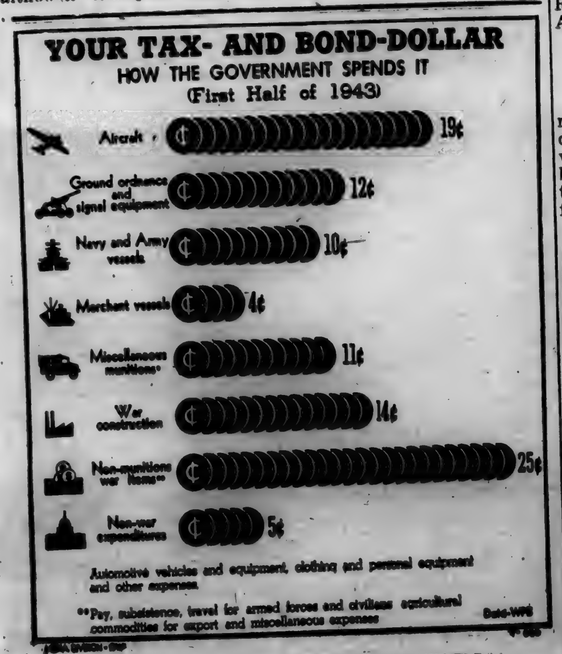
During the meal, a telegram came announcing the approaching marriage of Mrs. Inez Chapman to Mr. Alfred Bartholomew of Waterloo, Indiana, on September 16, 1943.

The meeting was planned by the club officers: Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser, President; Mrs. Allen Haller, Vice President; Mrs. Maurice Kline, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Carl Carpenter, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. C. C. Woodcox, Treasurer; Mrs. Fred B. Leighty, Critic; Mrs. Charles O. Krise, Parliamentarian.

The next meeting will be held on Sept 29 at the home of Mrs. Carl Carpenter. Mrs. Frank Curie and Mrs. Charles O. Krise will have the lesson.

Returns to California

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gee, of Dayton, O., were in town last week, calling on his mother at Butler and relatives here. They were on their way to California, where they have hopes of finding relief for Howard's affliction. They came to Indiana over a year ago and then took work at Dayton.



CHAPMAN-BARTHOLEMEW NEPTUALS

The marriage of Mrs. Inez Chapman, St. Joe, to Alfred Bartholomew, was solemnizer at home of the groom on West Union Street, Waterloo, Thursday, Sept. 16, at 4 P. M., in the presence of a few relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, Rev. J. N. Scholes, of St. Joe. The bride and groom were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Leighty. Preceding the ermony Mrs. Leighty gave a short musicale.

The home was beautifully decorated with hugh baskets of Fall flowers. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Karl Scattergood of Waterloo, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bartholomew of Laporte, Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Scholes, St. Joe, Don Blair, of Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Akins, Lela Northrup, Roy Koch and Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Lighty, of St. Joe.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom with their friends were entertained at 5 o'clock to a three-coure dinner at the Fee Cafe. Immediately after the dinner the couple left for Pokagon State Park, Angola, where they remained until Monday afternoon, when they returned to their Waterloo home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew have the very best wishes of a large circle of friends, and they will be in readiness to receive their friends after September 26th.

DIES IN COLORADO

Mr. W. A. Price, 85, of Colorado, brother of Dr. C. R. Price, died last week according to word received here Saturday by Mrs. Inez Hadsell. No relatives from here attended the funeral.

GAS Rationing----

Has caused us to discontinue our Indiana route indefinitely with this week. We hope to continue after the DURATION.

SUPERIOR CLEANERS

HICKSVILLE, OHIO

GAS RATIONING STOPS CLEANER TRUCK

Superior Dry Cleaners, of Hicksville, are compelled to withdraw their services from this community because of gas rationing, and this takes the last cleaners truck from this section. Mr. Roan reports that his Indiana route was the best patronized of any of the week's routes and he deplores the fact that he is compelled to discontinue after so long a time in getting the people acquainted with his service. He has made personal requests from his board for gas for this route but has been refused. It is hard for a little business to take it, when we see so many abuses in other channels.

50th. ANNIVERSARY IS CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hart observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home on West High Street, Hicksville, O., with a dinner for their immediate family, and open house and reception from 2 to 5 P. M. Mr. and Mrs. Hart were married Sept. 20, 1893, and lived at St. Joe, Ind., for five years. In 1898 they moved to Hicksville, where they have since resided. They have one son, Laurence E. Hart, and one grandson, Cpl. Joe A. Hart.

New Baby In the Mock Home

A baby daughter was born last Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Mock, who reside on the former Geo. Culbertson farm west of town. The infant was named Carolin May and weighed 7¼ pounds. Mrs. Oral Hughes is assisting in the care and doing the house work for Mrs. Mock.

MORTUARY

PASSON

Miss Maud Pearl Passon, 47, died at 3:30 A. M. Thursday at her residence in St. Joe. She was a member of the Hollywood Missionary Church, Ft. Wayne.

Surviving are the mother, Mrs. Minnie Passon, of St. Joe; three sisters, Miss Ora, Miss Anna Passon, and Mrs. Dorothy Templar, all of Fort Wayne, and two brothers, Fred, of White Pigeon, Mich., and Louis, of Fort Wayne.

The body was taken to Klaehn & Sons' Funeral Home. Funeral services were held at 1 P. M. Saturday at the funeral home, the Rev. Von Chesterman officiating. Burial in the Huntertown Cemetery.

Mrs. Passon and her daughter resided in the former Chas. Koch property, coming here from Butler Center community.

Mrs. Alice Reidenbach, Mrs. Marvella Dilley, Mrs. Delora Curie and Mrs. Loretta Hull attended the funeral Saturday afternoon.

JACKSON

Hollis J. Jackson, the son of Andrew and Minerva Jackson was born in Concord Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, September 27, 1866, and departed this life at his home, September 16, 1943 at the age of 76 years, 11 months, and 19 days. He was united in marriage to Pearl Brown, Sept. 7, 1890. Their married life lasted fifty three years.

He leaves to hold him in grateful memory his widow, and one brother, Bert Jackson, of St. Joe, Indiana; also other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held at the Kinsey Funeral Home Saturday afternoon, Sept. 18, 1943, at 2 o'clock, with Rev. L. B. Sharp, pastor of the Spencerville Methodist Church, officiating. Burial in Riverside Cemetery, St. Joe Indiana.

Card of Thanks

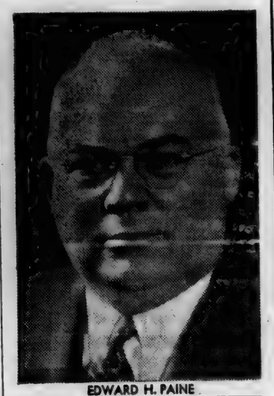
I wish to express my deep appreciation for the kindness shown me during the illness and death of my Husband, and for the floral tributes.

Mrs. Hollis Jackson.

LIONS TO DEDICATE SERVICE BOARDS

Plans have been completed for the dedication of the Service Boards erected at St. Joe and Spencerville, and the entire community is asked to respond and enjoy this public meeting which will be held on Monday evening, Sept. 27, at the Spencerville Gym.

Edward H. Paine, of Michigan City, Indiana, president of Lions International for 1942-1943, will be the speaker for this occasion.



EDWARD H. PAINE
MICHIGAN CITY, INDIANA
1942 PRESIDENT 1943
LIONS INTERNATIONAL

The program is in the making for this event, and will be free to everyone.

The members of the club and their wives will enjoy a 6 o'clock dinner in the Lutheran Church basement at St. Joe, where Lion Paine will address this group on matters of Lionism throughout the world. Every Lion is asked to plan on being present.

CONCORD TWP. SCHOOLS

Leo beat St. Joe in softball Friday evening, Sept. 17. The boys expect to beat Leo in the return game at Leo next Friday evening, Sept. 24.

Fifty-six dollars and forty-five cents was the total collected in stamps and bonds on Tuesday, Sept. 14 at the Concord Township School.

Home Economics III. Home eeconomics three had the enrollment of five and has increased to sixteen. They have been studying the advantages and disadvantages of happy family life. They are now writing autobiography of our own life. They are learning how to make family life more pleasant.

Mathematics: The seventh and eighth grade mathematics classes have been working this week on speed and accurary in subtraction. A contest was held on Friday to find who was the fastest and the most accurate subtracter in each group. The results were: Joan Trenary first and Audra Stewart second in the eighth grade; Leone Drake first and Jack Bowser second in the seventh grade.

Third and Fourth Grade: New pupils in the third and fourth grades are Nedra Jean Neher from Fort Wayne and Robert Richmond from Spencer Twp. We are glad to welcome these new pupils into our room.

We're beginning to get some of our new books now. Are we ever glad!

The Music Department of St. Joe Public School will furnish free instruction on school time to children from Grades Four to Twelve.

The following are instruments children may study in 5th and 6th grades:

Violin, Cello, Flute, B-flat Clarinet, Saxophone, Cornet, Trombone, Baritone, Mellophone, Tuba, Drums.

Those of Fourth Grade may purchase a tonette $1.35 and music or may study violin, flute, B-flat clarinet, saxophone, cornet, trombone, mellophone, or drums.

There are four school owned instruments, base drum, 2 snares, and horn not signed for as yet. Pupils interested please see the music director at once.

A student may receive one 30-minute lesson per week by handing in signed blank of practice record sheet signed by parents.

Study of music has a great cultural and uplifting influence on youth, teaches self control and pure right thinking.

TRIED HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Sweeten cooked cereal in the pan just before serving and save sugar. Use honey or corn syrup instead of sugar if you care for a change. Fruit syrup from canned fruits is a sugar-saver. Use this syrup as part of the liquid in brown betty, rice pudding, tapioca, gelatine desserts. Use it instead of water in baking apples.

Custard will curdle if it is cooked too long. Once curdling starts, however, remove custard from heat and beat with rotary beater until smooth ....Cook meat at a low temperature to keep essential juices, for better flavor and to make the protein more tender .....Butter for vegetables goes further and is more evenly distributed if it's first melted in a saucepan, then the vegetables tossed in the pan.

A half cup of grated cheese will go a long way when baked with onions like this: Boil 12 medium-sized onions until barely tender, then drain and remove centers. Chop centers, mix with cheese and a half cup of breadcrumbs and stuff into onions. Sprinkle enough water to prevent sticking, cover and bake for about twenty minutes in a moderate oven. Remove cover and cook an additional five minutes.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET PLACED IN NOMINATION

The Democratic caucus, held at the Town Hall Thursday evening of last week, chose the following ticket to represent their party at the Fall town election.

Town Trustees

Ward 1—Frank Sellers.
Ward 2— Joe Foltz.
Ward 3—Merle Guilford.
Clerk - Treasurer—Maurice Kline.

The caucus was called by Maurice Kline, chairman, and Clifford Billow, secretary.

A NEW DRUG

Most of News Readers have heard of the wonder drug called penicillin. It has become important within this past year and our scientists tell us that it is many times more effective than the powerful sulfa drugs that have themselves proven so wonderfully effective in healing and saving lives. There are now nine firms manufacturing penicillin in order to fill the call of civilians as well as the necessary military quota. These firms hope to have stock on hand within probably six weeks, but this will not nearly supply the increasing demand. Penicillin is grown from mold and to extract the fluid is a long process. Sometimes the molds don't produce and then more time is needed and time is vital when lives are at stake. We are thankful it is already being used successfully even in a limited number of cases. We thank our scientists, the laboratory workers who toil day and night that we may benefit. Time means more to them than to the awaiting public for they realize the effects before we realize the discovery.

YOU CAN BUILD

Certain priority rights or stopping manufacture altogether of some necessary building materials doesn't mean that farmers around St. Joe can't find an answer to building problems. Although the government has increased the quota of farm lumber there still isn't enough of critical materials needed to take care of the requirements. But, we are informed that there is, on the market today, a number of non-critical materials available and by seeing about it you might find types of insulation boarding that can be used for exterior walls, partitions, ceilings and, used with other types of non-critical materials, will build roofs. So there need be no hardship around these parts where farmers need new animal shelters or buildings to store machinery.

LUXURIES OR LIBERTY?

Hoosiers are in the midst of their $257,000,000 Third War Loan Campaign.

The Third War Loan is a swift, sure test of your common sense, your ability to "take it," and a true measure of your willingness to stand by your own flesh and blood, the men you have sent off to do your fighting for you.

Indiana is in the 18th position as the 48 states battle side-by-side with their boys to meet quotas. Three hundred thousand Hoosiers in uniform—one or more of them close to you by blood or ties of friendship—are meeting the enemy face to face on the fronts or on decks of ships all over the world, or are preparing to fight and die, if need be, for you.

These boys are at the front. Normally Indiana is out in front. Let's get out there together again . . . and stay there.

Attack. Counter-attack. Attack. Another ridge. Another valley. Another town. All sense of time gone. You get weary. You smell death. But you keep going. That's invasion. That's the way a war correspondent tells the story of what your relatives, your neighbors, your friends are going through at this moment.

But what about you? Is it attack, counter-attack, attack for you on the home front? Are you fighting a battle to save every penny possible for war bonds to back up these men? Have you said, "Yes, we'll take a $100 bond" when you should have said a $1,000 bond? Each of us must do his share, and the share of each of us is everything we can do!

Your government comes to you and says:

"Lend me your money now when I need it to protect you against the enemies who would destroy you, and I'll pay you back with interest a little later when the men who would murder, rob and enslave you are destroyed by the things your money will buy."

It takes country like ours to make such an offer. Where's your common sense if you don't run, not walk to lend your money for war bonds?

Your government is putting its objective before you three ways. First, in big round numbers like the $15,000,000,000 national and the $257,000,000 state quotas. Secondly, but more important, it puts the Third War Loan matter up to you in a purely personal way. It wants you to invest a minimum of an extra $100 in war bonds—more if you can. Remember that —"more if you can."

There's another thing to keep in mind as you face the test of the Third War Loan. You may grumble about taxes and the cost of living. That's not the thing really to worry about. The Nazis and the Japs have let you know that your chief worry is living itself if they can get their hands on you. If you want a graphic example, remember those American Martyrs of Jimmy Doolittle's Tokyo raid.

The slogan, "Back the Attack—with War Bonds," is addressed to you. Rich man, poor man, worker, boss, man, woman or child—you all have something to lend to your country at a time like this. You would not be worthy of the name Hoosier or of being an American if you did not have the fibre to trade luxuries or even bread for liberty.

Other Americans are crouching in assault boats and in fox holes at this moment. Waiting for INVASION!

It's assault time for you, too. Even if you have bought an extra Third War Loan bond, ask yourself: "Have I done all I can?" And if you haven't, then figure out HOW MUCH you can put into war bonds this month to "Back the Attack."

There is no other way than this for your country to meet its quota, the state to reach its goal or for the nation to keep her industires at top-notch capacity making the equipment and the munitions that save hundreds of our sons' lives every day!

INCREASES IN ALL BUT ONE TAX UNIT

Tax levy increases for 1944 ranging from 4 cents on the $100 valuation in Troy Township to 80 cents in Concord Township are shown for 22 units of the county in a report prepared Friday in the office of County Auditor Burley Ensley.

Only one unit escapes an increase and that is Franklin Township, with a reduction of 33 cents. The increases in the units not mentioned above are as follows: Auburn city, 30 cents; Garrett, 6 cents; Altona, 35; Ashley, 10; Butler town, 31; Corunna, 6; St. Joe, 72; Waterloo, 32; Butler Twp., 28; Fairfield, 57; Grant, 24; Jackson, 48; Keyser, 34; Newville, 60; Richland, 12; Smithfield, 10; Spencer, 32; Stafford, 36; Union, 36, and Wilmington, 15.

The new total rates follow: Auburn, $2.54; Garrett, $2.82; Altona, $2.23; Ashley, $2.90; Butler town, $3.19; Corunna, $2.12; St. Joe, $2.80; Waterloo, $3.26; Butler Township, $1.48; Concord, $2.30; Fairfield, $1.95; Franklin, $1.19; Grant, $1.98; Jackson, $1.38; Keyser, $1.88; Newville, $1.64; Richland, $1.42; Smithfield, $1.66; Spencer, $1.87; Stafford, $1.38; Troy, $1.68; Union, $1.70, and Wilmington, $1.21.

These levies include 11 cents for the state, 30 cents for the county general fund and the following poor fund rates: Grant Township, 2 cents; Keyser, Garrett and Altona, 13; Troy, 8 cents and Waterloo; 2 cents. No poor relief rate was levied for the other units.

The levies in only three units are within the statutory limits, which are $2 for cities and towns and $1.25 for townships, excepting welfare levies and debt service levies. These units are Franklin and Wilmington townships and Corunna. The levies for the other units will be automatically appealed to the state tax board, which will hold a hearing in the court house in Auburn.

The inflationary trend is the chief cause of the higher levies. Salaries of teachers and other employes are higher and the cost of supplies is greater. There is a reduction in excise tax receipts. Practically all of the units benefit by higher valuations of property, but this was not sufficient to offset rising costs.

The county tax adjustment board held its final meeting at the court house Friday, when the budgets and levies of the Auburn, Garrett and Butler city schools were given final consideration.

The levies are all subject to review by the state tax board, but probably only minor changes will be made.

To the People of this Community:

ARE YOU REALLY AT WAR?

What does being at war mean to you? Less gasoline for your auto? Less sugar in your coffee? Higher prices for your food and clothes? Separation from your husband?

Sure, it has meant all those things, some serious and some really trivial for a period when your actual safety is at stake.

But has the war meant BLOOD, SWEAT AND TEARS to you? In many instances YES. The first stage of invasion has already pushed our casualties over the 100,000 mark.

The gold stars which decorate thousands of our homes today are a challenge to the vast majority of us to do our best in the Third War Loan. No good American wants to see one more gold star added to the firmament of glory. We educate our youth for life, not for death. If they die, they die so that we might live. Every extra War Bond you buy today will back the invasion so that the war will be shortened and so that there will be less blood, sweat and tears for you and your friends.

"THUMBS DOWN ON WASTE"

"CONSERVATION OF FUEL, MANPOWER AND CRITICAL MATERIALS IS A 'MUST' IF WE ARE TO ACHIEVE THE MAXIMUM WAR PRODUCTION EVERY AMERICAN WANTS."

From a joint statement by Messrs. Ickes, Eastman and Nelson

YOUR Government through the War Production Board and other agencies asks for public cooperation in a voluntary program to conserve fuel, manpower and critical materials in order to achieve maximum production for war.

To accomplish this result, we are urged by the Government to ask all citizens to avoid waste of "coal, petroleum products, water, gas, electricity, transportation, and communications."

There is no shortage of electricity as such either for war needs or essential civilian use, but electricity is made largely from fuel and certain critical materials are required in connection with its production and use. As a result, electricity is indirectly involved in the program.

The War Production Board warns that no effort should be made to curtail uses of electricity necessary for public safety and health including eyesight conservation, plant protection, transportation, and production purposes.

The program applies to all electric customers, but more specifically to those who use electricity for commercial purposes. We are listing below the specific steps for voluntary conservation by commercial customers as recommended by the W.P.B.

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY

Suggested Voluntary Conservation By Commercial Users Of Electricity

It should be made clear to customers that the desired savings in lighting should be obtained primarily by the turning off of lights which are not necessary and by replacement at renewal time when lamps are burned out, with lower wattage lamps.

Indoor and Outdoor Advertising, Promotional and Display Sign Lighting

(a) Daytime: Eliminate completely.
(b) Nighttime: Reduce burning hours so far as practicable but in no case burn for an interval exceeding two hours and only during the period from dusk until 10 p.m., in terms of local time.
(c) Electric signs necessary for direction or identification of places of public service, such as public restaurants, public lodging establishments, transportation terminals, etc., may be operated during nighttime but only while the establishment is open for business.
(d) Reduce lamp wattage of all signs by the maximum practicable amount.

Decorative and Ornamental Lighting Including Decorative Flood Lighting

(a) Interior lighting: Eliminate completely at all times.
(b) Interior lighting: Eliminate all non-essential lighting; reduce the balance by the maximum practicable amount.

Show Window Lighting which does not provide essential interior illumination

(a) Daytime: Eliminate completely.
(b) Nighttime: Reduce burning hours so far as practicable but in no case burn for an interval exceeding two hours and only during the period from dusk until 10 p.m., in terms of local time.
(c) Reduce wattage by maximum practicable amount.

Lighting of Marquees (other than advertising signs) and Building Entrances

(a) Daytime: Eliminate completely.
(b) Nighttime: Reduce in intensity by maximum practicable amount consistent with public safety consideration.
(c) Eliminate completely when establishment is not open for business except for amount necessary for protection.

Lighting of Outdoor Business Establishments

(a) Daytime: Eliminate completely.
(b) Nighttime: Reduce in intensity by maximum practicable amount.
(c) Eliminate completely when establishment is not open for business except for amount necessary for protection.

General Interior Illumination and Show Case Lighting

(a) Eliminate all non-essential lighting.
(b) Reduce remainder by the maximum practicable amount consistent with public safety consideration and eyesight conservation.

General Conservation by Commercial Customers

(a) Turn off lights and appliances when not actually needed.
(b) Eliminate unnecessary use.

Air Conditioning

Adopt more moderate margins of reduction in temperature and relative humidity.

"Nighttime" as used above is the period between 30 minutes after sunset and 30 minutes before sunrise.

3rd WAR LOAN

Buy an Extra $100 Bond ★

It's actually a matter of life or death for Americans in uniform. Once the invasion got under way we committed ourselves to the use of large numbers of troops and great stores of supplies. Any let down or crack-up in the supply trains could prove fatal.

Your job is to see to it that there is no shortage of anything needed to make the invasion swift and sure. We do not want another Bataan or Corregidor.

Get that extra War Bond today. Show that you are with our boys in this critical hour of invasion. THE EDITOR

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

SUGGESTS FALL PLOWING AS AID IN FUEL SUPPLY

Indiana farmers can aid in maintaining an orderly flow of petroleum products to farms during next Spring's period of peak farm activity by doing their plowing this Fall to the greatest extent permitted by their operations and moisture conditions, Leland K. Fishback, secretary of the Indiana Petroleum Industries Committee, stated today.

"Not only is Fall plowing sound farm practice; it is protection against an overloading of petroleum distribution facilities during the Spring season of heavy demand for farm fuels," Mr. Fishback stated.

"Although suffering in common with many other industries from manpower shortages and other wartime handicaps, the Indiana oil industry has successfully maintained the flow of petroleum products essential on the agricultural front in the production of food critically needed in our war effort. Reports from trade sources confidence that facilities for distribution of farm fuels can be maintained at an efficient level in the coming year," he said.

"In view of wartime uncertainties," Mr. Fishback said, "it would nevertheless seem ordinary prudence to seek to avoid all unnecessary strains on overworked facilities of motor fuel distribution. Every gallon of fuel used in Fall plowing will reduce the peak load on facilities of petroleum distribution to farms next Spring."

DeKalb County is again starting enrollment in the "Poultry School of the Air" conducted by Purdue University Poultry Department according to Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent. This school consists of a series of ten poultry lessons broadcast over the various radio stations throughout the state for the purpose of giving help to flock owners who wish to benefit by the experience of their state poultry department. DeKalb County had the honor of having the largest enrollment in the state in the first "Poultry School of the Air" which was conducted last Spring and enrolled members reported timely benefits from that school. The school which will start in October will be on "Care and Management of Layers" and those interested are urged to get enrollment cards in early since enrollment in this school is limited to 10,000 members. Enrollment cards may be secured from the County Agent.

HOME ECONOMIC CLUBS

The Concord Township Home Bureau, met at the home of Mrs. Mary Washler, Friday, Sept. 17th, for their meeting. The president, Mrs. Millie Shull presided. Meeting was opened by reading club creed in unison, followed by singing "Blest Be the Tie." Secretary report was read and approved. Twenty two members responded to roll call with "Common grammatical errors." The project lesson on "Making Household Repairs" was well given by Mary Krise. We then had election of officers for the coming year and they are as follows:

President, Mrs. Millie Shull; vice president, Mrs. Nevada Wyatt; secretary, Mrs. Laura Washler; assistant secretary, Mrs. Doris Yeiser; treasurer, Mrs. Katie Storer; pianist, Mrs. Cora Curie; assistant, Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick; chorister, Mrs. Katherine Haller; assistant, Mrs. Mary Krise; publicity, Mrs. Pluma Hamilton.

Mrs. John Ulm gave a couple of interesting contests. The hostess with her committee, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Eva Keesler and Mrs. Alto Hablawetz, served a delicious lunch of cake, fruit salad topped with whipped cream, and coffee.

The meeting then adjourned to meet with Mrs. Maude Porter for October meeting.

YOUR JOB AT HOME

PROFESSIONAL laundry services have been curtailed to such an extent that many of us are doing all our own laundry. If you are faced with this problem here are a few helpful suggestions.

It's a good idea to do a little washing quite often . . . several times a week. It makes the work seem easier and solves, to some extent, the problem of having enough hot water to do a thorough job.

If you use a washing machine, group the clothes, in addition to sorting them for soaking, with a view to being washed together to the best advantage. It's largely a matter of selecting pieces about equally soiled and dividing them so that there are large and small pieces in each load.

After you have filled the washing machine with hot water, put in the soap, keeping the machine in operation until all soap is dissolved. Then put in the laundry and wash it eight to ten minutes. Six pounds is about as big a load as the average washing machine will stand. You can judge the weight by the fact that two sheets, four pillow cases and four large bath towels are approximately six pounds.

After you have struggled with doing the laundry and are probably completely exhausted, there is nothing that will put you back on your feet again like a cup of good coffee. If you are hot as well as tired . . . which is quite likely these days . . . make yourself a tall, delicious glass of iced coffee. But be sure to make it double strength to allow for melting ice. There's nothing quite like iced coffee to cool you off and pep you up at the same time!

ATTENTION EVENING SCHOOL FARMERS

The first Thursday night of October will again start your Evening School For Farmers. On October 7, 1943 at 7:30 P. M. (C. W .T.) the Evening School entitled "Soil Management" will begin at Spencerville and continue until December 23, 1943. On January 13, 1944 at 7:30 P. M. (C. W. T.) the evening school entitled "Farm Management" will begin at St. Joe and continue for about twelve weeks.

The reason for continuing these schools over a period of several months, with only one meeting a week, is to better enable those farmers wishing to take both courses to do so. Farmers from either evening school area are invited to attend both schools.

As in the past, it is suggested that you bring with you any farmer that you feel will be an asset to our group and would be interested in completing either one or both courses.

D. C. WICOFF,
Voc. Agri. Instructor.

IS GIVEN DIVORCE

A decree of divorce was entered in the DeKalb Circuit Court Saturday for Anna Bachtel, of St. Joe, against Frank Bachtel. A hearing of the evidence was held in April, 1941, but judgment was withheld pending the payment of court costs. The charge was non-support.

Donald M. Kinsey, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Kinsey, has filed his application for acceptance in the U. S. Marines for the duration. It will probably be three weeks before he will be called. He was born at Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 20, 1925.

JEWELRY COLLECTION FOR SOUTH SEA SOLDIERS

Mothers of World War II wish to express their appreciation to the DeKalb County Home Economics Clubs in assisting with the recent drive for Jewelry to be sent to the soldiers who are now fighting in the South Pacific. Also to express appreciation to those who contributed so generously in making this war project a very successful one.

Mrs. Ruth Hire, president of Mothers of World War II, Waterloo, Ind., reports the following collection: 729 strands of beads; 70 rings; 141 pair ear rings; 150 broaches; 345 odds and ends of most everything.

A total of 2398 pieces were collected or a total of 108 pounds are now on the way to the boys.

Five large cartons of hose were sent to the Marion, Indiana Soldiers Home. An open box of hose is being kept as hose will be sent from time to time as they are accumulated at the various collection centers.

The Mothers of World War II have also collected a bushel basket of Candy Bars and Cigrettes and $30 to buy more for the Crippled Boys at Marion and are now starting a box to be sent for Christmas. They will be glad to accept donations. A collection of new games is also being sent in this box. This is another way in which you may help in the war effort.

CONCORD TWP. SCHOOLS

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with a long train. Miss Mary Alice Carey, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a gown of poudre blue taffeta.

After the reception at the Carey home, the couple left for a short wedding trip. The newlyweds will go to Fort Ord, California, where the groom is stationed to drill troops.

The Freshmen Initiation was held Friday night, Sept. 24, at the St. Joe Gym. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

The seventh and eighth grade students have been working on multuplication of whole numbers this week. Friday each grade had a speed and accuracy test to determine the best multiplier in each group. The results follow: Leona Drake was first and Kenneth Roberts was second in the seventh grade. Gerald Swander was first and Josephine Baughman Audra Stewart tied for second in the eighth grade.

St. Joe beat Spencerville in softball with a score of 7-6 on Tuesday, Sept. 20.

Home Economics III

Home Economics III this week are studying "The Financial Problems of the Family." This includes budgeting a family, in which they learn to know how much to spend and how to spend it.

This is an excellent topic to discuss, and the sixteen students too, agree that it will help them to solve many problems in the future.

As a result of 148 students and two teachers taking the patch test in detecting the presence of T. B. germ in the body, only three positive cases were found, and these will be given X-Ray tests at the Irene Byron Sanatorium at Fort Wayne, at the expense of the County Association, if the individuals so desire. The tests were made Sept. 17 by Mrs. Erthenia Quance, Red Cross Nurse and Mrs. Mabel Brownand, executive secretary of the tuberculosis association.

MINISTERS FACING DELINQUENT PROBLEM

DeKalb County Ministerial Association met in the Y. M. C. A. building at Auburn Monday, Sep. 27 to open their 1943-44 program. A number of new ministers were in attendance due to the changes that had been made in churches since the last meeting. Two offices had been left vacant due to these changes. The office of president and the office of secretary and treasurer. Alva Klopfenstein was elected president to take the place of A. W. York, and Erby Messimer was elected to take the place of Ray Finkbinner, as secretary-treasurer.

The speakers were Mrs. Harry Casebeer, Hugh Craven, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Auburn, and Dr. W. E. Pittenger, pastor of the Methodist Church in Garrett. The subject discussed was the delinquent problem in DeKalb County and surrounding country. It was pointed out by Mrs. Casebeer that the delinquent problem had multiplied many times since she took over the job as probation officer a number of years ago. All of the speakers were able to give examples that they knew personally, and most of them were attributed to Mothers working in war plants and not leaving their children in the hands of a responsible person. Also it was pointed out that many parents refused to accept the responsibility of parents and would fail to give proper care to the children. Many parents have been found to take their children to the movies and then they would go to the beer parlors and not get home in time to receive their children, and if they had been home many times they would be so drunk they couldn't put them to bed. They exhorted the ministers to try to impress upon the parents their responsibilities to their children. There were 18 ministers and two visitors present.

LICENSED TO WED

Orlo Richard Bowser, 19, son of Mrs. Estella Bowser, St. Joe, and Eleanor Jean Daum, 18, Auburn. The groom's mother gave her consent.

LIONS DEDICATE HONOR ROLL BOARDS

Club was held a half hour earlier than usual in order to accomodate the fathers, mothers, and friends, so that they could hear the guest speaker, Lion Edward H. Paine, speak at the Spencerville Community Hall.

At the dinner the Lions entertained the Lionesses and the following guests: Lion Maloy, Deputy District Governor of Indiana, from Angola, Lion Kingsley and wife and Lion Schmenk and wife, of Avilla, Lion Bartholomew and wife and Lion Willis, of Waterloo, and the Honorable Lion Edward H. Paine, Past President

MICHIGAN CITY, INDIANA
1942 PRESIDENT 1943
LIONS INTERNATIONAL

of Lions International, of Michigan City, Indiana.

The four new members were installed by Lion Edward H. Paine. They are as follows: Mark Williams, Walter J. Baker, H. H. Squires and Herman Zuber. Next meeting will be held at Spencerville Lutheran Church at 6:30 P. M. St. Joe Lutheran Ladies served a fine dinner to the 47 Lions and their guests.

Motored to Spencerville and heard one of the most outstanding speakers of today.

The American Legion posted Colors, pledge to The Flag was given and Lion Mark Williams led the entire group in the singing of America. Prayer was given by Rev. W. Monroe. The Honor Roll Committee read the names of the boys that are serving their country to their highest degree. There are 145 boys from the two communities now in the service.

Lion Paine, is highly educated, and has visited many foreign lands, including our enemies, and is a veteran of World War I. He was with people of England when they declared war on Germany in 1939 of September. He knows what kind of country or land that our boys are on at the present time in Italy. He says "that along the Mediterranean Sea, is some of the most beautiful scenes in the world.

"On the South Shores there are many fruits and small grains raised and that was one of Germany's objectives. On the North Shores are mountains and the land that our boys are moving over now is very rugged and it is hard going as the Germans are stealing and destroying everything as they are being pushed back.

"We must back our Third War Bond Drive or our first and second bonds will not be any good. There is only one way to do away with this terrible thing called war and that is to destroy the people that are fighting against us. Do not stop fighting when the Germans and Japs put up the white flag of surrender but go on and murder them in their own cold blood and let them see what war really is. Blow up their homes and cities so that they will have to start from nothing. We do not want to be cruel or mean or wicked from the standpoint of right but we must do this in order that they learn what war is and know what freedom really means to we Americans.

That was the mistake that was made in World War I so do not let this happen again. Let us finish this war so that our grandchildren will not be going to war."

To the People of this Community:

PLAIN WARNING TO YOU!

Here is a plain warning for you . . .

"This war will last until 1949 or longer if the home front fails to back up our men in battle" . . . Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy.

3rd War Loan

Buying War Bonds to the point of temporary personal sacrifice is the most direct way you can comply with Secretary Knox's appeal.

"Temporary sacrifice" is the correct phrase because you are only lending your money when you buy War Bonds. This government which never has defaulted on an obligation will pay you back $4 for every $3 invested if you hold the bonds for 10 years.

The least you can do is to back the attack with War Bonds today. Buy extra Bonds above your normal Bond buying.

AN EQUAL INCOME

Here are a few facts to think about when you hear someone speak of equalizing the income of the whole world, in the peace that is to come. The American people might well bear in mind that the income of this country is 36 per cent of the TOTAL income of the entire world. Although we have only six per cent of the population of the world, we have 30 per cent of all the nation's wealth. Now let us figure on an equality basis. It would follow that the U. S. would distribute to the world 30 per cent of her income, retaining six per cent. It would reduce the individual to 5/6 of the family income. But there will be such a tremendohs cost for rehabilitation for so many of the nations of the world, there has been so much lend-lease, that the billions of dollars that have been spent, that will be spent, are the best answers to equalization of income.

FACING FACTS

There has been a change of policy with regard to the showing of pictures in both press and films of fatalities to American soldiers, of loss of planes, ships and tanks. It was formerly felt that pictures of our dead and injured wouldn't help the public morale, that it was unnecessary to pour on them the fact that losses can be suffered by both sides. But now the policy is being given an about face. Due to too many Americans feeling that the war is about over, that we are just "cleaning up," women are quiting vital defense jobs, excuses are made for not buying bonds, production is showing up. So our government feels we need some of the horrible details to remind us, to keep us remembering that the war is far from over. We have seen pictures of our advances, can we take our reverses, the pictures of boys on stretchers in jungles, paratroopers lying in groups as they were mowed down, our ships sinking. It is true, it has been a fact. Here in St. Joe we are working to put an end to the pictures by working to end the war.

THE BIRTH OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

The Republican Party was formed in 1856. Its chief purpose was to combat the extension of slavery. It appealed to all who were opposed to the repeal of the Missouri Compromise and the efforts to make Kansas a free state. The Missouri Compromise provided that slavery should be forever excluded from that part of the Louisiana Purchase which lay north of 46—30° latitude, except Missouri.

Eminent leaders of public opinion from the earliest period of our national existence—such as Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, Madison, Jay and Hamilton — regarded slavery as a great evil and inconsistent with the priciples of the Declaration of Independence. The Society of Friends, the Presbyterian and Methodist churches also were opposed to slavery.

The Republican Party grew out of the Freesoil party which was founded in 1848 to oppose the extension of slavery into the territories. The Freesoil party succeeded the Whig Party which never had the courage to directly oppose slavery, but always endeavored to make temporary peace between the Slave and the Anti-slave states by making compromises. But the time had now come when the question of slavery became too acute an issue to admit of further compromise.

In 1852, the Freesoil candidates polled only 156,000 votes; but in that period of political agitation Freesoil principles assumed great proportions which were adopted by the new Republican Party on its organization in 1856, and which almost entirely absorbed the Freesoil Party.

Intense opposition in the non-slaves states to the further extension of slavery, and the breakdown of the compromise policy of Clay and the repeal of the Missouri Compromise are some of the incidental causes which brought the party into being.

The first actual meeting of the opponents of slavery was held at Ripon, Wisconsin, on Feb. 28, 1854. The first convention was held at Jackson, Mich., July 6, 1854. All who were opposed to slavery were welcome.

An informal gathering, national in scope, was held in Pittsburgh, Feb. 22, 1856, at which time was planned the first National Convention, which assembled at Philadelphia June 17, 1856. The chairman of the convention declared the party's purpose to be, to determine, "not whether the South is to rule or the North, — but whether the broad national policy of our fathers established, cherished and maintained is to be permitted to descend to her sons."

In 1856, the new Republican Party nominated John C. Fremont for president and Wm. L. Dayton for vice president. Ater an intensive campaign they were defeated, but the cause of the new Republican Party represented was greatly improved.

During the next four years, from 1856 to 1860, many important events rapidly consolidated and intensified the anti-slavery movement and on May 16, 1860, probably the most historic of all Republican National Conventions was held in the "Wigwam" in Chicago. It established a majority rule for nominations in contract to the Democratic two-thirds rule. Threats of secession were denounced in the platform, which favored restriction of slavery, opposed re-opening the slave trade, and favored a protective tariff.

Abraham Lincoln was elected president and Hannibal Hamlin vice president. The story of this administration is largely a story of the Civil War which soon followed.

From 1861 to 1943, a period of 82 years, this nation has had Republican Presidents 56 years and Democratic and New Deal Presidents 26 years. The Republican Party has emphasized Nationalism, first as against secession and later against internationalism. A cardinal principle of its creed has been a protective tariff.

To the credit of its leadership are: the first transcontinental railway; the Panama Canal; the acquisition of the U. S. Possessions abroad; the maintenance of financial stability and opposition of any form of super government.

Following the World War I, under its leadership, the United States established a record for payment of national debt unequaled by any country in the history of the world.

AN INVASION

Up in Maine several bears have invaded a village and done damage to the poultry, sheep and pigs of the community. The residents have had to establish a night watch and still the bears are getting live-stock. They have chased sheep into the town and a man to his doorstep. We then read of a woman in Texas going out on her front porch and finding a wolf asleep in her porch swing! A reader of The News suggests that the two stories might be credited to the animals suffering along with us in the meat rationing and that they have their own way of running a black market. But with a shot gun handy the bear is running a pretty big chance, for he would save some red coupons in steaks. War is no respector of the animal kingdom, man or beast.

President Roosevelt has sent the nomination of Edward R. Stettinius as under-secretary of state, succeeding Sumner Wells, to the senate where both Democrats and Republicans predicted quick confirmation.

Up Your Savings

There will be American justice for the savages of Tokio but our trial and punishment of Tojo and his criminals will cost blood, sweat, toil and tears and money. You can supply the money by upping your war bond buying through the payroll savings plan. Figure it out yourself and see where the money is coming from. How much does it cost you and your family to live each month? How much money is coming in from all members of your family? Put the extra money into war bonds, every penny of it. Let 10 per cent be only the starting point for figuring your allotment.

MONEY COMES UP MISSING IN ST. JOE HOME

Mrs. Marie Akins reports the loss of $50 in cash taken from her home on Tuesday. No trace has been found as yet after several searches have been made about the home. Her gold watch is also missing. Mrs. Clara McCann is also minus her purse and money amounting to $15. She thought she left it on the street Monday, when she stopped to rest.

GAMBLING MACHINE OPERATOR FINED

A verdict of guilty was reported by a jury in DeKalb Circuit Court Monday night in the case of the state against Chas. McIntosh, of Auburn, for possession of a slot machine. It's time that a general cleaning of gambling machines be made throughout the country.

MACHINE CUTS UP MANY CAPERS

Donald M. Kinsey experienced a severe shaking up Sunday morning about 3 o'clock, as he rounded Rhodes' Corner on Road 1. His car struck the gravel along side of road which swerved his car across the road and back again, then turning over. He was uninjured. "You can't snooze and drive a car," so he says. The car was damaged.

No Langer Clerking

Mrs. Elnora Blue, who has been clerking at Bowser's Grocery Store for several months, quit working Wednesday.

SEVERELY INJURED IN FALL INTO CELLAR

Mrs. Pluma Hamilton is in the Hicksville Hospital for the past week, where she was operated on Friday night for severe right shoulder injuries and broken right wrist, caused by falling down her cellar steps. She had been busily engaged in putting potatoes away that day and was just going to basement to put out the light, when she fell. Neighbors heard her calling and soon found what was wrong. She was transfered to the hospital where X-Ray pictures revealed the seriousness of her injury. She will be laid up for some time but possibly will be able to return home in a few weeks.

IT'S still too early to store your victory garden vegetables in the cellar for winter use—but it's by no means too early to get your storage space ready!

You'll be wise to store all the garden food you can this wartime winter. And you'll be doubly wise to store it so none will be lost through spoilage or freezing.

Now's the time to build a really good vegetable store room in your basement. If you have one, you may want to improve or enlarge it in anticipation of the many more root vegetables which will soon be ready for storage.

If you have a cool, well-ventilated basement under the house, you may be in the habit of accumulating vegetables there without actually turning part of it into a storeroom. This is unwise especially if there is a furnace, since the air is too warm and too dry for root crops.

You may overcome this by partitioning off a corner or an ell of your basement for a store room. Since root vegetables keep best in cool air—the cooler, the better so long as there is no danger of freezing—you may do well to insulate the walls of your room, both inside and out, thus keeping both furnace heat and outside cold away from the vegetables.

Don't Waste Electricity

Use What You Need but . . . Need What You Use

ELECTRICAL appliances contribute to health and morale—by saving labor at home they make possible greater factory production. This is recognized by the War Production Board in its voluntary conservation program through which all citizens are asked to conserve coal, petroleum, gas, water, and electric services, transportation and communications. "Eliminate all waste in the use of various electric appliances," says the W.P.B. but states further that no effort should be made to curtail uses of electricity essential to safety and health, including eyesight conservation.

There is ample electrical capacity to supply both war and essential civilian requirements—the need for conservation comes from a shortage of the resources from which electricity is made and for its use. Use what you need; don't waste it.

Some Conservation Suggestions

RANGE
Use smallest surface units needed for cooking operation.
Cook on stored heat—or lowest heat possible.
Plan menus so that entire meals may be cooked in thrift cooker or oven.
Do not open oven door for "peeking" more than necessary.

REFRIGERATOR
Defrost your refrigerator regularly.
Do not place hot left-overs in refrigerator . . . allow them to cool to room temperature before inserting.
Do not overload your refrigerator . . . keep all foods in covered dishes or wrapped in wax paper.
Keep temperature control set for 45° unless you are freezing foods or desserts.

WATER HEATER
Do not waste hot water. Do not let water run when washing dishes, shaving, etc.
Have all leaky faucets repaired.

WASHING MACHINE
Do not overload washing machine.
Do not run machine oftener than necessary.
Do not run machine longer than necessary to clean clothes.

SMALL APPLIANCES
Eliminate all waste in the use of various electrical appliances such as radios, space heaters, electric irons and toasters, and so forth. Turn them off when not actually needed.

"This War Will Become Bigger and Tougher . . . During the Long Months to Come"

Franklin D. Roosevelt

Italy has fallen—but the war is not over and you know it! Think of Berlin and Tokyo—think of the men dying at this moment.

Can we, you and I, afford to let them down—to turn their battlefront victory into a home-front defeat? Let's buy more War Bonds than ever... let's back up their victory with ours—the success of the 3rd War Loan!

There are battles coming—tough, bloody, hard-to-win battles—before this war is over. And it's the last battle that counts. We've got to back up our fighting men . . . we've got to buy War Bonds with every dollar, every dime we can scrape up.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT said it, as Commander-in-Chief:

"I say that we Americans will not be satisfied to send our troops into the fire of the enemy with equipment only equal to that of the enemy. We are determined to provide our troops with overpowering superiority of quality and quantity of arms and armaments..."

Our fighting men will do their job—it's up to you, personally, to keep their victories safe by buying War Bonds NOW with every dollar you can—not with what you'd ordinarily save or invest, but more—every bit more you can manage.

World's Safest Investments

THREE CAR COLLISION

Three automobiles were damaged in a collision in Spencerville Saturday afternoon. Clyde E. Hart, of Spencer Township, was driving west across State Road No. 1, but three parked cars obstructed his view and his machine struck one being driven by Alva K. Harrold, of Rt. 2, Butler. The impact pushed the Harrold car into a parked Plymouth owned by Ermal E. Hook, of west of Spencerville. Damage to Mr. Hart's machine was $75; to Mr. Harrold's, $150; and to Mr. Hook's $50. State Policeman Jack Nye and Deputy Sheriff Frank E. Carpenter investigated.

BOND DRIVE SHORT

DeKalb County is still lagging in the sale of war bonds of the third war loan. Fisher West, of Auburn, county chairman, reported Monday that a total of $525,375.25 has been sold to date which is less than half of the quota of $1,135,500. All residents of the county are urged to purchase as many bonds as possible so that the quota may be reached. The time is now growing short and it behooves everyone to do all they can to put the drive over.

Edward Shilling, after two years of army life, is expected to arrive home by Friday of this week from Camp Stoneman, Calif., where he has been stationed for many months, and he will be carrying an honorable discharge from the U. S. Army. Ed is allergic to rubber, and because of this is unable to serve in the armed forces. He is married and his family lives in Auburn. He is the son of Cecil Shilling and a half brother of Mrs. Oral Hughes of west of St. Joe.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser, Monday, from her son, Harold, who had just landed in England:

Dear Mom:

"Here I am in England, a lot sooner than I ever expected to be anywhere outside of the United States. Things are sure a lot different over here than they are at home, especially the money system. We use pennys, three pence, six pence, two shillings, half crowns, ten shilling notes and pound notes, which sure have me mixed up. I haven't seen hardly any of the country but what I have is nice but I like Indiana better.

"You have heard of the way the English make coffee, well, all you have heard is true, but one thing sure they can make good tea. The food is a lot different but it is all good.

"The thing that is the funniest to us is the way they drive on the left hand side of the road. The Army trucks are all left hand drive, they seem so funny going down the road with the driver on the outside of the road.

"All of my Buddies are still with me and we hope to stay together for the duration, but am afraid that is too much to hope for.

"Tell every one to write and I will try to answer all their letters. Will haev to close now and go to chow." Love, Harold.

The second Qualifying Test for the Army Specialized Training Program and the Navy College Program V-12 which will be given throughout the country on Tuesday, November 9, will be administered at the St. Joe school, Mr. C. O. Duker announced today. A pamphlet of general information which contains an admission-identification form may be obtained at the school. This form properly filled out will admit to the test students between the ages of 17 and 21 inclusive who are recent high school graduates or who will be graduated by March 1, 1944. Intent to take the test should be made known immediately to Mr. Duker in order that the necessary test supplies may be ordered.

The same examination will be taken by both Army and Navy candidates. The examination is designed to test the aptitude and general knowledge required for the program of college training and all qualified students are urged to take the test. At the time of the test each candidate will be given a choice of service preference, but taking the test does not obligate the candidate to enlist in the service.

The Army Specialized Training Program and the Navy College Program enable students to continue academic training at government expense following induction into the armed services. Successful completion of the prescribed courses may, following further officer training, lead to a commission in the Army or the Navy.

Those selected for the Army will, after further screening and basic military training, be sent to college. Students chosen for the Navy Program, after selection by the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, will be detailed directly to college. Students who attend college under either of the programs will be under military discipline on active duty in uniform with pay. All expenses, including tuition, food, housing, books, and uniforms will be paid by the Army or the Navy.

The same test will be given by E. H. Paschen at the Spencerville school house. Last year two boys were selected from Spencerville. Hearsel Shockley and James Crothers are now in college under this type of program. The former is in Middlebury College in Vermont and the latter in Terre Haute Normal in our state. Both report hard work, but an excellent opportunity to get college training.

Pvt. Dale Trostel, of Fort Meade, South Dakota, arrived home Saturday. He had not been very well, the last five months so was given an honorable discharge from the U. S. Army. Dale and his wife and Mrs. Wayne Trostel and children were Sunday guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Trostel. Mrs. C. U. Bowers and Mrs. Bell Roos, of Garrett, were Sunday afternoon callers.

Judson Keeler, Tom Sellers, and Hubert Hudson, local boys were among the group called in the October quota, and they left Auburn Wednesday morning.

Pfc. Alvin Likes returned to Ft. Myers, Fla., Monday after spending 15 days here with his parents and other relatives.

1943 VERSION OF OLD MOTHER HUBBARD

She went to the butcher's
For spare ribs and suet.
But found out some others
Had beaten her to it.
She said "she would settle
For sausage or liver,"
He had none to give her—
She pleaded for pork chops
For meat balls, for mutton.
The butcher said "Lady
I just ain't got nutton."

SQUIRREL SEASON TO WIND UP NEXT WEEK

With fewer hunters in the woods it is indicated that a large population of squirrels will be left for next year's shooting, according to Harrell F. Mosbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game, as he called attention to the closing date of the season Oct. 8.

The squirrel season opened Aug. 10, and for the second year the same open date prevailed throughout the state. Until 1942 the state had been divided into zones for hunting with a different opening and closing date for each. Reports received by Mr. Mosbaugh showed that in most sections of the state there has been an ample supply of squirrels during the season.

HORSE KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

A horse that ran into the side of an automobile driven by Milo W. Frain of Rt. 1, St. Joe, a mile north of Spencerville Friday, was killed, a report filed in the offiec of Sheriff Paul F. Miller by State Policeman Jack Nye shows. The horse was owned by Mack Keller who lives on the Erick farm. The driver of the automobile says the horse tried to go from one side of the pavement to the other and that he could not avoid the accident. Damage to the automobile was placed at $100 and the horse was worth $75. Frain had his face cut by broken glass.

Frain is a defense worker at Fort Wayne and drives to his work.

LAKE

Frank Lake, farmer residing a mile east of Spencerville, died on Wednesday of last week at 11 o'clock, at his home. He is survived by two brothers, William Lake, of Spencerville, and Charles Lake of Fort Wayne, besides many other relatives. The funeral services were held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Walter Funeral Home, the Rev. L. B. Sharp officiating. Burial in White City Cemetery.

He was the son of one of the pioneer families of DeKalb County, and was 70 years and 4 days old. His illness was of only a few weeks.

Columbus, History's Man of Mystery, Remains Puzzle to World's Scholars

ALTHOUGH 451 years have passed since an intrepid navigator named Christopher Columbus sailed westward to unknown horizons, the world still knows almost nothing of that sailor whose discovery has been termed the most important event since the birth of Christ.

Less is known about Columbus than almost any other great figure of history. Who was he? Where and when was he born? What was his early life? What did he look like? Was he educated or illiterate? Where, when and how did he die? Where is he buried? These and many other questions cannot be answered by today's historians with any degree of accuracy.

As to his identity, some scholars would have us believe that he was Spanish. Others say he was Portuguese, others Jewish. This point likely will never be cleared up.

Columbus' Birthplace.

There are at least 15 cities in Italy where the tourist of more peaceful times can see the "birthplace" of Columbus. Outside of Italy, Columbus was "born" in a dozen places in Spain, Portugal and France. Other "birthplaces" are being discovered every few years.

The date of his birth is controversial. The best authorities believe he saw the light of day between 1446 and 1451. His early life remains as historically obscure. It has never been proved that he attended a university, or that he ran away to sea, or that his father was a wool-comber, as is often alleged. Legend, myth and fiction crowd each other in the early pages of his life, making interesting reading but unreliable history.

There are more than 40 different portraits of Columbus, no two of which seem to depict the same individual, and none of which seems to have been painted during his lifetime. These portraits show many varied characteristics and range from a lace-collared dandy to a gaunt, stern-visaged individual who appears to be chiseled out of unyielding rock.

Death at Valladolid.

After the return from his fourth voyage Columbus seems to have been ill physically and mentally. Many authorities agree that he died on May 20, 1506, at Valladolid, Spain, but his death appears not to have been noted in the records of that city until 27 years later.

One version of the story of Columbus' final resting place has it that he was buried in Valladolid, his bones later being removed to Seville, thence to Santo Domingo and then to Havana.

During the Spanish-American war, when the Spaniards thought the Americans might capture the bones of America's discoverer, they went back to Seville.

You can take your choice of many stories concerning almost any phase of his life—or his death.

Perhaps the only thing which can be said with any degree of certainty is that Columbus was not an American.

CONCORD TWP. SCHOOLS

St. Joe played Spencerville in softball on Tuesday, Sept. 28 on the St. Joe diamond. Spencerville won with a score of 7-4. The St. Joe line-up was as follows: Gerald Means, first base; Eugene Diederich, second base; Roland Davis, third base; Jim Kees, short stop; Ned Keller, left field; Leo Westrick; center field, Dick Shoudel, right field; Lee Bragg, short field; Budd Shuff, catcher; Russell Ridgway, pitcher.

The St. Joe High School Band marched in the parade at Auburn on Thursday night, Sept. 30. The band made a striking appearance in their purple and gold uniforms and tied for second place with the Auburn High School Band.

These are the band members: Joan Diederich, majorette; Jean Hurni, majorette; Janice Bragg, trombone; June Strong, trombone; April Bowser, trombone; Marcia Guilford, trumpet; Allen Haller, trumpet; Lee Bragg, trumpet; Patricia Fluke, cornet; Doris Trenary, cornet; Gloria Warstler, clarinet; Beverly Wade, clarinet; Pat Carpenter, clarinet; Mary Louise Woodcox, saxophone; Rosemary Yeiser, saxophone; Leora Wilmot, snare drum; Gloria Zonker, bass drum; Lois Brunson, cymbols. Donald Yeiser carried a large placard on which the words St. Joe High School were painted in the school colors. Eugene Gee helped Gloria Zonker carry the bass drum. Miss Merrill is the director.

Pat Carpenter won two firsts at the Auburn 4-H Club Fair on Wednesday, Sept. 29. She received first on her bug collection and first on her lamb.

History Eight

The Eighth Grade has been studying about the Civil War. They find it very interesting. They are learning the Gettysburg Address. They seem to find that rather difficult. They will take their final test Wednesday, Oct. 6th. They are studying hard and hoping for perfect scores.

Home Economics II

There are 13 girls enrolled in our class. We have been studying charts on food values and recipes on the canning of fruits. We canned a bushel of tomatoes by: Conserve, water bath, and open kettle. We girls are going to wear white pinafore aprons when we cook. Our room was redecorated light green and the windows were repaired while we were on vacation.—Ruby Collins.

Biology

We now have our new text books for study. Curtis, Caldwell, and Sherman wrote it. We have learned that biology is the science of life. It is an important part of practically every aspect of modern life. Biology is not a modern or new branch of learning. It is the most ancient of all studies. As our ways of civilized living become more complex there is an increasing need for a broader and deeper knowledge of biology. The person who has a knowledge of biology finds many uses for his knowledge. Biology will prove most valuable to you if by your study of it you learn to know and to apply scientific methods and scientific principles, and if you develop scientific attitudes.

We started the course with a brief study of creation of all life as related by Moses in the book of Genesis, the first book of our Bible that was written. It is certain that those who study biology some years hence will find somewhat different biological materials from those available for study today.

The possession of scientific attitudes and the use of scientific methods, however, will prove as valuable and necessary then as now. New facts will be discovered and old ideas will be changed as biological knowledge increases.

—Mrs. Butler.

PEAK OF FALL LEAF COLOR EVENT NEARS

Sumac and sassafras, already turning into blazing patches of deep red against the landscape, are serving as advance agents for Indiana's annual color show which is expected next week.

Other trees in the southern part of the state also are beginning to turn, giving promise of one of the most colorful nature spectacles in recent years.

As the leaves in southern Indiana transform hillsides into great canvass, the color gradually spreads north, until the entire state is covered.

Many motorists have held precious gasoline rationing tickets in reserve for visits to their nearest state park when the color show reaches its peak.

Charles A. DeTurk, director of the Division of State Parks, does not anticipate great crowds in the parks however, because of the restrictions on travel. The parks will be open and most of the ordinary services will be available.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. Carl Carpenter Wednesday evening, Sept. 29, 1943. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser. The Collect was read by all.

Mrs. Frank Curie used the following topics for her lesson: "The Right to Criticize," by Maurice Maeterlinck; "The People Next Door," a story, by Willard H. Temple; "A Quiz," by Vernon Pope, and an article on "How to Care for Your Clothes."

"Color Strategy for Wartime America," was the topic of the special number given by Mrs. Charles O. Krise. This lesson was divided into three parts: (1) On the Battle Front, (2) Production Front, (3) Home Front.

Secretary report was read and approved. Eighteen members responded to roll call. Mrs. Ralph Keeler gave a report of a meeting held at the home of the county president at Garrett.

As there was no business the meeting was adjourned to meet in two weeks with Mrs. Inez Hadsell for the annual Musical Evening.

COUNTY STILL SHORT ON BOND QUOTA

DeKalb County failed to meet its quota in the third war bond campaign, Fisher West, of Auburn, chairman, announced Tuesday and the drive has been extended until Oct. 16, in an effort to meet the $1,135,500 asked.

Bonds in the sum of $907,753.50 had been sold up to Saturday night, the time for the close of the campaign leaving DeKalb County $227,746.50 short of the goal. The sale will be held open but only purchases of E, F, and G series bonds will be counted toward the third war loan quota.

DeKalb County in the second war loan doubled its quota but in the campaign this Fall there were no large purchases like in the previous one. It is expected that DeKalb County will receive credit for approximately $50,000 more when reports are in for workers outside of the county who are buying bonds regularly on the payroll deduction plan.

Mr. West is urging the residents of the county to purchase all bonds possible before the new deadline Oct. 16 in an effort to meet the quota. DeKalb County has never fallen down on its assigned quota yet and it is hoped that the extension of time will give citizens an opportunity to reach the quota.

FIRE PREVENTION

October brings with it, Fire Prevention Week and although observed one week officially in the country, we try to observe it every day in St. Joe. Fires take a heavy toll in lives, they interfere with industry and the production of critical materials especially needed now in defense requirements. Victory must be won through many channels and preventing fires on the home front is one of them. The president reminds us that destruction by fire in this country, since Pearl Harbor, is comparable to the damage caused by enemy bombs in England in the first two years of the war! This we might think about. We have found through statistics, that the week preceding, during and following the one set aside in observance of Fire Prevention shows a drop in the nation's fire cost, but back it climbs again as we relax our caution. Why not be determined at all times to make our homes, our business, our community itself, safe from damage by fire and carelessness.

MACHINE HANDS

Praise for the mechanical hired men of Tri-Township farms, the combines and tractors that have successfully competed with high wages in industry and brought home the results! It would not have been possible to harvest the country's crops with the labor shortage, minus these mechanical hands. Oldsters around here can recall those days when a few farmers brought home the first "fool contraptions" and maybe didn't have fuel to run them and called themselves harsh names for falling for the new-fangled machines. Those days the farmer's wife slaved in a kitchen cooking for threshers and the hard work made the farmer cease his labor at an earlier age. But into the barns came the combine and tractor and the farmer took a new lease on life. He wasn't too old for this business when even youngsters could handle them. So we pay gratitude to these mechanical helpers that have had a hand in making this nation the great agricultural one she is.

POPULAR PROCESSING

The public has taken to frozen and dehydrated foods in the preserving of meats, fruits and vegetables. War made this wise and as a consequence, the future will find most farmhouses around here able to put food away in "deep freezing" or else have dehydrating facilities. There is nothing new in either process but it was not the customary way of preserving around here. We know frozen foods will keep indefinitely but perhaps not that all vegetables are 90% water, so dehydration is the process of extracting water and concentrating the vegetable into dried form. To cook, water is returned by soaking the vegetables and the tastiness is not lacking in the process. Both of these methods are good and both will be generally continued after the war. When a bushel of spinach is dehydrated it will fit into a cigar box and the saving in storage space alone will attract the home canner.

FALL DAYS

When fall days are full of rain, cold winds, cloudy skies, are bleak and dreary, we shiver and speak of the unpleasant weather. Then comes the change when the sun shines on the petunias and the dahlias nod their heavy heads in its welcome warmth. We consider the softly colored leaves that still cling persistently to the branches rather than join those that have fallen to cover the ground beneath. We regard the lazy, puffy clouds, the tip-toeing of frost across the grass that hasn't killed the green but simply touched in passing. The sound of coal truck is drowned by the snap and crackel of leaves underfoot. The maples and oaks splash their hues across your view and the tangy odor of bonfire makes the fall a thing of beauty rather than that bit of unpleasant weather.

As greens become rust, as the shades travel the miles from north to south, the gold of vine and tree, of the glory of pumpkin and grape, spell the masterpiece known to man, as Autumn. Why do we say Fall, then our neighbor speaks of it as Autumn, when the calendar gives us the change of season as one? A News reader suggests that Autumn sounds so typically English while Fall is truly American. But whatever its rightful title, its fame is legion, its beauty in verse renowned, its mellowness an inspiration for song, its blaze a torch of color no banner can excel. Fall or Autumn has no rival as far as most of us are concerned.

COLUMBUS DAY

We are reminded that we are just as old as we think we are when we stop to recall that America was discovered by a man of fifty-seven years. It sounds almost like a young man's undertaking, doesn't it? That man of 57 years had to surmount many obstacles, had to overcome the superstitious belief that monsters would devour the ships, try to secure a crew, get money to finance the journey and continue to hold forth the belief that the world was round and not flat. Columbus is rightfully listed as an adventurer. He had courage and persistence and faith to bring him his discovery and then fate turned him back to his country to make of him a prisoner who died in his jail. This nation that was thought to be India in 1492, has come a long ways. Today our men are adventuring to the lands of the early explorers, are equally as courageous and persistent and faithful. They well know the world is not flat, but many of these Americans have never been outside of their native state to see whether this fact is true. These lads of ours have charts, maps and instruments of the finest, to steer them on their course. They are in modern ships and manned by a skillful crew. They are tasting of as daring adventure as any Columbus. There are men serving who are as old as Columbus in 1492, but for the most part our adventurers are youths. They see new lands with the eyes of the young. Character is not a standard of years, as anyone in St. Joe can tell you.

RURAL HOUSEWIVES CLUB

Mrs. Dora Wilder was hostess to the club Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 5th. Business meeting was conducted by the vice president, Winifred Hart. Edna had two brief but fine opening numbers. Twelve members and four children were present. Response to roll call, "October Beauties." At the close Leona and Minnie gave special numbers. Leona gave "My Mother's Cooking" by a young husband, and a poem, "When We Have Peace." Minnie entertained with an imaginary experience followed by Grace with an interesting Bible Quiz. Edna a poem on "October Days" and Winifred an original poem about "October Reveries." The last three have October birth dates and the two Mrs. Wilders' who also have birth dates, assisted by the three above named, served a delicious two-course lunch at a table nicely decorated with Autumn foliage, tapers and a large birthday cake with candles. First course, chicken patties, cranberry salad, cheese snacks, pickles, hot biscuits with butter and marmalade; second course, pineapple and orange ambrosia, angelfood cake, coffee and candy. Next meeting to be at Leona Mason's Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 19. All departed saying it was an afternoon long to be remembered.

POOR CREAM DEPRIVES ARMY OF NEEDED BUTTER

There would never be another can of rejected cream if farmers fully realized what an important part butter plays in the diet of America's fighting men in the present conflict.

Right now the government is taking 30 per cent of each month's production of butter in the United States for our armed forces and allies. It has been stated that each rejected can of cream represents enough butter lost to feed two soldiers for almost a year. Remembering that cream rejections in this country last year came to between 30 and 50 million pounds—whole trainloads of butter—it will be seen that the volume of butter so lost would have taken care of a huge number of soldiers, sailors and marines.

Neither would any farmer produce cream that would make anything but good butter if he kept in mind the thought that this butter will likely be eaten by young men of his own circle, perhaps even members of his own family, who have gone into the service.

Aside from all other considerations, there is a monetary advantage to the farmer in producing cream that would make the best grade of butter. The best butter customarily brings on the market several cents a pound over that of lower quality butter, and the farmer who produces cream that can be made up into the upper-quality butter can expect to share in that higher price.

Dairy authorities have long been unanimous in the belief that the principal cause of poor or unfit butter is cream which had spoiled because of something done wrongly, or something left undone, somewhere along the farm production line. Unless the farmer takes every possible precaution in producing and delivering good cream, he must take the responsibility of depriving men and women in the services of a vitally needed food—not to mention the trouble and loss he is storing up for himself and everybody else involved.

DUCK HUNTERS WILL FIND SUPPLY AMPLE

With an unusual number of ducks and geese reported in the northern part of the state, this year, Harrell F. Mosbaugh, director of Fish and Game expects hunters to find plenty of sport when the shooting seasons open Oct. 15.

The early part of the season will find nimrods shooting ducks which were hatched within the state, because it is not believed that the weather farther north will be cold enough to force early migrations.

Mr. Mosbaugh pointed out that there has been a great increase in the number of migratory birds which remain over in Indiana during the nesting season, and this supply has steadily added to the early season sport.

Restrictions on automobile travel, however, are expected to keep many hunters at home this year, which should result in better shooting for those more fortunate.

The season closes Dec. 23rd. The opening and closing dates are inclusive.

With the exception of a few changes, the Federal regulations governing duck shooting are the same as last year. Hunting is permitted one-half hour before sunrise, instead of at sunrise. The daily bag limit for ducks this year permits one wood duck; only 25 sora and coot in the aggregate are permitted a day instead of 15 sora and 25 coot, and hunters are permitted to retain lawfully taken birds for a period of 45 days following the close of the season.

ATTENTION EVENING SCHOOL FARMERS

The first Thursday night of October will again start your Evening School For Farmers. On October 7, 1943 at 7:30 P. M. (C. W .T.) the Evening School entitled "Soil Management" will begin at Spencerville and continue until December 23, 1943. On January 13, 1944 at 7:30 P. M. (C. W. T.) the evening school entitled "Farm Management" will begin at St. Joe and continue for about twelve weeks.

The reason for continuing these schools over a period of several months, with only one meeting a week, is to better enable those farmers wishing to take both courses to do so. Farmers from either evening school area are invited to attend both schools.

As in the past, it is suggested that you bring with you any farmer that you feel will be an asset to our group and would be interested in completing either one or both courses.

AWARDS FOR CANNING OFFERED YOUNGSTERS

Indiana girl and boy farmers participating in the scholarship program of the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association are eligible to compete for four awards totaling $100 to be given for outstanding achievement in vegetable canning, it was announced today by Roscoe Fraser, extension specialist in vegetable crops, Purdue University.

These awards of $25 each should be of particular interest to the much greater number of farm girls working in the program this year, as almost all of them are canning a part of their harvest.

Boy members as well as girls are being encouraged to create the "extra stockpile of home canned food" recommended by the Secretary of Agriculture, so as to release more of the commercially-canned produce for war needs.

Prizes will be based upon quantity and quality of vegetables canned this year, and are in addition to the regular scholarship awards of the farm production and marketing program.

WE MUST CONSERVE
CRITICAL RESOURCES FOR WAR

THE Government is sponsoring a program through which all citizens are urged to voluntarily conserve fuel, manpower, equipment and materials so that these resources will be available for greater war production. To save these resources, a number of essential industries including coal, oil, gas, water, electric, transportation and communications, are being asked to seek the cooperation of their customers.

You have not experienced any shortage of electricity for there is none. The war has made extraordinary demands for electric power. We have adequate capacity to meet these demands as well as necessary civilian requirements. The shortage that exists is in basic resources from which electricity is made—in equipment and critical materials such as copper and other metals that are used in applications of electricity.

The Government's program warns against conservation carried to extremes. No effort should be made to curtail necessary uses of electricity or other services that would be injurious to safety and health, including eyesight conservation. To do this would impair war production.

Use what electricity you need but need what you use.

CONCORD TWP. SCHOOLS

The St. Joe teachers attended institute at Auburn on Saturday, Oct. 2. Mr. Damon from Purdue was the speaker and he talked on the future trends of our educational system. A short business session was held and the NEA in the county schools elected officers for the coming year. Miss Ellert, of Ashley, was elected president. Some general announcements were made in regard to the teachers issuing Ration Book 4.

The teachers of St. Joe had a party at the home of Miss Dorothy Pryor and Miss Elizabeth Smith on Thursday night, Oct. 7. After a pot luck dinner at 6:15, a few games were played. Those attending the party were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Derwood Ridgway, Mr. Roy Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Oberlin, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Guilford, Mr. and Mrs. Auber Butler, Mrs. Buckner, Mr. Sharp, Mr. Duker, Miss Merril, Mrs. Dale Wycoff, Miss Joyce Buckner and Miss Barbara Jo Oberlin.

St. Joe played Hicksville in softball on St. Joe's diamond, Friday, Oct. 8. The score was 11 to 6 in St. Joe's favor.

In mathematics the seventh and eighth graders worked last week for speed and accuracy in division of whole numbers. A contest was held in each grade Friday to determine the fastest and most accurate dividor. The results follow: Frances Conners first and Leona Drake second in the seventh grade, Gerald Swander first and Joan Trenary second in the eighth grade.

Audra Stewart gave a report entitled "Whirling Wonder of the Air" in History 8 last Friday. She described the post-war family helicopter and said it looks something like an ordinary plane and has fixed wings and a propeller. When the pilot pulls the lever toward him, the ship rises straight into the air. The helicopter can stop in mid-air and fly backwards. It turns on its axis like a hummingbird. Authorties on aviation say that the helicopter will have an important place in post war applications for short-run bus services. Some may carry mail and flat roofs of stations and post offices may be used as landing fields. Igor Sikorsky, the inventor, thinks the helicopter will replace the family car when mass production brings down the price. Anyone can learn to operate the plane. It can stop more quickly than a car, and it won't stall. If the motor fails, the rotor acts as a windmill, letting the plane float to the ground. If this air flivver becomes a reality in our lives, we will take vacations in South America, eat strawberries in January, and our home may be 50 miles from our place of work.

Latin I

The first year Latin class has just begun translating a few Roman stories and they are finding it interesting. They are learning how the Romans built their roads and some of their customs and habits.

—Doris Trenary.

Latin II

In second year Latin we have been reading stories about Publius Rufus, Publius his son, Furianus the adopted son of Marcus, and their families and friends.

The first episode of the story told about Publius Rufus and his family. They are as follows: Publius Rufus, paterfamilias (the head of the family,) Fulvia, materfamilias (his wife,) their children, Publius, Fulvia, and Secunda, and their black and white slaves.

Publius' household was that of a retired soldier. As a father, he had the "patria potestatis" (the powers of a father) which were almost unlimited. He had the right to kill any member of his household or sell them into slavery. It is well to state, however, that the Roman men very seldom exercised this right. Fulvia was the mistress of the house and her's was the duty of managing the servants, doing the marketing, and entertaining the guests of Publius. The women of Rome had a great deal of freedom as compared with those of the women of other countries at that time. They were allowed to come and go as they wished; they were allowed the freedom of the house instead of being confined to a series of women's apartments as were the Grecian women; they did their own marketing, but always with a male escort. The mistress sat at the table when her husband had guests to dinner and was expected to take part in the conversation except when it was of a political nature.

The children were under the rule of their parents and had their own servants.

In such a household as Publius' the servants were definitely a part of the family. They were kindly treated, and consequently, one hears stories of servants dying for their master's sakes.

We have had more stories of Publius Rufus and his family all of which are enjoyable although sometimes awkard English in literal translation. Most of the verbs, nouns, and adjectives we have been learning are in review of our Latin I.

—Jean Billow.

History II

The United States History class is composed of both Juniors and Seniors. Mostly Seniors, however.

We have been studying about the colonization of America. The fourteen colonies which settled, came to America to get away from strife and mistreatment in their mother countries. A few came to gain land for their mother countries but most of them were discontent with the government or church affairs and America looked very bright to them. They could worship as they pleased, get land at very cheap prices, and have some say in their government.

Of course, it was hard to distinguish one country's land from another. The English and French fought in a war which was called "The French and Indian War." The cause of the war was intense struggle for commercial supremacy and colonial expansion. It was fought in several countries besides America. The Iroquois Indians fought for the English and the French also had Indian allies to help them. But the English proved to be successful when William Pitt became the controlling power in England. With his ally, Frederick the Great of Prussia, and his help in money and soldiers, England was victorious.

We also learned that there were three types of colonial government: County in the south where there were such large plantations, township in East where families lived close together for mutual defense, and the villages were compact, and the county-township which was used in the middle colonies where agriculture and commerce went side by side and where there were large states and towns and villages. Half the states of the Union have this combined form of government today.

These first five weeks of school have given us a more complete understanding of the beginning and the growth of our country. We have learned what our ancestors put up with to get what they thought was right.

—June Strong.

Home Economics I

We the girls of Home Economics I have been studying the values of food. The planning of meals was scheduled last week. Last Friday we canned pears by the hot water bath method. The results were fine.

Our room has been improved by house plants which were brought in. It gives it the home touch which all kitchens need.

—Wilma Harter.

Chinatown

Deep within San Francisco's Chinatown lies St. Mary's Park, a mere speck on the city map, but it is here that a new landmark greets the eye of the visitor. It is an heroic statue of Dr. Sun-Yat-Sen, first president of China.

Years ago the French erected a statue to Dr. Benjamin Franklin, economist, scientist, humanitarian. One of the first acts of the Nazi conquerors of France was to remove this memorial to this American statesman.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A suoscriber writes us that many housewives use cotton rag rugs to cover the floor in front of their kitchen sink, to help keep the floor clean. She says she finds that to starch this rag rug after you wash it each time, will help to make the rug lie closer to the floor and not ruff up so much as well as stay clean longer.

Give your doctor a break, take care of yourself to take care of catching colds. If a cold does catch up with you, try to combat it by taking an enema, drinking a hot lemonade, or other alkaline solution, grease the chest, nose and lips, stimulate circulation with a hot mustard foot bath, spend some of your daytime in bed, eat lightly and drink large quantities of liquid, especially water. Maybe some of this treatment will work and save having to bother your overworked doctor.

CULTURE CLUB

The Culturee Club ladies held their first meeting of the year Oct. 6, at the home of Mrs. Earl Hodges, with 10 active members and one honorary member responding to roll call. Meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Hodges and words of greeting to old and new members alike were given. A short business session was held and roll call was taken followed with secretary's report, after which the ladies enjoyed various contests and games being in charge of the executive committee.

A delightful lunch of pea salad, sandwiches, cookies and coffee was served.

FARM BUREAU MEETING

The Tri-Township Farm Bureau met Tuesday evening for the October meeting with 70 in attendance. Meeting was called to order by chairman, Brooks Trenary. All sang "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Report of the nominating committee was given as follows: President, Brooks Trenary; vice president, Fred Hart; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Olen Waltz.

Mr. Trenary then appointed an auditing committee composed of John Ulm, Fred Hart, Burl Enzor. Fred Rhodes then gave a short talk on membership campaign and a letter from Larry Brandon was read in connection with the membership campaign. Mr. Trenary also gave a very interesting talk on "Soy Beans" showing us the need for the best of beans and the best of care. Mrs. Trenary, S. & E. leader took charge. Mrs. Fred Hart read an original poem entitled "Forgetting."

Two motion pictures were then shown, following this was the judging of the cakes in the contest, judges being Merritt Sechler, Olen Waltz and Mrs. Sailer. The Accordion "Victory Band" of Auburn then presented several numbers which all enjoyed.

A lunch of cake and coffee was served and closed the meeting.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Wigwag

Frequently the Navy, the Coast Guard and the Signal Corps finds it expedient to relay messages without benefit of telephone, telegraph or radio. That is when the semaphore system is employed.

Like a single flag in the "Wigwag" system, the purchase of a War Savings Stamp or Bond, in itself has an infinitesimal effect upon the entire war effort, but when 130 million determined people set their minds to make our War Bond drives successful, the result is anything but infinitesimal. *U. FRANK MELTON TAKES HIS LIFE

Frank Melton, who formerly conducted a barber shop in the Hebel building on North Main Street in Auburn, committed suicide at Fort Wayne some time Tuesday night of last week. He shot himself with a .20 guage shotgun in the abdomen but the body was not discovered until 9:15 Wednesday morning.

His body was found in his apartment at Fort Wayne by his landlady who entered the room to take a paper. Mr. Melton, who operated a barber shop in Fort Wayne, had been in failing health for some time. He was 62 years of age.

He is survived by the widow, Frances, who was visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harold Marsh in Fort Wayne when the suicide occurred. Two sons, Earl Melton, of Auburn, and Reo Melton, of Battle Creek, Mich., two grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Maude Clouse, of Auburn, and Mrs. Lillian Farney, of Melrose, O., also survive.

Frank was the son of Faurot Melton and was raised in Concord Township, Burial was made at Auburn Friday afternoon.

REGULATIONS FOR RATION BOOK 4

The DeKalb County War Price and Rationing Board says that one of the requirements for the new book four is: Applicants must present a book No. 3 for each person named on the application and the cover of each Book No. 3 should be marked "Book 4" in the lower right-hand corner of the front cover as evidence that Book No. 4 has been issued.

The DeKalb County War Price and Rationing Board warns that all these people who have not received their Book No. 3 should make application at their office in the court house at once for their No. 3 in order that they may not be inconvenienced. Every resident of the county is entitled to receive Book 4 except:

1. Inmates of institutions of involuntary confinement, such as prisons and mental hospitals.

2. Members of armed forces of the United States or United Nations who receive subsistence in kind or who are members of officer's mess.

3. Persons who intend to reside in the United States not more than 60 days.

THE OLD AND THE NEW

Some merchants still figure on taking business as it comes, hoping that they have made enough of a name for themselves that they don't need to hump to keep going. There are others who, no matter what conditions are, try always to attract new customers. They go out of their way for new trade, but let the old ones take care of themselves, figuring they will always be there. You can take your choice of which merchant will build up a better business. Consider the third type of merchant however, who sells and advertises, who attracts new business and keeps the old satisfied. Both new and old pass through his door, establish trade for him beyond his store building. They pass on the word of their satisfaction through service. Too many businessmen today cover personal negligence by using the war for an excuse. They have always been lax in re-ordering, stocking goods, trying to secure new merchandise and attempting to please customers. Now they use the war as an alibi. This is a policy that is sadly lacking in business acumen. We know the war measures have restricted, curtailed and limited goods, but too many times we are getting down-right inefficiency covered up with a film of war powder. Blow it off and you will find a dealer who, after the war, is going to have to scrape a bit to regain his lost customers, and he may not get them back again if they have found satisfaction across the street or around the corner.

REMEMBER?

We were talking about the cooking that grandmother managed to do on an ancient wood-burning affair that filled one end of the kitchen with the wood-box crowding the corner. Remember as youngsters that it was part of the daily chores to fill up that box to keep the fire going to produce the bountiful meals that later appeared on the farmhouse dinner table. We have this to remember when the weather in St. Joe gets so hot in Summer that we steer clear of the kitchen. Grandmother kept that wood-stove going pell-mell in all kinds of heat, that the family might eat, and eat well. Maybe she lived long enough to see the gas range come into its own, the kerosene ranges, the electric stoves that glistened and shone in glass and lights, clocks set for roasts and cakes, controls for ovens and contraptions to make cooking not a job and usually a certainty for success. But we recall, those wood-burning stoves didn't do badly with loaves of bread, coffee cake and cookies for the stone jar! Pies, if we remember correctly, tasted as flaky fine as today with lights and clocks. Puddings had a flavor that no heat control could improve. The oven had an antiquated contour but it produced mighty tasty meat dishes and vegetable concoctions. Perhaps grandmother went in more for plain, wholesome, substantial cookery, but she did something with raisins, herbs and yeast that no culinary expert of today can laugh off. Her soup kettle stood on the back of the stove and simmered with a savory scent. The coffee pot was not drip, Silex or percolator, but purely pot that would brew an honorable drink. All this from grandmother's wood-burning stove. We aren't against progressing with the times, but we can't be disloyal and won't be untruthful.

LETTERS OF CITATION

They are awarding the "Letters of Citation" to farmers in the country for their outstanding contributions to the war effort, by increasing production to a marked degree. We are, in DeKalb County, glad of this official recognition and farmers deserve it as much as factories their "E" for endeavor. Not only those farmers who hold these citations deserve praise, but every one who has toiled long hours in the nation's fields, patched machinery, tried to secure feed, begged for help. They all deserve praise for their outstanding contribution to the war effort. This food problem has been a task and one that called for sweat and toil from the farmers every where. Farming is a battle that is staged against adverse weather, is fought with a shortage of implements and materials, is carried on with a lack of adequate fighters in its army. But the battle of farming is going on and it well deserves its citation for effort and production, every man, woman and child who has helped to earn it.

GETTING OUR BREATH

It has been suggested that we take time, after the final peace, to get our breath and regain our proper perspective of governments before we sit down to make contracts regarding them and us. It sounds like the advice that says count to ten before you speak or think before you leap. This sort of wisdom has been proven worthy through the years and will not fail us today and tomorrow. We hear many extreme ideas propounded by many people. There are theories that might involve us in a situation that might later destroy us, unless we think carefully. Each nation will try to command that which is most acceptable to her security and her possessions. Can we cool off enough to use international reasoning, to stay tightly with our country and look out for her good, for the best for her people as well as to consider the welfare of the rest of the worlds' people? Time will help us see more clearly.

THEY HAVE AN ANSWER

Someone asks why we fight as we so fight. We haven't been brought up to fear a conquering nation, to understand the foreign intrigue of bickering countries, to know hate for our neighbor over the border. Our soldiers have been criticized by those who say they do not know why they fight or what they want from the peace. Ask a soldier why he fights. Does he hate that German he is out to "get," does he know of Hitler's policies and hopes, of Japan's intentions should she gain her point? He will tell you he is fighting an enemy, not because he was called a German but because he is a foe. The soldier will point out that there is no country like his own and that he will die, if necessary to preserev it. He might add that he has always liked a good fight, has been getting a thrill out of the adventure, of tasting of danger on land, at sea or in the air. Many personalities, many ways of expression but all fight through loyalty to their homeland and to get back quickly to that home. Not ponderous thinking, but straight forward facts from our boys and all men behind the guns.

Congress may investigate lend-lease operations after hearing a report from five senators who toured the battle-fronts. The senators charge that our allies haven't been entirely fair in lend-lease dealings. Great Britain is said to have substituted its own labels on lend-lease goods before reshipping the material to India and Turkey. Another accusation says some of our allies have been receiving goods they could well contribute to the war effort from their own resources. Oil products sent to Great Britain are mentioned as an example.

CREAM CANS, LIKE TIRES, MUST BE CONSERVED

Cream cans, like tires, are essential to the farmer in the operation of his business, and will likely be just as hard to get. The smart farmer will therefore do well to take care of the cream cans he possesses for they may be all he will have for the duration.

An obvious first step in the farmer's own conservation program along this line is to see that his cream cans are used for no other purpose than holding cream. Cans which are being used for carrying gasoline and motor oil and in other ways for which they were not intended should be thoroughly cleaned and restored immediately to their proper use.

The second step is to keep them clean and dry at all times. This will prevent their becoming rusty. Authorities recommend washing with warm water, washing powder and a brush (never a rag), and complete sterilization with either boiling hot water or a chlorine solution. Between uses the lid should be left off and the cans placed upside down on an outdoor rack so as to allow free circulation of air.

The third step in lengthening the life and usefulness of cream cans is to guard them against being dented and scratched. Avoid bumping them. Also use the stirring rod carefully—and make sure it has no sharp edges. Scraping removes the tinning and starts rusting.

Because rust spots retain moisture and are difficult to dry, they make fertile breeding-grounds for bacteria, causing the cans to become foul-smelling and the cream kept in them to take on objectionable metallic, tallowy or fishy flavors. Cans with small spots of rust should be scoured with some good frictional material such as cement or emery powder. This process is of a temporary character and must be repeated as the rust reappears, but when the rust spots get too big, the can should be retinned. Your creamery can help you get this done.

FARM SLAUGHTERING REGULATIONS ISSUED

Farmers or Tenants are only Persons in DeKalb Co. Who May Acquire Meat Without Giving Ration Points

When can rationed meat be acquired point-free? Since the Fall slaughtering season is at hand this is a question that is being asked frequently.

So, the Indianapolis office of price administration has compiled information to clarify the regulations relating to farm slaughtering. Under OPA regulations the following persons can acquire rationed meats point-free:

1. A farmer living on his farm and slaughtering for use in his own household.

2. A farmer living on a farm and slaughtering on another farm of his for consumption in his own household or the house hold of the farm on which he slaughters.

3. A farm tenant doing the work and feeding on the farm where he lives and slaughtering for use in his own household. He can not dispose of any of the meat for consumption by the owner of the farm without the surrender of ration points to his local rationing board within ten days after the slaughtering.

Then there are those who shall not acquire rationed meats point free. They are:

1. A person living in a city and owning a farm but not doing the farming or feeding himself. He may consume the meats from his farm but he must surrender points to his ration board within ten days after the slaughtering.

2. A person living in a city and going into the country and purchasing an animal and slaughtering it. He must first, if he is eligible, obtain a slaughtering permit from the food distribution administration by contacting his county USDA War board. Then if he slaughters the animal himself he must surrender the necessary points to his local rationing board within ten days after the slaughtering or must surrender the necessary points to the person who does the slaughtering for him.

3. A person living in a city and operating a farm and doing all the work and feeding himself, and slaughtering at the farm. Even though he owns the farm he cannot consume the meat point-free.

4. A person who does not reside at the place where the slaughtering is done or on his own farm. If he wishes to consume the meat elsewhere he must surrender points to his local rationing board within ten days after the meat is removed from the farm or place of slaughter.

The above are clear cut cases. There are some other regulations bearing on slaughtering. For example, a consumer under certain conditions may purchase rationed meats in exchange for ration stamps that are not yet valid for use. Such purchases must be made from a farmer who slaughters and who holds a farm slaughterer's permit issued by the food distribution administration, or from a livestock producer who acquired the meat point-free from a primary distributor who slaughtered it for him.

It must be borne in mind that ration coupons must be surrendered sufficient to cover all such purchases but that stamps may be used that are not yet valid. The regulation merely enables the consumer to obtain a larger supply of rationed meat at one time. A "primary distributor" is any person or concern that slaughters meat for sale. A farmer may become a primary distributor but if he does so, he must comply with all regulations including registration as a primary distributor.

The livestock dealer who desires to have an animal slaughtered by a primary distributor and acquire the meat point-free must meet certain requirements. He must certify:

1. That the meat will be used primarily in his own household or on the farm where he resides or on another farm of his.

2. That the animal was kept at the place where the livestock producer resides or that he resides on a farm and the animal was kept on another farm of his.

3. That he raised the animal from birth to the moment of slaughter, or that he fed it for at least sixty days prior to the slaughter, or that he was in possession of the animal immediately prior to the slaughter, during which time he increased its weight by at least 35 per cent of its weight when he received it.

The primary distributor must also require identification from the owner of the animal in the form of a slaughter or butcher permit issued by the food distribution administration or in some other manner, and must make a notation on the certification of the type of document presented by the owner of the animal must be made in duplicate to the primary distributor who must turn over one copy to the rationing board for the area in which the owner of the animal resides.

It is also pointed out specifically by OPA that if any person is eligible to acquire rationed meat point-free and sells or gives away any of the meat, he must collect the correct number of ration points and surrender them to his local rationing board.

WAR BONDS
Prevents the "Bends"

Before our fighting pilots take to the air for stratosphere flying they must be "suped-up." To do this the pilot just before he takes off pedals a stationary motor driven bicycle to reduce the amount of nitrogen in his blood. Otherwise gas bubbles would collect in his blood stream.

The stationary bicycle is an inexpensive piece of equipment, but the vast quantities of this and other materials of war make it imperative for all of us to keep our fighting men well supplied by greater and greater purchases of War Bonds.

Living Costs UP!
Electricity DOWN!
• Food, fuel and clothing are higher. But electricity is still cheap! Since August, 1940, the cost of living has gone up 22%. In the same three years, the average price of household electricity has dropped 9%.
• Today, electricity for the average household costs only about half as much as it did fifteen years ago. If your bill is a little higher than it was then, that's because you use a lot more electric appliances. And you're getting just about twice as much for your money.
• Why is electricity so cheap? Because the electric companies under experienced business management have done a better and better job of bringing the benefits of electricity to more and more families at lower and lower prices.
• Hear "REPORT TO THE NATION," news program of the week, every Tuesday evening, 8:30 E.W.T., Columbia Broadcasting System.
Prevent low rates are even more remarkable when you consider that the business-managed electric companies kept your taxes going as fast over 24c out of every dollar you paid them — over 12c to local and state governments — over 12c to the federal government — a total of more than $450,000,000.

The LIONS CLUB

E. H. Paschen, Publicity

Lions Club was dined by the Spencerville Lutheran Ladies Monday night, and an attendance of 21 Lions and guests enjoyed the appetizing meal so abundantly spread.

Lion Rectenwall, chairman of the Educational Committee, made a plea for keeping the purpose of Lionism constantly before us. This is strictly a service club, and the activities of the past have definitely upheld this aim. The current activities of the club prove to us the worthwhileness of a service club of this type in these two communities.

Reverend Monroe, a retired minister of St. Joe and a former missionary in India, spoke to the club at invitation of a number of the club members. Rev. Monroe spoke to the club nearly a year ago on conditions in India and Burma as he saw them — first hand — several years ago. His talk tonight continued the topic of the previous address. The religion and philosophy of India and the outlying countries are indeed varying, as well as ancient. Superstition and trickery prevail in the Orient and Rev. Monroe cited a number of incidents where ancient princes tricked the public into believing they were endowed with supernatural powers. It was also the speaker's belief that the bloody Hitler was perhaps influenced by this treacherous philosophy imposed by the imposter princes upon those who were ignorant and would succumb to this type of preachment.

This World War is not strictly a political war. It is underlaid by a philosophy or religion far more implicating than we generally recognize. Note, for example, that the prelate of the Church of England has recently returned from Russia where he has observed the growing religious spirit within Russia itself. There, thousands are flocking to Christianity in some form or another, perhaps as a refuge from the present atrocities. At any rate, religion in Russia is growing. Rev Monroe called attention to old civilizations — Egyptian, Greek, Roman—all of which were equal or exceeded our own. He quoted a historian in accounting for the downfall of these great civilizations. His final warning was one of caution—are our boys, when they return to our midst from other fields, going to find our civilization—and our philosophy where it belongs!

Mr. Hafner, of Garrett, chairman of the County War funds drive speaker on explaining the new arrangement for securing these funds. It will consist of two drives a year and will eliminate numerous drives for funds. These funds cover the activities of 16 associated war agencies, including the U. S. O. war prisoners fund and various war relief funds. Mrs. Clyde Baumgartner is chairman for Spencerville and Ralph Sechler for St. Joe. The drive will start Nov. 8. DeKalb County goal $12,000.

Novel plans were laid for attendance campaign which will be explained at next meeting of club, Oct. 25, when Charter Night will be celebrated at Spencerville school house. This will be ladies night and a carry-in supper. The committee will be Lions Robinson, Hollabaugh, Baker and Wicoff, assisted by their wives.
